Going Fishing? Here's How!

To hear Willie Wells and Basil Strube arguing about trout fishing, you'd think it was more important than the atom bomb.

Willie favors dry flies, Basil pooh-poohs anything but wet flies. Willie swears by a Royal Coachman; Basil won't hear of anything but a Silver Doctor. And by the time it comes to steel rods versus bamboo rods . . . #!X&!?!

But on Saturday, each got back from Seward's creek with a catch that couldn't have differed by more than several ounces!

Each had used his favorite kind of fly, his favorite rod and his favorite place to cast. So over a friendly glass of beer, they allowed as how maybe they were both right . . . which is how so many arguments should end.

From where I sit, if we all respected one another's different opinions—whether about trout flies, or drinking beer, or voting, life would be a whole lot pleasanter.

SET YOUR SIGHTS

It takes planning to achieve a goal

Some young men know what they want and plan for it. Others are still looking for their niche. The new Regular Army can help both.

Perhaps you want to go to college but can't afford it. If you enlist in the Army, you'll get your chance. Honorably discharged after a three-year enlistment, you are eligible for 48 months of education at any college, trade, or business school for which you can qualify. The Government will pay your tuition, laboratory fees, etc., up to $500 per ordinary school year, plus $65 a month living allowance—$90 a month if you have dependents.

If you haven't found your spot, an Army enlistment offers you training in any of 200 trades and skills. You leave the service eligible for further training at the best civilian schools.

You can assure yourself of the benefits of the GI Bill of Rights if you enter the Army on or before October 5, 1946. See your nearest Army Recruiting Station for details.

HIGHLIGHTS OF REGULAR ARMY ENLISTMENT

1. Enlistments for 1½, 2 or 3 years. (1-year enlistments permitted for men now in the Army with 6 or more months of service.)
2. Enlistment age from 18 to 34 years inclusive (17 with parents' consent) except for men now in Army, who may reenlist at any age, and former service men depending on length of service.
3. A reenlistment bonus of $50 for each year of active service since such bonus was last paid, or since last entry into service, provided reenlistment is within 3 months after last honorable discharge.
4. A furlough for men who reenlist within 20 days. Full details of other furlough privileges can be obtained from Recruiting Officers.
5. Mustering-out pay (based upon length of service) to all men who are discharged to enlist or reenlist.
6. Option to retire at half pay for the rest of your life after 20 years' service—increasing to three-quarters pay after 30 years' service. All previous active federal military service counts toward retirement.
7. Choice of branch of service and overseas theater (of those still open), on 3-year enlistments.

NEW, HIGHER PAY FOR ARMY MEN

In Addition to Food, Lodging, Clothes and Medical Care

In Addition to Column One at the Right: 20% Increase for Service Overseas. 50% Increase if Member of Flying or Glider Crews. 5% Increase in Pay for Each 3 Years of Service May Be Added.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Sane Men

Early in March, national press wires carried a story from Washington to the farthest corners of the country, about 16 members of Congress who said they thought the national budget should and could be balanced. They were half-and-half senators and representatives. Seven were Democrats and nine were Republicans and they made it plain by signing a written statement. They are:

SENATE	HOUSE
Byrd	Cox
Bridges	Doughton
Taft	Halleck
Tydings	Knutson
Vandenberg	Martin
Walsh	Taber
Wherry	Whittington
White	Woodruff

My hat is off to these realistic statesmen. I hope their ranks soon embrace the entire Congress.

Our Debts are Huge

America's next chance to have a balanced budget will be in the fiscal year of 1947. It starts July 1, 1946 and ends June 30, 1947. The United States is already in debt for everything it has. This does not mean all the country is worth, but it does mean an amount equivalent to the value of everything the people of this nation have saved since their ancestors started saving.

The national debt is 280 billion dollars. That figure approximates the value of all the farms and farm improvements in the country, all the city real estate and city improvements, all the manufacturing plants in the nation, all the bank accounts, and all the insurance policies, all added up.

Starting Over Again

The United States stands now where some pioneer settler of colonial days might have stood if his log cabin had burned with everything of food and clothing inside. Closer to home: The energetic young family man with two children, who has just finished paying for an $8,000 residence, can depend on starting now to buy it all over again in taxes, paying no more than his rightful share of the national debt which is $2,000 per man, woman and child.

Tax on this enormous debt will be a new, yearly expense for our government. It will be a big one too. Interest on debt alone will cost Uncle Sam more than he ever raised by taxes in any single pre-war year. If there ever was a time when America's common people deserved a balanced budget so they could look frankly and boldly at the truth of debts and taxes, it is now.

Fighting Has Ceased

There are ways to start balancing the national budget and the sooner it starts the better. The war is over and war bureaus can be reduced in size and cost. The number of federal employees can be cut more than most of us imagine. Deficit spending (spending what we do not have) can be stopped also if we really set our heads to do it. By doing this we can save what we do have left.

With all savings gone, we have something left. The settler whose cabin burned had his energy and his good name left. The home owner who must start buying all over again in taxes, still has his credit and a job we hope. Just so the United States, with prestige among nations and a sound economy, has something left; something of value that must be preserved.

Lorentson-Rogers Wedding

Sunday evening Sept. 29, at 5 o' clock, Miss Betty Lou Lorentson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lorentson, became the bride of Donald S. (Buzz) Rogers son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Rogers of Bellingham, Wash., at a candlelight service read by Rev. E. O. Urness.

Miss Lorraine Swanson played a prelude including "Melody In F" before the bride entered to the strains of Wagner's Wedding March.

Miss Dorothy Hanson sang "Because" and "Always" and Miss Grace Urness sang "Crown With Thy Benediction" during the ceremony, both were accompanied by Miss Swanson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was beautifully attired in ivory taffeta designed with a sweetheart neckline, long sleevs and a full skirt with train. Her finger-tipped veil fell from a seed pearl crown. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift from the groom. She carried a bridal bouquet of pink rosebuds and white gladiola tips.

Miss Eileen Larson, maid of honor, wore a blue net over taffeta gown. Her bouquet was yellow rosebuds with white gladiola tips.

Little Kathrine Miller, cousin of the bride, was flower girl, strewing sweet pea blossoms. Her gown was a long yellow organdy.

Dale Lorentson, brother of the bride, was the best man.

Russell Sanoden and Duane Larson were the ushers.

A reception in the brides home followed the ceremony at which there were about 80 guests.

Mrs. Geo. Fricker poured, assisted by Mrs. Victor Johnson and Mrs. Fred Lorentson.

The brides going away costume was a brown and white checked suit with brown assessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers left on a moter trip, stopping at various cities to visit, and will take residence in Bellingham, Wash., where the groom is associated with the Diehl Motor Co. and Mrs. Rogers has been employed as a medical technician in the St. Lukes General Hospital in Bellingham.

They will be at home at 2622 Franklin Street, Bellingham, Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Miller and family, of Red Lake Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Rogers, Bellingham, Wash. Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Lappley, Milwaukee, Wis., Conrad Miller, Hot Srings, S. D., Mrs. Arvid Erickson, Duluth, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Huson, Mr. & Mrs. Holger Anderson, Bluey Anderson, and Mr. O'Brien of Grand Rapids, Minnesota were out-of-town guests at the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lorentson Mr. A. O. Aspelin and Caroline visited at the H. O. Hanson home Tuesday evening, the occasion being Mr. Hanson's brithday.

Duck Season Opens Saturday

Close to 2,000,000 sportsmen are expected to hunt wild ducks and geese this year, according to Albert M. Day, Director of the Department of Interior's Fish & Wildlife Service. His estimate was based on reports of hunting stamp sales of last year.

Holt sportsmen report the local duck situation the poorest in years due largely to the long dry spell during the summer. Hardly a hunter feels confident about being able to bag the 7 bird limit for the opening day on Saturday and many are in doubt where they should go. Many will very likely go to the public shooting grounds at Thief Lake, while others will hunt alng the borders of the federal refuge in the Mud Lake area.

Oliver Grondahl has returned home from the University Hospital where he underwent a major operation. He is feeling quite well and is getting around again.

Mr. and Mrs. Iver Larson, Mrs Fred Larson and Ludwik, Mr. and Mrs. Marlan Augustine and Barbara visited at the Alf. Larson home Sunday.

Myrtle Nohre and L. A. Gauthier of Crookston visited at the Lloyd Larson home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hanson, and Mrs. Hanson of T. R. Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Peterson, Mr and Mrs. Ole Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lunke, Mr. and Mrs Marlan Augustine and Barbara, Mrs. Ole Lunke, Mrs. Lloyd Larson and Fred Lufkin helped Mrs. Alf. Larson celebrate her brithday at a surprise party Monday evening.

Is Old Bossy Paying Her Board

It cost money to keep a dairy cow. She is a lot of bother, too. So business-like farmers insist that Old Bossy pay a profit or go.

There is a good, sure income from the better producers. Farmers find good cows one of the most profitable ways of diversifying.

It always pays to eliminate non-producers — whether in dairying or any other kind of financial investment. If you have some investments that are not profitable, weed them out now and put good ones in their place. Our knowledge of finance is always at your command.

Local Governments Build Up Huge Public Works Program; Develop New Horror Weapon

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Protesting against Russian policy of withholding information of whereabouts of war prisoners, Japanese from all the home islands gathered in Tokyo to demonstrate their disfavor.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS:
Trade Pact

Pres. Juan Peron and his entire cabinet looked on as British Ambassador Reginald Leeper and Argentine Foreign Minister Juan Bramuglia signed trade accords cementing commercial relations between the two countries. Pleased by the event, Peron announced that he had ordered three shiploads of meat to be sent to Britain before Christmas with the compliments of his government.

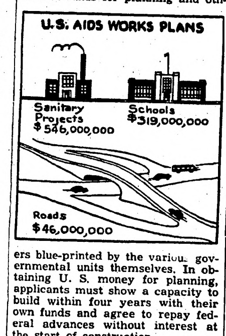
Peron might well have been tickled with the agreement, which calls for Britain's purchase of 83 per cent of Argentina's exportable meat surplus in the first year at prices 25 per cent over prevailing levels. During the second year, Britain will take 78 per cent of Argentine supplies. The latest price boost brings the total increase up to 45 per cent over the 1939 level when Britain first went in for large-scale buying.

In another accord, the British relinquished their control of Argentine railways in exchange for shares in a new company including Argentine government and private capital. Under a third agreement, Argentina will be permitted to utilize blocked wartime trade balances in Britain for retiring sterling debts, buying out British investments, or making cash withdrawals of 25 million dollars annually.

PUBLIC WORKS:
Huge Backlog

Helped by federal aid in planning, states, cities and counties have drawn up a huge $4,107,136,000 public works program. Along with federal projects running into the billions, the nation's overall program not only promises to provide necessary public improvements but also a possible source of bolstering employment in the event of a business let-down.

State, city and county programs are broken down into those using federal funds for planning and others blue-printed by the various governmental units themselves. In obtaining U. S. money for planning, applicants must show a capacity to build within four years with their own funds and agree to repay federal advances without interest at the start of construction.



Of the 4,630 projects totaling $1,296,997,051 mapped with federal funds, sewer, water and sanitary improvements costing approximately $546,000,000 constitute the largest item. Following are school extensions or new building, $319,000,000; public buildings, $117,000,000; hospitals and clinics, $73,000,000; highways, roads and streets, $46,000,000; parks and other recreational facilities, $30,000,000; bridges, viaducts and railroad overpasses, $28,000,000; airports, $20,000,000; and miscellaneous projects, $116,000,000.

FIRE LOSSES:

Estimated U. S. fire losses totaled $40,019,000 for the month of August, an increase of $5,923,000 or 17 per cent over losses of $34,096,000 for August, 1945, the National Board of Fire Underwriters disclosed in a report.

The losses were the highest recorded in August of any year since the national board began tabulating monthly losses in 1929. They were a bare 2 per cent under losses of $40,998,000 recorded in July.

WARFARE:
New Horror

Add the latest to science's horror weapons:

A new poison so deadly that less than one-seventh millionth of a gram is enough to kill a man and a one-inch cube could wipe out every person in the U. S. and Canada.

Existence of the new terror weapon was revealed by Dr. Gerald Wendt of New York City in a General Electric Science Forum. Describing the latest killer as an innocent looking crystalline toxin, he revealed the poison was invisible, microscopic in size and easily spread. Because of its great destructiveness and cheapness in manufacture, any small nation possessing the toxin could become a formidable world threat.

Wendt declared that the U. S. already has spent 50 million dollars in research on the new weapon, a small sum in comparison to expenditures on radar and the atom bomb.

MEAT:
Crisis Widens

No less than 36,000 butcher shops throughout the nation were said to have closed and almost 100,000 clerks and packing house employees were reported idle as the crisis in meat continued.

Receipts of cattle and hogs remained far below the high levels established during the suspension of OPA and ran considerably below last year's runs. As packers awaited the large seasonal fall shipments, they were compelled to bid ceiling prices for lean, grass-fed cattle and inferior grades of hogs. Some of the stock received was said to be suitable for by-product purposes only.

Meanwhile, OPA promised to act upon restaurant operators' protests against imposition of June 30 ceilings on meat dishes. With the restaurateurs claiming that the restoration of old prices in the face of increasing costs would force them to close, OPA said it would modify ceilings to assure adequate earnings if evidence of hardship were offered. Whereas restaurants spent 40 cents of each dollar of revenue for food, they now expend 55 cents, it was said.

YUGOSLAVIA:
Jail Archbishop

Acting upon the testimony of the voluble secretary to Archbishop Alojzijc Stepinac, head of the Roman Catholic church in Yugoslavia, Marshal Tito's communist government arrested the high prelate and prepared to try him for "crimes against the people."

With 12 priests already on trial on the same charge, inclusion of the Archbishop would further tend to discredit religion in the Russian-dominated nation, following the pattern of communist hostility to all creeds. While the powerful Croatian peasant leader, Vladimir Macek, was implicated in the Archbishop's alleged machinations, the government hesitated to move firmly against him for fear of political repercussions.

Talking freely against the Archbishop, his former secretary alleged that the prelate's castle in Zagreb was the center of an anti-Tito movement to set up an independent Croatian state. Charging that the Archbishop worked closely with one of Draja Mihailovitch's ex-aids in promoting anti-government bands, the secretary declared that the high churchman planned to finance a terrorist campaign for separation.

Permanent Auto Finish

You can throw away your polishing rag and cease worrying about the paint on your car.

Progress being made in the development of silicones derived from sand indicates that within five years autos, refrigerators, electric ranges and hospital equipment will be finished with a silicone paint that will retain its original color and gloss permanently.

FREIGHT RATES:
Wind Up Hearings

Department of agriculture representative bucked the railroads' petition for a 25 per cent rate increase in final hearings before the Interstate Commerce commission in Washington, D. C., while the carriers argued that the boost was necessary to prevent deficit operations.

Department opposition was based upon two points: First, that an increase in freight costs to farmers would retard the electrification of rural regions, and, second, that it would impose a heavy burden upon the fish industry and curtail the movement of its products.

Railroads are destined to lose more than 200 million dollars at present rates next year, the carriers argued. Since 1939, wages, fuel and supplies have risen 50 per cent to a total of 2 billion dollars, they said, and even with the present high volume of traffic they only figure to earn 30 million dollars in 1946. Pending settlement of the carriers' petition, the ICC held over a temporary 10 per cent wartime raise.

WORLD LABOR:
Wage Warning

As delegates to the 29th general conference of the International Labor organization convened in Montreal, Que., Director Edward J. Phelan issued a warning against rising wages not based upon increased production.

Hitting against inflationary wage boosts in a 113-page report reviewing the world reconversion picture, Phelan told delegates from 51 member countries including the U. S. that workers should refrain from strikes crippling resumption of large-scale output; employers must keep prices within reasonable limits, and governments should act to bring capital and labor into harmonious agreement.

Wage boosts based on increased productivity are essential to continued prosperity, Phelan declared. While more goods will tend to lower prices, higher pay will permit a greater consumption, bolstering both employment and business. Under those circumstances, profit-sharing represents a fair measure for wage determination, Phelan said.

MARRIAGE:
Rocky Road

For every three marriages in 1945 there was one divorce, the Federal Security agency reported in the first government reporting of such statistics.

From the rate of 1.9 divorces per 1,000 population in 1937-'39, separations jumped to 3.6 in 1945, it also was revealed.

Except for the depression years, the divorce rate has gone steadily upwards in the U. S., even rising through the wartime period when marriages dipped between 1942 and 1945.

Marriage offers no problem to Mr. and Mrs. William H. Saver of Pittsburgh, Pa., who celebrated their 58th wedding anniversary. Mrs. Saver still ranks at the top of the deck with her husband.

FSA studies showed that marriage and divorce rates rise with prosperity and war and sink with depression.

EUROPE:
Proposes Union

Winston Churchill echoed U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes' proposal for a strong, unarmed Germany in calling for a united states of Europe to work within the framework of an international organization to preserve peace.

Speaking at the University of Zurich in Switzerland, Churchill suggested that a reconciled France and Germany form the cornerstone of a continental union, with the British empire, U. S. and Russia lending assistance. In welcoming Germany back into the family of nations, Churchill asked that the people be distinguished from their Nazi leaders.

A united states of Europe established to preserve peace in the old world would not conflict with the United Nations, Churchill argued. On the contrary, he said, success of the U.N. was dependent upon a natural grouping of western countries strong and desirous enough to meet threats to security.

TIRES:

Passenger car tire shipments reached a record during the first seven months of 1946, the Rubber Manufacturers association reported. However, the day when motorists can walk into a dealer's shop and buy new tires "all the way around" is still months away.

Manufacturers shipped almost as many replacement passenger tires between Jan. 1 and July 31 of this year as they did in the entire year of 1941, which was the highest since 1929.

Northwest Indians Placed Wealth in Copper Plaques

Until a generation ago, the numerous tribes of Northwest Coast Indians used a standard woolen blanket as their medium of exchange, says Collier's. To concentrate their wealth, men invested their blankets in "coppers," painted and engraved copper plaques, the value of which increased through resale.

At a ceremony held by the Haida Indians on the Queen Charlotte Islands off British Columbia in 1893, one of these coppers brought 7,500 blankets and, incidentally, lived up to its name—"All Other Coppers Are Ashamed to Look at It."

One more row to hoe

The boy from the farm is on foreign soil today!

Instead of overalls, he's wearing his country's uniform. He's standing watch over the hard-won peace. He's safeguarding your future!

At heart, he's still that farm boy. His laughter sounds the same—when he can laugh. He still goes for cokes and cakes—when he can get them. And he still gets mighty homesick—when he has nothing else to do but think of home.

Your USO has one more row to hoe. Another round of laughs to plant. Another crop of cheer.

Your USO needs your help, as much as ever. For millions of American boys still need the USO. They need the camp shows and clubhouses—the hours of relaxation and entertainment—a place to hang their hats and loosen their belts.

They need to know that the folks back home are still thinking of them—are still willing to pitch in and make their task a lighter one.

Tell the farm boy you're with him—every step of the way. Say it through the USO. Say it with dollars!

Keep it up... USO Don't let them down!

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

ORDINANCE NO. 20.

An Ordinance granting to the Otter Tail Power Company, a Minnesota corporation, its successors and assigns, permission to erect, construct, install and maintain within the Village of Holt, Minn., an electric light and power system and transmission line and to operate the same and to install conduits, poles, wires, pipes and other fixtures in, upon and under the streets, alleys, bridges and public grounds of said Village for the purpose of furnishing electric light, heat and power to said Village and the inhabitants thereof.

There is hereby granted to Otter Tail Power Company, a Minnesota corporation, its successors and assigns, hereinafter called the Grantee, for a period of twenty (20) years from and after the passage and approval of this Ordinance and during all of said time, subject to the conditions and requirements hereinafter set forth, permission to construct, install and maintain an electric light and power system and transmission line and to operate and maintain the same within and through the Village and to transmit electricity to and from the other towns or cities for the purpose of light, power and heat and to erect, construct, install and maintain conduits, poles, wires, pipes, and other necessary fixtures and attachments upon and under the streets, alleys, bridges, and public grounds of said Village for the purpose of furnishing and selling electricity for light, heat and power and such other purposes for which electricity may be used by the inhabitants of said Village, said permission and franchise to become operative and continue under the conditions hereinafter set forth.

SECTION 2

Said Grantee shall use poles, wires, cross arms, equipment and devices to conform with the standards of construction adopted by the National Electrical Safety Code of the United States, Department of Commerce, and all apparatus connected therewith shall be located so as not to obstruct the avenues, streets, and alleys of said Village or to endanger persons or property or to hinder or to obstruct the use of said avenues, streets, and alleys or public places by the inhabitants of said Village, or public in general, or to interfere with any street, sidewalk, curb, gutter or park improvements that the Village may deem proper to make along the lines of said avenues, streets and public places.

All conduits, poles, wires and pipes installed by virtue of this Ordinance shall be erected in such places and in such manner as not unnecessarily to encroach upon streets, alleys, bridges, or public grounds and places of said Village and so as not to unnecessarily obstruct the use thereof for the ordinary purpose of travel thereon and the erection thereof shall be subject to the reasonable supervision and direction of the Village Council of the said Village. Whenever practical, all poles shall be set in alleys, and poles now in position upon or along the streets whenever practicable shall be removed and the location of all of said poles shall be designated by the President of the Village Council under the supervision of the Village Council of the said Village.

All poles where set in alleys shall be set at or near the boundary line thereof and where set in streets shall be located at such distances as shall be directed by the Village from the propery line of the abutting owner, and shall be placed so as not to interfere with the construction or placing of any waterpipes, sewers, or drains or the flow of water therefrom, which has been or may be placed by authority of said Village. In the event that said Grantee shall make any unnecessary obstructions of said streets, alleys, public grounds or places not designated by the Village Council, the Village may cause the removal of such obstructions and charge and collect from such Grantee the actual cost of such removals.

During the construction, maintenance or enlargement of any part of said electric light and power system, said Grantee shall not unnecessarily impede or block travel in said streets and highways in said Village and shall leave all streets, highways, alleys, sidewalks, curbs, lanes and public places and all grounds disturbed by said construction in good condition upon the completion of said work.

The Village reserves the right for itself and its agents to make and adopt, and the rights and privileges hereby granted shall at all times be and remain subject to such reasonable regulations of a police nature, as it may deem necessary for the best interests of the Village, but the Village will not by any such regulations or by acts of its own or agents do anything to prevent or interfere with the Grantee carrying on its business in accordance with the franchise hereby granted.

SECTION 5

Whenever the said Grantee in erecting, constructing and maintaining said lines or poles, shall take up any of the pavements, sidewalks, crossings or curbs on any of the avenues, streets and alleys, or public places in said Village or shall make any excavations thereon, such excavations shall be refilled and the sidewalk, crossing or curb replaced under the direction of the Village and any excavation so made shall be properly lighted at night during the construction, and in case of the failure to do so on the part of the said Grantee, then the Village may do the same at the expense of said Grantee and said Grantee agrees to pay said Village for the reasonable cost or value of said work. Said Grantee shall be liable for all loss or damage caused by the negligence of Grantee, which may result to persons or property within the said Village caused by it, or its agents, servants, or employees in erecting, operating and maintaining the said electric system within said Village and shall at all times save the Village harmless from any and all damages to persons or property in erecting, operating or maintaining said electric system.

SECTION 6

It is further provided that in case any person shall desire to remove a building along the streets occupied by said wires or pole lines, and it becomes necessary to have said wires temporarily removed, said Grantee shall be entitled to 48 hours notice in writing to that effect and when such notice is given, it shall be the duty of said Grantee to remove such wires, and without cost to said Village but the person desiring the same removed shall deposit with said Village the reasonable cost of same and after the work has been completed the Grantee shall render a bill in full for such expense and shall collect from the amount so deposited the cost of doing said work. If the expense is less than the estimated cost, the balance shall be returned to the person who moved said building.

It is further provided that the said Grantee shall not be required to make such removal except at a reasonable time of the day. No person, other than an authorized agent of the Grantee, shall interfere with the property of the Grantee within the corporate limits of said Village.

There is granted to said Grantee, its successors and assigns, during the term hereof, permission and authority to trim all trees in alleys, streets and public grounds of said Village so as to remove all parts of said trees interferring with the proper erection, maintenance and operation of poles, cables, wires, masts or other fixtures, or appliances installed or to be installed in pursuant to authority hereby granted.

Said Grantee shall have full right and authority to assign to any person, persons, firm or corporation all the rights that are given it by this Ordinance, provided, that the assignee of such rights by accepting such assignment shall become subject to the terms and conditions of this Ordinance.

SECTION 8

The Grantee shall not be required to extend its service lines (including primaries and secondaries) to supply a customer or customers where the revenue is not commensurate with the expense involved and as a measure of this expense, extensions shall be made whenever the annual gross revenue for three years equals the cost of such extensions.

SECTION 9

The Grantee shall use due diligence and care in furnishing electric service as herein provided but shall not be liable for any loss or damage which may arise from failure of the service, either partial or total, but this shall not be construed to exempt said Grantee from liability for negligence.

SECTION 10

The Grantee shall have the right to require of any person to whom electric service is furnished to make a deposit to insure the payment of bills for service to be rendered. The Company shall issue a receipt for such deposit and shall return same whenever the customer shall discontinue the use of electric service, provided all bills are then paid. The Grantee may apply all or any portion of the deposit to any unpaid bills and shall thereupon mail to the customer a receipt for such amount.

SECTION 11

It is further expressly and specifically provided that all permits, licenses and franchises heretofore granted by the Village giving or purporting to give permission to any person, persons or corporation to construct, install or maintain an electrical line or system in, upon or through the streets, alleys or public grounds of the Village for the purpose of furnishing light, heat and power to the Village or its inhabitants, be, and the same hereby are in all respects revoked, cancelled and annulled.

SECTION 12

This Ordinance shall take effect and be in full force from and after its passage by the Village Council and its publication or posting as required by statute. The said Grantee shall specify its acceptance of this franchise in writing, to be filed with the Village Clerk and in no event shall this Ordinance be binding on said Grantee until the filing of such acceptance.

Approved this 10th day of September, 1946.

Rail Quiz

What is a derail?

A derail or derailer is a device to guide cars, locomotives and other rolling stock off the rails at a selected location to avoid collisions or other mishaps. Derails are used principally on spur tracks or sidings to prevent cars from fouling main line track.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Bert Childers and the Melon Patch

Bert Childers put an ad in the Clarion the other day. Here's what it said:

"Planted more melons than I can eat this year. Stop by and pick as many as you want. All free."

As you can guess, plenty of folks sent their kids over and plenty of the parents came too. Stripped Bert's melon patch in no time. And as they went away, Bert treated the kids to lemonade, and offered the grownups a glass of ice-cold sparkling beer.

Naturally it puzzled some folks ... but Bert explains: "It gives me a kick to share things when I can afford to—whether it's the melons, or the lemonade, or beer. I guess I just like to indulge my whims."

From where I sit, if we had more "self-indulgent" people like Bert—who believe in share and share alike, live and let live, this tired world would be a whole lot better off!

Keep Big Game Report Card

Nearly 85,000 cards acknowledging receipt of reports from 1945 deer hunters have been started on thier way back to the division of game and fish, Minn. Department of Conservation.

Every person who took big game during the 1945 season was required by law to send a report of such take to the division of game and fish. Those who were successful during the 1945 deer season will find this report card worth $2.25 when applying for the 1946 license — the applicant must produce this receipt or pay double the big game license fee.

"Every hunter is urged to carefully preserve this card," said Frank Blair, division director, "to avoid delay, trouble and a more costly hunt this fall."

The total number of big game licenses sold in 1945 was 115,048. Approximatly 85,000 reports were recieved which means that in the neighborhood of 30,000 either did not take a deer or failed to comply with the law, and those who took a deer and failed to report will not have their receipt and will be subject to the penalty, causing their license fee to be $4.50.

The report card system was set up to secure accurate and complete information about the deer kill, as to numbers, location, sex and such facts. This information is of vital necessity in the checking of pre-season population estimates, the distribution of the deer throughout the hunting area, and the precent killed. Since voluntary reporting by hunters failed to produce sufficient information, the present system was authorized by the legislature last year.

Meet Your Candidates Oct. 17

A "Meet Your Candidates" meeting will be held in Middle River Thursday evening, October 17, at 8 p. m. (sharp!) announces George Cullens, president of the Marshall county Farmers Union. Invitations have gone out to all candidates for county office in Marshall county, as well at to State Senator Eric Friberg, and his opponent, Donald Sinclaire, of Stephen; to Representative Emil Morberg; and to Harold Hagen and Verner Nelson, candidates for Congress.

The county candidates will be introduced to the audience, while the state and national legislative candidates will be each given five minutes to speak, and opportunity for rebuttal after his opponent has talked.

The meeting will then be open for questions from the audience. This probably will be the most interesting part of the meeting when voters ask incumbents for their stand on issues, and the candidates what their stand will be if they are elected.

Neither Friberg nor Sinclair have yet met on the same platform. It is anticipated that both will gladly accept the invitation to this meeting which will draw voters from all over Marshall county.

The race for representative in the Ninth District has been livened up the past week. Whether the two candidates will choose to meet on the same platform in Middle River remains to be seen.

The Farmers Union is a nonpartisan farm organization, interested in keeping its membership and the voters informed on current issues, and in having the people see and hear the kind of men they will be electing to office in a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fermenick and Mrs. Loren Swenson and baby of Duluth are visiting at the J. O. Johnson home.

A crew of men were here last week-end and put in the remainder of the heavy cork insulation in the locker plant. If we could get a little cement to finish the plastering inside and put in the freezing units, the plant would be ready to go.

Frank Hoffman and two children who have spent over a month here with relatives and attending to some business, left on Sunday for thier home at Albany, Ore.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lindberg and Mrs. Mary Hams of Karlstad were supper guests at the H. O. Hanson home on Wednesday eve.

One of the largest flocks of geese ever seen in this community passed over the village going south yesterday forenoon.

EDVARD PERSSON

Featuring a new film comedy in the happiest, most heartwarming film comedy with music he has ever made. SOLIGA SOLBERG was made-to-order for Edvard Persson, Sweden's greatest film and stage comedian. It is a delightful story of a timid man, who, because he once sang in a choir, dreams one night that he sings in a great opera about the heroic deeds of the Vikings. It is only when he buys a little cafe that he realizes the stuff of which heroes are made — adventure comes to him fast, furious and funny with plenty of opportunity for several new Persson songs. Not the least of this joyous film's gaity is the good-natured satire on "socialism" as some people think it should be practiced. But leave it to Persson to see that "all's well that ends well."

Are Returning Veterans "Different"?

During the war you heard a lot about how hard it was going to be for returning veterans to get adjusted to civilian life . . . how they'd be "different."

Well, plenty of them have returned to our town, and a finer, steadier bunch you couldn't ask for. Most of them are back at the same jobs . . . going with the same nice home-town girls (getting married, some of them, and setting up families) . . . renewing the same old friendships.

Even their amusements are the same. Nothing more exciting than fishing Seward's creek or pitching horseshoes . . . enjoying an outdoor barbecue with friendly wholesome beer and pleasant talk.

If they've changed at all it's in the direction of maturity and tolerance . . . tolerance for everything except dictators, and those who would destroy our democratic principles of live and let live. And from where I sit, that's another reason to be proud of them.

October is the month of Hallowe'en and Hallowe'en is the time for fun, but let's be sure no one is hurt this year through carelessness and thoughtlessness. Boys and girls -- and even grownups too -- who throw stones and break street lamps don't realize the serious hazard they are creating.

Accidents may happen if streetlights are out. Just suppose it was your mom or dad or sister or brother who got hurt because of your carelessness. Not so much of a joke is it? So let's remember-everybody enjoys a good practical joke, but let's be sure that nobody gets hurt because YOU were careless.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

No Tax Reduction in Sight as U. S. Uses Funds to Cut Debt; Foreign Relief to Continue

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

GREECE:
Civil Strife

King George II of Greece faced no happy return to his homeland as open civil war raged in the mountainous northwestern border regions and the Red-dominated Albanian and Yugoslav governments were charged with actively aiding the rebels.

Premier Constantin Tsaldaris bluntly attributed the strife to Russian efforts to tighten their grip on the Near East. Said he: "It is as clear as noon-day that this is . . . for the benefit of those who aim to take advantage of our troubles with a view of securing an outlet to the Aegean sea."

As a last resort, 40,000 British troops ensconsed in Greece were being readied for intervention in the dispute if the government forces failed to check the left-wing uprising. With the country occupying a strategic position near the Dardanelles and Suez canal, Britain and Russia have been waging a bitter diplomatic war for control—the British to protect their lifeline to the East, the Russians to weaken their rivals and to extend their own dominance over the rich area.

NATIONAL DEBT:
Being Cut

Secretary Snyder

With reduction of the huge national debt one of the administration's primary goals, the U. S. can expect no immediate slash in taxes, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder told the American Bankers association meeting in Chicago. It was agreed that the debt should be pared during prosperous times when people are able to pay higher taxes, he asserted.

In the matter of debt reduction, Snyder could present a proud administration record. Between Feb. 28 and Sept. 1, the government had retired 14 billion dollars of its obligations.

Next to debt reduction, Snyder declared the administration's second primary fiscal objective was a balanced budget. With the present level of taxes, the government actually will have a cash surplus of almost three billion dollars for the present fiscal year, but the accrediting of terminal leave bonds and other items payable in the future to the current budget will produce a paper deficit of two billion dollars.

FOREIGN RELIEF: To Continue

End of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration does not portend termination of American relief to war-ravaged European countries, President Truman told congress in a report on operations of UNRRA for the second quarter of 1946.

Declaring that devastated countries would need further assistance after UNRRA wound up its work early next year, Mr. Truman said that U. S. agencies were formulating plans for continuation of necessary aid. Poland, Byelorussia, the Ukraine and China were singled out as nations especially hit by the war and requiring further help.

UNRRA aid to Poland has been pointed toward redevelopment of the agricultural economy of the country, the President said. Shipments have included 25,000 draft animals, 10,000 dairy cattle, 16,632 tons of seed, 74,918 tons of fertilizer, 5,000 tractors and numerous plows, harrows, binders and hand tools.

MEAT:
Dems Differ

Heightening of the meat crisis found Democratic leaders at odds over the retention of controls, with President Truman calling for continuation of regulations and other party heads favoring a relaxation, if necessary.

Declaring there was a shortage but no famine in meat, Mr. Truman looked to a fall run of grass-fed cattle to relieve the nation-wide scarcity. Attributing the current shortage to heavy livestock marketings during the recent suspension of OPA, the President asserted that removal of controls now would add to difficulties later.

Mr. Truman spoke shortly after the Democratic national executive committee took cognizance of the meat situation and instructed Chairman Hannegan to discuss higher prices, decontrol or other remedial measures with government authorities. The committee's action came close upon Democratic House Leader McCormack's plea for a 60 day suspension of meat control.

Farm Prices

Warning farmers that agricultural prices bear an important relationship to the overall price structure, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson declared that present ceilings appeared adequate for large-scale production and few readjustments are in the offing.

"Increasing food and fiber prices mean increased wage demands and increasing price demands for manufactured goods," Anderson said. "Agricultural prices are basic in inflation trends."

Referring to higher livestock ceilings, Anderson stated that readjustments were made to encourage farmers to feed animals and thus increase the total supply of meat. While marketings in the immediate future may remain low, he said, use of the record supply of feed crops in the coming months will assure adequate numbers of fattened livestock in 1947.

SHIPBUILDERS:
Probe War Profits

Figures, figures and more figures featured the house merchant marine committee's investigation of wartime shipbuilding profits, with these prominent facts emerging after the mathematical smoke had cleared away:

1. Because of applying shipbuilding profits against losses of its Fontana steel mill, Kaiser company showed a deficit of 13 million dollars on its wartime operations. Another Kaiser-controlled company used shipbuilding profits to pay off a 26 million dollar magnesium plant in full.
2. The government's general accounting office's charge that California Shipbuilding corporation had realized a 44 million dollar profit failed to take into account funds recaptured by the U. S. through renegotiation and taxes. After these reductions, the firm showed a five-year profit of $8,782,863.
3. Failure of the accounting office to include renegotiation and taxes resulted in its estimate that New England Shipbuilding corporation had made a 11½ million dollar profit instead of approximately 1½ million.

Higher Earnings Deprive Workers of Low-Cost Housing

Not only the demobilized veteran but the demobilized war worker as well is being enmeshed in the critical housing shortage, according to the National Association of Housing officials. The dilemma centers on the need for construction of rental housing to fit families with incomes about but not much above $2,000. The war is over; most of the boys are back—but public rental housing is still deep in the throes of reconversion. Big problem is to find other dwellings for higher wage earners to make room in public housing projects for those at the bottom of the income ladder.

In an attempt to put public housing back on a peacetime basis, housing authorities have ruled that tenants with top family incomes ranging between $1,500 and $2,000 are no longer eligible for continued residence in public housing projects.

LABOR:
Defy Injunction

Always jealous of its right to strike to enforce wage and other demands, organized labor presented a united front against a county court's anti-strike injunction against the Independent Association of Employees of Duquesne Light company in Pittsburgh, Pa.

In issuing the injunction, the three-judge court heeded the city solicitor's plea to act in the public interest in preventing a costly power strike. Though the order later was dissolved when the solicitor declared that it had served to force a resumption of bargaining between the disputants, IAE members remained adamant about returning to work as long as it stayed in effect.

Apprehensive of the no-strike and no-picketing features of the injunction, AFL and CIO unions supported the IAE walkout. Labor charged that the court order was in violation of both the state and federal anti-injunction laws and there was no law requiring men to work against their wish.

Truckers Idle

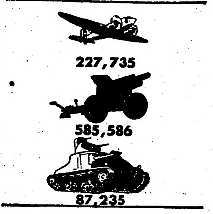
Trucks remained idle in New York City and pickets patroled ferry, bridge and tunnel approaches to prevent admission of motor freight as big operators continued to hold out against AFL teamsters demands.

While smaller employers agreed to a proposal to pay the teamsters $71.40 for a 40-hour week instead of the old $64 for a 44-hour week, the big firms held fast to their offer for a $3-a-week raise. They claimed 75 per cent of the trucks remained off the street and 10,000 men were idle.

Five New Jersey teamster locals co-operated with the embattled New York strikers in stopping freight movements into the city. Union stewards sought to tie up freight at starting points while pickets took up stations along strategic entrances into New York to guard against trucks slipping through.

WAR PRODUCTION:
Modern Miracle

Writing in the Infantry Journal, Troyer S. Anderson, historian of the war department, listed the following accomplishments of American industry during World War II in supplying U. S. and Allied armies in the fight against the Axis.



- ●227,735 airplanes, including 67,538 fighters, 22,491 transports, 30,980 heavy bombers and 16,028 medium bombers.
- ●585,556 artillery pieces, including 182,278 aircraft cannon, 103,894 mortars, 35,189 light field pieces and 880 heavy field weapons.
- ●87,235 tanks, including 56,679 medium, 28,765 light and 1,791 heavy.
- ●39,952,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition, 283,067,000 rounds of field artillery, mortar and rocket projectiles and 4,560,000 tons of aircraft bombs.

This production record was all the more miraculous inasmuch as U. S. industry virtually started from scratch, U. S. armament prior to 1940 consisting of only 2,966 airplanes, 8,975 artillery pieces, 329 tanks and correspondingly small quantities of other equipment.

RUSSIA:
On the Mend

Binding its wartime wounds, the great Russian bear is on the way to a laborious and painful economic recovery. While outside experts have asserted that it would take many years for the Soviets to get back on their feet, the masters in the Kremlin are exerting every force to speed up recovery.

Effect of the strenuous efforts to restore Russian industry is evident in progress reported in the war-ravaged Donets river basin, important prewar producing center. In the first six months of 1946, overall industrial output averaged 43.8 per cent of the 1940 level, with steel production at 40.4; coal, 44; pig iron, 40.2, and rolled metals, 39.

As the district celebrated the third anniversary of its liberation from the Germans, Communist chieftains boasted that a large percentage of the 1,341 prewar industrial enterprises had been partly rehabilitated

AIR FORCES:
Economy Minded

More than 62 million dollars have been saved by economy suggestions from army air forces military and civilian personnel since June, 1943.

The program for civilians was started in June, 1943, in an effort to determine methods of accomplishing war department jobs more efficiently and at lower cost. A system of cash awards depending upon the amount of money saved was established to reward those who offered beneficial ideas.

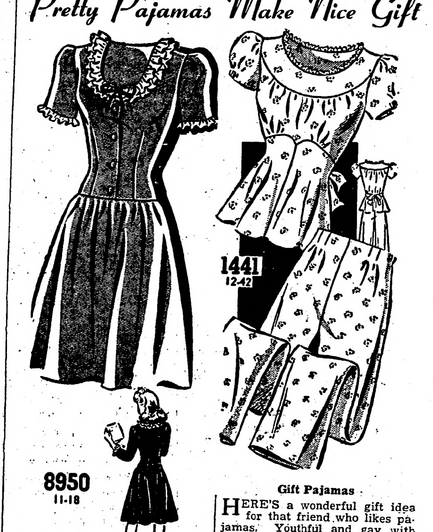
Junior Figure-Molding Basque Pretty Pajamas Make Nice Gift



Basque Frock

BASQUE frocks are a pet style with the campus crowd—this charming frock accents a lovely figure with its slim graceful lines, flattering ruffles and full dirndl skirt. If you like, make the sleeves in three-quarter length.

Pattern No. 8950 comes in sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 16 and 18. Size 12, short sleeves, 3 yards of 36 or 39-inch; 2 yards purchased ruffling.

Gift Pajamas

HERE'S a wonderful gift idea for that friend who likes pajamas. Youthful and gay with brief puffed sleeves and round yoke and neck edged in narrow lace. A narrow belt in back ties in a soft bow. Use the prettiest fabric you can find — dainty allover flower print or luscious pastels.

Pattern No. 1441 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Size 14 requires 4½ yards of 35 or 39-inch; 1 yard machine made ruffling.

RE-ELECT

Thora Skomedal Supt. of Schools Marshall County

Moorhead State Teachers College Bemidji State Teachers College; Bachelor of Education; University of North Dakota; University of Minnesota.

I have been rural, grade and high school teacher, principal and Superintendent of Schools.

I was elected by the Northern Division of the Minnesota Education Association to represent them at the M. E. A. Delegate Assembly, 1945-1946.

I have just been appointed by our State Commissioner of Education on a committee of nine educators to revise the English Curriculum for Minnesota Elementary schools, graded and rural.

Thank you for your excellent co-operation during my two terms in office.

I shall appreciate your vote on Tuesday, November 5th.

Sincerely,
Thora Skomedal.

POITICAL ADVERTISEMENT —Inserted and paid for by John O. Pearson, Middle River, Minnesota, in his own behalf.

As a candidate for County Superintendent of Schools, I respectfully submit the following:

I am a native of Marshall County and have lived here practically all my life. I obtained my grade school education in a rural school, worked my way through the Northwest School of Agriculture, and thru a rural teacher's course at Moorhead State Teacher's College and later attended one winter at the University of Minnesota. I have had many years of experience as a teacher in the rural schools of this county, and as a farm reporter forthe A. A. A.

I served nearly four years in the army during the war, fourteen of which were spent in the jungels of the China-Burma-India theatre of war. Prior to going overseas, I completed a clerical course at Denver, and a combat intelligence course at Orlando, Florida. I was discharged from the service as a staff sergeant last November. At the present time I am a member of Post No. 444 of the American Legion.

I shall deeply appreciate your support in the November election and if elected to the office of County Superintendent of Schools I shall do my utmost to render fair, efficient, and courteous service to all.

Sincerely,
John O. Pearson

Canadian To Address F. U.

D. W. Richmond, assistant secretary of the Manetoba Wheat Pool, will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Marshall County Farmer's Union to be held in Middle River, Wednesday, October 30th at 2:00, announces Irvin Reimnitz secretary of the farm organization.

A letter of acceptance to address the meeting was recieved Thursday by Erving Ingebritgsen Farmers Union Regional Director. Mr. Ingebritgsen also announces that the Canadian co-op leader will speak in Lake Bronson on the previous day.

Text of Mr. Richmond's address will be taxes on co-operative organizations and the tax law as it was passed in Canada — the threat to co-ops in being taxed out of existence. He will also give the picture of events that led to the farmer's strike in Canada.

The address by the co-op leader from the friendly country to the north is expected to bring out the largest crowd ever, to an annual Farmers Union meeting.

Quite a number of different matters are scheduled to come before the convention, including the election of officers.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Want a Vacation from Marriage?

Alvin Blake went south on his vacation, for some fishing, and left his Missus to enjoy a vacation from the corncob pipe, clothes in a heap, and solos on the harmonica.

First few days, Martha enjoyed it—house neat and quiet, top back on the toothpaste, no morning mess from Alvin's midnight snacks (Al's partial to a bit of cheese and beer at bedtime).

Come the end of the week, she began to fidget; couldn't even read the Clarion, it looked so unmussed; didn't have any appetite with nobody to cook for. She was about to wire Al, when he barges home a week ahead of time, and she almost cries for gratitude. ("Felt the same way myself," says Al.)

From where I sit, those differences of habit and opinion—whether they have to do with corncob pipes, a glass of beer, or playing the harmonica, seem mighty trivial when you're separated. And they are, too!

Model of Los Angeles

One of the largest models of a city ever made in this country is the recently completed miniature replica of downtown Los Angeles, the purpose of which is to aid engineers in planning civic developments, says Collier's. Built on a scale of one inch to 50 feet, the model occupies 576 square feet, contains 65,000 buildings, required 120 man-years of labor and cost $100,000.

—WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS—

Postwar Output Moves Into High Gear; Army Modifies Draft Proposal; Fats to Remain Short

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

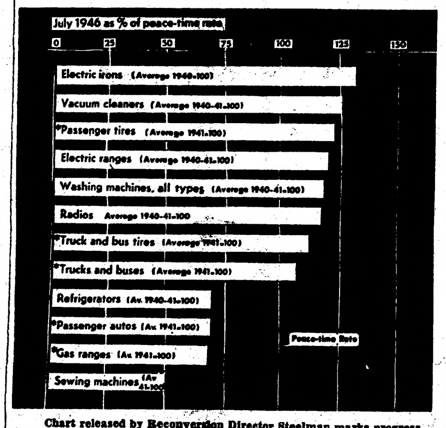

Chart released by Reconversion Director Steelman marks progress in civilian production, with figures with asterisks indicating production and other figures representing shipments to dealers.

RECONVERSION:
Steelman Reports

The wartime economy of the U. S. has reached a fork in the road, Reconversion Director John R. Steelman declared in his quarterly report to the President and congress. In one direction lies unprecedented, stable prosperity; in the other, boom and bust.

Steelman pleaded with business, labor, agriculture and consumers to avert an inflationary spiral. He asked business to hold down prices; labor to refrain from making unsound wage demands; agriculture to continue to produce at a record clip, and consumers to desist from spending freely.

Despite record employment of 58 million and an annual production rate of 172 billion dollars, many key commodities remain scarce, Steelman said. Accumulation of inventories at a rate of 6½ billion dollars yearly indicates there is some speculative hoarding, he added. The meat shortage promises to worsen this winter and supplies of fats, oils and sugars will remain tight for many months. Up 23 per cent from 1943, clothing prices are expected to go up another 10 per cent by the end of 1946.

CIO:
Fight Reds

The growing movement against Communist influence in the CIO received further impetus in New York City when 34 officials of six CIO affiliates organized to do battle against the Reds.

Forming the CIO Committee for Democratic Trade Unionism, the group, headed by Vice Pres. Jack Altman of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store union, conceded that Communists had wormed their way into CIO councils and sought to divert the labor movement to advancement of the cause of a foreign nation and its idealogy.

Disgusted with "the dirty work of the Communists within our union," Frank R. McGrath, president of the CIO United Shoe Workers, announced his resignation in Washington, D. C.

In addition to Altman, the new committee included representatives of the United Auto Workers, Textile Workers, Rubber Workers, Utility Workers and Novelty Workers. In banding together to combat the Communist menace, they followed the lead of democratic elements within the CIO Electrical and Upholsterers' unions.

RUBBER:
Cut Price

While the state department declared that an unexpected increase in production of Malayan rubber has permitted the British to slash their price to 20¼ cents a pound to the U. S., experts asserted that the government's threat to utilize a greater capacity of this country's huge synthetic industry resulted in the reduction.

British, Dutch and French producers had hiked their price to 23½ cents a pound from the wartime rate of 20¼ cents when Uncle Sam contracted to purchase 145,000 tons during the latter half of 1946. Congressional protest that the U. S. was being gouged by plantation operators led the state department into insisting on the lower price in buying an additional 200,000 tons, it was said.

Because of a desire to provide the British, Dutch and French with American dollars for purchases in this country, the state department has recommended that the U. S. obtain the bulk of its rubber from Far Eastern plantations and utilize only 250,000 tons of its huge synthetic capacity yearly.

POWER:

A total of 1,070,000 residential and farm customers was added by the electric power industry in the U. S. during the first eight months of 1946 despite the housing shortage and difficulties encountered in securing poles, wire and equipment, Edison Electric institute reported.

Data received from power systems throughout the country show that for the 12-month period after V-J Day 1,668,000 new customers of all classes were added.

DRAFT:
Modify Plan

In modifying its postwar draft plans for teen-agers, the army improved the prospects for eventual congressional adoption. The statement of Rep. Dewey Short (Rep., Mo.) that he would consider a modified draft after having been convinced of its necessity by General Eisenhower indicated which way the wind was blowing.

While the new plan calls for the induction of 18-year-olds, it differed from previous proposals in that it confined intensive training to six months and gives the draftee a number of alternatives in completing the remainder of his service. He could:

—Continue his specialized military training for six months.

—Enlist in any of the regular military services, national guard or reserve corps.

—Enter West Point or Annapolis.

—Enlist in the reserve corps and take up an approved college course, including R.O.T.C. training, or a technical course in an authorized school.

Inductees would not be subject to military law but a special code of conduct and receive a monthly allowance of $30 plus subsistence, dependents' benefits, insurance and disability compensation, if eligible.

FATS:
Remain Short

The U. S. faces a continuing shortage of fats and oils during the next 12 months as production drops 1 billion pounds below the estimated demand of 10.7 billion pounds, Charles E. Lund, food specialist in the department of commerce, declared at a meeting of the American Meat institute.

The most pronounced scarcity will remain in butter, with demand continuing heavy for fluid milk and dairy products affording producers a larger profit. With butter output down 35 per cent from prewar levels and per capita consumption reduced from 18 to 10 pounds, only slight improvement is expected in 1947, Lund said.

Supplies of paint oils, drying oils and laundry soap will continue short because of limited stocks of inedible fats and oils. Diversion of substantial amounts of coconut oil from the Philippines to other countries has limited the relief expected from that quarter, Lund declared.

Farmers Rap Congress

Only 19 per cent of the nation's farmers believe the 79th session of congress, which ended in August, did a good job, according to a survey made by Successful Farming magazine. Forty per cent rate the accomplishments as "fair" while 24 per cent regard them as "poor."

Farmers took into consideration the complex problems faced by this wartime and reconversion congress.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

A spray bath refreshes indoor plants such as ivy, freeing them from dust and preventing attacks of "red spider" which spots the leaves.

Store paint brushes in turpentine, not in water. Water causes the bristles to become soft and flabby.

It is well to have a full length mirror in the sewing room. You can then see your whole figure at once when fitting a dress. A large hand mirror is also a help.

To remove chewing gum from clothing, rub the spot with ice until the gum rolls into a ball, then scrape it off.

When you wish to use only half of a vegetable that tends to turn brown when cut, coat the half you intend to save with shortening. This slows the discoloring process, provided you also keep the vegetable in the refrigerator.

To prevent brown or powdered sugar from lumping, place each in an air-tight container once their packages are opened. An ordinary fruit jar will serve the purpose, if lumping does occur, place a damp cloth in the jar with the sugar for a time.

Stretch two thin curtain rods across the inside of your clothes hamper and across them hang soiled towels and washcloths that are still damp. These will dry here and still be no eyesore to users of the bathroom.

To give cut glass pieces a brilliant sparkle wash them in the usual sudsy water and rinse in cold water in which a little baking soda has been dissolved. Rinse and polish with a cloth that is not surfaced with lint.

When refinishing furniture or wood paneling, wait at least two or three days before waxing it, if you desire a wax finish. Paste form finishing wax is recommended. After waxing, again wait a day or two before polishing.

Windproof Span Designed After Wind Tunnel Tests

By 1948, a new Tacoma Narrows Bridge will be built over Puget Sound, replacing the one that, four months after its completion in 1940, was destroyed by wind, says Collier's. The new span, the first to have its design based on wind-tunnel tests of a model, will have shock absorbers at numerous points.

It will also have air slots in the floor which will enable it to withstand a wind nearly three times as strong as that which caused the former structure to crash.

SILVER JUBILEE
LAND O'LAKES
PIONEERS FOR 25 YEARS

SERVICE— MORE THAN A WORD
Land O' Lakes Pioneers in Serving Its Members
Soon after Land O'Lakes was organized, an equipment and supply department to serve member dairy plants was also put in operation.
Machinery, equipment and supplies are sold to dairy plants at prevailing prices, and at the end of each year, any accumulated earnings are returned in the form of patronage dividends. In 1929 a department handling feeds for livestock, poultry and hogs was added. The purpose was to provide farmers with carefully balanced feeds to aid further quality production. These products are now sold through more than 350 authorized Land O'Lakes feed and seed dealers in the Northwest.
Twenty-five years of trail blazing have taught that efficient, economical production, as well as efficient, economical marketing, is essential for top returns. That is why Land O'Lakes maintains complete equipment and supply service for its farmer and dairy plant patrons.
This is only one of the benefits of Land O'Lakes membership. Investigate them all—today.

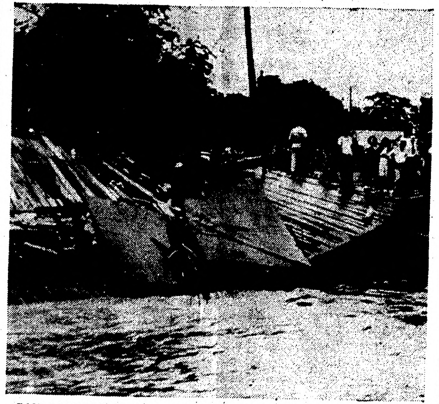
WINNING PEN OF HOGS . . . Leo Hulbey, 18, of Chatsworth, Ill., exhibits his winning pen of three Chester Whites at the Chicago junior market hog show and sale. In addition to first ribbons, young Hulbey received the Pillsbury award. With more than 1,000 hogs exhibited from four states, winners faced stiff competition. Hulbey and hundreds of other 4-H club boys and girls have made a paying business out of their various farm enterprises.



SAN ANTONIO HIT BY WORST FLOOD IN HISTORY . . . San Antonio citizens are occupied by trying to make some sort of order out of the chaos caused by the worst flood in the history of the city. Nearly a score of lives were lost and damage was reported at six million dollars. Photo shows crowd on bank looking at the wreckage of a bridge which was swept away and was washed along for a quarter of a mile by the raging flood waters.

STUDENTS STRIKE OVER G.I. RULING . . . Students of Glassboro, N. J., high school are shown picketing after they went on strike in protest of a school board rule forbidding students 19 years old or over to play on the school football team. The rule directly affects students who enlisted when they were 17 and have now come back to finish their education. Striking students want the ruling changed so that the veterans again can play football.

How to help your child fight FEAR OF DARKNESS
...as recommended in the interest of child welfare by Rose G. Anderson, Ph. D., Director of the Psychological Service Center of N. Y.
1 Fear of the dark is founded on a dread of the unknown. Many a grown man feels his courage ebb with the daylight. And to a child, whose limited experience makes him even more fearful, the dark can be filled with terrors which may affect his emotional adjustment.
2 Bring back the daylight world he knows, with your "Eveready" flashlight... show that the yard, or the basement, is the same familiar place by night as by day. Or that mysterious night-time sounds are made by simple things—rattling shades, moving branches, pets. Let him use your flashlight himself—or, better still, get him one of his own. Then—
3 Encourage him to perform small tasks after dark, when he may use his "Eveready" flashlight, such as putting his toys away or getting something for you from a dark closet. Above all, never frighten him with "Bogeyman"; appeal to his pride. Then he will accept darkness as just another part of the day.
FOR ANY flashlight use, rely on "Eveready" batteries. Their reputation for longer life of brighter light has made them the largest-selling flashlight batteries in the world—and justly! Ask your dealer for "Eveready" batteries by name; their extra light, extra life cost you nothing extra!

Rail Quiz

On a railroad of such diversified traffic as Great Northern, in what proportion do various commodities make up the total tonnage transported?

Division of freight tonnage on Great Northern in 1944 was: Products of mines, 55.6 per cent of total tonnage; products of agriculture, 17.5; manufactured and miscellaneous, 15.7; products of forests, 9; animals and animal products, 1.3; merchandise in less than carload amounts, seven-tenths of one per cent.

RE-ELECT

Thora Skomedal Supt. of Schools Marshall County

Moorhead State Teachers College
Bemidji State Teachers College; Bachelor of Education; University of North Dakota; University of Minnesota.

I have been rural, grade and high school teacher, principal, and Superintendent of Schools.

I was elected by the Northern Division of the Minnesota Education Association to represent them at the M. E. A. Delegate Assembly, 1945-1946.

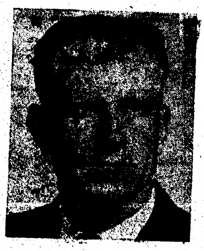
I have just been appointed by our State Commissioner of Education on a committee of nine educators to revise the English Curriculum for Minnesota Elementary schools, graded and rural.

Thank you for your excellent co-operation during my two terms in office.

I shall appreciate your vote on Tuesday, November 5th.

Sincerely,
Thora Skomedal.

POITICAL ADVERTISEMENT —Inserted and paid for by John O. Pearson, Middle River, Minnesota, in his own behalf.



As a candidate for County Superintendent of Schools I respectfully submit the following:

I am a native of Marshall County and have lived here practically all my life. I obtained my grade school education in a rural school, worked my way through the Northwest School of Agriculture and thru a rural teacher's course at Moorhead State Teacher's College and later attended one winter at the University of Minnesota. I have had many years of experience as a teacher in the rural schools of this county, and as a farm reporter for the A. A. A.

I served nearly four years in the army during the war, fourteen of which were spent in the jungels of the China-Burma-India theatre of war. Prior to going overseas, I completed a clerical course at Denyer, and a combat intelligence course at Orlando, Florida. I was discharged from the service as a staff sergeant last November. At the present time I am a member of Post No. 444 of the American Legion.

I shall deeply appreciate your support in the November election and if elected to the office of County Superintendent of Schools I shall do my utmost to render fair, efficient, and courteous service to all.

Sincerely,
John O. Pearson

Reduce Hunting Accidents

With a probable ten to twelve percent increase in the number of pheasant hunters who will take to the felds Saturday, Oct. 26, Frank D. Biair, director of the Division ot Game and Fish, issues a plea for more careful handling of firearms this year.

"There were 234,542 small game resicent licenses sold last year rnd 474 non-resident licenses" Blair reports. "Last year there were four pheasant hunters deaths, with seven reported injuries, and undoubtedly a great many more injuries not reported. With more hunters out this year the accident risk is considerably increased."

Records show that carelessness in handling firearms results in these accidents; gnn discharged when climbing through a fence: falling gun discharged; gun carried so that the discharge will hit a fellow hunter; handling when getting in or out of a car; and forgetting that every gun is Loaded.

The usual pheasant hunting conditions are such that accidents would be a rarity if every hunter was constantly safety-concious.

Mrs. Hartley Peterson, Mrs. Ludvig Sagstuen and Dorothy made a trip to Winnepeg, Wednesday.

Know Your Candidate

Julius J. Olson, now a Supreme Court Judge is a candidate for re-election. He lived at Warren from 1900 until February 1934. In November 1930 he was appointed a Judge of the Supreme Court and has been such Judge since that time. He is married and has two children. Every lawyer residing in the 14th Judicial District, comprising the counties of Norman, Mahnomen, Polk, Red Lake, Pennington, Roseau, Kittson and Marshall have endorsed him for re-election. They all know him and when ALL of them say he is the right man for the place it should mean something. In a secret ballot of all the lawyers of the state he received 1845 votes out of a total of 2126 cast, being 86% of the total votes cast. This shows how highly the lawyers of the entire state regard him as a Judge. He is a man to be trusted; he has made a very good Judge. No one that votes for him will make any mistake in so doing. We hope you will not overlook him when you vote this fall. His name is on the State ballot. Place an X in front of his name, and by doing so help the cause of good government.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

On Playing the Fiddle Badly

A favorite recreation in our town is getting together in one or another's home and making music. There's somebody at the piano; a guitar; a fiddle player; and Molly Birtles even has a harp!

What comes out isn't the best music in the whole world. In fact, a lot of it is downright bad. But nobody even thinks to question or to criticize.

Because the spirit of harmony is there—harmony between folks who like each other's company, who enjoy the simple, homey atmosphere—with nothing more exciting than old songs, and a glass of moderate beer or cider.

From where I sit, it's a heap more important to be a poor fiddle-player, than not to play at all. More important to be a part of the American scene—with its community music, home entertainment, friendly glass of beer — than to hold out for professional perfection. (Besides, I like to play the fiddle—even badly!)

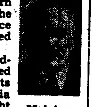
Debate Control

Government versus private control of the 345 million acres of privately owned timber-land occupied delegates to the first congress of the American Forestry association since 1905. The need for some sort of effective management of the nation's lumber resources is pointed up by an 11 per cent drop in reserves since 1938.

Calling for government control of private timber-land, comprising 57 per cent of the forest area in the U. S., Secretary of Agriculture Anderson stated that current annual lumber cutting exceeds new growth by 50 per cent. Because of the steady reduction in reserves, the total now stands at a low of 1 trillion, 601 billion board feet.

Samuel T. Dana, dean of the school of forestry of the University of Michigan, pushed the so-called Higgins Lake proposals for private management drawn up earlier this year by 18 forestry and conservation experts at Higgins Lake, Mich. Justifying private operations, the proposals called for an intensive educational campaign to emphasize importance of timber resources to the nation's welfare.

PARIS:
Italian Pact



Molotov

Following a pitched warning from Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov against the division of the world into eastern and western blocs, the Paris peace conference approved the proposed treaty for Italy.

Because it considered the treaty opposed to the interests of its Yugoslav ally, Russia led the bitter fight against adoption of the pact. Championing Yugoslavia's cause, Molotov shouted that Russia would not permit the western powers to dictate to the "new Slavic democracies," and reiterated Lenin's axiom that "a people which takes its destiny into its own hands is invincible."

The Russian bloc's objections to the treaty centered against establishment of a strong, neutral governor for the key port of Trieste, and creation of a new Italo-Yugoslav border.

A strong governor would deprive the mixed Italian-Yugoslav population of its self-rule, Molotov declared in calling for a powerful constituent assembly. An alliance of Italian Yugoslav Communists would have given the Reds control of the strategic city.

The new Italo-Yugoslav border leaves the Slovene population of Gorizia and the Isonzo valley in Italy as a racial minority, Yugoslavia charged.

MEAT:
Predict Plenty

In pressing the administration to decontrol livestock, the beef industry advisory committee declared that there were sufficient cattle in the country to meet the requirements of the next 12 months but they were being kept from market because of price inequities.

Citing department of agriculture statistics, the committee said there were 80 million head of cattle and calves on farms Jan. 1, of which 40 million were available for meat. Despite heavy marketings this summer, 52 million head of cattle were available for meat by Sept. 24-30.

Estimating that supplies will be fully 15 per cent above requirements, the committee concluded that there would be 72.5 pounds of beef and veal per person from Oct. 1, 1946, to Oct. 1, 1947. This compares with 60.6 pounds per capita in the 15 year prewar base period.

EUROPE:
Needs Fertilizer

Europe will continue to need much more food than it can produce for at least two more years, according to Homer J. Henney, director of the Colorado A. and M. college experiment station, who spent late 1945 and early 1946 in Europe as deputy director of food and agriculture for the U. S. military government. The basic reason, he explained, is lack of commercial fertilizers.

GREECE:
Inflation-Ridden

With goods and "hard" money scarce, inflation is riding high in Greece. A full meal without wine now costs more than $4 and second-hand clothing sells at $150 to $200 and shoes at $30.

As in all inflation-ridden countries, the dollar commands a premium in national exchange. While the official rate is 500 drachmas to the dollar, speculators offer as much as 6,500 drachmas for a dollar. By selling dollars, then reconverting their drachmas to U. S. currency again, Americans can make a pretty profit.

Indicative of the Greek government's desire for "hard" money, employees of the American embassy who are paid in gold flown from the U. S. receive 17,000 drachmas per dollar. This is three times the ordinary official rate.

Because there is no food rationing or price control over staple items, Greek white collar workers paid on fixed salaries are especially hit. To procure essentials, they must deal in the black market, make connections with government or business officials, or sell personal belongings.

WAGES:
Production Bonus

In addressing the American Management association in Boston, F. D. Newbury, vice president of Westinghouse Electric corporation, advanced a new formula for keeping postwar wages and prices within bounds.

Newbury's plan calls for maintaining basic wage and salary rates at their present level and payment to employees of additional income in proportion to increased volume of production, ability to pay and efficiency of the individual organization.

Stating that the proposal could not be called a profit-sharing plan, he said that the bonus payments would be considered as part of operating costs, with employees entitled to the maximum a company could afford to pay. Terming the plan highly flexible, Newbury said that an enterprise could easily readjust its wages if business declined.

ARMY:
Charge Misconduct

Claiming that he possessed information involving highly placed army officials connected with the Nazi war crimes trials of misconduct with wives of the prosecuted bigwigs, Sen. Hugh B. Mitchell (Dem., Wash.) revealed his intention of asking the senate war investigating committee to make a full-blown inquiry into the charges.

Mitchell declared that he had been informed that Frau von Schirach, wife of the Hitler youth leader who received 20 years, was one of the wives of the Nazi leaders who was guest of honor at champagne parties allegedly thrown by the accused army officials. Wives of high S.S. officers under investigation for war crimes also were invited to the "dimly lit" drinking jousts.

The senator stated that he had been informed that Heinrich Hoffman, former personal photographer of Adolf Hitler, served as a go-between for the women and U. S. officials. Detained to identify prominent Nazis, Hoffman was said to be in the pay of the American government.

Vets Prefer Business

A survey just completed at Northwestern university of the career preferences of 5,659 veterans enrolled for full-time study this fall showed that business is the top choice of these veterans, with 30 per cent selecting this field as a lifework. The choice in other fields is as follows: engineering and the physical sciences, 22 per cent; law, 11 per cent; medicine, 11 per cent; teaching, 10 per cent; journalism, 5 per cent and dentistry, 5 per cent.

RELIGION:
Urges Action

Declaring that the church must show cause for its continued existence and promote the interests of all classes of society, the Rev. Dr. Oscar F. Blackwelder of the executive council of the United Lutheran church outlined a broad program for aggressive action at the denomination's convention in Cleveland.

On the home front, Dr. Blackwelder said the church must:

—Overcome economic and social injustices, with the watchword being abundance for all rather than scarcity for profit.

—Promote equality for racial and religious minorities and see that every qualified person has the right to vote.

—Emphasize the dignity of the individual to offset the cheapening factor of the wholesale loss of life in war and postwar cruelties.

On the international front, Dr. Blackwelder called for continuation of U. S. relief from its comparative abundance, promotion of good-will among peoples of the world, and cultivation of the spirit of forgiveness to advance reconciliation.

WORLD FORCE:
Fond Hope

In resigning as senior American representative on the United Nations military committee, which is engaged in drawing up plans for a world police force, Gen. George C. Kenny declared that such an organization was the only assurance of peace but it may take years and years to accomplish.

Desire for security and protection of national sovereignty are the two most formidable obstacles to formation of a world force, the general said.

Large standing armies are no assurance of permanent security, Kenny declared. As for national sovereignty, he cited the sacrifice of individual authority of the 13 American colonies for participation in an all-powerful federal union dedicated to the interest of all.

To achieve real security, peace-loving nations must be persuaded to permit passage of international troops over their border to meet an aggressor and contribute to a world force, Kenny stated. Having resigned to become commanding general of the strategic air command, Kenny will be succeeded as senior U. S. representative by Adm. Richmond Kelly Turner.

Record Sardine Haul

Protein-hungry Americans seemed to be assured of good supplies of sardines as fishermen scored a record haul on opening day of the Pacific coast season. Jap-American crew members of the "Nancy Rose," operating out of Los Angeles, are shown with their portion of the initial catch of 8,000 tons. The West Indies are the other source of sardines in the Americas.

ITALY:
Riot in Rome

Angered by plans of the public works department to lay off help at a project, 30,000 Italian workers surged onto Viminale palace in Rome and waged a stormy protest against the action. Armed with carbines and sabers, police battled to hold off the mob, with truckloads of troops summoned to provide reinforcements.

While police were able to hold off most of the throng from the palace, some demonstrators broke into the building and moved as far as Premier Alcide de Gasperi's office, wrecking furniture as they went along. Meanwhile, the premier just arrived in Rome after attending the first post-fascism press convention.

Jolted by the uprising, which cost several lives and injured over 100 persons, government officials attributed the riot to hostile political forces trying to embarrass the moderate De Gasperi's coalition regime. Though admitting plans to lay off help, the government asserted that it was negotiating to absorb the discharged workers on other projects.

FARM REALTY:
Follows Precedent

Price trend of farm real estate during and following World War II has been much like the trend during and following World War I, according to Alexander Hamilton institute.

During the World War I period, the value per acre of farm real estate rose from an index of 100 in 1913 to 140 in March, 1919, or 40 per cent, while during World War II it rose from 84 in 1939 to 142 in March, 1946, or 69 per cent.

Although Congress passed a bill a decade ago chartering a National Theater, the United States is still without such a government-sponsored institution which some 40 other countries have established to bring stage productions to the majority of their people, by maintaining local theaters and resident theatrical companies.

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Truly Surprising
So Easy. No Cooking. Big Saving.

You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it's hard to beat.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils. Children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick relief, it's a wonder. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Kidneys Must Work Well-
For You To Feel Well
24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.
Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

SOIL DOCTORS AID HUMAN HEALTH BY BUILDING FERTILITY

CHICAGO—Soil doctors are not only curing the ailments of sick soils through conservation measures building up the fertility level, but they are promoting higher human health standards as well, according to a statement by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

Well-fed crops build sturdy bodies.

"Leading agronomists have been preaching for years that human beings are the result of what they eat," the statement points out. "People whose daily diet comes from food produced on fertile soil will have stronger bodies, sturdier physical characteristics and greater resistance to infection than those nourished on crops deficient in vitamins, minerals and proteins necessary to good health.

"The remedy agronomists recommend for dietary deficiency caused by exhaustion of soil fertility is that the necessary minerals be restored to the soil through plowing under legume crops and crop residues and by applying sufficient quantities of mixed fertilizers containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash."

Bernard Larson Passed Away

Christian Bernard Larson was born in the town of Excel, Marshall County, Minn. on Dec. 22, 1888. He was baptized and later confirmed by Rev. T. L. Rosholt.

He grew to manhood in the Holt community. In the year 1910 he took a homestead in Mud Lake Township where he lived until 1937.

He worked for three years in the shipyards in Vancouver, Washington. In November, 1944 he had a stroke there.

While in Oregon he made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Elling Tollefsrud. The past year he has made his home with Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Tharaldson.

On July 9, he entered the hospital at Theif River Falls and was transferred to the University hospital in Minneapolis where he died October 24, 1946 at the age of 57 years 10 months and 2 days. Mr. and Mrs. Elling Tollefsrud, Mrs. S. G. Tharaldson Ludvick and Chester Larson were at his bedside when he passed away.

He is survived by his brothers Clarence and Ludovic of Holt, Arthur of Portland, Ore. and his sisters, Mrs. Elling Tollefsrud of Dallas, Ore. and Mrs. S. G. Tharaldson of Goodridge. His parents and one sister preceded him in death.

Funeral services were conducted from the Nazareth Lutheran church on Tuesday afternoon with Rev. E. O. Urness officiating. Carlson Funeral Home had charge of the arrangments. Interment was made in the Holt cemetery.

Pallbearers were Conley Tharaldson, Donald, Orville, Chester and Clayton Larson and Louis Sagstuen.

In Memoriums were given to Charity, Missions, and Building funds of Nazareth Lutheran and Silver Creek Churches.

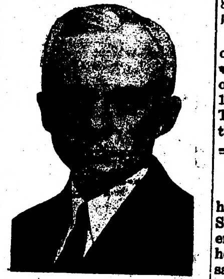
Card Of Thanks

I hereby wish to thank all for the lovely party given me last Friday evening. Special thanks for the lovely gifts, those who were present and those who could not be there. Also thanks to those who gave the nice program and to those who arranged the party. Dorothy Hanson.

Know Your Candidate



Julius J. Olson, now a Supreme Court Judge is a candidate for re-election. He lived at Warren from 1900 until February 1934. In November 1930 he was appointed a Judge of the Supreme Court and has been such Judge since that time. He is married and has two children. Every lawyer residing in the 14th Judicial District, comprising the counties of Norman, Mahnomen, Polk, Red Lake, Pennington, Roseau, Kittson and Marshall have endorsed him for re-election. They all know him and when ALL of them say he is the right man for the place it should mean something. In a secret ballot of all the lawyers of the state he received 1845 votes out of a total of 2126 cast, being 86% of the total votes cast. This shows how highly the lawyers of the entire state regard him as a Judge. He is a man to be trusted; he has made a very good Judge. No one that votes for him will make any mistake in so doing. We hope you will not overlook him when you vote this fall. His name is on the State ballot. Place an X in front of his name, and by doing so help the cause of good government.

(Prepared and to be paid for by W. O. Braggans, Warren, Minn. Chairman of Marshall County lawyers group.)

Mrs. Kolden Called Home

Mrs. Sophia Kolden passed away Friday evening, October 25th at the hospital at Thief River Falls. She had been failing in health the part 11 years, the last two of which she has been an invalid due to spinal paralysm

Death came to her as a blessed release from suffering, which she bore with such patience.

She was born Feb. 18, 1891 in Woodside County near Fertile, Minn. Most of her life was spent in the Middle River community

At the time of her death she was 55 years of age.

She was preceded in death by her parents Mr. and Mrs. John Olberg, her husband, one son and one grandson. Left to mourn are five children namely, Lorraine, Mrs. Howard Huartson, Greenbush; Florence, Mrs. Birger Borg, Holt; Arthur, Morlan, and Lester of Middle River and one stepson Thorval of St. Hilaird. She is also survived by four brothers and four sisters and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services were held on Thursday at the First Lutheran Church at Middle River with Rev. Korshaven officiating.

Carlson Funeral Home had charge of the arrangements.

Interment was made at the Middle River Cemetery.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Friendship—Three Thousand Miles Apart

Ever play chess? It's a great game! One of the strongest friendships I know of started with a game of chess—between Dad Hoskins, in our town, and a man named Dalton Barnes, in England.

They've never seen each other, never met. But for the past eight years they've been playing chess by mail together — Dad puzzling over Dalton's latest letter, while he sends a chart of his next move to England.

Dad always thinks best with a mellow glass of beer beside his chessboard. And the Englishman writes him that he does the same. "You know, it's almost as if we shared a glass of beer together, too!" says Dad contentedly.

From where I sit, you can talk about diplomacy and foreign policy, but it's often those little things —like a game of chess or a glass of beer—that can make for tolerance and understanding . . . between people of all nations . . . between neighbors here at home!

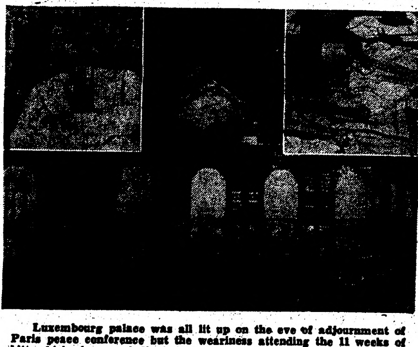
—WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS—

U. S. Moves to Free Economy; Paris Parley Ends in Dissent; Ask Reds to Settle Lend-Lease

Released by Western Newspaper Union

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



Luxembourg palace was all lit up on the eve of adjournment of Paris peace conference but the weariness attending the 11 weeks of bitter bickering was indicated by the slumber of the bartender on his stool (upper left) and the newspaper man at his desk (upper right).

DECONTROL:
Speeded Up

Hundreds of non-essential items were scheduled to be removed from price control as OPA moved to comply with President Truman's plans for a speedy shift to a free economy. Whereas 52 per cent of the nation's economy was under regulation, the total was expected to be reduced to 40 per cent by the end of the year.

Items basic to production or living will continue to remain under control to keep the economy within balance. Included in this category are farm equipment, needed for output of food and fibers; building materials in widespread demand for housing; clothing; household appliances and furniture.

Removal of controls from livestock led to OPA decontrol of fats, oils and feeds. Because of the lifting of ceilings on lards, OPA said it would be difficult to keep corn oil, cottonseed oil, peanut oil and soybean oil under control. Free market prices for livestock might lead to excessive use of cheap mixed feeds, OPA declared.

See Hope for Soap

Prospects for improved shipments of livestock following decontrol promised to relieve the critical soap shortage although a continued scarcity of copra from the Far East threatened to limit maximum production.

Normally, soap consists of 50 to 70 per cent tallow or grease, obtained from cattle and hogs, and 20 to 30 per cent coconut oil, derived from copra.

Since experiencing a shortage of coconut oil, producers have been increasing the amount of tallow and grease for soap. Heavier marketings of cattle and hogs thus would enable them to step up their production.

Despite high production of coconut oil in the Philippines, crippled grinding mills have been unable to turn out large volumes of copra. While cottonseed mills in the U. S. could crush the coconut, it was said that OPA ceilings were inadequate to permit operations.

PARIS:
Grim Ending

Secretary of State Byrnes made a final address about a "people's peace"; Molotov spoke of a "democratic peace," and Bevin prayed for a "lasting peace," but there seemed as yet to be no peace as the Paris conference ended in the ornate Luxembourg palace.

Ten empty seats belonging to the Yugoslav delegation strongly attested to the differences existing between the powerful western and eastern blocs. Complaining that decisions had not been reached on the basis of existing facts, but rather in the interests of the nations commanding a majority, Yugoslavia preferred to remain away from the closing session.

Yugoslavia's action pointed up Molotov's declaration that the newly established democratic Slav states would not be "dictated to" by the western powers. The Russian foreign minister had backed Yugoslavia's strong protests against the creation of a neutral governor for the key port of Trieste and rejection of Tito's claims to Italian border territory.

Mar Duke's Happy Return

For the first time since their historic marriage in a French chateau, the Duke of Windsor took his wife, the former Wallace Warfield Simpson, back with him to England. Hardly had the couple settled down for a two-month sojourn in the country when a thief stole a million dollars in jewels from the duchess while she was entertaining nobility. Included in the booty were sapphires, rubies and diamonds.

MEAT:
In Offing

If meat was slow in coming onto the market following decontrol of the industry, consumers could lick their chops for a big feast ahead.

While housewives were sure to find increasing quantities of meat at market in the ensuing months, the chief effect of President Truman's decontrol will be to induce farmers to use their record supplies of feed to fatten cattle and hogs to prime beef and pork, experts said.

> The record number of livestock on farms and ranges was instrumental in influencing the administration to lift controls, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson told the Illinois Chamber of Commerce. Were the nation to suffer a drouth, the meat industry would be menaced with loss and disorganization, he said. As of last January, there were 40,900,000 beef cattle on farms and ranges, and with the recent rate of slaughter the number would have risen to 44,800,000 by the end of the year.

In the meantime, farmers are expected to market suitable livestock now, with the high prices prevailing influencing the culling of cows, fat bulls and old canner cows from breeding herds. While prices were expected to rocket with the first wave of buying, experts said they would level off once distribution channels were returned to normal or if consumer resistance was met.

LEND-LEASE:
Ask Russ to Settle

In asking Russia to settle its lend-lease account of $11,141,000,000, the state department reported that the action was taken in compliance with congressional desires to speed up final liquidation of such obligations.

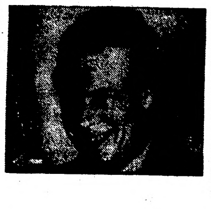
Settlement is expected to follow the pattern of previous arrangements made with Britain and France, with the Reds paying only a percentage of the cost of the guns, tanks, airplanes and other material sent during the war. In arriving at the final figure, the U. S. has always written off part of the debt owed in consideration of losses and casualties suffered in the common cause.

In the case of the British and French, the U. S. extended credits for the purchase of surplus goods as part of the settlement, and the same privilege could be afforded the Russians. As it is, the U. S. advanced the Reds between 300 and 400 million dollars at the time of the cessation of lend-lease to permit them to obtain supplies ordered but not yet delivered.

Withdraw Czech Aid

Possessing no inclination to be Uncle Sap, Uncle Sam withdrew a 40 million dollar credit to Czechoslovakia and suspended negotiations for a 50 million dollar loan following the Czechs' support of Russian charges at the Paris peace conference that the U. S. was trying to enslave Europe economically.

While Czech support of Red baiting of the U. S. constituted the principal reason for the action, the state department also charged the Czechs with profiteering in the resale of American surplus goods to Romania and stated that the Czechs were far ahead of other European countries in postwar recovery.



INDIA:
Strange Interlude

It takes a big man to admit a mistake, as Mohandas K. Gandhi did in New Delhi, but it also takes a smart politician to cut the ground from under his opposition, as the Hindu leader also sought to do.

Gandhi's double-edged action occurred as his all-India congress party and the Moslems continued to fence for political advantage in the proposed New Indian government. It was reported that Gandhi had carelessly endorsed a Moslem statement claiming that their party was the sole representative of the Moslems in contradiction to his own oft-repeated assertions that his Congress party embraced all faiths.

With Moslem leaders in possession of Gandhi's endorsement and in position to publicize it as a lever for obtaining wider representation in the new government, the little Mahatma put on his sack-cloth and ashes in an attempt to head off his foes. Said he: "I feel impelled to tell you of an error committed by me. . . . It may be that I am old and my brain is getting weak. . . . I am telling you of this mistake in order that you may learn a lesson from it and never be hasty or careless in your actions. . . ."

AFL:
For Americanism

AFL delegates representing seven million members took a firm stand against Communism in their 65th convention in Chicago, proclaiming their devotion to a free, democratic government in opposition to "a godless dictatorship seeking to subvert liberties won from previous tyrannies."

At the same time the AFL urged the government to continue a firm course against Russia, declaring appeasement would not halt the Reds' efforts to extend their domination over other countries. The U. S. plan for atomic energy control was deemed the only sound proposal for assuring against the production or use of nuclear power for war.

Adoption of a resolution boosting per capita assessments on internationals was expected to yield the AFL an additional $400,000 annually to support its year-round program. Fees were raised from 1½ cents to 2 cents on the first 200,000 members of affiliated unions, with 1½ cents charged on all members over 200,000.

NUERNBERG:
Slick Escape

Nazis snickered as allied investigators pressed a thorough inquiry into the spectacular suicide of Hermann Goering, top German war criminal who escaped death by hanging in swallowing potassium cyanide shortly before the hour of his execution.

Always a favorite with the Germans because of his rollicking, openhanded mannerisms, Goering appeared to have salvaged some of his lost prestige by thwarting the allied noose at the last minute. Whereas suicide is considered an act of cowardice in the U. S., Germans regard it as a means of redeeming lost honor.

For Hermann: Potassium Cyanide

Allied authorities wondered if Goering's dramatic demise would tend to take some of the sting out of the war crimes trials in the German mind. Despite the execution of 10 other top Nazis, Goering's escape from the noose took on the effect of a subversion of allied justice.

AGRICULTURE:
Future Pattern

Increased agricultural production in the face of uncertain demands threatens to pose another historic farm problem.

Indicative of what may lie ahead, the department of agriculture re-imposed production controls on potatoes following the bumper output of 1946. Despite a reluctance to restore regulation, the department acted to prevent the waste which accompanied the banner harvest this year.

Until plans for increasing consumption overseas and in the U. S. materialize, re-imposition of controls to prevent excessive production of various crops may develop. Reduction of some acreage, however, may be accompanied by shifts to the increase of other products like meats, milk, fruits and vegetables to provide a better balance in diets.

While stimulation of consumption in the U. S. would require maintenance of good wages and perhaps even the payment of subsidies to low-income groups, big foreign demands for food hinge upon reduction of trade barriers and distribution to needy areas.

POLLUTION:
Ask U. S. Control

Limited government control over water-pollution problems to provide cleaner waters in the United States was advocated by the Federation of Sewage Works associations at the group's 19th annual convention in Toronto, Canada.

International pollution authorities from all states in the U. S., and from Canada, Britain and Argentina, approved the resolution calling for federal control of U. S. pollution problems with limiting provisions.

HOW TO BUY A USED CAR
—as suggested by "Automotive News," the newspaper of the industry

1 Your best guarantee of a good buy is a good dealer. But today's used cars are often offered by "curbstone operators," or so-called "private parties." Then it's wise to get off alone with the car. You can judge general appearance ...try lights, brakes, wiper, horn. Allow $10 for repairing a broken window, $5 for a dent. Always...

2 Shine your flashlight on the engine. Extra dirty? This shows many miles of poor care. Rust streaks or fresh oil on the block may mean cracks—around plugs, it shows oil pumping. And your flashlight will spot motor numbers—show at once if they match the title. Next...

3 Turn beam along frame and body—kinks suggest "Rebuilt wreck." Grease on running gear means wear. Look for worn pedals, shabby upholstery, dirt. Lift rubber around windshield! See yellow or green paint? Look out! May be an ex-taxi!

4 In car or camp, home or office, always rely on "Eveready" flashlight batteries for "a longer life of brighter light." They are the largest-selling flashlight batteries in the world—and justly so! Ask for "Eveready" flashlight batteries by name. Their extra life and light cost no more!

The Federal Budget Can Be Balanced

"We urge members of Congress and citizens who believe in a balanced budget to support now every move to put the United States on a sound fiscal basis. Only if that is done can our country successfully discharge its obligations."

This appeal, voiced by 16 informed members of the House and Senate, of both major parties, gives new impetus to the movement for a balance of next year's federal budget.

As the budget estimates come under closer scrutiny, many opportunities appear for reduction of the proposed expenditures chargeable against current revenues.

The budget can be balanced.

As submitted to the Congress, the budget proposed expenditures of nearly $36 billion but, as pointed out by the 16 members of Congress, almost half this total is composed of tentative estimates without detail.

"A determined Congress," they say, "with citizen backing can find the cuts needed for budget balancing" in some $23 billion of the proposed expenditures.

For the first time in years, Congress is in a good position to resume effective controls of spending and to enforce needed economies. Let's back our representatives up.

—Candidate For—

COUNTY COMMISSIONER
5th District, Marshall County

Inserted by and for H. O. Hanson, Holt, Minnesota, in his own behalf.

PAID ADVERTISEMENT: Prepared for the Republican nominees for state and congressional offices herein listed by Minnesota Republican Volunteer Committee, S. B. Wennerberg, Center City, chairman, for which regular rates have been paid.

To Keep These Gains

Improvements made during the past eight years, first under Governor Stassen and more recently under Governor Thye, have transformed Minnesota's state government and increased its usefulness to the people. Standing out among the gains in these eight years:

- Adoption of a new plan of financial control to prevent deficits and avoid needless spending.
- Cut of $63,000,000 in state debt.
- Increase of 50 to 60% in old age assistance, aid to blind and aid to dependent children.
- Increased funds for schools.
- Introduction of new conciliation program which has cut strike losses 70%.
- Increase of 20% in limits on wage loss benefits for injured workers.
- Adoption of civil service for state employees.

Few Minnesotans, surveying the gains, will want to go back to the waste, mismanagement and spoils that prevailed back in 1937 and 1938. All who stop to reflect will want to keep the new order of government, the honesty, integrity and efficiency established. Luther W. Youngdahl, Republican nominee for Governor, can be depended upon to continue this new order of government and seek wherever possible to make improvements.

To Meet New Needs

Vast changes are impending. In the aftermath of war will come difficulties and uncertainties, none of us can anticipate. New conditions will require new programs. What a fine thing it will be, in this period of uncertainty, to have in important posts in our government men we can depend on for wise and helpful action. All groups of our citizens can have an added sense of sureness if we send Ed Thye to Washington to represent us as U. S. Senator, elect a full delegation of Republican Congressmen, put Luther Youngdahl in the Governor's chair and re-elect our present Republican state officials.

VOTE

But you can't keep the gains Minnesota has achieved in government, you can't expect to have capable and dependable men representing you in Congress in this critical period unless you do something about it. What action our state and national officials take on many problems during the next two years is going to affect vitally your own pocketbook and the welfare of your family. Go to the polls and vote now, if you never voted before, and urge all your friends and neighbors to vote. Too much is at stake for any of us to leave to others the selection of the officials who are going to represent us.

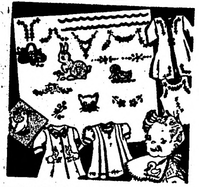
Cunning Designs for The Baby's Layette



MOTIFS for baby dominate this transfer—in fact, the entire transfer is devoted to baby. There are sprays of dainty embroidery just right for wee dresses, slips or gertrudes and the scallop patterns might come in handy here also. Ronald, the duck, rides a ric rac wave as bib decoration, or perhaps he'd make a playsuit pocket along with Whiskers, the cat. A cute bunny rabbit is also for appliqueing, and last but not least is Paddlefoot, the duck, whose mission in life is decorating crib quilt blocks.

Stalin to Allies: 'Fulfill Obligations'; Records Prove U. S. War Planes Superior; Wages, Food, Rent, Profits Stabilized As Anti-Inflation Program Takes Effect

Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

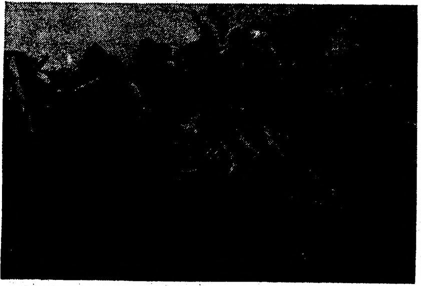
Released by Western Newspaper Union.



America, too, is developing its force of Commando units as the above photograph from the Panama Canal Zone would indicate. Here, during training maneuvers, these "Bushmasters" are about to push their way through barbed wire entanglements as part of a simulated attack on an "enemy force." Highly trained and tough, troops like these are the spearheads of attacking forces.

INFLATION CURB:
Roosevelt to Byrnes

Within 18 hours after he had been granted broad powers to halt the spiral of inflation, President Roosevelt named Associate Justice James F. Byrnes as the director of economic stabilization and moved to stabilize wages, salaries, profits and farm prices.

Byrnes resigned from the Supreme court shortly after he was named head of the new Office of Economic Stabilization.

Under the new legislation farm price ceilings cannot be set below parity or below the highest market level between January 1 and September 15, 1942, whichever is higher. If such ceilings are too low to reflect increases in farm labor and other costs since January 1, 1941, the President is directed to raise them. The legislation calls for a 90 per cent parity "floor" under cotton, corn, wheat, rice, tobacco and peanuts, the floor to be established by means of loans. The President may hold the loans down to 85 per cent, however, on corn and wheat used for feeding livestock and poultry.

Acting immediately, Leon Henderson, head of the Office of Price Administration, ordered that all rents be frozen at the level of March 1, 1942. Henderson issued his first stabilization order within 24 hours after the OES was created. He said the OPA soon would establish machinery to enforce national rent regulation and urged that, in the meantime, landlords who may have raised rents since March 1 reduce them to the previous level.

He asserted that evictions resulting from sale of rental property will be prevented.

In setting forth a wage and salary stabilization policy, President Roosevelt provided that there be no decreases for any particular work below the highest wages paid between January 1 and September 15 unless to correct inequalities.

BUSH SOLDIERS:
In Surprise Advance

Rugged Australian bush soldiers turned the tables on the Japs in New Guinea and, through infiltration methods, recaptured Nauro in the Owen Stanley mountain range, high point of the Japanese advance, and then continued their forward march to the north.

Strong enemy opposition was expected, but failed to materialize. The march took the Aussies to Nauro, then to Menari, "without establishing contact with the enemy." Official communiques said nothing about what had happened to Japanese forces which at one time drove to within 32 miles of Port Moresby. However, Allied air strafing and bombing of pack trails is thought to have accounted largely for the Jap retreat.

Meanwhile, heavy bombers raided Japanese shipping at Rabaul, New Britain and Buin on Bougainville, in the northern Solomons, setting fire to two enemy transports and scoring possible hits on two cruisers and an unidentified ship.

The marines continued to consolidate their positions in the Solomons and to strengthen the defense of the important Guadalcanal air base.

ALCOHOL:
'Total War'

Whiskey and wine have really gone to war.

Under terms of a directive issued by the War Production board the entire output of U. S. distilleries is now being diverted into industrial alcohol for wartime purposes.

There remains in the country, however, about 3½ years' supply of beverage whiskey even though half of the nation's distilleries had gone into war production earlier this year.

RUSSIA:
And Second Front

Even as Josef Stalin reiterated his demand for a second front to bring relief to sorely tried Russia, an official communique acknowledged relentless Nazi pressure everywhere on the Volga front. The communique neither claimed Soviet advances nor acknowledged withdrawals, but spoke of "incessant attacks" by the enemy.

In one sector within Stalingrad Soviet forces were reported to have demolished several blockhouses held by the Germans, killing about three companies of Nazi infantry. In a special bulletin the Moscow radio said that Soviet troops had driven the Nazis from an important point on the front west of Moscow, later beating off five counterattacks. In one of these attacks the Germans were reported to have lost 700 men —killed.

Dispatches from the front said that in northwest Stalingrad the Red army attacked in force in an industrial district, hammering through several streets and improving the Soviets' general position.

Despite local Russian successes, Premier Stalin pointed out the increased necessity for a second front and increased aid. He asked that the Allies "fulfill their obligations fully and on time."

Broadcasts from Vichy, France, and from Turkey said that Stalin had turned over to Marshal Shaposhnikov the post of defense commissar, which Stalin himself had held.

YANK AIRMEN:
In Biggest Raid

In the biggest daylight operation the U. S. army air forces have yet undertaken from England, American Flying Fortresses blasted a Nazi aircraft factory at Meaulte and an airfield at St. Omer in northern France and shot down 13 of Germany's crack fighter planes.

At the same time U. S. Boston bombers attacked docks at Le Havre, and escorting American and Allied fighters totalling 400 destroyed another five Nazi Focke-Wulf 190 planes.

Although officials did not reveal the number of Flying Fortresses participating in the raid, all the fortress planes returned safely. Six Allied fighter planes were lost.

Even as the speedy fighters and the mammoth fortresses and American medium bombers were roaring over France, engaging enemy fighters and bombing targets, Britain's secret Mosquito planes, fresh from their assault on Nazi-occupied Oslo, were pounding objectives in Belgium.

'BOX SCORE':
Of U. S. War Planes

The "box score" of American fighter planes and bombers in combat over world battlefronts proves their superiority over Axis aircraft, according to a special house subcommittee report.

The ratio of enemy planes destroyed to U. S. losses in combat during the period from August 14 through September 14 was 7.5 to 1. During this period, P-39s destroyed 20 enemy planes in combat with a loss of five, and P-40s destroyed 14 enemy planes with a loss of only one.

From February 1 through September 20, enemy planes destroyed by army aircraft of all types on all fronts totaled 279. United States losses on all fronts totaled 114. For the month of August only, 75 enemy planes were destroyed as against U. S. losses of 15.

The report indicated that the Japanese Zero has a faster climb, higher ceiling and greater maneuverability, but that the American P-40 has a number of better fighting characteristics. Our pilots prefer the P-40 to the Zero, the report pointed out.

FULL DINNER PAIL:
'Definite Assurance'

There was a coffee shortage looming and plans were under way for meat rationing but a "considered statement" by Donald Nelson, chairman of the War Production board, carried definite assurance that "there will be enough food to eat" for the duration.

This statement was made to the house agriculture committee. The committee has been studying the farm labor shortage and has warned that this situation might cause an acute food shortage. While Mr. Nelson appeared to recognize the labor problem as an important one, he felt that "we are going to be smart enough . . . to meet the problem."

Meanwhile a vast loan program to farmers was being considered to aid them in producing full capacity crops. This prospective step calls for such loans to small-income farmers, with the funds to be used for obtaining tools, machinery, livestock and other items to aid increased production despite less available labor.

HOARDING GAS?:
It's Plenty Dangerous

Hoarding of gasoline to beat rationing plans is not only unpatriotic, says the National Safety council, but extremely dangerous.

"The motorist who tries to beat rationing by laying in a supply of gas literally is storing up danger and trouble for himself," says this safety bureau, and further warns that:

"No matter how careful the average person may be in storing gasoline, there is a definite danger that vapor will escape. This vapor is highly explosive, and a chance spark or flame may set off an explosion that can wreck a house and cause death or injury."

Concludes this warning:

"You may get an extra ride hoarding gas, but the chances are it will be to the hospital. There is only one safe rule for hoarding gasoline—Don't do it!"

YOUR USED TIRES:
Can't Be Sold

As a further rubber conservation step, Price Administrator Leon Henderson acted to "freeze" all used tires and tubes in the hands of present owners until a normal rationing program can be worked out.

The OPA order prohibited the transfer of any used tires and tubes by dealers and consumers. It did not, however, prevent the sale to a consumer of an automobile equipped with used tires. Automobile dealers also are allowed to shift their used tires that are mounted on cars in stock to other cars also in stock.

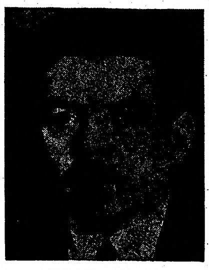
The order permits car owners to have their used casings and tubes repaired and to have tires recapped if they qualify for the latter service.

MORE TROUBLE:
For Vichy France

Edouard Herriot, former president of the now defunct French chamber of deputies, has been arrested for challenging the Vichy government's policy of increased collaboration with the Axis.

The 70-year-old elder statesman of the Third Republic was reported held in his chateau outside Lyons, according to German and Italian radio announcements.

Recently Herriot and Jules Jeanneney, former leader of the French senate, warned the Vichy government against trying to draw France back into the war against "our" Allies. Herriot also announced his resignation from the French Legion of Honor because the award had been given two Frenchmen fighting for the Germans on the Russian front. He has steadfastly refused to have anything to do with the collaborationist regime.



EDOUARD HERRIOT
Fights Collaborationist Regime.

It was presumed that Pierre Laval ordered his arrest because he feared that he would go abroad and lend his invaluable prestige to the Fighting French.

MISCELLANY:

PRELIMINARY: U. S. citizens learned long ago that meat rationing to about 2½ pounds per person per week was on the way but now the first step in the actual has been announced. This came in the form of a government order reducing civilian meat supplies by about 20 per cent by specifying to meat packers the amounts they should distribute to non-military distributors.

Hundred Percent War Work

By Robert St. John

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly)

One day several months ago, in London, I got a letter from Chicago. A member of my family was missing in action in the Philippines. The same day, word came by grape vine from eastern Europe that a close friend of mine in Rumania had been executed by order of the Gestapo, and that a girl journalist I knew in the Balkans had been sent up to Poland, for the pleasure of Nazi soldiers on leave.

That night I wanted to volunteer in somebody's army or air force. That night I suddenly got disgusted with the soft life which some of us continue to lead in this, the most critical year of the most important war in all history.

When I say "us" I mean people in America as well as Britain. But a twinge in my right leg made me realize that the Nazis had limited my field of activity. The Messerschmitt which shot up a troop train I was on, in Greece last year took care of that.

So the next morning I went around to the ministry of labor and begged for a job, without compensation, in a munitions factory. I explained that I do all my broadcasting to America in the early hours of the morning and that I could gather my news and do the rest of my regular work after I came home from a factory in the evening.

At Work on a War Job.

Within a week I was at work in a vast shop full of machines that were grinding out vital instruments of war. I was given a job inspecting the minute parts of a gadget designed to save the lives of British, American, Russian and Chinese pilots when they go off on flights against the enemy.

Some of the parts are as delicate as the wheels inside a Swiss wrist watch. They have to be true to a fraction of a thousandth of an inch—an interesting job, and it seemed to me to be an important one.

So I joined up with that army of men and women who work eleven or twelve hours a day, sometimes seven days a week, and never get their pictures in the papers or any medals pinned on their chest—that army of unsung heroes who man the factories of Britain.

The first week at the factory left me tired of muscle and mighty weary when the day's work was done, but I soon got hardened to the new life.

In addition to this factory work I spend a full eight hours out of every twenty-four gathering news, attending press conferences, pounding a typewriter and talking into a microphone.

On Sundays I travel into the country to lecture to British troops in their camps and to wounded airmen in their hospitals, or I go into the tenement districts of London to talk to clubs of Cockney youngsters.

I mention these activities to show that I was as busy as the average man with a job before I took on the additional factory work.

What Is 100 Per Cent Production?

Much is written about how Britain and America are now up to 60 or 70 or 80 per cent war production. I've often wondered what that means. What is the 100 per cent basis for the calculations?

In England as well as America there are millions of men who could do at least a part-time shift a few nights a week in war factories.

Only when all the people are working as many hours a week as they are physically able, can either Britain or America talk about approaching 100 per cent production.

There are still many people in our democracies who prefer to knit socks and sell government bonds, and let others do the dirty work of war. The conflict still hasn't come close enough to home, even here in Britain with its bombed buildings, to jar some people into making it a total war from their point of view.

Yet before these words get into print, the time may have arrived when the survival of our entire way of life will depend on whether enough people have been willing to forego the pleasant paths of normal existence and sacrifice every ounce of their energies to defeat enemies who long ago abandoned business-as-usual.

Excuse the preaching. But after you've felt Nazi bullets and seen Nazi savagery, it's difficult to remain "just a reporter."

My weeks in a munitions factory, close to the workers and their everyday problems, has given me a profound respect for the Little People of Britain.

Some of them haven't had a very good deal in the past. Between the two wars, their wages and working conditions were far from what they ought to have been. Most of the working class just took it during that quarter of a century.

At the moment they're working, without complaint, long hours at tough jobs, supplying both the British and the Russians with the machines of war.

But they are determined that this war shall not have been fought in vain. These Little People I've been working with are going to be heard from, when the lights come on again, and peace returns.

And it's right that they should be, because in many ways they are the cream of Britain.

Average pay of a man in my factory runs about $18 or $19 a week.

Cause of Earthquakes

Although the surface of the earth is cool, its center is enormously hot, and sometimes this boiling core—which is never at rest—increases its activity. Then the volcanoes, which are something like safety-valves, erupt and in extreme periods of internal disturbance the ordinary land surfaces are affected, too.

Earthquakes of the severer kind are more common in the countries which have many volcanoes, but no part of the world is absolutely safe from the danger of such volcanic disturbance.

Sentinels of Health
Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.
When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.
Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.
The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

4 U. S. Naval Ships Sank Without Trace in Late War

In the first World War, only one surface ship of the U. S. Navy disappeared without trace—the collier Cyclops which was not equipped with radio.

But in the recent war, four U. S. naval vessels, which were equipped with radio, likewise vanished mysteriously—the destroyers Jarvis, Pillsbury and Edsall and the gunboat Asheville.

Sound Film in Reverse Eases Report of Shot

How the sensitivity of the human ear may be changed instantly and radically is demonstrated by a sound film recording of a revolver shot, says Collier's. When the film is run forward the loud report makes the ears insensitive to other sound waves that follow with decreasing intensity.

When the film is run in reverse, only a soft swish is heard because these sound waves successively increase in intensity and so condition the ears in a split second that the report itself is not detectable.

Donald Sinclair
— For — State Senator
67th DISTRICT
Roseau—Marshall Kittson Counties
General Election
November 5th

I am a candidate for State Senator because I believe that my lifelong experience as an actual farmer has acquainted me with the problems of the farmers and business men in Roseau, Kittson and Marshall counties.

If I am elected I will serve all of the District impartially.

I understand the problems of the Veterans of to-day because I served in World War 1.

Will appreciate your support and vote at the Geneal Election.

Different Colors

One pigment, anthocyanin, makes some cornflowers blue, others Bordeaux-red or rose-red, and dahlias deep red, this variation in color being due to the different degrees of acidity and alkalinity of the cell sap.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Conklin and children, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Conklin and Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Nelson were supper guests at the A. C. Conklin home Friday evening.

Chinese Cooking Year

In the Sixth century, Chinese chefs had their own cooking "year"—in which there were five "months." One was dedicated to sweet cakes, the second to soup, the third to vegetables, the fourth to fish and the fifth to meats.

Rail Quiz

What do the records show as to tonnage transported per freight train, which we have read is the largest ever?

The average freight train in the United States in 1944 carried 1,138 tons of freight, a new all-time high. This compares with 1,116 in 1943 and 651 in 1921.

Mr. and Mrs. Cardiff Leiran, whose marriage took place Sept. 28, were entertained at supper at the Eddy Leiran residence at Thief River Falls Saturday evening Oct. 26. A decorated wedding cake graced the table. The supper, brought by the guests, was served buffet style after which the gifts were opened.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Cardiff Leiran, honor guests, and the following families: Elmer Moberg, Ludvig Sagstuen, A. Sannes, O. L. Johnson, all of Holt; John L. Anderson of Middle River; Ole Isaacson of Grafton; Mrs. Askerman of Alberta, Canada; Isaac Isaacson, Henry Bothman, John S. Leiran, Mrs. Helga Leiran, Wm. Kaushagen, Caspar Hegerness, Arthur Leiran and Eddy Leiran all of Thief River Falls.

In Memoriam

In memory of our little darling Lois Ann who passed away one year ago Oct. 25.

You have left us little darling
For your home beyond the skies
God thot best to cease your suffering
So he called you home on high
We have missed you little darling,
Every day has seemed so long
But when we think of how you suffered,
We have breathed a prayer and song.
With the angels you are happy
And in the joys that never end,
You have reached your home in heaven
And we know you are happy there
We can't wish you back little Lois
To the earth with woe and care.
We are thankful to you little darling
For you've taught us how to live,
And by trusting in your Jesus
A home in Heaven he will give

Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. Andor Hjelle and LaVerne.

The USO Campaign

Fifty percent of Minnesota's USO $400,000 campaign has been raised to date, Thomas Daniels, state chairman, announced last week.

Seven counties that have exceeded 100% of their goals are Goodhue, Lake of the Woods, Lyon, Martin, Pope, [illegible] and [illegible]. Lake of the Woods County, where Ralph A. Reeder is chairman, reported 225% of the quota.

The following letter was written to tell the American people how much veterans in hospitals need USO: The other day I heard someone say "The war is over. Why continue USO? Sure the shooting war is over, but try to tell the thousands of boys "sweating it out" in hospitals that they no longer need entertainment.

You'll get a rather grim reply. Maybe no reply at all. And this tight lipped silence is worse, because the fear and uncertainty in a hospitalized man,s mind is a terrible thing.

Ever go through a veterans hospital' The convalescent has a lot of time to think. What does he think? I'll tell you. He's wondering if people have forgotten. That's the worst of all his fears that he might be forgotten. That can eat the heart right out of a strong man, frighten him more than bullets.

There's a difference though. The enemy could fight. But indifference from his friends and even loved ones -- he can't fight that. That's why USO must continue. The veteran needs diversion. USO hospital shows provide the smiles and laughs that are often just what the doctor ordered. Psychological wounds of the spirit do not respond to the surgeon's knife or the doctors medicine but often heal miraculously under ministrations of the USO entertainer.

Best of all, when the hospitalized veteran wakes up in the night he can remember a recent show and smile again. That's a lot better than staring into empty space. Maybe some folks are wondering - - how come this guy knows all this? I lost both my arms and a leg at Guadalcanal

The letter was written by Ted Jones, the first triple amputee of World War 2.

"Walkie-Talkie" Ideas In New Hearing Aid

A new kind of hearing aid, using inventions made during the war, is now helping hundreds to hear. Its main features are peanut-size tubes and tiny, powerful batteries first used in walkie-talkies, radar and other war instruments. This new aid fits in the palm of your hand. It needs no battery pack, battery case or awkward, bulging harness for you to wear. The tone is brilliantly clear, strong and true . . and the cost of upkeep is amazingly small. You can get a free booklet that tells about this new invention by writing Microtone Sales Co., 902 Marquette Ave., Minneapolis, 2, Minn. They will also explain how you can get a thrilling demonstration of this instrument in your own home without any obligation at all. Write them today.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Who Gets Off Easiest—Men or Women?

Maybe you saw that poll on who has the easiest life—men or women? Of course, the men voted that the women did, and the women vice versa.

It would be the same in our town—take any family. Thad Phibbs envies his Missus spending the day at home, with no hot office to attend to. And Sue envies Thad his luncheons with the boys; and his evening glass of beer with friends (while she cleans up the dishes in the kitchen).

Of course, none of it goes very deep. Thad knows way deep down that the Missus has plenty of work running a house; and Sue knows Thad's friendly glass of beer is well-deserved relaxation after a long hard day's work.

From where I sit, most husbands and wives may grumble now and then—but they know in their hearts it's a case of live and let live, give and take, that comes out pretty even in the end.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

FEW Americans realize that the protection of thousands of lives and billions of dollars' worth of property rests in the hands of the peacetime Regular Army.

Army Engineers are constantly at work along our great rivers, building dams and levees, dredging channels and using the latest scientific methods to control flood waters. And when the rivers burst their bonds, those same Engineers are ready to battle night and day, raising sandbag barriers and rescuing flood victims.

Many of the nation's finest young men are joining the Regular Army, knowing that they will have an opportunity to work with the most modern equipment and do a constructive job, of utmost value to their country.

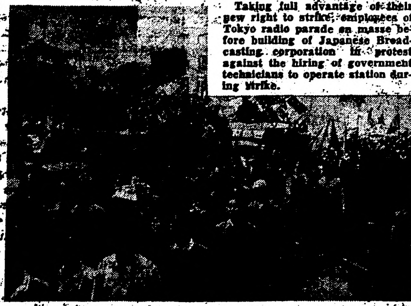
Labor Asks New Pay Boosts; Thorny Issues Face U.N. Meet; Free Food of OPA Controls

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



Taking full advantage of their new right to strike, employees of Tokyo radio parade en masse before building of Japanese Broadcasting corporation in protest against the hiring of government technicians to operate station during strike.

LABOR:

New Demands

New contract demands by the auto, farm equipment and mine unions left Americans wondering if a new wave of strikes was in the offing just as production appeared to be getting into full swing. With increased output, consumers saw more goods at lower prices.

Auto—Widespread interest centered in the CIO-United Auto Workers offensive against the Chrysler corporation for wage increases corresponding to the rise in the cost of living since the union was granted an 18½ cent an hour boost last January.

In pressing its offensive against Chrysler in the hope of establishing a wage pattern for the entire industry, the UAW disclosed it would ask for a minimum increase of 16 cents an hour to take care of the 12½ per cent rise in the cost of living since last January. A boost of 26 cents an hour will be demanded if the cost of living should soar 20 per cent, or 33 cents if the rise reaches 25 per cent.

Farm Equipment—In re-opening contract negotiations with International Harvester, the CIO-Farm Equipment Workers asked that union members "be allowed to share in the prosperity of the company and the country." Harvester spokesmen denied the allegation that the firm would treble its best prewar profits in 1946.

Besides asking for substantial pay increases, the FEW also will seek a guaranteed annual wage assuring a minimum of 40 hours compensation for each of 52 weeks.

Coal—Charging the government with violating the contract with the United Mine Workers under which the U. S. is operating the nation's soft coal pits, UMW Chieftain John L. Lewis called for a new pact embodying revised wages and hours.

As breaches of the old contract, Lewis cited the government practice of weighing washed coal instead of raw coal at the mine tipple in estimating payments of five cents a ton to the UMW royalty fund, and of allegedly misinterpreting eligibility of union members for vacation pay.

Secretary of the Interior Krug's attempt to defer the opening of negotiations met with Lewis' blunt assertion that failure to hold discussions would void the contract. Without a contract, the miners traditionally have refused to work.

U.N.:

Meeting Underway

Vyacheslav M. Molotov shook the hand of Mr. Truman warmly in the lobby of the United Nations meeting place in New York after his address to the delegates and a Russian interpreter told the President: "Mr. Molotov wants to congratulate you heartily on that speech. He thought it was a great speech."

Later that night when Mr. Truman greeted the delegates at the Starlight Roof of the Waldorf Astoria hotel, Molotov and the President again shook hands warmly, and the interpreter repeated: "Mr. Molotov wants to thank you again for your splendid speech."

The speech which Molotov so highly praised was a masterful diplomatic piece, indeed. It recognized the talk of another war arising from the differences of the big powers over the postwar composition of the world, but appealed to the sensibility of the major statesmen to avert such a disaster. It called for compromises to adjust differences between the East and West, but committed the U. S. to no definite adjustments. While firm, it was conciliatory.

Thorny Issues

Mr. Truman could well prepare the path for firmness and conciliation what with the U. N. about to mull over an agenda packed with explosive possibilities. Foremost of these was the proposals advanced by Australia and Cuba to eliminate the veto right of the big powers on the security council, a right the Russians have jealously guarded to protect their interests against the Anglo-American majority.

Other thorny issues included:

- Creation of a trusteeship council to govern dependent areas of the world, particularly the strategic Italian colonies along the Mediterranean.
- Russia's proposal that allied countries report on their maintenance of troops in other states, except former enemy nations.
- Iran's protest against Russian pressure for political and petroleum concessions.
- Russian demands for the early ouster of the Franco regime in Spain.

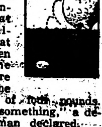
MARKETS:

Money spent for new automobiles, home equipment, clothing and furnishings might reduce the number of dollars city people will spend for food in 1947, rural economists opine.

Economists point out that goods which people have been waiting to buy are likely to be higher in price in 1947 than in the period 1942-46. The higher price and the greater volume of goods offered for sale may take a larger part of city family incomes.

Tough Egg in Making

Reported pleas of poultrymen and handlers for a more durable egg that would better withstand the vicissitudes of distribution appear to be nearly answered.



Department of agriculture scientists report that they have developed an egg that will resist between eight and nine pounds of pressure compared with the present average of four pounds. "We really have something," a department spokesman declared.

Breeding has played the most important role in the development, it was said. Egg characteristics especially sought were a tougher, less porous shell and a firmer white, both essential in shipping and storage.

OPA:

Free Food

In removing virtually all food items from food control except sugar, syrups and rice, OPA declared that the previous decontrol of meat and edible oils no longer made it feasible to regulate the few remaining foodstuffs.

Items freed include bread and bakery products, flour and breakfast cereals; most edible oils; bananas and oranges; canned fish, tomatoes and tomato products; pineapple and pineapple juice; candy and macaroni.

Following the relaxation of restrictions on brewers' and distillers' use of grain, controls were removed from beer and whisky. Brewers were authorized to use 90 per cent of the grain they used in the corresponding quarter of 1945 while distillers are to receive between 300,000 and 500,000 additional bushels of grain monthly.

As the U. S. moved more rapidly toward a free economy, OPA freed scores of other goods from control, including stove polish, bicycle tires and tubes, rubber tractor and implement seat cushions, metal tire valves, wheel blocks, paper household aprons, sanitary napkins, paperboard pots and trays, and cosmetics.

Home Rule for Counties

Recent provisions and proposals for county home rule in several states are focusing widespread attention on the problem of modernizing government at the county level, according to the International City Managers' association. Thirteen states so far have amended their constitutions giving counties the opportunity to adopt home rule government.

Household Hints

To revive blanket nap, after laundering, hang the blanket up over the shower rod or towel rack nearest the bath tub. Fill tub with hot water. Nap will fluff up.

If you must set a dish directly on the ice in the ice box, place a jar rubber underneath it. This will prevent its sliding.

Creaky stairs can be corrected simply by inserting a piece of rubber under the treads. If no rubber scrap is available make a wedge of soft wood and insert firmly with the hand.

This Home-Mixed Syrup Relieves Coughs Quickly

Needs No Cooking. Saves Money.

The surprise of your life is waiting for you, in your own kitchen, when it comes to the relief of coughs due to colds. In just a moment, you can mix a cough syrup that gives you about 4 times as much for your money, and is surprising for quick results.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Fill up with your syrup, and you have a full pint of really wonderful cough medicine. It never spoils, lasts a long time, and children love it.

This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

HOW IT Works While Child Sleeps

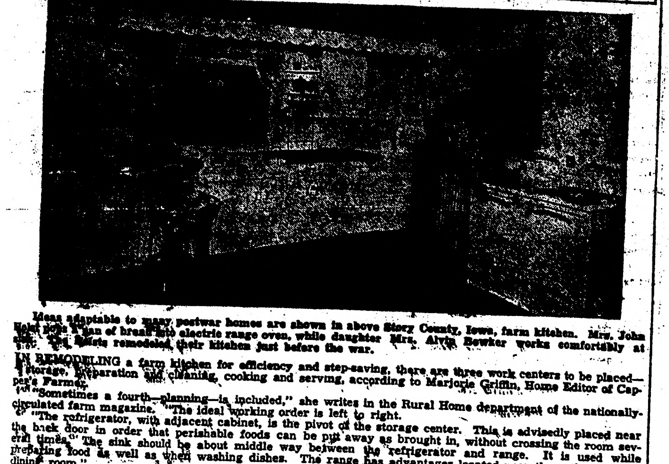
Postwar Kitchen Remodeling Will Save Homemaker Steps



Ideas adaptable to many postwar homes are shown in above Story County, Iowa, farm kitchen. Mrs. John Heist puts a pan of bread into electric range oven, while daughter Mrs. Alvin Bowker works comfortably at sink. The Heists remodeled their kitchen just before the war.

IN REMODELING a farm kitchen for efficiency and step-saving, there are three work centers to be placed—storage, preparation and cleaning, cooking and serving, according to Marjorie Griffin, Home Editor of Capper's Farmer.

"Sometimes a fourth—planning—is included," she writes in the Rural Home department of the nationally-circulated farm magazine. "The ideal working order is left to right.

"The refrigerator, with adjacent cabinet, is the pivot of the storage center. This is advisedly placed near the back door in order that perishable foods can be put away as brought in, without crossing the room several times. The sink should be about middle way between the refrigerator and range. It is used while preparing food as well as when washing dishes. The range has advantages located near the eating nook or dining room."

No kitchen plan can meet the needs of all farm families, Miss Griffin points out. The type of farming, size of family, extra help, climate, personal habits, likes and dislikes make it necessary to vary the arrangements. In remodeling, size of rooms, structure of house, thickness of walls, number of openings and lighting will also cause variations. Basic kitchen arrangements for farm homes are in three patterns: U-shaped, L-shaped and corridor type. The U-shaped type often is seen in a medium or small room; the L-shaped plan is practical in a large kitchen; corridor arrangement fits into narrow, large space, she says.

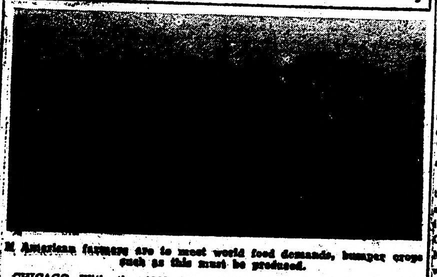
Big 1946 Minnesota Crop Goals Mean Plant Food Must Be Ordered Early



If American farmers are to meet world food demands, bumper crops such as this must be produced.

CHICAGO.—With the 1946 farm program calling for big crop production schedules, farmers were advised to be "early birds" in the matter of arranging for fertilizer for spring seeding operations.

"Only by this means can farmers be certain of having all the plant food they need for this year's all-important crop season," says a statement by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"Many farmers may think because the war is over they can go back to the old system of placing their orders in the spring. But those who delay or fail to take delivery in part or all of their supplies in the early months of 1946 may find themselves without adequate supplies.

"It is true that fertilizer production broke all records in the year ending June 30, 1945. But even at that, most farmers did not have all the plant food they would have liked.

"Whether the industry's production level can be maintained or increased for this year depends on whether manufacturers obtain bigger supplies of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash and whether farmers place their orders early enough.

"The tonnage must flow steadily from factory to farm during the winter months if sufficient supplies are to be available for next spring's operations. The business of producing, shipping and delivering plant food can no longer be concentrated into a last-minute rush period. If farmers will order and take their supplies early, then fertilizer manufacturers and producers of raw materials can space their operations over a time period to meet most demands."

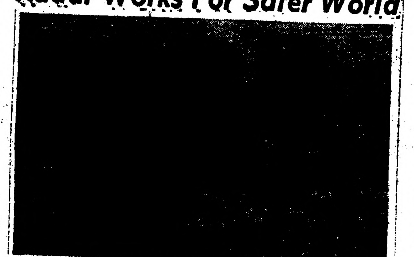
Scourge Of Enemy In War, Radar Works For Safer World



U. S. Signal Corps Photograph

Here against the rugged background of Southern Italy, a radar silently probes the sky for errant units of the Luftwaffe. Known to the War Department as an "early warning" radar, this equipment helped us to blunt the violence of the enemy's air attack at the very peak of its power early in the war. Thousands of these radars have been manufactured by the Western Electric Company.

Like a seeing-eye dog guiding his blind master through a maze of traffic, the sixth sense of radar will reduce travel hazards for man in the peacetime world. By putting a deadly finger on enemy ships, planes and submarines, radar hastened the end of the war. This same uncanny power to see the invisible promises to make peacetime air and sea travel entirely foolproof, regardless of night or weather.

Safety for ships and planes is one immediate application for this new pathfinder. Innumerable other uses are sure to flower from the knowledge born of thousands of manhours devoted to radar research during the war. In the amazingly rapid development of radar, the Bell Telephone System assumed the role of "the Nation's largest single source of radars during the war."

Up to June 30, 1945, Western Electric, the manufacturing branch of the Bell System, had supplied to the Government more than 52,900 radar systems of 64 different types, valued at more than $800,000,000, according to Mr. Walter S. Gifford president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. With the aid of hundreds of sub-contractors to which it provided specifications and details of manufacturing procedure, Western Electric has supplied more radars—all of them of Bell Laboratories design—than any other manufacturer.

Bell Laboratories has had a larger group of scientists and engineers than any other industrial organization working throughout the war in advancing the radar science and in designing new radars for the army and navy. The laboratories led the way also in volume of radar designs and of designs for new and essential components. In all, the laboratories scientists and engineers have designed some 100 different radars for use by the Army, Navy and Marine Corps in all fields of application.

The Bell Laboratories and Western Electric together have had substantially full responsibility for development and production of radars for Navy ship gunfire control. All large guns of the U. S. Navy are pointed by radars designed and produced by the two organizations.

Radar systems designed and made by the Bell System research and manufacturing team have been standard for B-29's in the Pacific for navigation, target location and high altitude bombing. In addition, the Bell System developed and produced low altitude radar bombsights used extensively by the Army and Navy in attacking enemy shipping.

Western Electric Company's yearly output of radars reached a record high of 22,000 in 1944. These units, together with components, spare parts and test equipment, were furnished at a value of $340,000,000—an amount equal to almost a million dollars for each day of the year. This record was greatly exceeded during the first six months of 1945, when Western Electric turned out 19,800 radars.

Because of urgent requirements of the Armed Forces the Bell Laboratories in 1944 was at work on 81 different types of radar systems and Western Electric produced 44 different types, of which 20 were new in production that year.

The brains that developed and produced radar so effectively for war are now at work for peace.

"Walkie-Talkie" Ideas In New Hearing Aid

A new kind of hearing aid, using inventions made during the war, is now helping hundreds to hear. Its main features are peanut-size tubes and tiny, powerful batteries first used in walkie-talkies, radar and other war instruments. This new aid fits in the palm ot your hand. It needs no battery pack, battery case or awkward, bulging harness for you to wear. The tone is brilliantly clear, strong and true . . and the cost of upkeep is amazingly small. You can get a free booklet that tells about this new invention by writing Microtone Sales Co., 902 Marquette Ave., Minneapolis, 2, Minn. Hanson-Lindberg

Nazareth Lutheran church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Friday evening, Nov. 8th. at 7:30 when Miss Dorothy Mae Hanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hanson, became the bride of Mr. L. Curtis Lindberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Lindberg of Karlstad.

Rev. E. O. Urness performed the double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with holly and hollyberries sent from Portland, Oregon, by the bride's aunt, Mrs. E. W. Therkildsen. The tall lighted tapers reflected the solemnity of the occasion.

The "Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin" and Mendelssohn's Wedding March were used for the processional and recessional, played by Miss Eileen Arnold of Concordia College, Moorhead. Miss Eileen Lindberg, accompanied by Mrs. Dane Nordine, sisters of the groom, sang "Because" They wore blue and rose brocaded satin gowns. Miss Sylvia Borchert of Thief River Falls sang "The Lord's Prayer" while the bride and groom were kneeling at the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's gown was of white slipper satin, made with a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves gathered at the wrist, fitted bodice and a full entrained sktrt. Her lace trimmed veil, held in place by a crown, was fingertip length. Her only jewelry was a double strand pearl necklace, a gift from the groom. She carried a white bible with streamers and topped with roses. "Something old, something blue" was a hand kerchief grandmother Hanson carried on her wedding day.

Mrs. Torrance Lillevold, sister of the bride was matron of honor and wore a peach chiffon gown carrying a bouquet of talisman roses and pompoms. The pearl necklace she wore was a gift grom the bride.

Bridesmaids were: Miss Crystal Lindberg, sister of the groom and Miss Clara Hestad of Halstad, society sister of the bride. They wore rose and blue gowns respectively, short veils and corsages of tearoses and pompoms. Their earings were gifts of the bride.

Flower girls, throwing petals from white baskets and wearing floor length pink satin gowns, were Joan and Dianna Reed, little cousins of the bride. Larry Hams and Gary Dean Lillevold second cousin and nephew of the bride were ringbearers.

Mr. Torrance Lillevold was best man. Ushers were Mr. Dane Nordine, brother-in-law of the groom and Howard Horien, cousin of the bride. They all wore white carnation buttonaires and were favored with gifts from the groom.

The mothers both wore an American Beauty rose corsage.

Miss Dorothy Gunderson of Concordia College and Miss Iris Larson were candlelighters and waitresses. The wore white and blue formal gowns.

A reception was held in the church parlors. About 100 guests were present. Gracing the table was a four tiered white wedding cake brought by the bride's uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hansen. Serving were Mrs. V. E. Johnson, Mrs. Hj. Johnson, Mrs. Theo. Ness and Mrs. Iver Larson. Mrs. Leo Horied poured. Between courses a program was given consisting of several impromptu speeches and the following vocal solos: "Bless This House". Mrs. Torrance Lillevold; "O, Perfect Love" Miss Borchert and "Always", Miss Lindberg. Miss Arnold played several piano selections.

Guests from a distance included Mr. and Mrs. H. Lindberg and daughters Eileen and Crystal; Mr. and Mrs. O. Nordine, Mr. and Mrs. Dane Nordine, Mr. and Mrs. Odin Blexrud, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Olson and Mrs. Mary Hams of Karlstad; Mrs. L. Hams and Larry Hams and Oscar Hagglund of International Falls; Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Hagglund of St. Hilaire; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hanson and Clara Hestad of Minneapolis; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Olson of Forest River, N. D.; Mr. and Mrs. Denny De Maranville and Mr. and Mrs. Hj. Stokke of Newfolden; Mrs. Rodney Smith of Badger; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Karvonen of Grafton, N. D..

For going away the bride wore a brown gaberdine suit matching the grooms suit and a leopard cloth coat with brown accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Lindberg are former students at Concordia College, Moorhead, where the bride was a member of Sigma Lambda Delta society and the groom with Delta Rho. Mr. Lindberg is a graduate from the University of Minnesota mechanical engineering school. He is now an instructor in mathematics and science in Cavalier, N. D. high school where they will make their home. He served four years in the U. S. Navy and attained the rank of ensign They spent a few days honeymoon at Royal Alexandria hotel in Winnepeg.

They start married life with all the best wishes of the community.

Rail Quiz

What were the first locomotives placed in service on the American railroads?

The first locomotive placed in regular service on any American railroad was the "Best Friend of Charleston," on the South Carolina Railroad (now the Southern) at Charleston, S. C., December 25, 1830.

The second, the "West Point," was placed in service on the South Carolina Railroad July 15, 1831.

The "DeWitt Clinton," first locomotive in New York state, made its initial run on the Mohawk & Hudson Railroad (now part of the New York Central) from Albany to Schenectady, August 9, 1831.

The "York" was tried out on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad July 12, 1831, and went into service at Baltimore shortly thereafter.

The "John Bull," built in England, was delivered to the Camden & Amboy Railroad (now a part of the Pennsylvania) August 31, 1831, and was placed in regular service at Bordentown, N. J., November 12, 1831.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

How to Handle a Fortune

Some months ago I reported in the Clarion how Mel Bate's uncle died up north, and left him with a tidy fortune.

Naturally, our town was curious to see how Mel would spend it: Traveling around the world . . . getting a new house or car . . . wearing fancy clothes . . . or dining on cold pheasant and champagne . . .?

We can now report, Mel hasn't changed a bit! Drop in on him any night, and you'll find him in his shirt sleeves by the fire, chatting with the Missus, sharing a mellow glass of beer with friends.

From where I sit, Mel has learned the art of handling money—as well as handling people. You don't let cash-in-the-bank push you around any more than you let people push you around. If you like the simple, homey life; companionship and quiet ways; a glass of beer and friendly talk—that's worth a fortune, after all!

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

British to Adopt U.S. Arms; U.S. Agrees to Disarmament; Scotch World Food Proposal

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Pickets at Allis-Chalmers plant at Milwaukee, Wis., tip over workers' car as deputy sheriffs attempt to check act. (See LABOR.)

BRITISH ARMS:

Adopt U. S. Pattern

Close U. S. and British relations, first fostered toward the turn of the last century with the recognition of British naval strength in the Atlantic as a defensive bulwark, have been knitted even more firmly with Britain's decision to adopt American patterns for land, air and naval weapons.

Back of the move was the growing political unanimity of the two countries, already intimately bound by close racial, social and economic ties. Together they stand for a way of life spread over the width of the globe by British enterprise and now supported by U. S. diplomatic and military might.

Practically, standardization of U. S. and British weapons will permit the British to purchase arms in this country in case of a future emergency without the need for redesigning American productive facilities. At the same time, it will allow for the manufacture of American type weapons in such British outposts as Australia and New Zealand, where the U. S. will have ready sources of supply for Pacific operations.

Ten years may be required to complete the conversion of British arms to American standards, with rifles, cartridges, mortars, artillery and naval guns undergoing change.

U. N.:

In Accord

The U. S. and Russia came off all even in their first swap at the United Nations assembly in New York. If anything, the U. S. got the better of the exchange as Delegate Warren R. Austin of Vermont conducted himself with a gentlemanly reserve that contrasted with Foreign Minister Molotov's vitriol.

Warren R. Austin

Molotov was the first to speak, calling for international disarmament, a report on the number of allied troops in non-enemy states, retention of the veto power of the Big Five in the security council. He bitterly attacked U. S. and British imperialists, headed by Winston Churchill, for seeking world domination.

Ignoring Molotov's political charges, Austin entered into a discussion of the proposals raised by the Russian:

If the Russians wanted international disarmament, the U. S. would gladly oblige, provided an adequate system of inspection and other safeguards would be established to guarantee fulfillment of the program. After the last war, Austin recalled, the U. S. accepted the principle of disarmament but remained alone in carrying it out.

If the Russians desired a report on the number of Allied troops in non-enemy states, the U. S. suggested that the check be extended to former enemy countries as well. (Such an all conclusive report would provide the world with an adequate estimate of Russian troop strength behind the iron curtain, said by Churchill to total 200 divisions.)

If the Russians opposed a modification of the veto power at this time, the U. S. also was against revision of the U. N. charter. However, the U. S. hoped that the Big Five could get together in the future to modify the veto in the case of peaceful settlement of disputes, although retaining it on the question of applying force.

FAO:

U. S. Backs Down

Having heartily endorsed a plan of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization at Copenhagen, Denmark, for distribution of food to needy countries at bargain prices, the U. S. repudiated its position as an FAO commission met in Washington, D. C., to work out details of the project.

Under the plan, FAO would have purchased food from surplus producing countries out of a revolving fund contributed by member nations. When the world price for food would have gone above a predetermined level, then FAO would have sold its reserves to needy buyers at the lower figure.

In rejecting the plan, Undersecretary of Agriculture Norris E. Dodd expressed doubt that FAO could achieve its objective under present conditions. Instead, Dodd suggested that the problem of future farm surpluses and marketings could best be solved through a system of international commodity arrangements.

LABOR:

Militant

Police were hard put to maintain order at the Allis-Chalmers tractor plant at Milwaukee, Wis., as striking pickets of the CIO-United Automobile Workers bucked a back to work movement of over 3,000 employees. As violence mounted, the number of returning workers was cut in half.

As militant pickets turned over cars attempting to enter the plant, clashed with returning workers and hurled stones at company windows, county and suburban police were compelled to appeal to Milwaukee authorities for reenforcements. Over 200 of Milwaukee's finest were sent to the plant, but even so the enlarged police detail encountered difficulty holding the strikers in check.

Allis-Chalmers remained adamant against granting UAW a closed shop as the strike entered its seventh month. While agreeing to check off union dues with workers' permission, the company stood out against compromise on compelling employees to join the UAW.

WORLD TRADE:

Hit British Pact

The U. S. state and treasury departments joined in objecting to the recently concluded British-Argentine trade pact, with American officials feeling that provisions of the treaty violated promises Britain made in obtaining a 3.75 billion dollar loan from this country.

State department objections centered around Britain's agreement to purchase 83 per cent of Argentine beef the first year and 78 per cent annually thereafter. Officials declared that such provisions as incorporated in trade pacts with Canada, New Zealand and Australia as well as Argentina tended to restrict world trade as advocated by the U. S.

The treasury protested against the clause restricting Argentina's use of blocked sterling balances in world trade. Blocked sterling balances represent the credits owing Argentina for goods and services provided Britain during the war. Britain agreed to release some of Argentina's sterling balances for use in world trade only if she buys more from the United Kingdom and associated countries than she sells them.

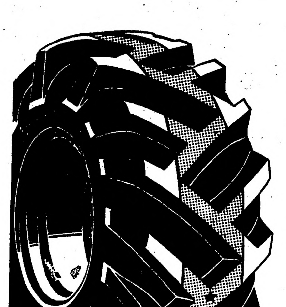
Firestone
FACTORY-METHOD RETREADING Gives Your Worn Tractor Tires NEW PULLING POWER



FOR much less than the cost of new tires, you can have your worn tractor tires retreaded with the sharp, deep-cutting Firestone Ground Grip tread design. This patented tread will increase the drawbar pull of your tractor by as much as 16%. Retread rubber is of the same long-lasting quality used in new Firestone tires.

Firestone Factory-Method Retreading takes only a few days. Loaners or exchange tires are available at your nearby Firestone Dealer Store or Firestone Store. Ask for their low-cost Firestone Factory-Method Retread service. Give your worn tires the pulling power of new Firestone Ground Grips . . . the only tractor tires that take a "center bite" in the heart of the traction zone . . . and give your tractor up to 16% more pull at the drawbar.

The Army Ground Forces offers you A NEW LIFE OUT THERE

Look toward Korea and Japan! A thrilling new job and a new life—with interesting work, sports, entertainment and travel opportunities—can be had for the asking by qualified young men who volunteer for the 1st Cavalry, 11th Airborne, 6th, 7th, 24th or 25th Infantry Divisions.

What an opportunity . . . what a job! Training in one of these crack units will stand you in good stead wherever you go. Study a foreign language. Learn the fascinating details of Military Government—so vital to future peace and prosperity.

Japan's "Isles of Pines" are but a sample of the attractions of an Army career in the Far East. The Army has reopened comfortable hotels, theaters, swimming pools, tennis clubs, golf courses, ball parks. These—familiar haunts of pre-war tourists—and many new developments—provide a broad choice of recreation.

Not everyone can measure up to this job. Only 3-year enlistees who meet prescribed physical and mental standards can enjoy the benefits of such a job. High overseas pay, good food and lodging and a generous retirement plan make your future in the Army Ground Forces too good to miss! See your nearest Army Recruiting Officer for full details.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Radicalism

Undoubtedly Karl Marx, father of Communism, had a noble purpose. He aimed to relieve the world's oppressed people, to correct injustices and get rid of poverty. That would be fine. There is absolutely nothing wrong with a platform that flatly favors what's right and opposes what's wrong. The next step is getting everybody to agree on what's right and what's wrong.

Followers of the profound Marx didn't all see eye-to-eye with him after he left first-base. He was obliged to "run out" on the First Internationale and disband it because it was being used by a gang of ruffians, more bent on wrecking what was in sight than on building a new social order according to a noble plan. The leader and his followers were not of the same calibre.

They Misunderstood

Setting out to make a big reform that required changing the motives of a large number of people, Marx recruited many followers without changing their motives. It was ironic. There is a story of a good mayor who campaigned so vigorously to get better railroad service for his city that his political followers went radical, derailed the fast train and robbed the mail car.

The story is probably fictitious but it illustrates aptly how selfish intentions can be mustered under the banner of holy and lofty aims. Already this year, news wires have carried a story about leaders in the Communist movement addressing large audiences of working men and "whooping it up" for strikes, more strikes and bigger strikes; that is, for panic.

A Political Disease

It is not that Labor, considered broadly, is destructive in character or shot through with Communistic ideas. It's not true. It is true however that working people are numerous and therefore a powerful segment of American society. People who want to overthrow the only system on earth that gives a working man a chance are very wise to ask the workers' help. It can't be done without them.

Communism has failed exactly as often as it has been tried, and Karl Marx has been dead more than sixty years. This doctrine of "tear down in haste and rebuild at leisure" has been tried on American soil. Time after time, each experiment at having everything in common, comes down of its own poison and dies or relapses into a dictatorship. Communism is a political disease.

A Social Epidemic

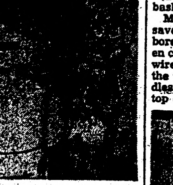
Russia is called a Communistic nation but it is far from it. The government set out in that direction once, broke down property lines, degraded the family to baudy level, overthrew the church, rejected God and bogged down in abject poverty. Now it is being run by a minority party, made up of some 3% of the citizens, and nobody else can even vote. A sorry situation they have.

Under a dictatorship Russia is doing a little better than it did under Communism but still is nothing to brag about. Russian wages are not more than a third as high as those in America. If the average Russian farmer should visit the average American farmer he would think he was in a king's palace. There is a cure for this plague and next week I'll write about that.

Here's How to Banish Washday Stooping

IT IS the stooping, bending and toting that make washday tiring, Dorothy Holladay points out in nationally circulated Capper's Farmer.

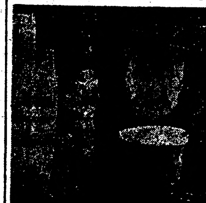
Among many homemakers who have changed their washday habits to eliminate fatiguing motions, she cites Mrs. Carl Frey of Iroquois county, Ill., in the magazine read by 1,250,000 farm families. Mrs. Frey says that time and energy saving methods make washing easier, beside saving an hour each washday. Here are some of the tips she gives other housewives:



The washing machine should be high enough for ease in working. Mrs. Frey has elevated hers by putting bricks under the legs. A wooden platform built to fit would serve the additional purpose of insulating the washing machine.

Sorting clothes on the floor requires constant stooping. Mrs. Frey separates clothing into several baskets set on wooden crates. Laundry can also be sorted on a table or counter or from the table to several baskets placed on chairs.

Mrs. Frey's sliding clothes-basket saves time and bending. Holes were bored in each end of a sturdy wooden clothes hanger. From these holes wires are fastened. At the end of the wires are hooks to hold the handles of an ordinary basket. The top of the basket is then waist-high.



A clothespin apron snaps over the hanger. The hanger hook slides along the clothesline as she pushes the contrivance ahead of her.

NEW PRODUCTS CREATE NEW MARKETS
Diversification Ups the Dairy Farmers' Income

When Land O'Lakes was first organized in 1921, it devoted its entire cooperative effort to the marketing of butter. Since then, the Land O'Lakes label of top quality has appeared on more and more dairy products—powdered milk, a wide variety of natural and processed cheeses, fresh eggs, poultry, turkeys and evaporated milk.

The family of Land O'Lakes products has grown rapidly to tremendous proportions, providing dairy farmers with additional outlets and markets for their productive efforts.

Pioneering by Land O'Lakes continues to blaze the trail towards new opportunities. Cooperative marketing has already proved its value as a powerful factor in securing for the farmer extra returns for quality, and in stimulating greater consumer demand for top-quality dairy products. It will pay you to investigate all the advantages of marketing through Land O'Lakes.

"Walkie-Talkie" Ideas In New Hearing Aid

A new kind of hearing aid, using inventions made during the war, is now helping hundreds to hear. Its main features are peanut-size tubes and tiny, powerful batteries first used in walkie-talkies, radar and other war instruments. This new aid fits in the palm of your hand. It needs no battery pack, battery case or awkward, bulging harness for you to wear. The tone is brilliantly clear, strong and true . . and the cost of upkeep is amazingly small. You can get a free booklet that tells about this new invention by writing Microtone Sales Co., 902 Marquette Ave., Minneapolis, 2, Minn. They will also explain how you can get a thrilling demonstration of this instrument in your own home without any obligation at all. Write them today.

Some months ago I reported in the Clarion how Mel Bate's uncle died up north, and left him with a tidy fortune.

Naturally, our town was curious to see how Mel would spend it: Traveling around the world . . . getting a new house or car . . . wearing fancy clothes . . . or dining on cold pheasant and champagne . . .?

We can now report, Mel hasn't changed a bit! Drop in on him any night, and you'll find him in his shirt sleeves by the fire, chatting with the Missus, sharing a mellow glass of beer with friends.

From where I sit, Mel has learned the art of handling money—as well as handling people. You don't let cash-in-the-bank push you around any more than you let people push you around. If you like the simple, homey life; companionship and quiet ways; a glass of beer and friendly talk—that's worth a fortune, after all!

——WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS——

Tax Cut Tops GOP Legislative Program; States Vote Labor Curbs; Foreign Trade at Peak

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Almost a year and a half after the end of the conflict, Germans continue to feel the tragic effects of the war. Carrying all their earthly possessions with them, these Germans return to battered homeland from Denmark, whence they fled before allied armies.

CONGRESS:

Act Fast

Hardly had the election din attending the Republican landslide subsided than Rep. Harold Knutson (Rep., Minn.) revealed that he would move for a 20 per cent cut in personal income taxes as soon as the 80th congress assembles January 5.

In addition, Knutson said that the ways and means committee, which he is scheduled to head as the ranking majority member, will open hearings sometime in February to pare or eliminate excise taxes on a long list of consumer goods, including jewelry, furs, cosmetics and liquors.

Republican intentions to slash taxes ran counter to President Truman's position to maintain high levies to balance next year's budget estimated at 40 billion dollars. By lopping off unnecessary expenditures and trimming the payroll, Knutson said, the GOP hopes to scale down the budget to 32 billion dollars, thus permitting the tax reduction and allowing for a substantial retirement of the national debt of 262 billion dollars at the same time.

More to Do

Reduction in taxation was only one of the many issues facing the new GOP congress.

Briefly, others included terminating the President's wartime powers to restrict government by executive decree; widening management's rights under the national labor relations act and providing for impartial administration of the law; hastening abolition of controls to restore free enterprise, and formulation of a farm program adjusted to postwar conditions.

In the field of foreign affairs, Republicans were expected to adhere to the current bi-partisan policy mapped by the administration with the help of Senator Vandenberg (Rep., Mich.) as representative of the GOP congressional bloc.

Minority Leader Martin of Massachusetts was scheduled to take over speakership of the house, with Senator Vandenberg of Michigan becoming president pro tem of the upper house and Senator Taft of Ohio, majority leader.

Seek Unity

As the Republican avalanche set up a Republican congress during a Democratic administration, liberal Democratic leaders called upon President Truman to resign in favor of a GOP nominee to assure harmony in the forthcoming session.

Remembering the unhappy results of previous divisions of legislative and executive power between the two parties, when solution of pressing problems gave way to indecisive bickering and both sides maneuvered for political advantage, Senator Fulbright (Dem., Ark.) was the first to call upon Mr. Truman to give way to a GOP nominee. He said he intended to introduce a constitutional amendment which would permit congress to authorize a presidential election if the two parties divided legislative and executive control.

Marshall Field, crusading New Deal publisher, joined Fulbright in asking President Truman to step down. By turning the job over to the GOP, Field said, the Republicans would be charged with full responsibility for development of a national program, and the issues in the 1948 election would be clear cut.

LIVESTOCK:

During the fiscal year 1946, some 25,972 breeding animals of all classes were admitted to the United States from countries abroad, the department of agriculture reported. Horses admitted from foreign countries totaled 116; cattle, 21,482; sheep, 3,062; swine, 647; and dogs, 665. This was an increase of 3,000 animals over 1945, with cattle, mostly dairy breeds, increasing the greatest.

CANNED GOODS:

Big Packs

Housewives can look to appreciable supplies of canned fruits and vegetables through the coming year as a result of heavy packs in 1946, trade spokesmen attending the ninth annual convention of the Super-market institute in Chicago declared.

Over 190 million cases of canned vegetables will be produced this year compared with 163 million last year, it was predicted. The canned fruit pack will total 75 million cases compared with 40 million in 1945.

Despite adequate supplies of frozen foods, distribution has been hampered by a lack of warehousing space, a large carryover from last year and a shortage of refrigerator cars equipped for low temperatures, it was said.

Vote Labor Regulation

Four states, including a heavy industrial region, reflected popular sentiment for regulatory labor legislation in the face of the growing strength of unions in the economic pattern of the country.

By heavy majority votes, Nebraska and South Dakota adopted constitutional amendments banning the closed shop, which requires all employees of a shop to join the prevailing union. Arizona passed the same law but by a closer vote.

Despite the dominant position of labor in industrial Massachusetts, the electorate voted to require unions to make public their financial records, with 406,827 for and 227,307 against. In all cases, organized labor fought the amendments.

FOREIGN TRADE:

Near Peak

Spurred by U. S. loans, foreign countries, seeking material for reconstruction of war ravaged economies or fulfilling pent-up demand of war scarce goods, promise to buy more from Uncle Sam in 1946 than in the banner export years of 1919 and 1920.

With practically all areas of the world sharing in our expanded overseas trade, commercial exports have been running two to three times above the volume of the late '30's. Of total exports of approximately 8 billion dollars, U. S. loans probably will finance 35 per cent or 2.8 billion dollars.

Indicative of the heavy overseas business, Canada is buying almost 200 per cent more than before the war; Latin American countries 300 per cent more; continental European nations, 150 per cent more; and the United Kingdom, 50 per cent more.

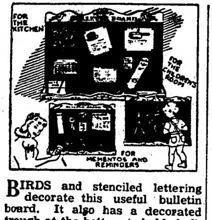
Find Real Shell Shock

Real "shell shock"—a relatively rare condition—has been found by army medical officers. It is a mental and physical condition due to the effect of blast on the brain.

In World War I, practically every neuropsychiatric case resulting from combat was labeled "shell shock" until it was discovered that many such cases had never been within miles of an exploding shell.

Decorated Bulletin Board of Plywood Has Many Practical Uses in Home

By Ruth Wyeth Spears



BIRDS and stenciled lettering decorate this useful bulletin board. It also has a decorated trough at the bottom to hold chalk and thumbtacks for you can write on it as well as use it for pin-ups. It has many practical uses that will make the household run more smoothly.

It is made from a piece of plywood painted with a special black mixture that you can prepare easily from the formula given on the pattern. The decorative piece at the top and trough may be cut out with a hand coping saw or a jig saw.

Pattern 267 gives complete directions for making with actual-size cutting guides for all shaped pieces. Stencil designs and color guide are included. The stencils for the quaint Dutch birds and hearts may be used over and over in decorating many different articles. To get this pattern, send 15 cents with name and address direct to

Kidneys Must Work Well-
For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Wonderful
No Cooking. So Easy. Saves Dollars.

To get the most surprising relief from coughs due to colds, you can easily prepare a medicine, right in your own kitchen. It's very easy—a child could do it—needs no cooking, and tastes so good that children take it willingly. But you'll say it's hard to beat for quick results.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a pint bottle. Fill up with your syrup. This gives you a full pint of really splendid cough syrup—about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and lasts a long time.

And it gives quick relief. It acts in three ways—loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

LOOKING AHEAD
by GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College Searcy, Arkansas

Strike Out

This entire nation has to look to its big industrial plants for prosperity. If the big factories keep going, workers have jobs, farmers have markets for what they raise, and the rest of us get along well enough. When the factories start shutting down (for any reason at all) thoughtful people begin to worry and they have good reason for their uneasiness.

Work stoppages are always bad news. Farmers hate to read about strikes because farms can prosper only when industrial workers are happy with their jobs and setting good tables. Farmers take sides in labor squabbles less than most city people think. Without much prejudice they wish mainly that whoever is on the wrong side of the argument will get right so business can go ahead.

Strikes Don't Last

Not many weeks ago, when a world-famous strike ended, I overheard a stranger say, "Strikes just can't go on forever. Finally men have to go back to work, whether they get all they struck for or not." The only trouble with this philosophy is that it's not so. The fearful truth is that somebody might some day call a "third strike" . . . one that might be called a strike out.

Every big industrial concern is in league with two different kinds of people—both classes out for money, but in different ways. One group is its employees, the others its stockholders. Both alliances are necessary. There's no use wondering which is most important because it is not possible for an industrial organization to get along unless it has both. They are mutually essential.

Many Similarities

It is safe to consider these two groups about the same size. Numerically, the country over, one crowd is about as big as the other. Individual companies differ; some have more employees than stockholders, others have more investors than workers. In 1940, the General Motors Corp. had nearly twice as many investors as employees and several other big concerns were situated the same way.

There is some overlap. In certain corporations, quite a few employees are stockholders too. They call themselves employees however, because their wages usually amount to more than their dividends. Payrolls have been running 10 to 20 times dividends for years. Generally, a company's stockholders and its employees are two entirely different crowds, and the firm can't get along without either.

Both Independent

One point of most striking similarity between investors and employees is that they both are independent. Either crowd is free to walk right out and leave a company. Either bunch might strike a firm dead with that very weapon. Usually it is the workers who quit because they are organized. Likewise, being organized, they can arrange to return to their jobs before it is too late.

Investors are not organized and accordingly move more slowly. They won't strike; there's nobody to call a strike. But if strikes of employees kill the profit for investors and dividends quit coming entirely, investors will finally quit. They will quit one at a time and nobody will tell them to return to work. The final strike of employees that drives stockholders to quit, that's the strike that will be called "out."

AS AMERICAN

as a Football Game

The crack of a boot against the pigskin—the thud of powerful bodies—and, all of a sudden, a player is around and out of the tangle and thundering down the field toward the goal line. There's a mighty roar to urge him on as the crowd rises to its feet! And then he's across the goal line.

It's a great game—football—an American game! For Americans love skill and sportsmanship, energy and a sense of freedom, hearty, healthy living wherever they find it.

To every American—a glass of beer writes a pleasant period to any hard day's work. The right to enjoy this sociable drink of moderation and good sense is part of our American heritage.

NEW PRODUCTS CREATE NEW MARKETS
Diversification Ups the Dairy Farmers' Income

When Land O'Lakes was first organized in 1921, it devoted its entire cooperative effort to the marketing of butter. Since then, the Land O'Lakes label of top quality has appeared on more and more dairy products—powdered milk, a wide variety of natural and processed cheeses, fresh eggs, poultry, turkeys and evaporated milk.

The family of Land O'Lakes products has grown rapidly to tremendous proportions, providing dairy farmers with additional outlets and markets for their productive efforts.

Pioneering by Land O'Lakes continues to blaze the trail towards new opportunities. Cooperative marketing has already proved its value as a powerful factor in securing for the farmer extra returns for quality, and in stimulating greater consumer demand for top-quality dairy products. It will pay you to investigate all the advantages of marketing through Land O'Lakes.

Washington Has Heavy Snow

2607 So. 53rd St.
Tacoma, 9, Wash.
Nov. 21, 1946

Dear Hans:

I will write a few lines and let you know we enjoy reading the Holt Weekly News and am sending you a check for the subscription.

Well, Hans, we have real Minnesota weather here now. It started raining Sunday and that night it started to snow and by Tuesday morning it had snowed 16½ inches. It melts some during the day but still is enough for sleighing. The busses have a bad time of it and those that have to go up the hills have to be rerouted because of slippery streets. We have not had school yesterterday or today and Vernon is enjoying himself making snowmen and snowballs. I have not worked as we were told not to come to work until the roads got better.

I am still working at Fort Lewis Army Camp. I have a very good job in the carpenter shop My pay is $1.42 an hour. I don't know how long I will be there as some of the men who have been there much longer than I have, have now been laid off. However we are laid off according to our efficiency rating and mine is "very good" so I am proud of that. My work consists of door repairing, putting in new panels and other repairs. I also make new doors. We have very good power machinery, such as planers, joiners, band saws, sanders, shapers and drill presses. So much for that.

I see by your paper that Dorothy is married, Give them our congratulations and surely would have liked to have been at their wedding. Children grow up fast It doesn't seem so long since she was a little girl.

Greetings to you all from us,
Joseph G. Nelson.

Dates Set For Trapping

Trapping seasons for muskrat and beaver were announced by Frank D, Blaire, state game and fish director.

The muskrat season opens at noon. December 1 and closes at noon on December 16, with trapping from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. except for the noon opening and closing. All the state, except state parks, game refuges and public shooting grounds, will be open for muskrat trapping.

Muskrats may be trapped in houses or runways if openings are properly plugged by replacing all materials removed.

The beaver season will be open at noon Dec. 10, with trapping permitted each day of the season from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. except for the noon opening and closing day.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh
A Lesson In Conservation

We were sitting on Bill Webster's porch the other night, chatting over a glass of beer—when the talk turns to forest preservation, soil erosion, and other things that affect a farming community.

Judge Cunningham speaks up: "It's all right to worry about conserving our natural resources," he says, "but there's a far bigger problem when it comes to conservation—and that's preserving our democratic way of life, our sense of personal freedom, our respect for one another's rights."

From where I sit, the Judge is right. All America's great resources, our abundant natural wealth, are lost the minute we lose the right to work them as free people in a free land!

Whenever you see or hear of an encroachment on our rights—whether it's the right to free speech, or the right to vote as we see fit, or the right to enjoy a friendly glass of beer in licensed, law-abiding places . . . watch out!

These girls were among the more than 97 per cent of the school population shown to be free of tuberculosis infection in a recent survey. Ten years ago, when the Christmas Seal tuberculin testing program was started, one of every four students in Albert Lea was a positive reactor, indicating that they had been exposed to tuberculosis and had the germs in their bodies.

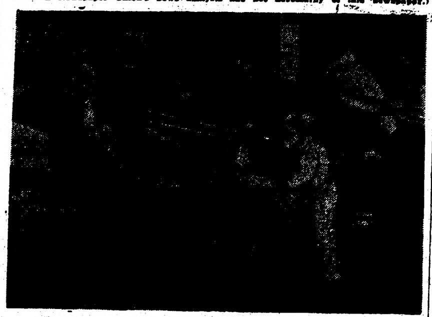
WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Corn Belt Fills Feed Lots; British Push Nationalization; Hike Prices to Offset Costs

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



With heavy snow drifts preventing feed wagons from reaching marooned cattle on Colorado ranges, airplanes dropped hay to animals. Picture shows feed being loaded in aircraft for mercy flight.

CORN BELT:
Fatten Cattle

With corn belt cattle feeders filling their feedlots at a record rate, consumers can look forward to plentiful supplies of prime beef by next spring and summer, the department of agriculture declared. Purchases of beeves from western grass lands for fattening in October were the highest for that month and topped the 1945 figure by 14 per cent.

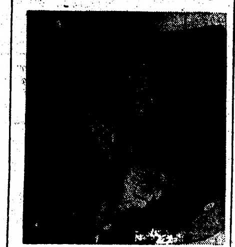
Large feed supplies resulting from the banner 1946 harvests have spurred the heavy feeding operations, department specialists said. If present corn and livestock price differentials persist, feeders could double the value of their grain by fattening cattle.

The re-establishment of a free market also has contributed to an increase in feeding activities, it was said. With ceilings off, finished beef will command a price commensurate with its quality and assure feeders of a profitable return on costly feedlot operations.

HIGH JUMP:
Important Operation

Amid rumors that other nations were preparing expeditions to search for reported uranium deposits around the south pole, the U. S. announced that Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd would lead a navy contingent to Antarctica in December on a scientific study.

While Byrd's force will make exhaustive geological surveys in the polar wasteland to uncover any uranium, the famed explorer declared that his band also would undertake intensive studies of geographical, meteorological and electro-magnetic conditions. Weather developing in Antarctica affects all parts of the world.



Admiral Byrd plans High Jump to Antarctica.

Four thousand men, 12 ships and at least a score of aircraft will compose Byrd's operation High Jump, as the expedition will be known. No part of the task force will be kept in the region during the Antarctic winter but Byrd will establish a small base capable of supporting a small party for 18 months in the event of national need.

BRITAIN:
Labor Program

Great Britain's Labor government served notice that it will press ahead with its socialistic program as parliament assembled amid a colorful medieval setting in London.

Indicative of their cautious approach to socialization, the Laborites announced that nationalization of only the inland transport and power industries was planned for the current session. By going slowly, the Laborites hope to transform essential segments of the economy without disruptive effects and at the same time arrive at a fair and sound financial agreement with private owners.

The Laborites also disclosed their intentions to regulate the delicate postwar British economy to prevent serious dislocations. Securities exchanges are to be controlled; the free cotton market will remain suspended, and the government will work for guaranteed prices and markets for principal farm products.

STATES:

Forty-three states currently are returning to their municipalities nearly 400 million dollars a year in state-collected tax revenues according to American Municipal association. This sum does not include other multi-millions in state tax aid to local schools.

City officials in many states, meanwhile, are backing new proposals aimed at getting for localities still greater shares of state-collected taxes.

DECONTROL:
Prices Rising

Price rises all along the line accompanied decontrol of the nation's economy, with producers hiking items for full coverage of higher wages and material costs and promising lower prices when output reached volume proportions.

Biggest manufacturer in the industry, International Harvester boosted prices of farm implements and tractors 9 per cent to offset wage increases amounting to 60 per cent since 1941 and higher material costs. Declaring its intention of keeping prices at a minimum, the company stated that it based its increases on present costs and did not anticipate future higher operating expenses.

Zenith Radio corporation announced an increase of from 2 to 20 per cent on radios and radio - phonograph combinations.

Leading shoe manufacturers expected a 10 per cent rise in all standard lines as a result of the increase in the cost of hides from 15½ cents a pound to 30 cents.

Previously, General Motors and Crosley had boosted the price of passenger cars by $100 and industry spokesmen predicted increases in some steel items, building materials, clothing, batteries and lumber.

Long held within rigid ceilings despite mounting janitorial and maintenance expenses, landlords petitioned for a 15 per cent boost in rentals. An estimated 16 million housing units have been under rental control in addition to hotels, rooming houses and tourist camps.

WEST:
Snow-Bound

Approximately 15 people died and cattle losses were counted in the hundreds as Colorado was hit by the worst snowstorm in 33 years. At the same time, deep snow piled up in southern California's mountain regions and rain and wind lashed the sea coast.

C-47 twin-engine army cargo planes, ski-equipped ships, weapon carriers, bulldozers and tractors were put into use in Colorado to reach snow-bound ranches and feed thousands of shivering and hungry cattle hemmed in by tall drifts. On one ranch alone, bales of hay were dropped from the air to 10,000 head of cattle standing stiff-legged in three feet of snow.

As rescue planes winged over the area, marooned ranchers were advised to make one cross visible from the air if they needed food, two if they required medical help. Supplies intended for overseas shipment were diverted from the Pueblo, Colo., ordnance depot to meet the emergency needs.

Teen-Agers at Work

Teen-age employment has continued at a high level since the war ended, according to the annual report of the National Child Labor committee issued by Mrs. Gertrude Folks Zimand, general secretary.

Estimates based on employment certificate and other figures indicate that approximately two million young people 14 to 18 still are employed.

U. N.:
Trustees' Terms

Proposals for United Nations trusteeships over strategic territories or dependent peoples ran into rough sailing at U. N. deliberations at Lake Success, N. Y., with holding powers reluctant to relinquish their control.

The take-it-or-leave-it basis of the proposals was pointed up by the Union of South Africa's determination to annex or retain control of Southwest Africa in defiance of Soviet Russia's demand that the territory be placed under the U. N. Citing article 77 of the U. N. charter, Union representatives said that trusteeships were to be instituted only through agreement with affected parties.

With no territories of her own to surrender to U. N. control despite extensive land grabs in Europe in World War II, Russia has hollered the loudest for an effective trusteeship system. Compromising differences between the services and state department, President Truman submitted a proposal for nominal U. N. supervision over strategic Pacific islands, with the U. S. maintaining absolute military control.

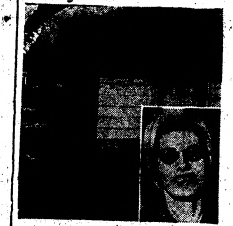
PANAMA CANAL:
Study Alteration

Working under a special congressional grant, top meteorologists and hydrodynamic, dredge and excavation engineers are busily engaged in studying the alteration of the existing Panama canal or construction of a new waterway to accommodate heavier modern traffic and decrease vulnerability to atomic warfare.

Erected at the turn of the century, the canal's narrow channel and locks are too small for the latest warships and merchant vessels. Water storage capacity of Gatun lake reservoir will be insufficient to handle prospective traffic by 1960 or a diversion of traffic from Suez canal in event that vital artery is closed by war.

To meet modern needs engineers are considering increasing size of reservoirs, lengthening locks from 1,000 to 1,500 feet and widening them from 110 to 200 feet. Against these plans, some technicians argue that it would be better to build a new canal with fewer curves and wider turns. However, it would be necessary to clear the bordering jungle, install sanitary facilities, and erect dock and administrative installations.

House That Theft Built



William and Christina Leonard (inset) of Portland, Ore., solved their housing problem, but at other people's expense. Held by police, the pair were alleged to have confessed that they built a three-room house of stolen timber, cement and shingles, and furnished it with plumbing and electrical equipment, radios, typewriters and other articles valued at $10,000. To assure her warmth, no doubt, Mrs. Leonard was said to have included a $1,200 mink coat in the loot.

COTTON:
Ponder Curb

With the recent break in the cotton market fresh in their minds, department of agriculture officials moved to limit speculative trading in cotton futures on the New York, New Orleans and Chicago exchanges.

Agriculture Secretary Anderson announced that he would ask the Commodity Exchange commission to restrict daily speculation or holdings to 30,000 bales for all futures instead of the present limit of 30,000 bales for any one future.

The department acted as its crop reporting board predicted a 1946 crop of 8,487,000 bales, 525,000 bales less than last year. Although the new crop is expected to fall below both domestic and foreign demands, it will be supplemented by substantial carryovers from previous years.

Meanwhile, with cotton futures down almost 10 cents from the October peak, prices remained firm following the crop forecast and reports that farmers were withholding deliveries for higher returns.

CONSUMER DEBT:

American consumers are going into debt twice as fast as at any other period in history in buying goods and services on credit at an all-time record rate, according to a study by Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

The increase of $2,693,000,000 in consumer credit obligations which occurred in the 12 months ended October 1, is almost exactly double the previous record 12-months increase of $1,352,000,000, which took place in the year 1936, the study points out.

FEAR SINISTER PURPOSE BEHIND WAVE OF STRIKES

THERE IS, I believe, something more than a desire for more wages or shorter hours back of the wave of strikes that has swept across the nation, with more threatening. It is a something created by the radical socialist leaders who direct the activities of organized labor. It is, I believe, an effort on the part of such leaders to so cripple American business, so retard American production, that the government will find cause to take over the business of production and merchandising. It is, I believe, an effort directed from Moscow to Russianize America by destroying our American economic system and substituting for it the government-planned economy of totalitarian Russia. It is an effort to surreptitiously sabotage our American way of life.

How extensive this wave of strikes has been is demonstrated by figures Lawrence Sullivan of Nation's Business News dug out of the records of the department of labor at Washington.

Back in 1928 we had a total of 604 strikes, involving 314,210 workers and representing a loss of 1,631,863 man days of production. After those advocating a government-planned economy had moved into Washington, with an expressed determination to make America over, we had, in 1933, 1,675 strikes involving 1,168,272 workers, with a production loss of 16,872,128 man days. In 1941, our last peacetime year, there were 4,288 strikes involving 2,362,620 workers, with a loss of 23,047,556 man days of production. In 1945, with less than six months of peace, we had 4,750 strikes involving 3,467,000 workers and a loss of production of 38,025,000 man days. For the first eight months of 1946, when we were striving to meet the terrific peacetime demand for commodities, we had 3,125 strikes involving 3,425,000 workers, with a production loss of 93,225,000 man days.

The important figure in each case is the loss of man days of production. It is that figure that determines the extent to which American business is being sabotaged; the extent to which our production is being curtailed. It is that curtailment that is the greater factor in creating inflation. To stop that inflationary trend could be the government's excuse for taking over and operating the production and merchandising of the nation.

I am convinced, and the figures provide evidence for the conviction, that Russian-directed Red labor leaders are deliberately providing the government an excuse for the socialization of American production and merchandising business to achieve the ends of that small minority who would make over our America; who would exchange our free enterprise economy, that provides opportunity and incentive, for the conditions that exist in Russia. The workers who strike, who walk picket lines at the behest of radical Russian-interested leaders, have no real conception of the movement in which they play a part.

While it happens, congress makes no real effort to curb such activities; no effort to protect and preserve our economic system.

BACK TO THE BIG CITY, the old home town, for but four weeks that seemed like four long years. I mixed with the milling throng of strange faces. Each day of those four weeks I longed for the smiles of friends, for the friendly greeting on the streets of the small community in which I live. Aside from a few acquaintances of former years there was nothing to attract me in the big city. I am more satisfied with my small home-town than ever before. No more big places for me. I am home again to stay.

"THE AMERICAN PEOPLE get their opinions from the radio," said the lady. "It is the radio commentators that influence the people." I agreed with the statement; I listened to Fulton Lewis each day he was on the air. "I would never listen to him," said the lady vehemently. "He says very little that is good about the Democrats. Now I listen to Wilder." So it goes. We want only that with which we agree. We want the radio to confirm our opinions, not to change them.

Up to Constitution

At Carlisle, the conductor finding the seedy-looking individual without ticket or money, grabbed him by the arm and put him off the train with the help of a well-placed kick.

At the next station he found the same fellow and again threw him off, accentuating the force and gesture.

At the third station the guard was astonished to again find the chap, who attempted to jump off quickly enough to escape the violence of the attack.

"How far do you think you are going to get like this?" demanded the conductor.

"As far as Chicago," replied the persistent one, "if my constitution can stand it."

AROUND THE HOUSE

When washing collars and cuffs of shirts scrub lightly with a small brush. This quickly removes the soil and saves time.

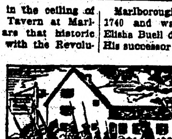
Revolutionary Troops Left Bayonet Marks As Tally Of Company Roster

Bayonet points in the ceiling of the Marlborough Tavern at Marlborough, Conn., are that historic inn's visible link with the Revolutionary War.

The marks were made there by a Marlborough company of Continental troops, who, following demobilization orders on October 18, 1782, marched into the tavern taproom for their final muster and discharge. They [illegible] stacked their guns with an upward flourish that drove the bayonet points into the ceiling, making a tally mark of the company roster that has endured to this day.



Revolutionary troops heading for Marlborough Tavern for final muster.

Marlborough Tavern was built in 1740 and was operated by Col. Elisha Buell during the Revolution. His successor was his son, Enos H. Buell, who later attained the rank of Brigadier General after service in the War of 1812. Among the tavern's distinguished guests were Presidents James Monroe in 1817 and Andrew Jackson in 1833.

The Marlborough Tavern was for years maintained as a museum by the Society of Colonial Dames. On August 1, 1945, it was reopened as a tavern under private management.

LOOKING AHEAD

by GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Hold the Line

The Office of Price Administration died officially on June 30, 1946. Before it had been inoperative ten days, everybody whose life and work were affected by it knew the nation had sustained no serious loss. Calamities that were supposed to fall upon the consumers of America did not happen. Some prices rose a little; others fell. The law of supply and demand was still working. It had not been on vacation.

In the building industries, among real estate and lumber people, timid home seekers had predicted the wildest of run-away prices because of the unprecedented housing demand. Everything necessary to make prices sky-rocket was present, but the crepe-hangers were disappointed. Industrial leaders went into huddles and resolved for moderation, regardless of pressure from eager buyers.

Returned to Life

The dead bureau was resurrected on July 25 by political pressure. One powerful factor was the influence of thousands of bureaucrats whose easy jobs were all but lost. Lame and weakened by legislative modifications, the OPA lives and has certain functions. But those 25 inactive days proved something: The longer we lived without the OPA the more useless it appeared.

Individuals who want to stay in government, whether they serve any useful purpose there or not, may be expected to keep on trying, during the next few months, to justify a supposed necessity for governmental price-fixing. In reality, increasing production may be depended upon to hold most prices down. Prices of some things will advance in spite of anything the OPA can do.

Look for Advances

In subsidized industries, where sharp advances were expected at first, operators are using moderation in making upward revisions. While industrial leaders "hold the price line," channels of trade are filling up steadily with new production and growing stocks hold prices down. Meat is only an example. Livestock hurries to market. Steaks and chops are on the menu again.

There will be exceptions! It is likely that the human race will never be free from opportunists ready to profiteer when there are no restraints and crafty enough to run black-markets when restrictions are in force. Maybe there actually was an unhappy couple in California on July 2, whose sandwiches advanced in price from 15c to 40c while they were being toasted. Anyway it was a good story.

Good Citizenship

We, the American people, are heirs of a dearly bought liberty. We have an opportunity to prove that we are worthy to inherit it. We can do this by a fair approach to every price problem. Whether we are manufacturers, marketers, or consumers, we have a part to play. We do not need anyone to play the role of dictator. Truly no price was ever fixed successfully by statutory law.

Consumers can keep prices right by shunning racketeers who play their customers for suckers, by patronizing merchants who appreciate their confidence and by refusing to buy unnecessary things. We should be slow to retaliate against price rises that are needful. If workers, especially, will let growing production adjust prices before calling for higher wages, it will go far toward hastening recovery for everybody.

To The Citizens Of Marshall County

I wish to again express my deepest appreciation to the residents of Marshall County who reelected me as your Representative in the State Legislature without opposition for a second consecutive term I sincerely hope that my actions in the legistature will again merit the confidence you expressed in the election on November 5th.

Emil Morberg.

NEW PRODUCTS CREATE NEW MARKETS

Diversification Ups the Dairy Farmers' Income

When Land O'Lakes was first organized in 1921, it devoted its entire cooperative effort to the marketing of butter. Since then, the Land O'Lakes label of top quality has appeared on more and more dairy products—powdered milk, a wide variety of natural and processed cheeses, fresh eggs, poultry, turkeys and evaporated milk.

The family of Land O'Lakes products has grown rapidly to tremendous proportions, providing dairy farmers with additional outlets and markets for their productive efforts.

Pioneering by Land O'Lakes continues to blaze the trail towards new opportunities. Cooperative marketing has already proved its value as a powerful factor in securing for the farmer extra returns for quality, and in stimulating greater consumer demand for top-quality dairy products. It will pay you to investigate all the advantages of marketing through Land O'Lakes.

Experiment

Nationalization of industry is the big issue in England. The Labor government, elected last year on a nationalization platform, is proceeding to carry out the program as rapidly as possible. Some sectors of American thought are advocating the same measures for our country. For this reason it is my belief that many readers of this column will find interest in the progress of this socialistic program in England.

First step was the nationalization of the Bank of England, upon which the government long has relied for more or less of its own financing, particularly has it obtained large short-term loans for years. The bank's stock belonged to private individuals and had been paying about 3% interest. The government did not evaluate the bank, but simply took over all the stock, giving to all former owners bonds equal to the market value of the stock and bearing 3 per cent. The invaluable hidden assets which invariably accrue to such an institution went to the government without remuneration to the former stockholders.

Danger Present

The Bank of England also was given power to require other banks of the country to accept such banking policies as it might decide to issue. Some experienced bankers fear that the day may come when the government, because of extensive deficit financing, will advocate unsound banking policies which would react badly upon the financial status of the United Kingdom. Policies already adopted by the bank have led to the discontinuing interest formerly paid on deposits and savings accounts.

Industries slated for nationalization by the Labor government are: (1) Transportation, including railroads, transport buses, street-cars, canal barges, and coastal shipping, (2) Utilities, including production and distribution of electric power and the operation of water systems throughout the Kingdom, (3) The iron and steel industry, and (4) Civil aviation.

Complications in Steel

Perhaps the most complex problems for nationalization are presented by the iron and steel industry. This is a highly skilled craft, requiring skills and know-how to be found only in the present management of the industry. Many important but closely related industries in manufacturing, from needles to locomotives, would be affected.

One government economist told me that the government would take over production of steel and iron up to the point where the metal was allowed to cool, regardless of the form in which that might be. However, another economist stated that this policy would draw the line of demarcation for nationalized industry right through the center of some plants which were accustomed to using a continuous process until metals were actually shaped into materials for sale.

Some observers in England think difficulties will be so great that the government finally will give up the scheme of nationalizing the iron and steel industries. In fact, the government has recently indicated the scheme would be postponed for at least four years. One steel operator ventured that production per man-hour would certainly go down when and if the government took over. One of his reasons was that the workers would be at points entirely too far removed from the source of authority. He also affirmed that in his opinion workers did not like the idea of nationalization.

Cut Army Toll

World War II saw the disease rate in the American army cut to 0.6 per 1,000 and the mortality among wounded to 3.3 per cent, compared to 15.6 per 1,000 and 8.1 per cent for World War I.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

How to Stop Worrying

I guess folks in our town do about as much worrying as in yours—over housing and prices, and crops, and jobs—and the little domestic problems that are always coming up.

Dad Hoskins, who's lived to the happy age of eighty, has a simple formula for stopping worry. About every problem, he asks himself: Is there anything I can do about it? If there is, he never postpones making a decision, or taking necessary action.

If there isn't anything he can do about it, he sets aside a "worrying hour" after dinner, and gets his worrying over in one concentrated period. When that's over, he relaxes over a friendly glass of beer with Ma Hoskins—and they talk about pleasant things together, until bedtime.

From where I sit, that's as workable a formula as you could find... right down to the mellow glass of beer that seems to wink away your worries.

LABOR:
New Crisis

Once again it was John L. against the government!

This time, Washington appeared determined to force a showdown with the burly United Mine Workers chieftain, but it had its job cut out for it as 400,000 UMW members stood steadfastly by their leader and both the AFL and CIO threw in their support.

As in previous UMW walkouts, Lewis held a hand full of aces. Punish him as it might try, there were the 400,000 skilled and irreplacable miners who refused to go down into the pits before clarification of the status of their contract; there were approximately 12,000,000 members of organized labor who looked with disfavor upon government use of the injunction to break a strike, and the courts were still to decide the legality of terminating the UMW-government pact.

But, encouraged by the country's overwhelming swing to the right in the recent elections and the possibility that the courts might decide in his favor in interpreting the legal aspects of the case, President Truman was set to push John L. to the limit in his efforts to wring wage and hour concessions from the government.

Under the UMW-government contract, the miners received $75.25 weekly for a 54-hour week, in contrast to $23.88 weekly for a shorter week in 1939. Lewis' latest demands were said to call for a 40-hour week with earnings approximating those for 54 hours.

Arrival of the latest soft coal crisis saw the government prepared for emergency distribution of bituminous stocks. Only householders, hospitals, utilities and other essential public services were to receive deliveries. Railroads were scheduled to haul only food, clothing, medicine, fuel and other necessities and to reduce locomotive passenger service by 25 per cent.

Humming again after the crippling strikes of last winter, industry faced another slow-down to conserve fuel supplies and spread them over the period of the walkout.

CIO Goal

Like the AFL, the CIO watched the coal strike with interest, not only because of the injunction proceedings generally condemned by labor but also because Lewis' acquisition of new wage concessions promised to blaze the way for boosts all along the line.

Meeting in Atlantic City, where John L. formed the CIO 11 years ago, CIO Pres. Philip Murray sounded the battle cry for another round of wage increases by lamenting the rise in prices which offset previous boosts and assailing the uneven distribution of wealth.

Seeking to indicate the extent to which recent price rises have crossed out the 18½ cent an hour wage raise won by the CIO earlier this year, Murray said that steel workers now are earning $13.04 less a week than they did last March. Pointing to the ability of industry to bear higher wages, Murray said that profits in the last quarter of 1946 would total 15 billion dollars compared with 10 billions for 1944.

Coal Mining Red Style

From Russia, where the Communist commissariat has its own method of settling labor problems, comes word of the working of a gigantic new coal field in northern Siberia by slave laborers from Lithuania, Estonia, Latvia, Ukraine and Crimea. Consisting mostly of political dissidents, the laborers are housed in wooden barracks and subsist on porridge and 600 grams of bread daily. About 38 mines have been developed in the 5,000 square mile field.

JAPAN:
On Mend

From General MacArthur's monthly report the U. S. could draw a picture of a vanquished nation struggling to its feet after surviving the effects of total defeat. Suffering from postwar abnormalities itself, the U. S. has none of Nippon's problems of rebuilding a shattered political structure, a war-based industry and a crippled production plant.

MacArthur reported:

—Passage of a bill providing for election, rather than appointment, of local officials.

—Increases in production of lumber, oil, paper and aluminum to offset slumps in iron, steel and coke and shutdowns in tin, nickel and antimony plants. Arrangements to boost exports to Russia, England and Australia to pay for needed imports.

—Expansion of trade union membership to 3,745,000, with 24 per cent being women.

—Prospects of improved rice, wheat, potato and barley yields to relieve a severe food shortage, necessitating substantial imports.

HOUSING:
New Wrinkle

The public received its first good look at the Lustrom corporation's heralded porcelain enameled steel home in Hinsdale, Ill., outside Chicago, and the showing marked another step in the battle of the company with the Tucker automobile corporation for possession of the huge Dodge-Chicago plant.

The battle took a sensational turn with charges of Preston Tucker, the auto magnate, that a prominent Washington attorney had promised to use his influence in having the National Housing authority remand its order turning the Dodge-Chicago plant to Lustrom if given the Tucker corporation's legal business plus a stock interest. Named as the attorney, Theodore Granik vigorously denied the allegation.

In using its emergency powers to help speed vet housing, the NHA moved to award the huge Dodge-Chicago plant to Lustrom after War Assets administration had leased the facilities to Tucker. In eyeing the Dodge-Chicago plant, Lustrom declared that it could build 85 of the five-room, radiant heated houses a day six months after going into large-scale output, and 400 a day within 14 months. The houses sell for $7,000.

States Push Aid for Vet Housing

Five states have made multi-million dollar appropriations for emergency housing this year, with New Jersey the most recent addition to the list, according to the National Association of Housing Officials.

New York, California, Connecticut and Ohio have supported housing this year through large legislative appropriations. New York earmarked 35 million dollars last spring for statewide housing projects, and more recently authorized low-rent slum clearance projects.

A 41 million dollar veterans' housing program was initiated in New Jersey when the recent special session of the state legislature passed measures appropriating 6 million dollars for immediate housing operations and providing for a 35 million dollar bond issue.

CAPITOL HILL:
Lobbyists Register

Lobbyists have long become a part of the nation's capital, but until passage of the registration act recently the public has enjoyed little knowledge of their identity or worth to the interests they represent.

Although lobbyists as a whole have attained a certain notoriety, they exercise the perfectly legitimate function of protecting the interests of their clients by seeking passage of favorable legislation or fighting bills considered inimicable. While recognizing this function, congress also realized the necessity for placing the business above board and apprising the public of the interests at work in Washington.

As the lobbyists registered under penalty of losing their lobbying rights or incurring fine and imprisonment if they failed, Purcell L. Smith, representing the power interests, emerged as the highest paid, drawing $65,000 a year plus unspecified expenses.

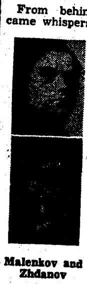
CHINA:
Going Backwards

While Japan marched back up the road of recovery, neighboring China remained beset by the political indifferences and economic evils that have retarded her progress during this century.

As both Nationalist and Communist forces prepared for a bloody civil war for supremacy, Chinese currency took a terrific nosedive, with the U. S. dollar commanding as high as 5,000 Chinese dollars on the black market. Coal jumped from 350,000 to 450,000 dollars a ton. Housewives scrambled frantically for commodities.

Throughout the Communist stronghold of northern China and Manchuria, Red battalions threw up fortifications and girded for battle as Gen. Peng Teh-hwai predicted stirring victory over the Nationalist invading forces. These forces were reported pressing into Shantung province along the Tientsin-Pukow railway.

RUSSIA:
Struggle for Power



Malenkov and Zhdanov

From behind the iron curtain came whispers of a mighty tug-of-war between top Russian officials for the driver's seat when Josef Stalin passes from the picture.

While Stalin first favored Andrei Zhdanov, 50, chairman of the Soviet parliament, for the mantle of succession, Georgi M. Malenkov, 45, has slowly come to the fore, recently being promoted to the all-powerful politburo shaping Russian policy.

Also in the struggle for power are Lavrenti P. Beria, head of the dread secret police, and Gen. Nikolai A. Bulganin, vice minister of armed forces. Despite his prominence in foreign affairs, V. M. Molotov lacks party support for the No. 1 spot.

Writing in the French paper, L'Ordre, Claude Vivieres declared that Russian officials are anxious to avoid war during the unsettled state of party affairs to prevent rival nations' use of bickerings to upset the Communist regime.

BUSINESS:
Making Money

Payments of extra dividends indicated the general prosperity of American business.

$$$—Goodrich brought payments for 1946 to $4.50 per share by declaring a dividend of $1 and a special payment of the same amount.

$$$—By authorizing an extra dividend of $1.25 a share in addition to the quarterly payment of 25 cents, Briggs & Stratton boosted disbursements to $2.25 this year.

$$$—Elgin National Watch company declared an extra dividend of 50 cents a share besides making a quarterly payment of 25 cents.

$$$—Keystone Steel and Wire company increased its quarterly dividend from 30 to 50 cents and authorized a special payment of 25 cents.

$$$—In declaring a 40 cent dividend, Homestake Mining company brought payments up to $1.40 for this year after making no disbursements last year.

Meanwhile, the treasury department ordered all corporations to report on their 1946 tax forms if they paid out at least 70 per cent of their earnings in dividends and reasons if they did not. In this way, the government hopes to prevent withholding of dividends to scale down stockholders' income taxes.

FARM PRICES:

Prices for farm products in October, 1946, were 154 per cent above the average level in 1935-39, were 16 per cent higher than the previous peak reached in 1920, and were the highest ever recorded up to October.

Many observers of price trends predict a break in price levels in the latter part of 1947, with the break coming earlier if various groups ignore present danger signals and continue to push for higher prices and incomes.

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Hard To Beat
So Easy. No Cooking. Saves Dollars.
No matter what you've been using for coughs due to colds, you'll be the first to admit that this surprising relief, mixed in your own kitchen, is hard to beat, for real results.
Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.
Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This gives you a full pint of really splendid cough relief—about four times as much for your money. Tastes fine—children love it. It never spoils.
You can feel this home mixture taking right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases soreness and difficult breathing, and lets you sleep.
Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial irritations. Just try it, and if not satisfied, your money will be refunded.

Octobass, 13 Feet High, Failure Because of Size

The octobass, a three-stringed musical instrument invented in Paris in 1849, was 13 feet in height and thus required its player to stand on a box to bow it and press its strings with artificial fingers which he moved by levers, says Collier's.

Owing to its unwieldiness, this giant instrument was a failure and only four were made, three of which are preserved today in museums in Vienna, Paris and London.

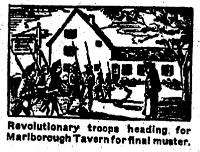
Revolutionary Troops Left Bayonet Marks As Tally Of Company Roster

Bayonet points in the ceiling of the Marlborough Tavern at Marlborough, Conn., are that historic inn's visible link with the Revolutionary War.

The marks were made there by a Marlborough company of Continental troops, who, following demobilization orders on October 18, 1783, marched into the tavern taproom for their final muster and discharge. They smartly stacked their guns with an upward flourish that drove the bayonet points into the ceiling, making a tally mark of the company roster that has endured to this day.



Revolutionary troops heading for Marlborough Tavern for final muster.

Marlborough Tavern was built in 1740 and was operated by Col. Elisha Buell during the Revolution. His successor was his son, Enos H. Buell, who later attained the rank of Brigadier General after service in the War of 1812. Among the tavern's distinguished guests were Presidents James Monroe in 1817 and Andrew Jackson in 1833.

The Marlborough Tavern was for years maintained as a museum by the Society of Colonial Dames. On August 1, 1945, it was reopened as a tavern under private management.

Pudding Ice Cream Keeps Family Happy

It's easy to keep the family happy with plenty of ice cream, what with a modern refrigerator and a supply of fruit and cream, honey or sirup on hand, according to the Country Cooking editor of nationally circulated Capper's Farmer.

The recipe for Pudding Ice Cream below, won first prize in the recent Capper's Farmer Refrigerator Dessert contest for Mrs. Bertha Oltman, Bay County, Michigan.

PUDDING ICE CREAM

1 tsp. unflavored gelatin
¼ cup milk
1¾ c. milk
1 pkg. vanilla pudding mix
½ c. white corn sirup
1½ c. cream
1 tsp. vanilla
¾ c. black walnuts

Soften gelatin in the ¼ cup of milk. Add remaining milk to pudding mix; place over low heat and stir until it boils and thickens. Stir softened gelatin into pudding to dissolve it. Remove at once from heat. Add sirup, cream and vanilla. Pour into refrigerator trays; freeze until slightly firm. Then scrape from tray into bowl; beat with rotary beater till smooth but not melted. Stir in chopped nuts. Return to tray and freeze. Serves 6.

Johnson Bros. Open Hartz Store

Murnet and Myron Johnson have now completed the change in the Holt Cafe whereby they removed most of the old fixtures and installed modern grocery store display counters. They have put in a complete line of Hartz groceries, fresh fruits and vegetables and bakery goods.

They are retaining their lunch counter and are ready for their big formal opening day next Monday. Most of the remodeling was completed last Monday and the first week in the new business has been very good.

The new place of business is a boost for Holt and patrons will find a decided advantage to try shopping in Holt before going elsewhere.

The Johnson Brothers are well known here having lived in this community all their lives. They have both had several years of overseas service in the U. S. Army and chose this business for rehabilitation into civilian life. Let's all for in for acup of free coffee on Monday, give them a word of ecouragement and wish them success.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Peterson visited at the H. O. Hanson home Monday evening.

Meat Control

Collapse and failure recently of government control over an important commodity, required in the daily lives of the people, points up an important moral for Americans. In lettering bold and poster-size, amounting to handwriting on the wall, this moral shows that we are not ready for this kind of regimentation in peacetime. We may re-enact the plot again with new characters at some future time, but the result will surely be the same.

This we must know before more harm is done: A controlled economy is not compatible with American democracy. The real reason for complete failure of meat control lies in the fact that Americans have been brought up on a free market. They have found the greatest sort of freedom in this kind of economy. They desire no substitute.

Few Old Cows

Prices the government allowed for hogs and cattle on foot were not high enough to induce farmers to sell their animals. Early in October the New York Times sent a reporter into the heart of the Texas cattle country. Trailing buyers at Fort Worth for both major and independent packers, the Times reporter saw them bid OPA ceilings and come away with only a "few old cows" out of 5,700 head of beeves listed that day. Choice animals were "grabbed off" by traders at prices in excess of ceilings, while 7,000,000 beef cattle continued to roam the southwest Texas range.

Like any man who successfully invests capital and puts hard work into an enterprise, the cattle raiser is well taught about markets. But a controlled economy puzzles him first, muzzles him later. The farmer, like the manufacturer, has learned to watch markets: to buy and sell advantageously in an honest, competitive market. And in our land we have found that the consumer, who buys the food and manufactured goods at lower prices, is best protected by this same free market.

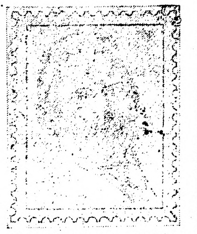
Failure Recognized

Why could a black market exist? The public wanted meat badly enough to pay more for it than the ceiling price. I am not condoning black markets, but it needs to be said that this one was a general revolt against price controls on meat during peacetime, when the public knew the country had more livestock than usual. The failure of controls was dismal, and the entire population recognized it.

Some folks, prompted by Communistic thinking and desiring to destroy freedom of opportunity, blamed the failure on the packing houses. People who know nothing of the facts may believe that accusation. The facts are that prices packers could legally pay did not bring livestock to market. Neither did a few men in Congress cause the farmers to withhold hogs and cattle. It was not the "feebleness" of the law, but the law itself, that turned a free market into a black market.

Dynamic is the word for our American economy. It cannot be trammeled down at one point and bludgeoned at another, at the whim of some far-away controller. Neither can you expect it to by-pass the bottlenecks of government control, using the laws of honest economics with which it is familiar—without disastrous results to the American way of life.

Inspired Seal Sale



Jacob Riis, who was called "one of America's most useful citizens," wrote an article in 1907 which inspired the first Christmas Seal Sale in this country to raise funds to fight tuberculosis. The 40th annual Seal Sale is being conducted from Nov. 25 to Dec. 25.

Double-Crossing TB

Threatened by tuberculosis, Ruth, whose health is being safeguarded at the Children's Preventorium near St. Paul, smiles as she sticks the double-barred cross in the window. Ruth knows that this cross stands for the Christmas Seal fight to wipe out tuberculosis and to protect the health of boys and girls.

Cut Army Toll
World War II saw the disease rate in the American army cut to 0.6 per 1,000 and the mortality among wounded to 3.3 per cent, compared to 15.6 per 1,000 and 8.1 per cent for World War I.

Candlelight Service Sunday

On New Year's Eve of last year a candle light service was held at Nazareth Church. Several have expressed their delight at such a service and so another Christmas Candle Light service will be held but this time before Christmas, namely Sunday evening Dec. 15. Colored slides may be shown. A free collection will be received.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

A Grand American Tradition

The Cuppers had a grand old family reunion last week—for the first time since the war.

Big and little Cuppers came, by car and train, from as far west as Nebraska and as far east as Vermont. They crowded Dee and Jane's house, set up quarters in the barns, or stopped with neighbors—and a jollier gathering you couldn't have imagined!

I was asked to their final Saturday night supper, when they sang old songs, drank beer and cider, reminisced. Dark Cuppers and blonde ones—Vermont accents and Alabama drawls—doctors and farmers ... all with their differences of taste and politics, yet as close and harmonious in spirit as a group could be.

From where I sit, it's a great American tradition—not just family reunions, but the ability to get along as one harmonious family, regardless of differences of taste—whether it's taste for politics or farming, beer or cider.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. N. Moves for Disarmament; World Co-ops to Expand Trade; Solons Kill Occupation Quiz

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Pleading "not guilty" at arraignment on allied charges of mass murders of concentration camp inmates in medical experiments, Dr. Herta Oberhauser and 22 other German doctors face war crimes trials at Nuernberg.

U. N.:
Move to Disarm

The war-weary old world seemed headed for substantial disarmament as Russia took the lead in the United Nations to force a reduction in militarization.

In the first U. N. step toward disarmament, members agreed to report on the strength of their armed forces at home and abroad by January 1. Originally, the Reds had asked that the report be confined to the number of Allied troops on foreign soil, but the U. S. and Britain were quick to call for count of forces at home as well.

Continuing to dominate the disarmament spotlight, Russia then proposed the creation of an international commission to supervise disarmament, reversing previous Soviet objections to such control. Favor for the proposal, however, was qualified by misapprehension over the Russian provision that such an international commission would be subject to the veto power of the security council.

WORLD CO-OPS:
Trade Program

Growth of co-operatives as a force in world trade was illustrated with the organization of the International Trading agency in London to facilitate exchange of goods between 85,000,000 co-op members from 31 countries.

Formed by the International Co-operative alliance, the new undertaking not only calls for the exchange of commodities and goods produced by the co-ops themselves but also the distribution of privately manufactured items through co-op agencies. In the U. S., the National Co-operatives, Inc., embracing 4,000 local societies owned by 1,?00,000 members, has been making volume purchases of refrigerators, radios and household appliances from private industry for resale to co-op patrons.

> In contrast to the U. S., where the co-operative movement is primarily agricultural, European co-ops embrace a variety of enterprises. Co-operatives conduct 40 per cent of business and industry in Sweden, 25 per cent of food stores in Great Britain, and 2,000 retail establishments and 1,500 warehouses in Denmark.

With war-stricken countries short of currency for the purchase of foreign goods, the international agency hopes to develop trade on an exchange basis.

ARMY:
Buck Occupation Quiz

Acting upon the urgings of Secretary of State Byrnes and Senators Vandenberg and Connally, his foreign policy advisers, the senate war investigating committee killed the projected inquiry into the conduct of U. S. occupation forces in Germany.

The Democratic majority acted even after George Meader, committee counsel, had sharply criticized the war and state departments for occupation irregularities following a month long study of conditions in the reich. There have been recurring reports of the disorderly conduct of U. S. troops, widespread black market activities of military and civilian personnel, and economic chaos occasioned by political differences among the major powers.

With German civilians already looking askance at U. S. troops, military authorities have opposed an official inquiry for fear of losing further face in the reich and among the other occupying nations. As the governing force in the American zone and the pivot of the western allies in Europe, the U. S. must command the respect of both the vanquished and Russia.

TEXAS:
Landlords Sit Down

No rental property owner herself but a Gold Star mother who lost a son over Germany, Mrs. Frank Morris of Dallas took over command of a landlords' sit down in Texas to abolish rent control and restore owners' rights to manage their own holdings.

As 3,000 dwelling units in Dallas remained empty because of landlords' refusal to let them and vets walked the city's streets in search of housing, Mrs. Morris termed rent control a violation of traditional American rights.

Two World War I vets were in the forefront of the landlords' movement. Abed with heart trouble resulting from German shell-fire in 1918, Joe H. Blann held one five-room cottage and 18 flats vacant after OPA had obtained a $289 judgment against him in a price squabble. Bemedaled Capt. John R. Lowery kept 63 apartments empty because he charged owners possessed no control over destructive tenants.

SURPLUS GOODS:
Raps Return

Senator Byrd

Demanding the institution of business-like policies in disposal of surplus war material, Sen. Harry Byrd (Dem., Va.) disclosed that a study of the senate-house committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures showed that the government was realizing only a third on domestic sales and about a fifth on foreign transactions.

While it is argued that much of the material consists of goods primarily designed for war use and any kind of return averts complete loss, Byrd said, the fact remains that many items are being sold at prices far below what they command on the open market.

Up to September 30, over 5 billion dollars in surplus material had been disposed of for less than 2 billion dollars in this country, Byrd said. As of August 31, sales expenses totaled over 268 million dollars, of which 92 million was disbursed in salaries, 16½ million in advertising and 5 million in travel.

Of the 1.4 billion sold overseas under supervision of the state department, 1.3 billions worth was disposed of for less than 300 million and the rest was abandoned, given away or scrapped.

Watch Sharpers

Att. Gen. Tom C. Clark has alerted all U. S. attorneys to watch operations of swindlers throughout the nation who attempt to use veterans as fronts to buy illegally surplus property.

The special alert followed the announcement by Clark that a federal grand jury in Los Angeles returned an indictment against two New Yorkers for allegedly having caused veterans to falsify their applications in purchasing automobile trucks.

Lauds Women Doctors

Re-education of the public to break down any existing prejudices against women doctors is advocated by Dr. J. Roscoe Miller, dean of the medical school of Northwestern university.

"There is no valid reason for alleged public reluctance to consult a woman physician," the dean said. "She is fully as qualified as men to practice medicine.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Standing uses eight per cent more energy than sitting. Surprise you? Now maybe you will sit to peel potatoes, shell peas, polish silver and the like.

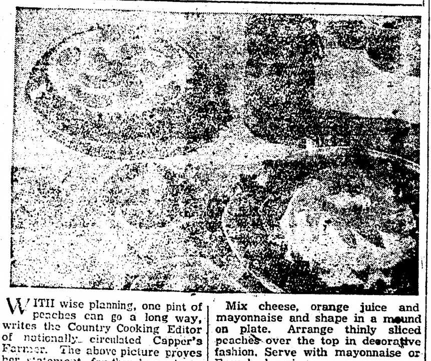
Pint of Peaches Yields Three Desserts



WITH wise planning, one pint of peaches can go a long way, writes the Country Cooking Editor of nationally circulated Capper's Farmer. The above picture proves her statement, for there's a pie, a salad and an upside down pudding, all rich with peaches—all the product of one pint of fruit.

Peach Pattys

¾ c. flour
2 tbsp. sugar
2 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
2 tbsp. shortening
¼ c. whole bran
½ c. milk
1 large peach half
¼ c. peach juice

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening. Soak bran in milk 5 minutes; add to dry ingredients, stirring only until combined. Slice peach half, and place slices in bottom of 4 greased muffin cups or ramekins. Add 1 tbsp. peach juice to each cup, and cover each with heaping tablespoon [illegible] moderately hot oven [illegible]

Mix cheese, orange juice and mayonnaise and shape in a mound on plate. Arrange thinly sliced peaches over the top in decorative fashion. Serve with mayonnaise or French dressing.

Peach Pecan Pie

1 9-inch pie shell
1 tbsp. unflavored gelatin
½ c. peach juice
½ c. pecans
1 tsp. vanilla
1 c. milk
3 egg yolks
⅓ c. sugar
¼ tsp. salt
2 egg whites

Soften gelatin in cold peach juice. Scald milk. Beat egg yolks slightly; add sugar and salt. Pour scalded milk gradually into egg mixture, stirring until blended. Cook in top of double boiler until of custard consistency. Remove from heat, add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites, vanilla and chopped pecans. Pour into baked pie shell; [illegible] pie

LOOKING AHEAD
by GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College Searcy, Arkansas

F.B.I. Asks a Count

In Europe the past summer I was made to understand an important fact. Consistently I was informed by labor leaders, government officials, and industrialists in all of the eight countries I visited that the most disturbing element in each nation was the Communist element. In every country the confusion wrought by the Communists was quite disconcerting.

In England, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Belgium, Holland, and Switzerland the Communist element was not large in number. But it was well organized. Apparently the movement was receiving funds from abroad in each country, for a campaign all out of proportion to actual size of the organization was in progress. In France, although the Communist party is not the largest, it has the best organization and is recognized as the strongest single party in France.

How About America?

Confusion, today, is not confined to Europe. In America we have been having a lot of confusion. We are facing the most serious industrial problems in our history. Though the war has been over for 15 months, our industry is still dragging badly. Production, in nearly every field, is disappointing. But an abundant byproduct is confusion, and more confusion.

Industry wants to produce, for that is the only way it can make money. Some of our largest manufacturing establishments have actually lost money instead of making money in the past twelve months. Industry is not pleased with this situation. and I cannot believe they are purposely trying to keep it that way. Labor finds it difficult to live on current income. Labor's need is wages, and I cannot believe that labor as a whole wants confusion, work stoppages, and light production.

Does the government want to hinder production? Surely it wants the people to have food, clothing, transportation, and housing. Yet, when we have every reason to believe that labor, industry, and government want production, we are not getting production. Despite the desire of the three groups to avoid confusion, yet we have confusion confounded.

A Growing Menace

J. Edgar Hoover, many years head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, a trusted citizen and public servant, is in a position to understand perhaps better than any other person what is happening in America. In a speech on the West Coast, September 30, he decried the growing menace of Communism, declaring that "in the past five years American Communists have made their deepest inroads upon our national rights."

Their false preachments on civil liberty mean that Communists want the right to do as they please. Those who seek to provoke prejudice and stir up the public mind to angry resentment against our form of government are a menace to the very powers of law and order which guarantee and safeguard popular rights. Said Mr. Hoover: "Communism has spread Fascism and Fascism spawns Communism. Both are the antithesis of American belief in liberty and freedom. If people of other countries want Communism, let them have it, but it has no place in America." It is time to stand up and be counted, indeed.

Constantin Hoffman Died

Constantine Hoffman, 78, died Tuesday evening in a hospital in Thief River Falls from injuries sustained when his car collided with a truck that day at 6 p. m. two miles north of Thief River Falls.

At the time of the accident Hoffman was going north while the truck driven by Matt Brusven of Thief River Falls was traveling south. Officials who investigated the mishap reported that Hoffman had apparently edged over to the wrong side of the road, and started to move into his own lane too late to avert the collission.

He was born in Friedland, Germany. April 21. 1868 and came in 1883 to Crookston, where he was married to Magdalena Weiss in 1889. In that year they moved to Excel township, where he had since made his home.

Surviving his death are two daughters, Mrs. M. J. Gorman, Grand Forks, and Sister Mary Borgia, O. S. B. Crookston, and three sons, Constantine Jr. of Larimore, N. D.; Fridolin, Kempton, N. D. and August, Fergus Falls. His wife, two sisters and three brothers preceeded him in death. He was a member of St. Bernards church at Thief River Falls. Funeral services were conducted from there Friday with Rev. A. I. Merth officiating and interment made in St. Bernards cemetery.

Why Bert Won First Prize

Folks weren't surprised when Bert Childers won first prize for his corn at the county fair.

Yet the judges admit it wasn't just because Bert had the finest ears of corn. He knew how to display them: neatly arranged, with the husks cleanly trimmed, and the booth white and spotless.

"Trimmings" sure make a difference no matter what you're offering—as Andy Botkin, keeper of the Garden Tavern, well knows. Andy doesn't just sell good beer. He sells it in a place that's clean and attractive . . . in nice surroundings that belong with the enjoyment of a wholesome beverage of moderation.

And Andy, of course, is a wholehearted supporter of "Self Regulation." That's the system by which the Brewers and tavern keepers themselves make sure that taverns selling beer are clean and orderly.

From where I sit, people like Andy also rate a "First prize." Not just for the quality of the product—but for the "trimmings" too.

Splendid Cough Relief, Mixed In Your Kitchen

Saves Big Dollars. No Cooking.

Yes, ma'am, right in your own kitchen, you can easily mix a cough medicine that is a wonder for quick results, and gives you about four times as much for your money. And it's no trouble—a child could do it.

You'll need a syrup. Make it by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. There you have a full pint of remarkable medicine for coughs due to colds. It lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

You'll say it's hard to beat, for real relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

DOAN'S PILLS

Until Morning

By BERTHA MAE INBODY

Young Dr. Janet Rhodes pulled the brown suede hat closer over her eyes. She couldn't look up—to see the exchange of Santa Claus glances between beaming mothers and little boys. Once—was it but one Christmas ago?—a little hand had held tightly to hers.

She was jostled by the merry rush. Children with bundles, mothers and fathers—and little boys! He, too, had carried packages that seemed too large for him, last Christmas Eve. "Mumsie, what's in this one?" he had asked, excitedly, "It's so-o-o fat!" So clearly now his question came to her, that she answered half aloud, "Oh, Billy, you just wait—until morning!"

A dry sob, catching at her throat, seemed to steady her. She must pull herself out of it. At six-thirty her "Children's Hour" must be on the air. "Fairy Godmother," the children had named her.

Thousands of little figures, crowding close to the loud speaker, listened breathlessly. "Little soldiers," she called these little pain-weary bodies.

The Fairy Godmother shut her eyes. In imagination, her arms held her own little crippled soldier, who fought so bravely against infantile paralysis. But promises of Santa Claus must go out to them. Unconsciously she ended with the words: "But you just wait—until morning!"

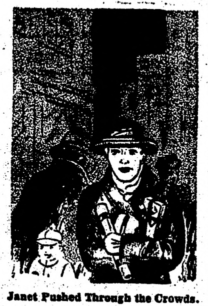
Unrecognized by her, it was bitterness that kept her from reading the scrawled, childish messages that came to her. Tonight the basket seemed to mock her. A tipsy little envelope, sliding from the top, seemed to block her way out. She stared at it, stooped, picked it up. It clung to her hand, pleading. From it she drew a soiled card and deciphered the words:

"Dere fairy godmother, there is bugles with horses on them ain't there. Nick in the bed next to mine sez no, won't you pleeze tell Santa to bring me one. My leg's gettin better. Merrie Crismus Jimmy Dean, children's hospitul."

Janet pushed through the crowds. Smiling eyes looked directly into other smiling eyes. She was to buy a bugle—with a horse on it! Two hours she searched, fruitlessly. Then, like a flash it came to her. She would have a small horse soldered to the bugle. Over-ruling the salesman's objections that there wasn't time, she emerged triumphant with the coveted gift. Again the words: "Mumsie, what's in this one? It's so-o-o fat!"



Janet Pushed Through the Crowds.

Breathlessly she entered the brightly lighted room of Children's Hospital, where the annual Christmas party was almost over. She slipped the package behind the tree and sank into a chair. Her eyes drifted across the room—to Jimmy Dean. Even if he had not held a tiny bugle, she would have known him by the bravery behind the disappointed eyes. And when one is an orphan, even fairy godmothers sometimes fail you.

Santa was now taking up the package, saying, "This goes to Jimmy Dean."

Doctor Janet watched the transformation on Jimmy's face and eyes. It was like the look, like the light in—her arms tightened, but the child was gone. Bewildered, frightened, fascinated, she stared at the child in the wheelchair. The eager little hands fumbled with the gay ribbon, then the biggest, shiniest bugle came into view. He hugged it to himself. "I knew, oh, I knew he would bring it if I asked her to tell him!"

Janet sat there, entranced. Nurses were taking their charges away, and Jimmy was out of sight. And then, somehow, she was running after him.

Santa Claus Has Often Been Cruelly Murdered

Many men in history have murdered Santa Claus. It was not long ago that Adolf Hitler turned the city of the famous Manger Plays, Krippenspiel, into Dachau, the most notorious concentration camp in all Europe.

In 1930 the Mexican government officially did away with the fur-robed Santa Claus and in his place placed a feathered snake, the ancient god of the Aztecs.

On Christmas morning when I awake, and sleep-dust from my eyes I shake, I see a sight that makes me start and causes thumpings in my heart! A Christmas tree—oh, pretty sight—with candles, bells and balls alight.
With horns and dolls and sugar plums, and skates and trains and beating drums. And oh, it is a wonder-tree, with heaps of things for me to see! Rare gifts hang upon the side, which tinseled fairies cannot hide. A soldier-doll, a doll house, too, and strings of gold come to my view, and as I look I seem to hear sweet Christmas music soft and clear.
A Merry Christmas it seems to say,
A merry, happy, holy day!

Stocking Hanging An Old Custom

Almost without exception the children of American will put up their stockings by the side of the chimney for Father Christmas or Santa Claus. For generations children have gone eagerly to their stockings on Christmas morning to see what Santa Claus has deposited in them.

The origin has nothing whatever to do with Christmas. The custom's only connection with Christmas is through Saint Nicholas. Saint Nicholas, or Santa Claus, the saint who liked to do good by stealth, heard that three lovely sisters, who lived in a poor cottage on the outskirts of town, were destitute.

Saint Nicholas made his way to their home one night, and threw a gift of three gold pieces through the smoke-hole of the cottage.

Instead of gold pieces falling on the hearth, as he had expected, they fell into the stockings of the girls, which had been hung up over the fire to dry after washing. Hence, when the tale became known, the custom of hanging up stockings over the fire came into being—in hopes; and Christmas Day was chosen for the doing, because it was Saint Nicholas' day.

WILD BLUE YONDER . . . Daniel Greening, like most American boys, prefers that his tricycle be modeled after a fighter plane. World War II weapons and equipment soon will give way to fantastic "cosmic weapons," as the motif for children's toys.

Dance Until Midnight.

Mexican Christmas Eve is a pretty combination of the religious and the festive observance. There is a dance in every village until midnight. At the stroke of twelve the musicians play a mystical sacred melody, and everyone converges in front of the "nacimiento," or crib representation.

How Washington Observed Christmas in Virginia

George Washington celebrated Christmas in much the same manner as it is observed today. With his neighbors he attended Christmas Eve sacred services at the village church. On Christmas Day an elaborate and delectable dinner was served, followed by hours of fun and merry-making, at which most of the neighbors took part. Rhythmic feet stepped the Virginia reel, followed by the jigtime of the country.

What shall I buy for him this Christmas? If he's a cigarette smoker, select a carton of 200 mild, choice cigarettes. The brand? Give him a cigarette with long, popular acceptance—Camels. They're sure to please. And for the man who smokes a pipe, give Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco, the world's largest-selling pipe tobacco. Special holiday gift wrappings make both Camels and Prince Albert particularly desirable choices. Camels are conveniently packed—ten packages of flavorful, mellow cigarettes to a carton . . . Prince Albert is handsomely wrapped in one pound moisture-proof containers. All of the packages include space for a holiday message. Fanatical Monarch Bars Modern Developments

Doubtless, the most fanatical reigning monarch is Imam Yahya of Yemen, a country of the Arabian peninsula, which is 75,000 square miles in area and contains 3,500,000 inhabitants, says Collier's. Being intensely religious and detesting modern developments, this 77-year-old Mohammedan keeps his kingdom in complete isolation.

It is still without a telephone, printing press, railroad or even a physician. The country is so destitute that the king's harem is obliged to support itself by making uniforms for the army.

The buyer's assurance is the advertising he or she reads in the newspaper. That is the buyer's guide. It tells the prices one must expect to pay. Let the seller who tries to charge more beware!

Ancient Customs Told In New Christmas Designs

SANTA CLAUS . . . The "broad face and round little belly" originated in Clement Moore's famous poem, "The Night Before Christmas," written for his children, to whom he read the poem every Christmas Eve. In the poem, Santa "looked like a peddler just opening his pack," which accounts for the familiar pose we find on so many Christmas cards each year.

MISTLETOE . . . The ancient Druids, who lived in Britain and Gaul, believed mistletoe was sent from heaven, designating purity and love. They called it "omnia sanitatem" meaning "all-heal." In winter they gathered mistletoe with ceremonial rites, during which white-robed priests cut sprays with golden scythes. These were hung over doorways to welcome forest gods.

TREE ORNAMENTS . . . In the 10th century an Arabian geographer, George Jacob, brought the legend to Western Europe that on the night of the Nativity all the trees burst forth with ripened fruits and blossoms. His story spread throughout Europe and soon it was customary to hang fruit on trees at Christmas. In time, ornaments took the place of fruit.

HANGING STOCKINGS . . . Among the customs brought to New Amsterdam by the Dutch settlers was that of having a burgher dress as old St. Nicholas and distribute toys and sweets to the children. The children's wooden shoes, left by the fireplace to dry, became a convenient place in which to leave these gifts. Soon stockings were hung by the fireplace instead.

The Man of Nazareth

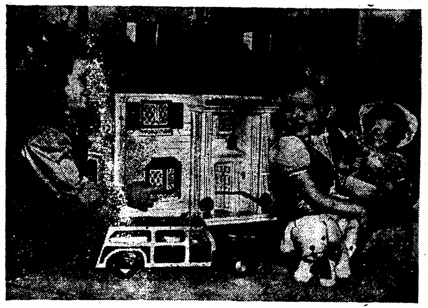
SOMETIMES we feel that it is but a workaday world. Then comes Christmas, and we honor the Man of Nazareth. It was a glad day on earth when He was born. There were inspiring days on earth while He lived. There is eternal hope and promise in His sacrifice at death.

The gifts we exchange at this time of year are but tokens —earthly reminders of His great gifts to mankind. The holiday lights that gleam everywhere are but the reflections of the Star of Bethlehem. The laughter of happy children at Christmas time is but the echo of the joy He brought into the world.

As each year passes, we realize how much we need the Man of Nazareth, His love and understanding, His goodness and courage, His humility.

"Joy to the world, the Lord has come" was sung two thousand years ago. And because He is still with us, we who publish your newspaper repeat the refrain, "Joy to the world," as we wish you

A MERRY CHRISTMAS



OLD-FASHIONED BUT NEW . . . Dream homes including "children" and dogs still hold their appeal for Sue Ellen Shurman, left, and Irene Kelly, as well as most little girls of their age. The sleek station wagon is modern enough for them even if it is not rocket-propelled. These are some of the new toys to be carried by Santa Claus this year.

Glastonbury Thorn Has Rich Christmas Legend

The legend of the Glastonbury thorn is that after the death of Christ, Joseph of Arimathea came over to England and a few days before Christmas rested on the summit of Weary-all Hill, Glastonbury.

There he thrust into the ground his staff which on Christmas Eve was covered with snow white blossoms; and until it was destroyed during the civil wars, the bush continued to bloom.

Gifts Which Were Once Welcomed by Soldiers

If you want to please a man in service send him: ambrotypes in five-pound cases, full size Dutch ovens, feather beds and pillows, ripe watermelons, baby wagons, castor oil, catnip tea, fiddle strings, vases for flowers, ice cream freezers, hot water for soaking feet, nutmeg graters, Suffolk pigs for pets and chicken gravy in bowls. At least these were the gifts recommended to be sent to the soldiers in Civil war.

LAND O'LAKES
1921 1946

GOALS FOR OUR GOLDEN JUBILEE

In these closing days of our Silver Jubilee, we're tempted to point with pride to significant milestones along the 25 year trail blazed by Land O'Lakes.

We pause to take stock of the past—its errors as well as its successes. Thus with skills sharpened by experience and our faith in the future, Land O'Lakes sets its sights and takes its first steps towards its second 25 years of exciting opportunity.

These are some of the goals the 81 million dollar Land O'Lakes organization will strive to achieve.

- Continue development and improvement in all fields in which Land O'Lakes has already pioneered.
- Enlarge the membership in this cooperative enterprise, dedicating its influence and strength to the welfare of the entire dairy industry.
- Create new markets and increase demand in present markets, for more of the products of Northwest dairy farmers.
- Develop new and finer dairy products for the consumer, plus faster, better distribution methods.

Why don't you and your dairy plant investigate NOW—all the advantages of marketing through—

A pioneer in the use of diesel locomotives, Great Northern will have 117 of these modern engines in service by January 1. Above is the cab of one of the 4,000-horsepower passenger diesels, which will pull the fleet of new, streamlined Empire Builders which will be in daily service soon after January 1.

Continuing Progress

What makes a railway? Physically, it consists of the land over which the steel rails extend, freight and passenger cars, locomotives, stations, yards, shops, stores, office buildings and a large, skilled corps of men and women.

There is another ingredient, without which the physical plant of a railway would be as inefficient and unproductive as an automobile or tractor without a steering gear. It is policy—management's established plan for the conduct of the railway's operations and services.

Great Northern Railway's policy is older than its line from Lake Superior to Puget Sound. The policy of continuing progress and consistent adherence to it have earned for Great Northern worldwide recognition as a leader in railway transportation.

Within a short time, the people who work and live along Great Northern will see and hear about the newest product of the railway's program for the continuing progress of its services. A fleet of new Empire Builders soon will be running between Chicago and the Pacific Northwest.

Even during the war, while helping to perform the greatest transportation job in history, Great Northern stuck to policy and ordered the new Empire Builders. The sleek, diesel-powered streamliners will be the first, new transcontinental sleeping car and coach trains of the postwar period. They also will be first to establish daily, 45-hour service over the northern route from Seattle and Portland to Chicago.

A 45-hour schedule for a 2,214-mile run, which involves crossing two major mountain ranges at safe, comfortable speeds, will not permit stops at many stations on Great Northern's main lines. Towns the streamliner must "highball" in order to make that schedule will be afforded the services of other fine trains. These supporting services will be maintained as long as public patronage justifies their operation.

Additional improvements in passenger services are in Great Northern's 1947 program. Nearing construction are three smaller, modern, diesel-drawn trains. One—the Red River Limited—will be operated on a daily, round-trip schedule between St. Paul and Grand Forks, N. D. Two others—the Puget Sounders—will provide faster daily service between Seattle and Vancouver, B. C.

The company's policy is responsible for the many improvements in the railway's freight services in the past several years. Largely because of shortages of serviceable equipment, plus lack of materials for repairing and construction of cars, freight service does not now always measure up to Great Northern standards. But, these war-born obstacles, which are confronting almost every American industry and business, eventually will be surmounted.

Continuing progress in providing transportation services to and from its territory, and the fullest possible encouragement for the development and welfare of that territory are basic elements of Great Northern's policy.

H. O. Hanson Passed Away Sunday

Friends and relatives from all over will pay final tribute to H. O. Hanson, Friday afternoon, at funeral services at the Nazareth Lutheran Church. Mr. Hanson well known all over eastern Marshall County passed away quietly Sunday afternoon at his home in Holt following a lingering illness which had plagued him for years.

Hans, as he was known by friends, lived a colorful life, in his 47 years on this earth. His humor was bountiful, and his friends gladly listened when Hans related happenings of bygone days or things dealing with the brighter side of life. He was always good for a laugh, no matter how sick he was, and his good natured ways accounts in part for his large circle of friends.

Mr. Hanson was sincere in his activities and relations with fellow citizens. He made the race for county commissioner eight years ago, losing by only a few votes. He again made the race this fall, losing by 88 votes.

For the past twenty-two years he has faithfully served the Holt community as the publisher of Holt Weekly News. During that time he took an active part in civic affairs, serving on the Village council, the school board and the churcsh board, until failing health forced him to retire from these extra activities.

Hans O. Hanson was born Ocober 1, 1899 at Gubrandsdalen, Norway, and at the time of his death was 47 years, two months and twenty-two days old. He was baptized in Norway while an infant, and came to this country with his parents at he age of six years.

He was united in marriage to Mabel B. Hagglund 25 years ago and to this union were born three children: Milton of Oakland; Lois (Mrs. Torrance Lillevold) of Grygla and Dorothy, (Mrs L. Curtiss Lindberg) of Cavalier, N. D.

He is survived by his wife and three children, his mother, Mrs. Ole Hanson of Portland, Oregon; four brothers, Petter of Minneavolis, Oscar of Bruce, S. D.; Melvin of Huron, South Dakota and Christ of Portland, Ore.; three sisters, Signe of Hot Springs, S. D., Clara of Portland, Oregon and Otina of Mitchell, S. D.

He was preceded in death by his father, who passed away last summer.

Cause of death was a celebral hemmorrage. He had just recently been released from the hospital where he was receiving treatment. Last summer during August he was a patient there for several weeks. In 1942 he underwent a major operation at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester. When he was only 19 years old he lost a leg in a railroad accident, but inspite of this handicapped he managed to walk with only a slight limp.

The people of Middle River, the Record staff, and friends all over join in paying tribute to a good father and citizen. The bereaved have the deepest sympathy of all in their great loss.

Peace on to his memory

Best wishes for a Happy Holiday Season were extended to the readers of this newspaper, in a message from Earl Larimer, chief patrol officer of the Minnesota Highway Department. All members of the force, said Mr. Larimer, join in the hope that the people of this community will escape the tragedies wheih all too often mar holiday happiness.

"Holidays are always a matter of great concern to all traffic officers," said Mr. Larimer. "Last year thirteen persons were killed and more than 300 injured in motor vehicle traffic accidents from Christmas eve to New Years Minnesota in the nine day period day.

"The year-round motor vehicle hazards are accentuated at this season of the year by icy surfaces and poor visibility. Add to this the usual rush of holiday travel and you have a combination that calls for extreme caution.

"Icy and slippery surfaces call for reduced speed and greater caution in stopping and in meeting and passing other vehicles. Good drivers get the feel of the road surface when they start out. They try their brakes lightly while driving slowly and when no car is near. They slow down well in advance of intersections, turns and stop signs. They do not follow other vehicles too closely.

"Poor visibility also calls for extra caution. Good drivers see that their lights are O. K., that windshields, side and rear windows are kept clear of frost and snow. They control their speed at night so they can stop in the area illuminated by their headlights. In case of fog or heavy snowfall, they wait until visibility improves.

"TAKE IT EASY when driving. Arriving a few minutes late won't spoil your holiday happiness, but too great haste might bring disaster."

Coasting Season Is Here

Coasting season is here. Coasting is fun, but it has its risks in these days of motorized traffic. Each winter a number of youngsters are killed or injured in collisions with cars or trucks, says a Highway bulletin.

The danger should not spoil the fun of coasting. Accidents can be avoided if children are trained to be safety concious.

They should never coast in or across any road or street carrying motor traffic.

Drivers are urged to be extra cautious in any area where youngsters might be coasting. Parents and civic groups are urged to see that safe coasting facilities are provided, either in areas off the street or by closing some street to traffic and using it exclusively fon coasting

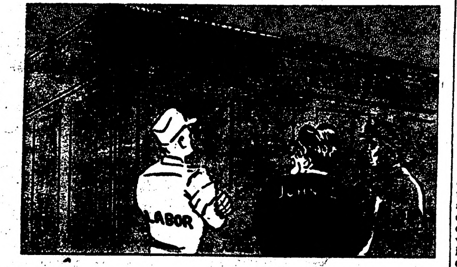
Packers Sign Wage Agreements; Grant Carriers Rate Relief; Labor Awaits High Court Decree

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



LABOR:

Packer Peace

Meat conditions continued to look rosy for the American housewife with the AFL and CIO packinghouse unions coming to terms with the big packers on new contracts without resorting to costly strikes.

The AFL Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Workmen set the pattern for peace in the industry by agreeing with Swift on a 7½ cent an hour wage increase, higher pay for night work, a better vacation plan, pay for eight holidays and reduction of geographical wage differentials. Including all benefits, the total hourly increase amounts to 12 cents.

Not to be outdone, the CIO United Packinghouse Workers of America then signed with Cudahy for an average wage increase of 15 cents, extra night pay, a sick leave plan, compensation for eight holidays and elimination of geographical wage differentials. At the same time, the CIO union also reached agreement with the Tobin Packing company of Fort Dodge, Iowa, on a new contract providing for guaranteed employment of 52 weeks.

Sue for Back Pay

As a result of a Supreme court decision of last June 10 decreeing that employees of the Mount Clemens Potters company were entitled to compensation under the fair labor standards act of 1938 for walking to their jobs on plant property, American industry faced the prospect of being forced to shell out hundreds of millions of dollars of back pay.

Wasting no time in taking advantage of the court ruling, the CIO United Steelworkers and CIO Auto Workers filed suits in the Cleveland, Ohio, federal court for back pay for 180,000 union members. The Steelworkers asked 56 million dollars for 148,000 employees of Republic Steel company and 38 million dollars for 30,000 workers of American Steel and Wire. The Auto Workers seek 12½ million dollars for 2,000 employees of Ohio Crankshaft company.

At least one employer, faced with the prospect of being forced to pay help for time spent in reaching their jobs in the plant, settled with the union. Dow Chemical company of Midland, Mich., agreed to pay 1,200 employees of John L. Lewis' UMW's District 50 a total of $4,656,000.

FREIGHT RATES:

Grant Boost

Interstate Commerce commission was unanimous in granting rail and water carriers an average 17.6 per cent freight rate increase and permitting railroads to maintain a 10 per cent passenger fare boost.

Noting that wage costs alone since 1941 have mounted by $1,382,000,000 annually, ICC declared that the new rates were necessary (1) for maintenance and development of the transport system to meet national needs, and (2) to assure the movement of a high volume of traffic efficiently.

Rates on commodities other than those especially treated were increased by 20 per cent under the ICC order while tariffs on agricultural products and livestock (except fruits and vegetables) were boosted 15 per cent. Maximum increases were allowed on many items to maintain the competitive balance between different regions.

SUPREME COURT:

Weighty Decision

In calling off the costly soft-coal strike, John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers was content to leave determination of the issue to the U. S. Supreme court. Said John L.: "The Supreme court is, and we believe will ever be, the protector of American liberties and the rightful privileges of individual citizens."

Having agreed to consider the case directly from the federal district court, the high tribunal set January 14 as the date for government and defense arguments. Upon the final decision not only rested whether the heavy fines against the UMW and Lewis would stick but, more importantly, whether government-operated industries could prevent workers from striking.

Legally, the issue boiled down to this: Could government operation of an industry be considered essential to the running of the government? As the ruling power, the government said all its actions were necessary; on the other hand, the UMW said the running of coal mines was not within governmental province.

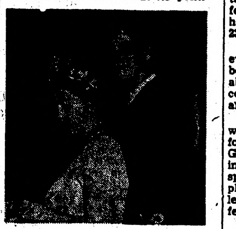
BRITAIN:

Royal Romance

Great Britain, which takes its royalty seriously, was bubbling all over with the latest regal romance, this one involving Prince Philip of Greece and Princess Elizabeth.

Long rumored, the engagement of the royal couple loomed as more and more of a possibility as the British press continued to build up the handsome, blond prince. Much ado was made of his application for British citizenship. Steamed up over the ballyhoo, bobby-soxers joined otherwise staid Britishers in believing the match was "super."

While the prince and princess made a fitting couple, the rumored romance was not without its political implications. Such a royal marriage would bind Britain more closely to Greece, which occupies a strategic position in the eastern Mediterranean and presently is a diplomatic battleground between Britain and Russia in the fight for control of the Near East.



Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip shown as they attend reception in London.

FOREIGN MINISTERS:

Germany Next

Having cleaned up the Balkan peace pacts, the foreign ministers of the Big Four agreed to undertake the thorny issue of a German treaty in Moscow next March.

The decision came as the U. S. and Britain determined to unify their two occupation zones to speed up the economic recovery of western Germany and trim their relief burdens, and continental Europe, once dependent upon the Reich for essential supplies, continued to lag in reconstruction.

U. S. consent to conduct the parley in Moscow was forthcoming only after Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov promised Secretary of State Byrnes that newsmen would be given both freedom and facilities for reporting the meeting. Byrnes insisted that newsmen had not been afforded suitable accommodations during the last confab in the Soviet capital.

Whooping Cough Takes Surprising Toll

Whooping cough kills more children each year than infantile paralysis and scarlet fever combined and many hundreds of unnecessary deaths occur annually because of exposure of children to this dangerous disease, according to a health warning from Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

In 1944 the United States Public Health service recorded 1,378 deaths from whooping cough, compared to 1,361 deaths from polio and 422 deaths from scarlet fever. Preliminary figures for 1945 show 1,726 deaths from whooping cough, compared with 1,189 from polio and 349 from scarlet fever.

The number of cases of whooping cough climbs steadily throughout the winter months, reaching a high in March or April, it was said.

U. N.:

Slap Franco

Even as 300,000 Spaniards assembled before the national palace in Madrid to hear Generalissimo Franco lash "foreign interference," the United Nations political and security committee, meeting at Lake Success, N. Y., adopted a resolution for the withdrawal of all members' ambassadors from Spain.

Remaining obdurate in its contention that no drastic action should be taken against Spain but the Spanish people should be given every opportunity for holding free elections, the U. S. abstained from voting on the resolution. As it was, the resolution was mild enough, since the countries agreed to leave other diplomatic representatives in Spain to conduct business as usual. Effect of the action was to snub Franco on the direct government level.

Fiery Spaniards plastered fiery placards against "foreign interference" in Madrid in the demonstrations against world condemnation against the Franco regime. In addressing the throngs, Franco declared: The Spanish government was a matter of concern to the Spanish people alone; Spain had demonstrated its peaceful intentions by remaining neutral through World War II; Spain showed its willingness to further prosperity by being willing to deal commercially with other nations.

'Big Train' Passes On

Another of baseball's greats passed into Valhalla with the death of Walter Johnson, 59, acclaimed by many as the greatest pitcher who ever toed the rubber.

Famed for his blinding speed, Johnson blazed a trail of glory during his 21-year playing career with the Washington Senators. Known as the "Big Train," he won 413 games and lost 280; set the modern strike-out record of 3,497, topping the 200-mark for seven consecutive seasons; hurled 2 no-hitters, and 114 shutouts.

Big Train

But statistics do not tell the true story of Johnson's greatness. Indicative of his prowess and strength, he blanked the New York Yankees three times in four days in 1910. In 1911, he struck out four men in one inning after his catcher had allowed one batter to reach base when he dropped a third strike. In 1912, he pitched 56 straight scoreless innings.

ROCKET PLANE:

Beautiful!

Stepping out of the Bell XS-1 after taking the rocket plane up to 35,000 feet and running it at 550 miles per hour, test pilot Chalmers Goodlin, 23, exclaimed gleefully:

"The plane, the engine — in fact, everything about the flight — was beautiful. It was all very quiet, with absolutely no noise at all in the cockpit, no sensation of the roar of an engine."

Fueled with ethyl alcohol mixed with oxygen, the XS-1 is designed for a speed of 1,700 m.p.h., but Goodlin held it down to 550 m.p.h. in the preliminary test. Built for speedy, high altitude flying, the plane measures only 31 feet in length and has a wing span of 28 feet.

Army acceptance of the craft is conditioned upon its ability to travel at 80 per cent of the speed of sound, which ranges from 660 m.p.h. to 763 m.p.h., depending upon temperature and altitude. In hitting it up at 550 m.p.h., Goodlin achieved a speed of 75 per cent.

NEAR EAST:

Bluff Reds

Russia drew a pass in the diplomatic poker game in the Near East as Iran, Greece and Turkey, backed by the Anglo-American powers, rebuffed leftist jockeyings for advantage in Iran and Greece.

In a bold maneuver to test the extent of Russian determination to dominate oil-rich northern Iran, government forces marched into Azerbaijan province ostensibly to guarantee free parliamentary elections. At first, Communist leaders threatened civil war if the government troops continued their march, but suddenly backtracked when the Nationalists called their bluff.

Guerrillas seeking to establish themselves in northeastern Greece also were left holding the bag when Greek regulars routed 1,000 leftists at Corymbos and the remnants were wiped out by Turkish troops when they fled across the nearby border. Communist - dominated Bulgaria was implicated in the scuffle, Greek government sources claiming that the guerrillas were provisioned by Bulgars and some of the wounded carried back into that country.

MINERS:

As John L. Lewis maneuvered for shorter hours and higher pay for his United Mine Workers an industry spokesman asserted that the miner draws more money than auto, steel and oil workmen.

Declaring that conditions in the mines have changed in recent years, Wilfred Sykes, president of Inland Steel company, averred that while miners were paid for a 54-hour week they actually dug coal only 35 to 42 hours, being compensated for lunch time and travel pay

Labor Disputants Must Heed Public's Interests

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON. — Regardless of the bitterness engendered by the coal strike many real friends of labor in Washington watched the preliminaries to the opening of congress with far less apprehension than might have been supposed.

But that wasn't true of some of the labor leaders.

There were several reasons for the fears of the latter. In the first place, it was no secret that a great many union members were getting decidedly fed up with the autocratic methods of some of the top dogs. Part of this may have been the general feeling that it was time for a change, which the voters registered so emphatically. Many of these voters were, of course, union men. Without labor's support the Republicans would not have made such great gains in many of the cities.

I talked to one union man who expressed this skeptical attitude toward the top leadership. He said there was discontent because of "too many strikes." He didn't mean strikes in his own group, necessarily. He was referring to the fact that when other unions walked out it affected him too. He didn't like the idleness that he had experienced. He resented the raising of his dues. He felt the pressure from the higher cost of living, which he did not blame entirely on big profits. He was not immune to the argument that lack of production due to strikes for which he was not responsible was also partly to blame.

His inability to control the strikes in other unions was not the only cause of his resentment. He felt that his vote in itself had very little effect; that "policy was hammered out by the big fellows."

Then, too, the stories of the fine homes and the big cars of some of the high officers didn't help. I found his attitude reflected in similar reports from other sources.

Most of these conditions to which my informant objected, of course, stood out at the very beginning of the coal strike with its powerful one-man-domination and its crippling effect on other industries.

Another feeling registered by many workers was fear of a depression. They know that that would weaken the unions because many men would do as my friend said he would have to do—forget the union and take any job he could get if work grew scarce.

Predict Curbs on Autocratic Leaders

Since many of the men who followed this line of reasoning helped make the Republican victory possible, astute political leaders, with their eyes on 1948, are preparing to stop the "smash-the-union" talk and substitute for it the slogan "smash the autocratic leaders and keep them from smashing the union."

The "friends of labor" that I mentioned realize this. They are freely predicting that this congress will not produce "destructive labor legislation."

They feel that such radical moves as compulsory arbitration or rigid government control will not succeed. They do admit they expect many of the advantages labor has enjoyed under the Wagner act will be pared down.

When the President said at a White House press and radio conference that he intended to write as strong a message as possible to the congress, it was not interpreted as meaning that any anti-labor shackles would rise. Harry Truman's whole record in congress is distinctly conservative but not reactionary. On the other hand, he doesn't intend to approach the subject from the New Deal point of view. As I pointed out previously in this column, he considers himself a "free man," bound by no previous obligations, acting under no restraint. He could not escape the tenor of the vote in November nor could he ignore the gauntlet which John Lewis threw down.

Looking around in the senate, the friends of labor feel they see evidence of enough wisdom and discretion to prevent any labor-baiting orgy even if some of the members of the house may lean to extremes. After all, most legislation is written in conference.

Although there was considerable concern expressed by their respective opponents, both Senators Taft and Ball, who naturally would be expected to initiate labor legislation, are considered too wise politically to overstep the bounds of what really amounts to common sense on this question. Neither of them would be likely to do anything they could avoid to prevent the workers or anyone else from voting Republican.

Another thing which the optimistic middle-of-the-roaders feel sure will happen is that there will be a careful study by congress of any measure which is proposed—unless, of course, some crisis develops which demands speed. In emergencies emotions run high and it is necessary to shift the ballast so rapidly merely to avoid capsizing, that legislators may swamp the boat trying to reach an even keel.

Labor suffers most in an unstable economy. Therefore, it must have a "multiple objective," as Thurman Arnold and Walter Hamilton, contributing their "Thoughts on Labor Day" to the New Republic, last September, pointed out in these words:

"It must work for a stable economy with permanent high prosperity; it must hold and advance wage rates for the sake of that permanent prosperity; it must stand firm and even take the offensive against limitation of production and the degradation of the dollar."

Therefore, to succeed, "the labor movement must be a consumer's movement as well." The consumer's vested interest in labor legislation will not be overlooked by thoughtful members of congress. It was very plain that the will of the voter in the last election was expressed in the voice of the consumer.

Must Consider Consumer In Any Negotiations

One of the most searching surveys of the whole question of collective bargaining which undoubtedly has impressed our more studious legislators is a report, made two years ago by a special committee of the 20th Century fund. This report stressed the need of recognition by both labor and management of this "third party, the consumer." In that connection the committee recommended strongly "the use of economists, engineers, impartial fact-finding techniques." They also suggested that "managements and unions together explore the possibilities of market-wide collective bargaining."

This is a subject of which you will hear more before long, I imagine.

The 20th Century fund study also sounded a warning which might well have shown a foreknowledge of some of the big strikes which followed, including the coal strike. It concluded with the admonition:

"Unless spokesmen for Big Ownership, Big Unionism and Big Government acquire a sharper awareness of their separate and joint obligations to society all three will become like the dinosaurs, which grew too big and stupid to survive. The representatives of each, sitting around the collective bargaining table, must become—more consciously than ever before — trustees of other people's money, skills and aspirations. It is the committee's earnest belief that this change in moral and psychological climate of collective bargaining is vital, necessary and long overdue."

That admonition, which went unheeded, was responsible in part for the temper of the people last November. No labor legislation offered by the present congress will stand long if it "includes the consumer out."

And if the consumer is protected both management and labor are safe.

NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS OF A COLUMNIST-COMMENTATOR

I will try to write and talk as much like a human being as possible.

I won't use any words on paper or on the air I don't use on the street car and I will be sure I know what the words I do use mean.

I will not talk or write down to my audience or up to my news sources.

I will swallow my snorts and coughs and wheezes until I can signal the engineer to cut off the mike.

I will read all my mail and answer it in person if a stamp is enclosed, or on the air or, if there is no other way, in spirit.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

WHAT two words on human tongue are more heart-warming than those! They not only represent a friendly greeting, but in them are summed up the whole spirit of the Yuletide—brightness and laughter, joy of living and joy of giving, health and happiness, peace on earth and good will to all men.

It is a greeting which we will hear often in this community of ours during these happy days of the Christmas season. We will hear it on our streets, in our stores, along our country roads and in our homes. For ours is a friendly community and nowhere is that friendly greeting more sincere. It is not possible, however, for each of us to say "Merry Christmas!" to everyone and thus complete the happy circle of Yuletide good cheer.

But there is one who has that rare privilege, one who has been a welcome visitor at the firesides of the homes in this community throughout the year and who now claims the right to be the first to wish you joy at this joyous time. That one is your Home Paper.

So your Home Paper carries from you to all the community and from all the community to you this friendly greeting:

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Scotch Oat Bread Livens Up a Meal

Breads can do much to "liven up" a meal—especially such ones as the pictured Scotch Oaten Bread, says the Country Cooking editor of Capper's Farmer, a publication of national circulation.

This crusty, tempting loaf is made from a famous recipe handed down by an early Scotch settler. For breakfast, toast it and serve with butter and jam; it's made to order for snacks; or serve for a supper dessert with creamy cottage cheese and a bowl of homemade jelly, advises the Capper's Farmer expert.

Scotch Oaten Bread.

2 cups flour	1 teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar	1¼ cups buttermilk
2½ teaspoons baking powder	2 tablespoons shortening
½ teaspoon soda	1 cup raisins or cooked prunes
1 cup quick-cooking rolled oats

Sift flour, then measure. Sift with sugar, baking powder, soda and salt. Add rolled oats and mix thoroly. Combine milk and melted shortening. Add diced fruit, stirring just enough to moisten dry ingredients. Turn into a well-greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven for 1 hour.

Veterans Start Many New Business Units

A new record birth rate seems to be in the making in this country.

Incorporation of new business units has increased substantially since the return of millions of men and women from the armed services and the resumption of production of many types of goods for civilian use.

Ordinarily some 500,000 new business establishments come into existence annually in the United States. This year that figure may be increased substantially by the thousands of business units started every week by veterans and others.

Most of the baby businesses are small, like grocery stores and service stations. Many soon die. But some will grow to become strong, enduring enterprises, creating thousands of new jobs.

The business birthrate is recognized by economists as one of the best gauges of the vigor of private enterprise.

Skjerping-Stepke Wedding

Lorraine G. Skjerping, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Skjerping of Holt, became the bride of Warren Stepke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stepke, of Milwaukee on Saturday Dec. 14. The double ring ceremony was performed at 3 o'clock by Rev. Mauer in the Sherman Park Lutheran church. The bride was given in marriage by her brother Adolph.

The bride's gown was of white slipper satin with a sweetheart neckline. The crown of her long veil was set with pearls. She carried white roses, white sweet peas and chrysanthemums.

The brides sister Dorothy was maid of honor and wore a light pink formal. She carried pink roses. The grooms attendant was Robert Hoss, a close freind of the groom.

After the ceremony, a dinner was given at the Oregon Inn for close relatives. The couple spent a short honeymoon at Chicago.

The groom served four years in the U. S. Navy and is now employed at the Nash Motor Co. at Milwaukee. The bride is employed at the Wisconsin Bell Telephone Co. as supervisor.

Friends who came from a distance to attend the funeral for H. O. Hanson included C. L. Heinze and the Skomedal family of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Obert Reierson and Mr. and Mrs. Herb Johnson of Middle River, Mr. and Mrs. Hans E. Hanson Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sletten and Mr. and Mrs. K. Arneson of Grygla, the Andeen families of Argyle.

Bread Needs

A person who does very active work, such as lumbering or ditch digging or heavy farm labor, or in the case of a woman, who keeps house for a very large family on a farm, anyone doing any of these jobs needs more than twice as much bread and cereals as those who have lighter jobs. Growing children also need more bread than grown-ups who have light work.

C. D. Wilson is receiving treatments at St. Lukes hospital at Thief River Falls where he was taken Tuesday evening after becoming very ill.

Mrs. Stanley Lysne underwent a major operation at a hospital at Thief River Falls recently.

Mr. and Mrs. John Berget were New Year's Day guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Moberg.

Mrs. G. Sjurseth was called to the home of her parents at Tolley N. D. Wednesday because of the serious illness of her mother.

A number of ladies were entertained at the O. H. Nohre home Wednesday afternoon honoring Clara Ellestad on her birth day.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Johnson and son left last week for Valley City, N. D. to make their home.

Mrs. V. E. Johnson spent a few days with her mother at Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Peterson and family, George Leslie and Willie of Gatzke and Barney Peterson of Middle River were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Peterson Christmas Day.

Clara Ellestad of Spring Grove came last week to spend the winter at the O. H. Nohre home.

Wm. Davis of Grand Forks spent Christmas with his family here in Holt.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hanson and baby of Chicago left Saturday after visiting relatives here. They will visit at Twin Valley before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs Math Lunke entertained the following on Dec. 15: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stienbauer and family, Mr. and Mr. Art Lunke, Mrs. L. Haagenson and family Mr. and Mrs. Ole Lunke and Amelia Saxberg.

Obituary

Hans O. Hanson was born October 1, 1899 at Gubrandsdalen, Norway, of parents Petra and Ole Hanson, and was at the time of his death 47 years, two months and twenty-two days old. He was baptized in Norway while an infant, and came to this country with his parents at the age of six years. The family lived near Strandquist and later at Newfolden where he grew to manhood. He was confrmed there by Rev. Bredeson.

In 1915 the family moved to Brookings, S. Dak. and a few years later to Redfield, S. Dak. where he was employed as a railroad brakeman and was there injured in a train accident and lost a leg.

In 1920 he came to Holt after purchasing a farm north of town He has published the Holt Weekly News the past 22 years. He served for many years on the local school Board of Education, Village Council and Nazareth Lutheran Church council. He was at all times very much concerned about the welfare of his family and will be sadly missed by family and friends.

He was united in marriage to Mabel B. Hagglnnd 25 years ago and to this union were born one son, Milton, of Oakland, Calif., and two daughters, Lois, Mrs. Torrance Lillevold of Grygla and Dorothy, Mrs. Curtis Lindberg of Cavalier, N. Dak.

He is survived by his wife and son and daughters, two grandsons, Gary and Duane Lillevold, his two son-in-laws, Torrance Lillevold and Curtis Lindberg; his mother, Mrs. Ole Hanson of Portland, Oregon; four brothers, Christ of Portland, Oregon, Petter of Minneapolis: Oscar of Bruce, S. Dak., Melvin of Huron S. D.; three sisters, Clara Therkildsen of Portland, Oregon; Signe Nelson of Hot Springs, S. D.: and Ottina Wagner of Mitchell, S. D., He was preceded in death by his father.

Funeral services were conducted Friday afternoon, Dec. 27, from the Nazareth Lutheran church Rev. E. O. Urness, officiating, and interment made in the Holt cemetery. The church was filled to capacity with friends and relatives who came to pay their final respects. Pall bearers were the following business men of Holt: Geo. Fricker, Sam Lorentson, O. T. Ness and Walter Larson and neighbors Walter Peterson and Iver Larson. Carlson Funeral Home had charge of the arrangements. Russell Sanoden sang "God Will Take Care of You" and "Evening Sun is Setting"

Besides a wealth of floral offerings there were memoriam gifts and cards from 95 families and sympathy cards, letters and telegrams from 36 families.

Mr. Hanson was intensely interested in nature and spent many happy hours among his trees and plants. He was very fond of the great outdoors and liked nothing better than to roam around in the woods looking for wild berries and observing growing things and birds.

Following is a tribute written by Harold V. Nelson, publisher of the Middle River Record.

H. O. Hanson Holt Weekly News publisher lived a devoted life to his family and community. His newspaper reflected the good and the bad times which Holt went through and when most small town newspapers in communities the size of Holt were quitting, Hans stayed faithful to his town by furnishing them with a media.

In any gathering or event, the Holt publisher was a welcome figure. His good humor knew no bounds. Few people are fortunate enough to possess a good natured personality like Hans had.

The services Friday were a tribute from friends and relatives As a fellow publisher, we add our tribute to a good friend, citizen husband, father and husband May he rest in peace.

Sincere thanks to all in this hour of trial and sorrow. Special thanks for the memoriam gifts, flowers, and kind expressions of comfort and sympathy.

Mrs. H. O. Hanson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Petter Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hanson and Melvin Hanson returned to their respective homes on Sunday after being here a few days to attend the funeral of their brother Hans.

Relatives who came from a distance on Friday to attend the funeral of H. O. Hanson included Mr. and Mrs. Peter Tufte and William Hoel of Erskine, Ole Hagglund of St. Hilaire, Oscar Hagglund of International Falls, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Lillevold of Grygla, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lindberg and Mary Hams of Karlstad.

Easier Dishwashing

Cut down on time consumed in dishwashing by keeping a small pail or other container filled with cool sudsy water standing on the drainboard or work table. As mixing spoons, egg beaters, knives, and other utensils are soiled, drop them in the container to soak. There will be no need for hard rubbing and scouring later when they are washed with the rest of the dishes. This plan also saves soap.

NOTICE!

With milk and butterfat prices at the highest level in the history of the dairy business, it becomes a problem to raise calves at a minimum cost.

Try a pail of MUTUAL CALF FEED. A guaranteed product for only $4.25 per pail.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

CIO Girds for New Wage Drive; U.N. Closes Meet in Harmony; More Rental Units Planned

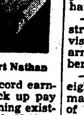
Released by Western Newspaper Union

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Elected to head interim French government, 74-year-old Leon Blum receives traditional embrace from Vincent Auriol, president of national assembly.

LABOR:
New Wage Pattern

Hardly had the hub-bub occasioned by the CIO's adoption of Economist Robert Nathan's formula for higher wages within current prices died down than United Automobile Workers hit for a pay boost of 23½ cents an hour to compensate for rising living costs in 1946.



Robert Nathan

Gist of Nathan's report, to be used as a basis for CIO wage demands in coming months, is that record earnings allow industry to jack up pay appreciably while maintaining existing price levels. Although Nathan said that the unions should negotiate new scales with different companies and industries on the basis of their abilities to pay, he averred that the manufacturing industry can grant a 21 per cent boost without raising prices and still make double the profits of the 1936-'39 period.

In view of the high earnings of industry and the gradual transformation of a seller's into a buyer's market, business leaders will hesitate before adding additional wage increases onto prices, Nathan said.

UAW Demands

In subscribing to Nathan's theory that industry can hike wages without boosting prices, UAW Chieftain Walter Reuther declared that corporation profits are running at a rate of 15 billion dollars a year in comparison with 10 billion during the war and 5 billion in the prewar period.

While business profits have been rising, consumer purchasing power has been diminishing, Reuther said. During 1946, living costs have climbed another 18 per cent, necessitating the 23½ cents an hour wage raise for the 900,000 UAW members to maintain their "take-home" pay. At present, the average wage in the industry is $1.33 an hour.

Reuther's claim of big business profits was challenged by major producers, who charged that this year's costly strikes and shortages of materials adversely affected earnings.

FRANCE:
Blum Comes Back

Though Blum's Socialist party commands only 100 seats in the 600 odd national assembly, the dominant Communist and Popular Republican parties agreed on his leadership after failure to work out a satisfactory deal between themselves for sharing the government. Ranting over the failure of achieving a coalition cabinet, Communist Representative Duclos accused the rightist Popular Republicans of "renewing the class struggle!"

Reversing his liberal policies, which led to a wave of sitdown strikes and the bitter opposition of capital in the '30's, Blum announced that he would work for stringent economies during his brief term before a permanent government is formed. He also reiterated French demands for internationalization of the Ruhr and Rhineland.

RELIGION:
Donations Lag

Although the U. S. public's church donations have scored a new high by passing the billion-dollar-a-year mark, they still trail behind consumer outlays for movie and theater tickets, amount to one-third of the nation's annual bill for tobacco, and one-eighth of its outlay for alcoholic beverages, according to Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

U. N.:
Meets Test

Having "met the test" of resolving major issues and differences, to quote U. S. Delegate Warren Austin, the United Nations general assembly adjourned until next September with this record of accomplishments:

—Acceptance of an $8,500,000 gift from John D. Rockefeller Jr. for purchase of a 17-acre site in Manhattan for a permanent U. N. home.

—Adoption of a resolution instructing the security council to devise a system of international disarmament to be presented to member countries in treaty form.

—Approval of trusteeships for eight former League of Nations mandated territories and formation of a U. N. trusteeship committee to which administering powers will report.

—Admission of Sweden, Afghanistan, Iceland and Siam to the U. N.

—Establishment of the International Refugee organization to resettle and repatriate 1,000,000 displaced persons.

HOUSING:
New Emphasis

In line with findings that most home-seekers are looking for rental rather than purchasable dwellings, the administration's new housing program places emphasis upon construction of rental property.

To encourage rental construction, Federal Housing administration will extend the amortization period for such projects beyond the usual 28 years, and work out arrangements for adjusting loans to protect owners from losses in the event of unstable economic conditions.

Whereas a maximum of $80 a month was set on rental of individual units under the veterans' emergency housing program, rentals now will be limited to an average of $80 for a building.

With the principal demand for more dwellings, any person will be permitted to build a house, thus making an apartment or old building available. Vets will continue to get first crack at homes put up for sale or rent, however.

Because of the increasing production of building materials coupled with the curb on non-residential construction, materials priorities no longer will be needed.

Though non-residential construction will continue to be restricted, permission to build stores, schools, churches and other facilities will be granted to accommodate new neighborhoods.

MILITARY:
Unify Commands

With plans for a unified command temporarily shelved by navy opposition, the services agreed to the wartime practice of naming a single chieftain for each strategic world area to increase the efficiency of operations and avoid the confusion of Pearl Harbor.

Under the setup, the theater commander is responsible directly to the joint chiefs of staff in Washington. Subordinate army and navy officers remain at the head of their respective units. Strategic air forces not assigned to theater commanders are at the disposal of the chiefs of staff.

General of the Army Douglas MacArthur heads the Far Eastern theater comprising Japan, Korea, the Philippines, Mariannas, Bonins and Ryukyus. Other area commanders include:

PACIFIC: Adm. John H. Towers.

ALASKAN: Maj. Gen. H. A. Craig.

ATLANTIC FLEET: Adm. Marc Mitscher.

CARIBBEAN: Lt. Gen. Willis D. Crittenberger.

EUROPE: Gen. Joseph T. McNarney.

FOOD:
Full Tables

After counting the bountiful yields of 1946 farm production, the department of agriculture told Americans that they would eat well again in 1947.

By intensive tillage of substantially smaller acreage than prevailed in the '20's, farmers produced record crops of wheat, corn, rice, potatoes, soybeans, tobacco and garden vegetables; near-record yields of grapes, peanuts and oats, and better than average harvests of sweet apricots, sugar cane, sugar beets, dry peas, sorghum and hay.

If Americans will have plentiful supplies of cereals, vegetables and fruits, they also are promised a full table of meat. The department reported record numbers of cattle on feed in grain belt feedlots.

Production Pattern

The department's final estimate of 1946 farm output suggested the shifting pattern of production within the past decade.

While such old American agricultural standbys as wheat, corn, potatoes and tobacco showed appreciable increases in 1946 over the 1935-'44 average, rye was down to 18,685,000 bushels from 42,356,000, and cotton dropped to 8,482,000 bales from 12,553,000.

Because of changing needs, emphasis was placed on other crops. To make up for a drop in imports, rice production was boosted to 71,520,000 bushels from the 10-year average of 55,257,000; to meet the demands for industrial and edible oils, soybean yields jumped to 196,725,000 bushels from 103,457,000, and peanut output soared to 2,075,880,000 pounds from 1,587,964,000; and as part of the program to raise nutritional standards, the harvest of dry peas increased to 6,926,000 bags from 4,580,000.

SPORT:
Gambling Menace

In the early 1800's, American youth held up the statesman as a tin god; in the late 1800's, it was the empire builder, and since the early 1900's, it has been the athlete.

Most touching example of the faith that the average American boy put in his athletic hero involved the young kid who clutched at "Shoeless Joe" Jackson's sleeve when that great outfielder emerged from questioning over his part in the Black Sox baseball scandal of 1919. With tears in his eyes, the kid pleaded: "Say it isn't so, Joe, say it isn't so."

Unfortunately, Joe couldn't, but fortunately, had any kid been waiting outside Mayor O'Dwyer's mansion in New York on the morning of December 15, Frankie Filchock and Merle Hapes of the New York football Giants would have been able to say so. By turning down alleged bribes from a gambling front, the two grid stars saved pro football from disgrace.

Playing the game on the level, Frankie Filchock (with ball) leads Giant attack against Bears.

Efforts of the gamblers to get the two Giants to throw the pro championship game to the Chicago Bears marked the first known attempt by the "easy-money" boys to corrupt pro football and lessen the risk of their heavy wagering.

INDIA:
Troubles, Troubles

Mother India, long sorrowing for freedom, could see nothing but trouble ahead as she planned the achievement of her independence after centuries of British domination.

For freedom seemed to mean different things to the powerful political factions within the country: To the majority Congress party chiefly embracing the Hindus, independence represented a unified nation; to the minority Moslem league, it stood for "pakistan" or self-rule of Mohammedan provinces.

While the wily British professed their desire for a free India, they looked on apprehensively as Hindus and Moslems locked horns. Attending the constituent assembly being held in New Delhi to frame a constitution for the new India, the usually mild and compromising Hindu Leader Nehru breathed fire: The Moslem league was reactionary and the British may favor "pakistan" to divide India, he said, but the Hindus were determined to solve their own problems.

TOURIST TRADE:
Booming Again

Total tourist expenditures this year will exceed the six billion dollars of 1940 despite limited production of automobiles, a study of the tourist trade by American Road Builders' association reveals.

The season just closed saw travel-hungry Americans taking to the highways. Up to September 30, a record number of 21,682,782 tourists had visited the 27 parks and 142 other areas operated by National Park service.

HINTS

Write as You Talk

ARE you a pen-chewer? The words will come more easily if you'll bear in mind that a letter is merely conversation between friends. Just write as you would speak!

Remember, people judge you by your letters. Do you know the correct salutation and ending for various types of letters? Are you sure of your English and grammar? It pays to brush up?

Our 40-page booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," includes many samples, rules and hints. Send 25 cents (coin) to Weekly Newspaper Service, 243 W. 17th St., New York 11, N. Y. Print your name, address, booklet title.

Toweling Useful On Ironing Board

Initials, heavy seams, and some laces look best when ironed over a Turkish towel. Keep a piece of Turkish toweling pinned over the end of your ironing board so it will be there handy when you come across such bits of work during your ironing. Then, no matter how busy and hurried you may be, no extra time or effort will be required for articles that should have this special attention.

Tiny Fold of Sandpaper Holds Mirror In Place

If a larger mirror or picture frame is inclined to slip forward from its resting place on a mantel or shelf, try putting a tiny fold of sandpaper under each end of the frame. The bit of paper won't show but your mirror will remain right where you place it.

Almanacs Long-Lived in U. S.; One in 250th Year

Among the oldest publications in the United States are the local almanacs the contents of which appeal chiefly to farmers, says Collier's.

For example, Gruber's Hagerstown Almanac is now in its 149th year, the Old Farmer's Almanac in its 154th, Daboll's New England Almanac in its 174th and Foulsham's Almanack in its 250th year.

Sublime to Ridiculous

A slightly tipsy gentleman walked into the telegraph office, took a pencil, spent three or four minutes in deep thought, and wrote this message to a friend in St. Louis:

"Tra la, tra la, tra la, tra la."

He signed it and presented it to the lady behind the counter.

After checking it, she said: "That will be 64 cents."

The gentleman paid her and she said: "You used only eight words."

"What would you suggest adding?" he finally asked.

"Well, how about just adding 'tra la,'" she said.

"No," he said firmly, "that would just make it sound silly."

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Truly Surprising

So Easy. No Cooking. Big Saving.

You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it's hard to beat.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils. Children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick relief, it's a wonder. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Ring Out the Old, Ring In the New

Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky,
The flying cloud, the frosty light;
The year is dying in the night;
Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.

Ring out the old, ring in the new,
Ring, happy bells, across the snow;
The year is going, let him go;
Ring out the false, ring in the true.

Ring out the grief that saps the mind,
For those that here we see no more;
Ring out the feud of rich and poor,
Ring in redress to all mankind.

Ring out a slowly dying cause,
And ancient forms of party strife;
Ring in the nobler modes of life,
With sweeter manners, purer laws.

Ring out the want, the care, the sin,
The faithless coldness of the times;
Ring out, ring out my mournful rhymes,
But ring the fuller minstrel in.

Ring out false pride in place and blood,
The civic slander and the spite;
Ring in the love of truth and right,
Ring in the common love of good.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease;
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold;
Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.

Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the Christ that is to be.

—Lord Tennyson.

Pagans Also Sent New Year's Cards

Here in America the popular and evergrowing custom of exchanging New Year's greeting cards is of fairly recent origin, but actually the New Year's card antedates the more familiar Christmas card by several hundred years.

With Christmas our greatest national holiday, most of us are inclined to think of New Year's as a sort of happy afterthought. The fact is, it is one of the oldest of festivals, dating back to pagan times. In certain countries of Europe where Christmas is observed as a purely religious festival, New Year's takes the form of a real feast day and its celebration is marked by rejoicing and the exchange of gifts and greetings.

The earliest known New Year's "greetings" were medals marked with good wishes which date back to the reign of the Roman Emperor Commodus (180-192). And while New Year's cards long have been a tradition in China, where the technique of printing was invented, the first European New Year's card we have record of is of German origin, dating back to the 1450s. It depicts the Christ Child and a chest overflowing with good wishes. Another card of the same period has a treasure ship as its central design.

Our present-day New Year's cards have an impressive history behind them. With their festive confetti colors and "Baby New Year," "Father Time," bells and balloons, they serve as messages of the good will we feel toward our friends and neighbors, and of our hope for "A Prosperous and Happy New Year!"

New Year Antedates Birth of Christ

The celebration of New Years on January 1 began in 452 B. C., and therefore, contrary to logical reasoning, had nothing whatsoever to do with the birth of Christ.

After December 25 had been established as the day of nativity, the church made January 1 a religious festival honoring the circumcision of Jesus; the day being thus observed in the church.

History Has Been Made On New Year's Since Early Ages

While January, Capricornus, the Goat, symbolized the nurse which cared for the young gods of the sun, the first month has furnished many of the important dates in the history of the world, and the first day of the year has been generous in its contributions. The Gregorian month of January is the namesake of Janus, the two-faced Roman god accredited with the ability to look backward and forward simultaneously.

Debate of Solar Years vs. Calendar Years Continues

The earth evolves around the sun in exactly 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes and 46 seconds: consequently, Leap Years omitted haphazardly might result in the sun running away from the calendar and too many Leap Years would speed the calendar on ahead of the sun.

The Gregorian calendar, devised and presented to the world in 1582 by Pope Gregory XIII, provides that years divisible by four—exclusive of the years numbering the centuries—shall have 366 days.

Calendar Revised Date Changed New Year's Day

In 1582 the Julian calendar was replaced by the Gregorian in a proclamation issued by Pope Gregory XIII. This established January 1 as New Year's Day. Our present calendar, known as the Gregorian calendar, is based upon Pope Gregory's revision of the Julian calendar and is more nearly in accord with the solar calendar—the error being reduced to only one day in 3,323 years.

Protestant states did not adopt the Gregorian calendar until the 18th century. It was not until the 20th century that Russia and others of the Balkan states decided to do likewise.

Early Scots Used Bible for Fortunes

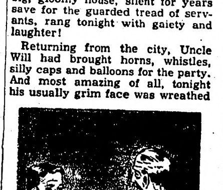
A glimpse into the future and the fortunes of individuals could be found in the Bible, the early Scots believed. The sacred book was laid upon the table, opened at random and a finger was placed on the printed page. The entire chapter was then read, and the message it held was believed to describe in some way the happiness or misery in store for the person concerned.

By JAMES KINSEY

"A wonderful party!" Susan Blanke's eyes were shining as she spoke. "I can't imagine your Uncle Will giving a party—and on New Year's Eve, at that! This is one puzzle that has me stumped!"

Handsome Douglass Wilson, with whom she was sitting out the dance, nodded agreement. There was ample reason for Susan's bewilderment. Never, until tonight, had his Uncle Will demonstrated anything but complete criticism for the younger generation. Even the most simple pleasures of youth had drawn his frown. But tonight, for no apparent reason, he had performed a complete about-face and opened his own home to Doug's friends. The big, gloomy house, silent for years save for the guarded tread of servants, rang tonight with gaiety and laughter!

Returning from the city, Uncle Will had brought horns, whistles, silly caps and balloons for the party. And most amazing of all, tonight his usually grim face was wreathed in smiles. He seemed to be enjoying the evening like a schoolboy.



"It's the most puzzling thing!" Susan repeated.

She smiled as Doug pressed her hand, remembering suddenly how much she loved him, yet how difficult Uncle Will had made their relationship. Doug had lived there in the big house since his parents died. Now, grown up, he was managing the estate.

"Uncle Will just began making preparations for the party when he came back from New York," Doug said. "But he hasn't told me a word. I'm as much in the dark as you, Sue!"

They were silent a moment. "I'm afraid that tomorrow he'll turn back into Uncle Grouch," he continued. "I just can't remember Uncle Will ever smiling before. . . . But let's talk about you. Darling, I don't care if he is opposed to young people getting married. I'm going to tell him the truth tomorrow. I don't care if—"

"So you don't care, eh?" Uncle Will was suddenly standing beside them, his expression threatening. "You're willing to defy me?" In the shadows they were unable to see the twinkling in his eyes.

"Well, it's the only thing we can do," Doug answered hotly. "You—you're so hard about everything, we have to defy you, since you put it that way."

"You don't have to, son!" Uncle Will had come closer and placed an arm around each of their shoulders. "You can marry Susan just as soon as you want to—"

"But, we don't understand," Doug gasped. "Why, only a week ago you said—"

"I said those things deliberately, children," Uncle Will interrupted. "You see, there's something I haven't been able to tell you until tonight, Doug. When your father died, making me your guardian, he stipulated that you were to inherit his estate only if you remained single until January 1 this coming year—that is, until midnight tonight. At the same time, for some peculiar reason, he stipulated that you weren't to be told about this provision—so if I'd let you get married sooner, you'd have lost everything. It was a strange provision that he made in his will," he concluded. "But it's worked out satisfactorily. . . ."

Doug was gasping. "And that's why you've been so opposed to my marrying Sue?" he asked.

"That's right, Doug," he nodded. "I've wanted so badly to tell you these past few months, but you see, I couldn't—until tonight!"

He pulled himself loose from their grasp. "Come along, you youngsters!" he shouted gayly. "I've thought of something to climax this party. It's just two minutes to midnight, and I'm going to announce your engagement! Happy New Year!"

Japan Celebrates New Year's Fourteen Days

At least 14 days are needed in Japan to celebrate the coming of the new year. During the festival streets are made lively by stilt-walking, top-spinning or ball-playing.

While the youths are enjoying the outdoor sports, the older people write New Year's poems or play games. After two weeks of revelry the burning of decorations end the celebration.

Eat Cake

Today's acute housing shortage was in plain view ten years ago. Experts in the business of building and equipping homes were writing articles and making speeches back in the 1930's forcasting what they called the building boom of the 1940's. They supported their predictions with sound reasoning and leaders in many equipment lines arranged to meet the demand.

A quick look at census figures, years before Pearl Harbor, would have convinced almost anybody that an unusually big share (say 20%) of the U. S. population would reach an age to be married between 1940 and 1946. Patently this would call for more places to live and, true to form under free enterprise, business men began getting ready quietly to serve this market, but war interfered.

Plans Not Executed.

Wars always frustrate plans, and few were revised more in World War II than those of the building trades. Priorities on materials, general shortage of labor and the compelling urge for victory changed most things but the predicted need for more housing came right on schedule. It is even bigger than experts estimated ten years ago because war retarded building and accelerated marrying.

Plans made before the war for meeting this expected peak demand are still workable plans. If industry were free today as it was then, people who want homes would be getting them a great deal faster. I believe Herbert U. Nelson of the National Association of Real Estate Boards has proved that Washington bureaucracy is chiefly to blame for today's housing shortage.

Facts to Remember

It's an old story that America has housing a plenty, and it was always true until right lately. France, England and other European countries that have endured regulation of home building since World War I have been short of housing meanwhile. Bureaucracy got a firm grip on American building during World War II and now hates to let-go, shortage or no shortage.

The O.P.A. is the sorest bunion on the toe of our progress. Here is an illustration: Manufacturers of fir doors got caught behind increased manufacturing costs and asked O.P.A. for permission to raise prices 75c per door. It was refused. Result: No doors by mass production. Carpenters can build doors where they hang them, of course, at much loss of time and at several times normal cost.

Industry Is Ready.

A similar man-made muddle built a bottleneck in window sash. There's almost no end to the roster of crippling rules in this one industry. Miles Colean, a thoroughly respected Washington economist, says that industries producing building materials are fully reconverted, full capacity restored. Still the most productive nation of history is handcuffed and can't house itself. Why?

A price-fixing agency, while proclaiming its loyalty to the people, has refused many small strategic upward revisions, thus halting production. Consumers do without things or pay amazing prices for makeshifts. It savors of the Marie Antoinette school of thought. On being informed that by reason of her extravagance her subjects had no bread, she said "Let them eat cake."

Income Tax Declaration Due

E. F. Kelm, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Minnesota district, reminded federal income taxpayers today that January 15 is the deadline for filling, amending and paying 1946 Declaration of estimated tax.

In issuing this reminder, collector Kelm cautioned taxpayer not to confuse the January 15 tax date with the usual March 15 deadline filing final 1946 income tax returns. However, he pointed out that if a taxpayer files and pays his final 1946 tax return on (form 1040) by January 15, it will serve both as his return and as any declaration or amended declaration which would otherwise be due from him on that date.

The Collector estimated that only about one out of every five taxpayers in his district are required to file anything January 15, since this date concerns only those taxpayers whose tax is not substantially paid up by witholding from wages. In other words, the average wageearner who gets his entire income from wages subject to withholding' is not required to file a declaration and need only file his final return before March 15.

Marilyn Movick of St. Peter visited here last week with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Alf Movick and family.

Bread Needs

A person who does very active work, such as lumbering or ditch digging or heavy farm labor, or in the case of a woman, who keeps house for a very large family on a farm, anyone doing any of these jobs needs more than twice as much bread and cereals as those who have lighter jobs. Growing children also need more bread than grown-ups who have light work.

Food Subsidy Lifts Huge Federal Debt

Federal subsidy of food is one reason for the accumulation of an enormous national debt.

Subsidies totaling nearly $5,000,000,000 have been paid from the Federal treasury in the last three years on numerous food products. This spending has contributed to the increase in the Federal debt, which now exceeds $5,000 for every family in the nation.

In the opinion of many economists, the food subsidy program has defeated its purpose. The subsidies, these economists explain, exert inflationary effect on living costs by failing to provide the incentive for increased production by farmers which would be derived from higher prices.

Stew Covers

The home economists say that by making a cover for stews, we can stretch the servings of meat even further. A pastry top not only stretches the flavor but adds a nice body to the stew. A layer of mashed potatoes, rounds of biscuit dough or corn meal mush brushed with melted fat all can be used successfully on top of a deep dish of stew. [illegible] the crust is browned in the oven just before serving.

Treasury Uses Cash For Debt Reduction

Cuts in Federal debt, the first in years, are being made from large reserves of cash built up through Treasury over-borrowing, rather than from a surplus of government income over expenditures.

The redemption of more than $10,000,000,000 in national debt this year, dropping the debt total to around $269,000,000,000, merely has drawn upon Treasury bank balances.

The Treasury made a practice of carrying extraordinarily large reserves of cash during the height of war spending and borrowing. With the ending of the war, the need for these large balances diminished, although the government continued to show a deficit on revenues.

Real progress toward the goal of debt reduction awaits a surplus of Federal revenues over spending. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, representing business views, is urging a balanced Federal budget with a margin for debt retirement not later than the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1947.

Claims for Back Travel Pay Pass ½ Billion; Farm Chiefs Call for Protective Tariff

Released by Western Newspaper Union

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

PORTAL TO PORTAL:
Claims Mount

As union claims against industry for back pay for walking to the job or preparing for work on company property mounted to over half a billion, tax experts opined that Uncle Sam may have to bear the burden of the settlements if the firms are permitted to obtain tax credits for such disbursements.

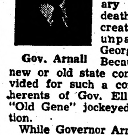
Although John L. Lewis first pointed up the question of so-called "portal to portal" pay for miners traveling to the coal faces underground, the principle was given industry-wide implications with the Supreme court's decision upholding such compensation retroactive to 1938 for employees of the Mount Clemens, Mich., Pottery company.

The Supreme court verdict was followed by a rush of the major CIO unions for such retroactive back pay, with the United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers suing International Harvester for 100 million dollars. Since employees have been paid for a 40 hour week, the unions are asking for overtime pay plus damages.

Firms may be able to charge off back payments to Uncle Sam under provisions of the income tax law permitting companies to carry back net operating losses into the two preceding years and also apply such losses in two succeeding years.

Meanwhile, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce polled its membership on congressional amendment of the fair labor standards act of 1938 under which portal to portal pay has been based. The chamber proposed (1) observance of custom, practice or agreement in different localities or industries as to working rules; (2) provision for relief for unwitting violation of the law, and (3) permission of companies and unions to make compromise settlements.

GEORGIA:
Gubernatorial Mix-Up

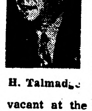


Gov. Arnall

Ability of the late Gene Talmadge's following to muster full strength when the general assembly convenes was to determine Georgia's next governor.

"Old Gene" himself was scheduled to take office January 14 before his death intervened, creating a situation unparalleled in Georgia's history. Because neither the new or old state constitutions provided for such a contingency, adherents of Gov. Ellis Arnall and "Old Gene" jockeyed for the position.

While Governor Arnall disavowed any intention of taking advantage of the uncertain legal situation to remain in office, he proposed to retain his post until the new pro-Arnall lieutenant governor is sworn in, when he will resign in his favor.



H. Talmadge

Anxious to obtain the gubernatorial seat, however, "Old Gene's" followers hoped to muster sufficient strength to declare the post vacant at the election canvass when the assembly convened, then name his son, Herman, governor. Although only "Old Gene's" name was on the ballot at the last election, his son received a number of write-in votes to provide for just such a contingency as occurred. Thus, the legislature could turn to Herman as the nominal choice of the people.

TARIFF:
Seek Protection

Historically for free trade, the deep south reversed its position in petitioning President Truman and Federal Trade commission for a strong protective tariff for American agriculture.

Signed in behalf of the elected commissioners of agriculture of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, North Carolina, Texas, Tennessee and Virginia, the petition reached Mr. Truman as the government prepared for renegotiation of existing rates in reciprocal trade treaties drawn under the act of 1934 and subsequent extensions.

Declaring that industrially undeveloped nations could pay for American manufactured goods only with agricultural products, the commissioners warned against subjecting U. S. farmers to a flood of foreign commodities and reducing their living standards to a subsistence level. Calling for a trade program fitted into the American economy, the commissioners advocated the exchange of such exportable products as wheat, lard and cotton for rubber, coffee, tea and bananas.

Wisely, the commissioners' petition was national rather than sectional in its nature. Although professing concern for the future of cotton in competition with foreign rayon, nylon and other artificial fibers made in reconverted armament plants, the commissioners also warned that a further lowering of tariff rates would adversely affect cattle, oleomargarine, butter, cheese, fish, eggs, grains, potatoes, peanuts and vegetables.

Dramatically pointing up the effect of cheap foreign competition on American products, the commissioners declared that whereas white and sweet potato starches had been used for the adhesives on the back of stamps and the flaps of envelopes, the adhesive on the stamp bearing the petition was made of imported cassava roots.

ITALY:
Postwar Troubles

Despite substantial assistance from the U. S., Italy has been treading a rocky road to postwar recovery.

Italy's troubles are not all economic, although shortages of foodstuffs and widespread unemployment resulting from industrial stagnation have contributed to the political turmoil. The left and the right are pulling against themselves for political advantage and a rising wave of anticlerical propaganda threatens the traditional spiritual unity of the people.

On the economic front, Italy is short of wheat, and spaghetti and macaroni rations have been cut in half. Pig iron production is down to 28 per cent of the prewar level; textile fabrics, 56 per cent; chemicals, 66 per cent; mechanical goods, 76 per cent; cotton thread, 88 per cent. Imports are almost three times exports.

Helping Hand

Since Uncle Sam has dealt generously with Italy, it is looking confidently for more assistance from the U. S. Thus far, the U. S. has agreed to compensate Italy for supporting American invasion troops and furnishing war supplies, and has extended credits for purchase of overseas surplus. In addition, Italy has profited from U. S. contributions to UNRRA and the international bank.

Despite the difficulties presented by shortages of both foodstuffs and industrial materials, both the left and right wings have made political capital of unrest. Latest example was the food riots engineered by Communists in southern Italy. As a result of the political bickering, there has been a resurgence of Fascist sentiment, with Mussolini's former followers growing increasingly bolder.

Leftists also have backed the attacks on pope and church, with the intention of weakening respect for the Catholic doctrine of authority, family and property. However, the rightist dominated government has been quick to fight abusive criticism of the clergy. An editor charged with publishing phornographic cartoons of a friar and unclad woman was sentenced to two years in jail.

U. S. HEALTH:
Shows Improvement

After getting off to a bad start in the early months of the year, the health record among life insurance policyholders in the United States was excellent for the year 1946 as a whole.

At the start of the year, there was a rise in the death rate among policyholders, but by the second quarter this trend was reversed and a marked improvement was shown.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

The touring company had never been of the best, and when they reached the stage of playing to the family of the man who owned the little country theater, and found that even they left at the end of the first act, it was decided to break up. Two of the actors set out to work their way back to New York.

They were lucky enough to get a passage on a barge, and when passing through a lock they overheard this conversation:

"What you got on board, Jim?"

"Load of fertilizer and a couple of actors, Bert."

The two actors looked at each other in silence, then sighed deeply.

"Cyril," said one, "shall we never top the bill?"

Cotton Sacks Make Smart Clothes for Family

COTTON sacks are doing double duty in these days of fabric shortages, the Home Editor of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer points out.

With a little ingenuity and various sizes of bags, one can make intriguing things for the home and smart pieces of clothing for the family.

"Appliqued cherries and red embroidered rickracks give accent to these chic mother-daughter outfits," this Capper's Farmer expert writes. "Rough - weave, bleached cotton sacks were used. When preparing the sacks for sewing, rip the stitching and remove any printing by soaking them overnight in thick soapsuds. In the morning wash them in warm, soapy water, rubbing printed parts between the hands. If this does not remove all marks, boil for 10 minutes in soapy water. Rinse well, dry and press. If you wish, dye plain material to a preferred color.

Ready for Slumberland.

Chic Frocks for Warm Weather.

"Pajamas for this six-year-old boy were made from two 100-pound sacks. The facings are print.

"Twin jumpers made from cotton sacks are another budget-saving costume for mothers and daughters. They can be dyed a bright blue and smartly decorated with red felt apples. Other basic spring and summer outfits may be made from thrifty cotton sacks."

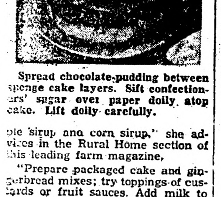
In addition to useful information on styles, wardrobe replenishment and sewing, women readers of Capper's Farmer regularly find interesting features in the magazine on cooking, child care, beauty, gardening and other topics.

Milk-Made Desserts Easy on Sugar Ration

TEMPTING to the eye and pleasing to the palate, milk-made desserts can be easy on the sugar ration and kind to the budget.

That's the practical tip to homemakers given by Alice M. Cooley, director of home economics of the National Dairy Council in nationally circulated Capper's Farmer.

"Vary the popular stand-bys, custards, rice and bread puddings, by cutting their already low sugar content with sweetening of honey, maple sirup and corn sirup," she advises in the Rural Home section of this leading farm magazine.



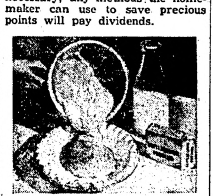
Spread chocolate pudding between sponge cake layers. Sift confectioners' sugar over paper doily atop cake. Lift doily carefully.

"Prepare packaged cake and gingerbread mixes; try toppings of custards or fruit sauces. Add milk to packaged puddings; cook and serve chilled in pies or between layers of cake.

"Thus with a little ingenuity a busy homemaker accomplishes three purposes. Sugar is spared, the family is pleased, and providing the day's milk requirements—a minimum of a quart for every child and a pint for every adult—is made easier."

Try orange custard sauce on gingerbread squares. Replace 2 tbsp. of each cup of milk in custard with 1½ tbsp. orange juice and ½ tsp. grated orange rind. Serve chilled.

One of the chief attractions about these milk-made desserts is their sugar-saving quality. Food authorities advise that sugar rationing may have to be retained for some months after the war's end. So, for the duration and as long thereafter as necessary, any methods the homemaker can use to save precious points will pay dividends.



Add milk to pudding mix, cook and turn into baked pie shell. For a feathery light filling, fold in beaten egg whites. Chill well.

Monopolism

Norway has little government-managed industry, as such. The only things wholly owned and operated by the government are the post office, telephone and telegraph, electric power, and railroads. There seems to be no agitation for extension of government ownership and management. In fact, some leaders feel the trend is in the other direction and that the government has shown no ability to provide efficient service.

However, cooperatives are numerous in Norway. Entirely different from government management, they nevertheless control the buying and selling of almost everything and are monopolistic in nature. The effective organizations of the co-ops, while individually owned, have been used in some instances for extension of government control. Subsidies have been offered to framers' cooperatives in an effort to please everybody: the producers with higher prices and the purchasers with low prices.

Wait 'Til You're Old

The completeness of the cooperative monopoly may be seen in the association of drug store operators, to which all operators belong. To open a new drug store a man would first have to become a member of the association and get its approval, after which he would appeal to the government for a license. The government could never grant a license unless the applicant were admitted to the association.

Drug store operators admit no new members except at their own pleasure, and then seldom except to replace a member who has died. I was told that an aspirant to the drug industry can seldom be admitted to the association and obtain permission to operate his own store before he is 45 years old.

Plenty of Frontiers

A successful business man in Oslo, who was a prominent leader of the resistance during the war, is in charge of an old firm with an excellent reputation. Said he: "The regulations have come to interfere with everything. I am no longer really doing business. I just sit here and do what they tell me I can do. In my opinion, the controls are a failure. They make production more expensive and prices higher."

Under the right kind of economic climate, the Norwegian people could raise their standard of living. And this right climate Communism can never provide. Norway does not lack for frontiers. Their farms produce as many bushels of grain per acre as our farms. The fishing waters of Norway are not surpassed. Possibilities for electric power are the best in the world. Manufacturing and lumbering offer only the ordinary difficulties. The country is not over populated. Yet their standard of living is not more than half as high as that in America.

There Is a Way Out

When forward looking Norwegians try to modernize an industry, they are met squarely with the deadening hand of monopoly, either private or public. If one fishing company manages to find a way to sell its products at a good price, while another company exports its fish to Europe for a lower price, the former company pays a tax which goes to the second company for the sake of equalization.

This policy invariably discourages excellence and tends to mediocrity. A premium is thus placed on inefficiency and on failure to make money. But a realistic incentive system, based upon honest competition throughout, could soon make little Norway one of the most prosperous small nations in the world.

Harvey-Hagglund Wedding

Of interest to friends and relatives at Holt is the wedding which took place at the Lutheran parsonage at Hendersonville N. C. when Miss Velma Harvey daughter of Mrs. W. Harvey of Pittsburg, Pa., became the bride of Irvin Hagglund, son of Mrs. Bertha Hagglund of Holt, Rev. John D. Barringer, pastor of the Grace Lutheran Church reading the ceremony on Dec. 29th.

The bride is a graduate of Pittsburg University and is a member of several fraternities. For several years she worked as continuity secretary for Uuiversal Pictures in Hollywood. She has written numerous magazine articles. She recently worked as secretary for Pan-American Airways at Daytona Beach, Fla.

The groom is well known in Holt. He has recently returned from two years of overseas duty in the U. S. Army and has been reorganizing his Art work, in the field of cartooning. He is at present working with J. Calder Joseph, well known cartoonist.

They have established a home in the beautiful Blue Ridge Mountains at Hendersonville and Irvin writes "If you come thru here and see a hillbilly that resembles me, it is."

Tips On Feeding Your Calf

Although there is no substitute for milk in feeding the dairy calf the dairyman can't afford to feed his calves milk longer than absolutely necessary at present milk prices. says County agent Forbes

T. W. Gullickson, professor of dairy husbandry at University Farm, has worked out a plan for raising calves on a minimum of milk. Actually the plan differs very little from the usual method except that special care is taken to keep calves healthy thrifty and well-fed, says Forbes.

It never pays to raise and feed poor calves. They should be culled out as early as possible to save milk and other feed.

Allow the calf to be with its mother for several days to take advantage of colostrum. Feed whole milk for a month or more, and then substitute skimmilk until weaned. The daily feeding of milk or skimmilk should equal about 10 per cent of the calf's weight.

Do not wean calves until they are eating at least a pound each of hay and grain per day or until they're about a month and a half old, Gullickson says.

Encourage the calf to start eating hay and grain when a week old. Good quality mixed hay is best, with legumes second choice. Always let the calf have all the hay it wants.

For best results, the grain mix should contain 15 to 20 per cent by weight of high-animal protein The calf can have up to 4 pounds daily from the time it's a week old until it's 9 months old.

Calves from 4 to 9 months old may have the same grain and hay as the regular herd limiting the grain, of course, to 4 pounds. Beyond that age, if on good pasture, no grain need be fed until a month before the heifer is to calve, Gullickson says.

BETTER SOIL CARE MEANS HIGH YIELD, LOWER OUTPUT COST

CHICAGO.—Soil conservation was recommended as "Item No. 1" in the farmer's postwar planning, in a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"The best preparation a farmer can make to meet the competitive conditions of the postwar period is to build up the fertility level of his soil," the statement points out.

"It is simple common sense to make ready for the inevitable lowering of farm prices which will come when the present abnormal demand for food slackens. The farmer who looks ahead will have his soil in such shape that high crop yields will cut his production costs to the point where he can withstand a period of lower prices.

"Thus the purchase and application of mixed fertilizer during the next year or two is one of the soundest investments a farmer can make for the future. Compared to the prices of farm products, fertilizer is cheaper today than it has been at any time in the past. In addition to promoting soil conservation, fertilizer pays its own way. Experience has shown that every dollar spent on fertilizer may be expected to return from $3 to $5 in increased yields, quality and feeding value.

"The need for soil conservation has been intensified by vast wartime crop production schedules. The soil's resources of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash have been used up faster than they have been replaced in order to meet the wartime need for more food. Hence a gigantic soil rebuilding job lies ahead—a job which necessarily must be the responsibility of the individual farmer."

Hazardous Construction

Nearly half of the farm fires in this country are due to faulty construction of buildings, such as cracks in chimneys, worn parts in heating plants and inflammable roof materials.

DID YOU BUY A BOND TOO?

Ponder these facts, niece and nephew. In 1937 many Americans bought the Series C Savings Bond, similar in every respect to the present Series E bond which millions of you are now buying regularly through payroll savings or at your bank or post office.

During 1947 the Treasury Department will hand over $4 for every $3 these wise Americans laid away 10 years ago. The total payoff in interest is a staggering sum—over $100,000,000. Nearly 75 per cent of all buyers of Series C bonds held on to them for the full 10 years. You have the opportunity now to join your fellow Americans who will share in the Treasury Department's 1957 payoff of an extra dollar for every $3 you invest now in Savings Bonds.

Rail Quiz

What is meant by "tie treatment" or "treated ties"?

Crossties, switch ties and bridge ties saturated with creosote, zinc chloride or other preservatives to prevent decay or destruction by insects are called "treated." The treatment more than doubles service life of the ties. Bridge timbers, piling, poles and other woods are also treated this way.

Crematories Offer Service, Niche for Departed Pets

Of the four crematories for pet animals in this country, the most modern is in New York City. Established in 1939, it cremates annually over 500 pets, such as dogs, cats, parrots and canaries, charging from $15 to $25 for the service, from $5 to $300 for the urn and from $25 to $100 for a niche and its perpetual care.

Matter Over Mind

Sir Mark Young, governor of Hong Kong when it was taken by the Japanese, and who was taken prisoner at that time and later released, is the hero of many stories illustrating a rapier-like wit. One of the best is of the lady, lunching at Government House, who was aggrieved to find herself on Sir Mark's left instead of his right.

She approached her grievance obliquely—but made it fairly obvious. Finally she remarked: "I suppose it is really very difficult for your A.D.C. always to put your guests in their right places?"

"Not at all," said Sir Mark blandly, "for those who matter don't mind, and those who mind don't matter."

When Your "Innards" are Crying the Blues

WHEN CONSTIPATION makes you feel punk as the dickens, brings on stomach upset, sour taste, gassy discomfort, take Dr. Caldwell's famous medicine to quickly pull the trigger on lazy "innards", and help you feel bright and chipper again.

DR. CALDWELL'S is the wonderful senna laxative contained in good old Syrup Pepsin to make it so easy to take.

MANY DOCTORS use pepsin preparations in prescriptions to make the medicine more palatable and agreeable to take. So be sure your laxative is contained in Syrup Pepsin.

INSIST ON DR. CALDWELL'S—the favorite of millions for 50 years, and feel that wholesome relief from constipation. Even finicky children love it.

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

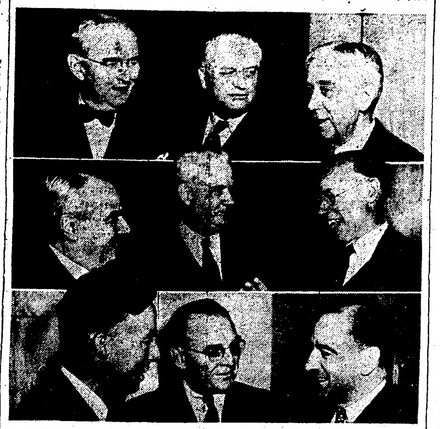
WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

GOP Takes Over 80th Congress; President Cuts Wartime Powers; Industrial Pay Reaches Peak

Released by Western Newspaper Union

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



Opening of 80th congress saw Republican majority in limelight. At top, Senators Vandenberg (Mich.), Wherry (Neb.) and White (Me.) In middle, Senators Robertson (Wyo.), Bricker (Ohio) and Taft (Ohio). Bottom, Senators Cain (Wash.), Thye (Minn.) and McCarthy (Wis.).

CONGRESS:
Ready to Go

Taxes and labor legislation were scheduled for early consideration as the 80th congress convened under Republican leadership.

Veteran GOP luminaries held the reins as the session got underway. While seniority was acknowledged in the naming of the party's congressional command, the men named have proven their mettle in legislative wars and qualify for the positions.

One of the outstanding figures in the bi-partisan foreign policy developed by Secretary of State Byrnes, Arthur Vandenberg (Mich.) was the choice for president pro tem of the senate. Quiet, able Wallace White (Me.) took over the majority leadership of the senate while aggressive, conservative Kenneth Wherry (Neb.) was in line as the party whip in the upper chamber.

Joe Martin (Mass.) was the unanimous choice for speaker of the house but a battle developed for the majority leadership between the Taft and Dewey forces. Although charged with being a Dewey man, Charles A. Halleck (Ind.) vowed impartiality, and obtained the position after a brief struggle. It is within the power of a majority leader to advance or push certain legislation, hence the importance of the post to factions seeking to build up their prestige.

LIVESTOCK:
Halt Mexican Imports

Veterinarians were scheduled to check every Mexican animal imported into the U. S. since reopening of the border October 17 for the dreaded hoof and mouth disease following reports that the malady had broken out in three Mexican states.

At the same time, Republican congressmen revealed their intention to probe President Truman's reopening of the border last fall in the effort to provide additional livestock to relieve the acute meat famine then prevailing. It was charged that Mexico never has eradicated the disease because of lax supervision of imports from other South American countries afflicted with the sickness.

Of seven outbreaks of the hoof and mouth disease in the U. S. since 1870, the last two occurred in 1924. Highly communicable, hoof and mouth disease blisters the feet and mouth of cattle, affecting their ability to move freely and eat normally.

WHITE HOUSE:
Steals Thunder

Beating congress to the punch, President Truman officially proclaimed the end of hostilities to terminate government powers under 20 laws and mark 33 others for expiration within six months to five years. Loosely, the period of hostilities is supposed to cover actual fighting.

Mr. Truman did not call for an immediate cessation of the states of emergency proclaimed in 1939 and 1941 nor of the state of war, revealing that he would recommend action on these measures to congress. A state of emergency is designed to cover any situation deemed critical to the country while a state of war is considered to prevail until the signing of peace treaties.

In terminating hostilities, the President:

—Reduced wartime taxes on liquor, beer, wines, fur, luggage, jewelry, telephone and telegraph service, transportation, electric bulbs and billiard and pool tables to prewar levels.

—Ended government power to seize privately owned mines and plants.

—Scheduled the end of price supports for farm products for 1948.

POWER:
Increase Service

The year 1946 was a period of phenomenal growth in the electric utility industry in the number of customers served, with nearly 2,000,000 new customers added.

Another high record established in 1946 was the increase of 100 kilowatt hours in average residential consumption of electricity to set an all time high average of 1,330 kilowatt hours used per customer.

LABOR:
Pay Up

Losses of 107,475,000 man days of work during the first 11 months of 1946 due to strikes partly were offset by increased wages and shorter hours over the comparable 1945 period, the department of labor reported.

Time lost in walkouts set an all-time peak, even topping the embattled postwar year of 1919, the department said. As against the 107,475,000 man days lost this year, 30,307,000 were lost in 1945; 8,336,000 in 1944, and 16,089,000 for the 1935-'39 prewar period.

Industrial pay hit new tops following the year's bitter labor disputes. Average weekly earnings in the bituminous coal industry rose to $62.54 on an increased work week, but other pay jumped appreciably despite shorter time. Figures for different industries follow:

	Average weekly earnings	% change	Average weekly hrs.	% change

FOREIGN AFFAIRS:
Border Problem

As first intimated in Secretary of State Byrnes' historic Stuttgart address September 6, the U. S. will press for revision of Germany's eastern border when the Big Three meet in Moscow March 10 to discuss a peace treaty for the Reich.

Backed by Britain, the U. S. will seek restoration of Pomeranian and Brandenberg farmlands given to Poland by Russia after the end of the war. While the U. S. intends to press for a return of this territory, it will accede to the cession of the rich industrial section of Silesia and half of East Prussia to the Poles.

The U. S. position for restoration of Pomerania and Brandenberg to Germany is based on the fact that these regions comprise 25 per cent of the Reich's best farmland and the country would suffer a serious food deficiency if the land is not returned.

News in Brief . . .

The 30th anniversary of the Monroe Auto Equipment company, largest independent producer of hydraulic shock absorbers, points up the phenomenal growth of the motor vehicle and allied industries during the last three decades. In 1939, the industries' sales topped 4 billion dollars to lead all other manufacturing enterprises. Installation of new facilities has enabled Monroe to boost shock absorber output to 25,000 dail

This Home-Mixed Syrup Relieves Coughs Quickly
Needs No Cooking. Saves Money.
The surprise of your life is waiting for you, in your own kitchen, when it comes to the relief of coughs due to colds. In just a moment, you can mix a cough syrup that gives you about 4 times as much for your money, and is surprising for quick results.
Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.
Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Fill up with your syrup, and you have a full pint of really wonderful cough medicine. It never spoils, lasts a long time, and children love it.
This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing.
Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

LOOKING AHEAD

Land of Vikings

Norway is one of the delightful little countries of Europe. About the size of two of our average states, her population is only three million —half that of New York City. A parliament is elected by direct vote of the people every four years, and it constitutes the real authority of the nation. They have a King, who reigns but does not rule. Next to the King, the speaker of the parliament is the highest official in the country. The fairhaired Norwegians are a strong, sturdy people, whose chief quality is individualism.

Communism invaded Norway at the end of World War I. A "labor" party was created by the Communists, but eventually most of its members went over to the "Socialist Democrats," now the leading party controlling more than half the 150 seats in parliament. The extent to which Marxian philosophies have been made into harmful practice is evident when one examines the present state of Norwegian industry. It is apparent that the early Communist influence did not just disappear in an assimilation into the leading labor party, but remains like a hungry dog, strayed from Russia, and is now eyeing the prosperous merchant fleet of Norway.

Equalization

The greatest private industry Norway has ever developed is her merchant marine that sails the seven seas, all out of proportion to the size of the country. This shipping industry has been the chief source of revenue for balancing the national budget and for obtaining essential foreign credit. It remains the backbone of Norwegian finance.

Present policies of the Socialist government, in an attempt to equalize everything for everybody, are seriously threatening this important industry. This is the pattern: It took 4,600,000 government dollars to subsidize the distribution of milk last year, therefore to meet the cost of this subsidy a 4,600,000 dollar tax was placed on the shipping industry because it had experienced a good year and appeared able to pay.

Killing the Goose

A reliable Norwegian informant told this story. The merchant marine lost many ships during the war, and although they were insured by Lloyd's of London it was impossible to transfer the money to Norway while the country was in the grip of the Germans. Accordingly, the funds were held as credit in London.

The present Socialist government now looks anxiously over the books of the shipping companies. If they conclude that a lost ship had quite paid for itself, they tax the company 85% of the face of the insurance policy. This extremely high tax on the shipping industry, plus virtual confiscation of insurance premiums on lost ships, threatens to reduce the industry to the detriment of the entire nation.

This is a fine example of killing the goose to get more eggs immediately, but the production of golden eggs in the future is definitely threatened. I cannot help feeling that the source of this sort of thing in Norway was the stray dog influence of Communism. I found it the distinct opinion of those who have done most to create the wealth of Norway that the greatest present threat to progress now is monopoly and regimentation.

Sheriff Toftner Warns Operators

Punch boards, slot machines liquor sales and any other illegally operated gambling devise will be things of the past in Marshall county after February 1.

In a decree issued today by County Attorney A. A. Trost and Sheriff O. C. Toftner, Marshall county will join in strict enforcement of gambling and liquor laws as demanded by Governer Luther W. Youngdahl, local officials giving operators a grace period until February first to make disposition.

Slot machines have been operating in several clubs in the county during the past several months while some clubs have made it a practice to sell hard liquor and strong beer over the bar, Sheriff Toftner pointed out. These practices must come to a stop in Marshall county, the sheriff said.

Punch boards have been permitted throughout the county in the past, but these too will be put out of existence under the new enforcement program which was instituted by Governor Youngdahl and which will be carried out to the letter in Marshall county.

After February 1, all violators will be placed under arrest and punch boards, slot machines and illegal liquor will be confiscated, said the sheriff.

AAA Meeting on Flax

A series of meetings has been scheduled for Marshall County to be conducted jointly by the AAA and Extension Service to dicuss with farmers the practices to be considered within the county; the possibility of getting the needed flax acreage; and the general agricultural outlook for 1947.

Meetings will be held in the Holt Con. School Feb. 4 at 8:00P. M. Middle River Hall Feb. 5 8:00 P. M. and at the Newfolden High School Jan. 31 at 2:00 P. M.

The meetings should be of special interest to farmers the flax situation will be discussed thoroughly, there is at the present time a floor placed under flax which materially raises the previous floor.

Some of the new developments in agriculture, which will directly benefit farmers, will also be discussed. This includes the use of fertilizer which will be again available through the AAA this year.

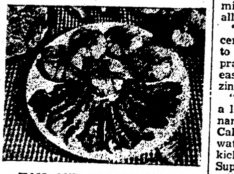
Ham and Bacon Stacks Offer Luscious Treat

"For a special luncheon there isn't any better dish than Ham and Bacon Stacks," writes Marjorie Griffin, Rural Home editor of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer.

"This luscious treat offers ham an pineapple slices rolled inside bacon, and in the middle of it all is a mashed sweet potato patty," she tells homemakers in the magazine read by 1,300,000 farm families."



HAM AND BACON STACKS

8 strips bacon
4 slices of pineapple
½ lb. ground ham
1 c. mashed sweet potato

Cross two strips of bacon. Lay on one slice of pineapple. Shape the mashed sweet potato into 4 patties and the ground ham into 4 patties. Top each pineapple slice with a sweet potato patty and a ham patty. Fold over ends of bacon on top of each stack and fasten ends together with a toothpick. Place in baking dish. Bake in 350° F. oven for one hour. Serve while hot.

1947 Flax Price Fixed

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson announced on January 10 that the 1947 crop of flaxseed will be supported at $9.00 per bushel for U. S. No. 1 flaxseed, Minneapolis basis. This floor or minimum price represents an increase of $2.00 per bushel over the $4.00 support price which was guarnteed farmers last September.

The guarnteed price has been increased to encouage producers to plan 5,000,000 acres to flax in 1947, if necessary at the expense of spring wheat acreage, Anderson indicated. He pointed ont that the 1947 winter crop is expected to reach 947,000,000 bushels. This is 100,000,000 bushels higher than the combined average productions of spring and winter wheat in the period 1935 to 1944.

The cash flax price at Minneapolis $7.25 per bushel, was not disturbed by the Washington announcement and flax buyers and market economists are of the opinion that the present price will prevail for some time.

Boy Scouts Camp Out

Boy Scout Troop No. 112 went on an overnight winter camping trip Saturday and Sunday. They spent the night north of Headquarters in the Federal Game Refuge. They used their sleeping bags and reported a very interesting trip. Those participating in the event were: Scoutmaster Hartley Peterson; Harry Engen, member of the troop commitee; and Scouts George Fricker Jr., Robert Johnson, Vernon Engen, Donald Larason, Emery Horien, Willis Skrerping, Kieth Movick, Harold Ness. They all proved to be "good scouts".

Rail Quiz

What is the difference between a class rate and a commodity rate in freight service?

A class rate is a published freight rate applying to any one of many articles in a certain freight classification. A commodity rate applies to a specified commodity between certain points.

Chinese Blanket

Yellow is a favorite color for blankets manufactured by the spinning and dyeing co-operatives in North China. The reason—yellow is the simplest color to make from acid found in dud Japanese bombs scattered around the countryside.

Smooth Line Social Asset to 'Teen-Agers

A SMOOTH line is the most interesting distance between two points of conversation. Practically everybody has a line. Or maybe you're just developing your own brand of chit-chatter.

That's what a line is—a fund of small talk flavored with an individual's personality, Holly Miller reminds 'teen age readers of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer.

"A line doesn't have to be insincere just because you think of things to say beforehand and consciously practice them so that they come out easily," she counsels in the magazine.

"Special features are what make a line your own. Here's one—nickname friends for famous people. Call girl friends Hedy or Lauren and watch them preen. Fellows get a kick out of being referred to as Superman or Hope."

"Twist your own double talk. Originate superlatives and expletives for your own use. Something a duller character would call 'swell' might be 'gee-gosh-gorgeous' to you.

"Listening is part of a good line. Learn how to draw out a new acquaintance with easy questions.

Practicing your line is essential, she adds, suggesting that the family, is the best audience for breaking in a new catch phrase or joke. If the reception is lukewarm, polish the story up a bit before springing it on the public.

Statement Of Polio Funds Spent

Now that we are in the midst of another campaign to raise funds for combating polio, we believe this is an opportune time to publish a statement of funds spent in Marshall County for this purpose during the past year. It might be well to bear in mind that one-half of the funds raised in the county are placed on deposit in the Argyle State Bank and these funds comrise the balance on hand.

Bal. on hand 2-1-47	$1879.59
Donations	108.59
Stephen Unit	61.98
Loans from Nal'l Foundation	9000.00
Paid out for Patients	7280.14
Balance 12-31-46	769.93

The donations listed, were gifts received after the close of the drive Jan. 31st. The Stephen Unit turned over funds which had been on deposit in a Stephen bank since the early years of the campaign.

A fact that is not generally known, is that the estimated cost of an epidemic averages $1200.00 per patient. Many of our county patients had to be rushed to Twin City hopitals by ambulance, with a doctor in attendance, for treatment. No one knows when another epidemic may strike and the National Foundation is at present without funds to fight another one as their entire Epedemic Aid Fund has been completely exhausted. In as much, as we owe this fund $6000.00, it is our duty to do everything within our power to reemburse it as quickly as possible. Let's cooperate with our local committees by giving dollars instead of dimes.

GOP Brandishes Payroll Axe; Move to Regulate Labor Unions; Marshall Steps Into No. 2 Spot

Released by Western Newspaper Union

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

With money comparatively plentiful and goods scarce, the back door black market thrives in Italy. With head covered to hide identity, illegal operator weighs spaghetti straws on hand scale. Open-mouthed child stands by, holding can of scarce milk.

CONGRESS:

Sharpen Payroll Axe

Economy-minded GOP house members, axe in hand, were eyeing the big federal payroll in their announced drive to scale U. S. expenditures 12 billion dollars below the 1946 budget of 41 billion dollars.

Declaring that there is hardly a government department that does not have twice as many employees as needed, Representative Taber (Rep., N. Y.), chairman of the house appropriations committee, asserted that 1,000,000 workers could be chopped off the payroll of 2,300,000 without seriously impairing services. Not more than 500,000 employees in all are needed, Taber said.

"We are going to cut down government expenditures to a point where the budget can be balanced, a payment made on the national debt, and we will still have room to reduce taxes," Taber snorted.

Labor Reforms

Sen. Joe Ball (Rep., Minn.) and Rep. George Case (Rep., S. D.) pushed labor reform in early sessions of the 80th congress, Ball proposing sweeping measures for corrective legislation.

First, Ball called for prohibition of secondary boycotts and making labor organizations liable for violating contracts.

Then, he introduced legislation to ban all union and closed shop agreements and maintenance of membership contracts.

Finally, Ball proposed to decentralize collective bargaining to prevent the tieup of an entire industry through general negotiations.

The new Case bill introduced in the house permits issuance of injunctions to prevent strikes impairing the public welfare; forbids unions to coerce employees, seize property in disputes, withdraw essential maintenance workers, or order walkouts with majority approval of members; and makes union liable for damages resulting from breach of contract. The bill also grants the states authority to ban the closed shop.

ITALY:

Seeks Aid

Leaving a hungry and discontented populace behind him, Premier Alcide de Gasperi hurried to Washington, D. C., to seek substantial financial assistance from the U. S. to prevent political and economic chaos in Italy.

Negotiations centered around a billion dollar loan first discussed between Italian and U. S. officials at the time of the Paris peace conference. Italy would not be permitted to apply the proceeds against its reparations bill of $360,000,000 but would use the funds for food, raw material and industrial equipment.

A substantial loan would help Italy rebuild its once lucrative tourist trade. Italy's "biggest industry" before the war, the trade is severely crippled because of the destruction of hotels and their requisitioning for housing, lack of transport and an unfavorable exchange rate.

BRITAIN:

Land Control

Proceeding along the path of increasing control of property to assure its widest possible use for public benefit, the Labor government of Britain moved to regulate the sale and use of real estate.

Under the town and country planning bill introduced in parliament and headed for passage despite conservative opposition, the government would compel the sale of undeveloped but prospectively valuable real estate at existing prices. Only in cases of hardship would prices above the prevailing market value be paid.

In addition, the government would control the use or reconversion of property to prevent industrial blight, preserve the countryside around cities and provide recreation grounds, and allow room "for breathing" in overcrowded areas. The government also would regulate the posting of billboards.

STATE DEPARTMENT:

Happy Day

"There are two happy days a man has in public life," former Secretary Byrnes told British Ambassador Kerr. "There is the day a man is elected to office. Then there is the day he quits."

Byrnes

January 7, 1947, therefore was a happy day for the dapper little South Carolinian when he stepped down from his high post in the Truman administration. It was a happy day, too — under the Byrnes' standard — for General of the Army Marshall who was named to succeed him.

But as Byrnes implied, Marshall's cheer was destined to be short-lived as he took over direction of the nation's international affairs. Byrnes had a tough time tussling with the Russians over completion of peace treaties for the axis satellites and Marshall faced the even tougher job of framing pacts for Germany and Austria.

Marshall

Although friendly with Russian leaders, Marshall is no admirer of Communism or Communist tactics. Just before being named to office, he blasted Chinese Reds for risking the welfare of their country to obtain power and resorting to untruths to tar the U. S.

Some observers also read in Marshall's appointment an effort by President Truman to build the general up as his successor in 1948. Should Marshall make a name for himself in the state department, his work there plus his prestige as the No. 1 military chief in World War II would give the Democrats a strong candidate to offset dissatisfaction with the Truman regime in the reconversion period.

Call for Funds to Aid Polio Epidemic Victims

Fighting the ravaging polio epidemic of 1946, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has spent $10,575,000 for medical and hospital care of patients, Basil O'Connor, foundation president, declared.

"That sum is only the first cost of the most devastating epidemic in foundation history," he said. "With the number of cases above the 25,000 mark and foundation funds at a low ebb, a minimum of $24,000,000 must be raised in the 1947 March of Dimes drive so that the unified attack against the disease can continue."

Average cost of each case of infantile paralysis is $1,200. On this basis the 23 states badly hit by the epidemic face the stupendous cost of $26,400,000 chargeable to the 1946 epidemic alone, national headquarters estimated.

Biographical Cyclopedia Carried Hoax 33 Years

No hoax of its kind compares with the one perpetrated on the editors of the 1886 edition of Appleton's Cyclopedia of American Biography, says Collier's. As they accepted in good faith all material received by mail, some unknown person sent them the biographies of 84 fictitious people, which were published.

Although these individuals, their achievements and the books credited to them were supposed to be well known, the hoax was not discovered for 33 years.

Kidneys Must Work Well-
For You To Feel Well
24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.
Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

Royal Jupiter, Grand Champion, 1946 International Livestock Exposition, was purchased by Firestone to be exhibited to the farmers of America on a 22,000-mile educational tour.

Two Firestone CHAMPIONS

ROYAL JUPITER, Grand Champion steer at the 1946 International Livestock Exposition, best shows today's demand in beef cattle. And on American farms, the New Firestone Champion Ground Grip is the Champion among tractor tires.

As the Champion, this new tractor tire cleans up to 100% more effectively . . . pulls up to 62% more at the drawbar . . . lasts up to 91% longer . . . and rides smoother on the highway.

There are sound reasons for this. The curved traction bars flare outward from the center, making a wider opening at the shoulder from which mud and trash fall easily. The connected bars take a powerful "center bite" in the heart of the traction zone. The extra-deep, pyramid-like curved traction bars cut sharply into the ground with a cleaving action. The extra height, plus buttressing at the base and Triple-Bracing near the center, give the bars greater strength and stability. Continuous bars give the Champion smoother contact with the highway . . . lengthen tire life.

When you order tractor tires, or a tractor, ask your Implement Dealer, Firestone Dealer Store, or Firestone Dealer to specify Firestone Champion Ground Grips.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Young Economist

I met a young economist in England. His thinking revealed that he would like to see the complete crumbling of the present order and the ultimate nationalization of all England. His discussion showed too that he would thoroughly relish failure of 'the capitalistic order" in America, which he boldly predicted would surely come within a few years.

Notable thing about this young man is that he is very influential in the Labor government. He talked freely and with spirit, and the enthusiasm he exhibited shows conclusively which school of thought in England is on the defensive. It is unfortunate when Truth and Right are no longer on the crusade, but instead must be called to the defensive.

Influence of Youth

I asked this young economist the secret of the growth of the Socialist party in the United Kingdom. Displaying political acumen which is engendered only from a thorough understanding of reality and a knowledge of facts, this economist said that victory in the last election in close districts came because of the vote of the young people.

"In fact, the percentage of young people who voted the Socialist ticket was greater than the percentage of older people in the ranks of Labor," he told me, adding a fact I knew already: that the growth of Socialism has been more rapid among young people and among skilled workers. The influence of higher education, he stoutly affirmed, was a definite factor in the spread of Socialism throughout the Kingdom.

I did not encourage him in this regard about America, but the parallel was clear. I found myself wishing that our own high schools and colleges were doing a better job of building into the very fiber of American youth a deep appreciation for the fundamental principles of our American way of life, lest our youth some day lead this nation down that same unfortunate road. Strange irony it is, that wealth created by honest work is used in the form of taxes and in grants as means to destroy the philosophy which begot our freedom and our wealth.

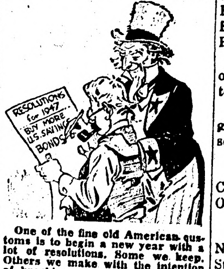
Competition Needed

Even the government officials in London do not seem quite sure that the principle of nationalization is sound. Some uncertainty exists, for they are already detecting basic weaknesses. During the week of July 15 a London newspaper quoted the London County Council as saying that the London Transport (a government monopoly operating steer-cars and buses) needed competition. In the same week another writer stated his opinion that the British Broadcasting Corporation, the weaknesses of which were at that time under fire in Parliament, needed the competition of other broadcasting companies in England.

Failure of the private enterprise system in America, our young economist said, would soon come because of the inability of business to operate at a loss. This thing the government could do indefinitely, just for the sake of maintaining employment, he affirmed, insisting there is no limit to deficit financing available to government - owned economy.

I have never been able to convince myself that Socialistic and Communistic minded economists could be sincere in advocating this philosophy, characteristic though it is of their thinking. If the principle were workable, why does not some Communist nation issue a million dollar credit to each of its citizens and let them all enjoy wealth in a nation that cannot go broke?

Uncle Sam Says



RESOLUTIONS for 1947
BUY MORE U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

One of the fine old American customs is to begin a new year with a lot of resolutions. Some we keep. Others we make with the intention of breaking them to the delight of ourselves and friends. You're being a good American to resolve to do something or other from this day on until eternity. You're being a better, wiser American to make a solemn resolution to strengthen the future security of yourself and family. Resolve to put some of your income regularly into U. S. Savings Bonds, which pay $4 for every $3 invested in 10 years.

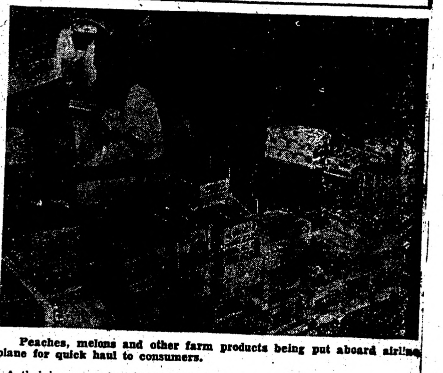
Air Freight Widens Farm Produce Market



Peaches, melons and other farm products being put aboard airline plane for quick haul to consumers.

A thriving new air freight industry crisscrossing the skies with cargo planes is opening a wider market to farmers for perishable products which need rapid transit to reach consumers in top quality condition, Clyde Zimmerman writes in an article in nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer.

In the last 2 years, tonnage cargo flown by plane has increased 600 per cent, he points out.

"Current trends indicate fresh fruits and vegetables, flowers, meat and baby chicks, already moving by air, will vastly increase in amount," he declares in the magazine read by 1,300,000 farm families.

Air freight is fast. New, larger faster-4-engined planes will cut transcontinental schedules to 10 or 11 hours. This speed is expensive. Products hauled by air must sell at premium prices.

Current air rates, although still above those of surface carriers, are low enough so crops such as berries, lima beans, spinach, lettuce, tomatoes, cherries, cauliflower and melons are moving in sky vans from certain areas to Middle Western and Eastern cities.

"Farmers can look to broader markets with air freight because consumers prefer vine-ripened and tree-ripened fruits and vegetables over those that ripen in transit," writes Zimmerman. "Eating quality and nutritional value of such products are higher."

Railroads may enter the air-freight business, Zimmerman says. A few railroads have already announced the organization of air-freight corporations as affiliated companies to engage in air transportation.

Willie Goes to School at 23

Everybody's joshing Willie Wells about going back to school. They remember when Willie would hide out in the woodshed—scared to bring his report card home to Pa.

But under the G.I. Bill of Rights, Willie (who has a wife and baby) is getting a free education at the Agricultural College. And Uncle Sam is giving him a fine report: "Deportment, excellent; Progress, above average."

That goes for all those undergraduate veterans. Like Willie, they appreciate an education more than ever now. They're industrious and well-behaved—their favorite beverage is milk, or a temperate glass of beer. For them the "three R's" seem to mean: Responsibility, Resourcefulness, Restraint.

From where I sit, cynical folks who thought veterans wouldn't want to return to school—wouldn't stick to steady habits of work and moderation—have their answer in "undergraduates" like Willie.

Polio Victims Aid Drive

St. Paul, Minn.—Families of polio victims are doing the lion's share of the "back" work in the March of Dimes campaign to raise funds to fight infantile paralysis. Gratitude for hospital and doctor bills paid for them is the motive prompting this activity.

In many cities and counties of Minnesota particularly—hardest hit state in the union in last summer's epidemic —former patients or parents and relatives of patients have been addressing March of Dimes envelopes, distributing coin boxes, circulating March of Dimes cards, telling their experiences in newspapers and over the radio, and working with the friends to raise funds for the National Foundation.

Chief concern of those in charge of the campaign is to replenish the national epidemic emergency fund which was wiped out in the 1946 epidemic. A third of that fund was spent in Minnesota.

The money raised in the present campaign is collected in four ways:

1. Checks may be mailed to the treasurer of the local county chapter.
2. Donations may be placed in coin boxes available in many places.
3. March of Dimes cards are being circulated through the schools.
4. In various cities March of Dimes Balls are to be held at the close of the drive.

Farewell Sermon Sunday

Pastor Urness will conduct farewell services at Nazareth Church on Sunday at 10:42. The family expects to move to Milnor N. D. next Tuesday. It was last September that a letter of call was extended and after considerable time, was accepted.

Ringbo 4-H Club will meet on February 7th at Ringbo school house.

There are rumors of getting a roller skating rink in Holt. The younger set say O. K. Let's hear from the others and really get going on it.

Mr. and Mrs. Iver Larson and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Engen and Janice visited at the Melvin Bottem home Sunday afternoon.

Children Aid Polio Drive

St. Paul, Minn.—Minnesota school children are playing a leading role in the March of Dimes collection to fight infantile paralysis this month.

Kent Powers, in charge of the Minnesota state office of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said today that school children in every county of the state were being asked to help.

The children's particular task is the circulation of March of Dimes cards, which they are asked to take home to their parents and have filled with coins and bills.

Principals and teachers have also been asked to explain to the pupils and through them to their parents the nature of the fight against polio.

During a recent inspection trip in Minnesota, Dr. Clair E. Turner, assistant to the president of the National Foundation, emphasized the democratic nature of the fight against infantile paralysis.

"These epidemic emergencies show the ability of the common people to organize to defend themselves against a dread disease like polio," Mr. Turner said.

Goal of the present March of Dimes drive is $24,000,000. The epidemic emergency fund which was exhausted in the 1946 epidemic must be rebuilt. Minnesota was the largest beneficiary of this fund in the most recent polio outbreak.

Urness Family Farewell Party

Rev. and Mrs. E. O. Urness and family were given a farewell party Sunday evening by the Nazareth Congregation. A good program was given with Rev. Houseman as guest speaker. A purse of money was given to the honer guests. Sunday afternoon the Siiverton congregation gave them a farewell party.

The following spent Wednesday evening at the R. F. Smith home helping Mrs. Smith celebrate her birthday: Mr. and Mrs. Art Moe and girls, Mr. and Mrs. James Gusa and Vernette, Gladys Toren and Vernice Smith of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Toren and Joe Toren of Middle River, Rodney Wetterlund and Milton Lundquist of Karlstad, Mr. and Mrs. John Ness and family and Ruth Larson. A delicions lunch was served by the self invited guests

A large crowd attended the Sportsmens Club social Satnrday evening. They met in their new club room, the newly decorated hall rented from the village. There were several musical numbers by a group of members. Whist was the diversion of the evening.

Honoring Mrs. Bertha Hagglund on her birthday on Monday afternoon at the John Reed home were Mrs. Paul Olson and daughter Dorothy and Mrs. G. Nordrum, and in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Leo Horien, Mrs. Mabel Hanson, Mrs. Torrance Lillevold and Mrs. Mabel Sanoden.

Walter Peterson was taken suddenly ill on Friday and had to be taken to Mercy hospital where he is being treated for pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Garl Mosbeck and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Henry Melin, Tom Larson of St. Hilaire, Mrs. O. L. Sandberg and Walter spent Sunday at the Marvin Sandberg home.

New Dishwashers

Dishwashers for which so many farm homemakers have been waiting should appear early in 1946, declares the Rural Home editor of nationally circulated Capper's Farmer. There will be free standing portable models separate from the sink and others built into the sink. Some open from the top and others from the bottom.

Inflate or Deflate?

Inflation is one of those things you talk about when you do not have it. We have a mild case of inflation now. We do not want it, but we are perhaps less scared about it now than we were before it came. Most of us do not mind adding to the spiral a little bit, though we may dislike to see other folks do so. We seem assured that there is "turn about for everybody" in the inflation spiral.

Some features of our snarled up labor-management relations, with the consequent paltry production and lower income for strikers, would represent deflation of a sort. But we must know that when we push our wages up and up, we simply must have production to justify these increased costs. If we do not, we may expect prices to follow or even shoot ahead, as the laws of economics begin to make adjustments.

Plain Economics

Higher wages without increased production create a situation that bears some resemblance to strikes without production. Either one will cripple American industry, and this is a time when labor cannot afford to contribute to industrial chaos. People the world over need goods desperately, even people with an inflation already well past our own. The only answer is production! We must produce, produce, produce.

Without production, any wage premiums which labor asks and wins represent the direst sort of inflation, and public liability. We have already approached the danger point. Now, without price control, it is easier to see plain economics in operation. Labor costs represent most of the cost of our manufactured goods. Any increased costs, as well as the costs of scarcities, will be passed directly to the people.

Coal, For Example

Suppose the nation's coal supplies are shut off. Bituminous coal provides 55% of our industrial energy, 62% of our electric power, and 65% of our industrial power. No coal means no steel, and the shortage pressures then begin operating to force up prices of everything we buy. Higher prices for coal mean higher prices for steel. Steel is one of the basic ingredients of thousands of things we require daily, and soon up goes the general level of prices for consumer goods and for services as well.

Suppose the miners win wage increases. Their success is eyed by wage earners in varied other industries and crafts. Already the industrial unions have made top billing of a new drive for increased wages. Up go prices again. That's plain economics.

We like inflation for ourselves, when it is going our way, but generally we prefer to deflate the other fellow. It is time somebody thought of the Golden Rule. May I submit that production is the Golden Rule way to steer ourselves out of this jam and to keep the traditional American freedoms we so much cherish.

Statement Of Polio Funds Spent

Now that we are in the midst of another campaign to raise funds for combating polio, we believe this is an opportune time to publish a statement of funds spent in Marshall County for this purpose during the past year. It might be well to bear in mind that one-half of the funds raised in the county are placed on deposit in the Argyle State Bank and these funds comrise the balance on hand.

Bal. on hand 2-1-47	$1879.59
Donations	108.50
Stephen Unit	61.98
Loans from Nat'l Foundation	9000.00
Paid out for Patients	7280.14
Balance 12-31-46	769.93

The donations listed, were gifts received after the close of the drive Jan. 31st. The Stephen Unit turned over funds which had been on deposit in a Stephen bank since the early years of the campaign.

A fact that is not generally known, is that the estimated cost of an apidemic averages $1200.00 per patient. Many of our county patients had to be rushed to Twin City hopitals by ambulance, with a doctor in attendance, for treatment. No one knows when another epidemic may strike and the National Foundation is at present without funds to fight another one as their entire Epedemic Aid Fund has been completely exhausted. In as much, as we owe this fund $6000.00, it is our duty to do everything within our power to reemburse it as quickly as possible. Let's cooperate with our local committees by giving dollars instead of dimes.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Sam Hackney Reports on the U.S.A.

Sam Hackney and the missus just returned from a trailer trip around the country. They're tired, and glad to be home, but mighty impressed with what they saw.

As Sam reports—every section has something different; a different way of talking; different tastes in food and drink; different laws and customs. But bigger than all these differences is the American spirit of tolerance that lets us live together in united peace.

"Of course," says Sam, "you run into intolerance from time to time. Individuals who criticize another's right to speak his mind; enjoy a glass of beer; or work at any trade he chooses. But those are the exceptions—and we're even tolerant of them!"

From where I sit, more of us ought to make a trip like the Hackneys — to realize firsthand how America is bigger than its many differences... how tolerance of those differences is the very thing that makes us strong.

British, French Form New Bond; GOP Chiefs Push Tax Reduction; Ford Takes Price Leadership

Released by Western Newspaper Union

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

ALLIANCE:
Britain-France

Traditional allies against Germany, Great Britain and France renewed their old bond in London by agreeing to a treaty of alliance to guard against a rebirth of an aggressive reich.

Though the alliance ostensibly was directed against Germany, observers saw in the pact a strengthening of the western European powers against the expanded influence of Russia on the continent. With Britain and France serving as a core, smaller nations like Holland and Belgium might adhere to the western bloc to check the threat of communism.

In concluding their alliance, Britain and France agreed to work for the orderly development of western European economy to promote mutual prosperity and at the same time prevent establishment of a strong industrial base for war in Germany. Emphasis was placed on harmonizing the British and French economies to remove trade conflicts and harnessing essential German industry, like coal, to the needs of neighboring countries.

CONGRESS:
Tax-Minded

Knutson
Taber

Standing pat on their determination to scale personal income taxes and trim the 1947-'48 budget of unnecessary frills, GOP house leaders massed to push through a 20 per cent cut proposed by Representative Knutson (Rep., Minn.).

With the Republicans cautious about paring military expenditures because of the unsettled world situation, President Truman's budget did not leave too much room for tinkering. As a result, GOP leaders planned to concentrate on the income cut estimated at 3½ billion dollars and continue the current high excise levies on liquor, furs, jewelry and other items.

Representative Taber (Rep., N. Y.), chairman of the house appropriations committee, asserted the budget could be reduced at least 3 to 4 billion dollars, still assuring essential expenditures and allowing for a payment on the national debt. Such a cut would bring the budget in line with the decrease in revenue resulting from the 20 per cent tax slash.

FORD:
Production Lead

Declaring that the high standard of American living was based upon mass production, Ford Motor company slashed the price of nine models from $15 to $50 to stimulate a cautious buyers' market.

Thus did Henry Ford II, youthful president of the famed auto company, steal a march on organized labor on the eve of negotiations for new contracts and set the pace for industry generally. As labor was to clamor for higher wages, Ford inferred that they could be paid out of increasing production of goods, with workers sharing the rising profits.

With prices away up and buyers hesitant to pay for inflated values, American industry stands at the crossroads, Ford said. Bring prices within reach of the average consumer through mass production and the U. S. may well avoid a business recession, he declared. With employee efficiency on the rise, Ford revealed that his company is turning out about 4,000 units a day, exclusive of buses and tractors.

FOOD:
Full Larder

Sugar, cooking and salad oils and many processed foods containing these ingredients may be in short supply in 1947 but otherwise Americans are assured of a full larder this year, the National Grocers Bulletin reported.

A roundup of the food industry resulted in these predictions:

MEAT: Per capita supplies should include 68½ pounds of pork, 68 pounds of beef, 9 pounds of veal and 5½ pounds of lamb and mutton.

POULTRY: The number of farm-raised poultry promises to be up 5 to 7 per cent and commercial broiler production up 15 per cent. With exports lower, there should be sufficient eggs despite an 8 per cent drop in production.

DAIRY PRODUCTS: Despite somewhat smaller milk output, supplies of dairy products should be adequate to meet demands.

FRESH VEGETABLES: Plenty at lower prices.

FRUITS: Record volume.

GRAIN FOODS: Bumper grain crops assure ample stocks of flour, hot and cold cereals, spaghetti and corn sirup.

CANNED FOODS: Production is expected to reach record figure of 600 million standard cases compared with 514 million in 1945.

Even the sugar situation will not be so bad, the Bulletin said. At 35 pounds the per capita supply of sugar will be at least 10 pounds more than in 1946, and use of substitute sweetening agents will help increase production of prepared desserts, cake mixes, chocolate and cocoa, condensed milk, jams and jellies.

GEORGIA:
Chip Off Old Block

With "Old Gene" gone, "Young Herman" kept alive the fiery Talmadge tradition in Georgia politics.

When his father died before he could be inaugurated, young Talmadge mustered sufficient support in the legislature to have himself named governor; then, defying incumbent-Governor Arnall, who held his election illegal, he set up his own offices in the state capitol.

Meeting young Talmadge's bold challenge, Arnall carried the issue to the state supreme court, dominated by his own appointees. But again Herman struck back by threatening to ignore an adverse court decision on the grounds that the constitution empowered the legislature to elect a governor and a denial of the right represented judicial encroachment upon the legislative branch of government.

Amid the hub-bub, one sure fact emerged: Young Talmadge had demonstrated political leadership and was a power to be reckoned with in Georgia politics.

Pick 10 Top Young Men in U. S.

Representative of a wide range of activities, 10 youthful leaders in their field were named the finest young men in America in a poll conducted by the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce and judged by business, labor and educational leaders.

Those named were Joseph A. Beirne, president of the National Federation of Telephone Workers; Charles G. Bolte, chairman of American Veterans' committee; Dan Duke, assistant attorney general of Georgia; John F. Kennedy, Boston congressman; Joe Louis, heavyweight boxing champion; Bill Mauldin, cartoonist; Dr. Philip Morrison, atomic physicist; John A. Patton, management engineer; Arthur Schlesinger Jr., author; and Harry Wismer, sports announcer.

ITALY:
U. S. Helps

Anxious to bolster the democratic elements in Italy against unrest rising from economic chaos following the war, the U. S. granted Italy a 100 million dollar loan to rebuild key segments of industry and also took emergency action to route 50,000 tons of wheat to the distressed country.

U. S. action climaxed Premier Alcide de Gasperi's whirlwind negotiations with Washington for speedy assistance. The lean, bespectacled Italian head of state flew to this country for help as his regime was shaken by continued unemployment and food riots.

The U. S. advanced 100 million from the Export-Import bank on the stipulation that the Italian government could maintain political stability and also provide for other imports needed to make the nation's economy work.

Heeding de Gasperi's plea that Italy was scratching the bottom of its larder and was in need of substantial help before the next harvest, the U. S. diverted to Italy six ships bearing grain destined for Germany.

CANOL:
End of a Project

In negotiating an agreement with the Canadian government for disposal of the Canol oil project in Yukon territory, the U. S. closed the book on one of the most controversial developments rising from the needs of World War II.

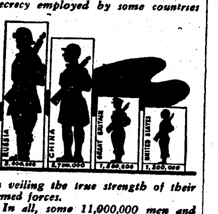
Condemned as a "costly blunder" by the senate war investigating committee last September 1, Canol was built by the army to furnish a convenient source of fuel for use in the Alaskan zone. Though petroleum experts reported that oil resources near Fort Norman were "very limited," the army drilled wells there and erected a 600-mile pipeline to a new refinery at Whitehorse.

By persisting in development of Canol in the face of stiff congressional opposition, the army brought the ensuing wrath upon its own head. Built at a cost of more than 55 million dollars, Canol failed as a big producer from the start, and private interests hesitated to risk its operation in peace. Hence the agreement to sell the facilities on the spot, dismantle them for piecemeal disposal, or abandon them.

World an Armed Camp

Russia has at least 3,000,000 troops massed behind the iron curtain, according to an estimate by Maj. Hal D. Stewart writing in the semi-official Armored Cavalry Journal.

Major Stewart's estimate of Soviet military strength was made in an article on the size of postwar armies. Drawing his figures mainly from war department intelligence reports, he pointed out that his compilations may not be wholly accurate because of the secrecy employed by some countries in veiling the true strength of their armed forces.



In all, some 11,000,000 men and women are under arms, Major Stewart said. Next to Russia, the Chinese Nationalist government maintains the largest army with 2,700,000 regulars, while the Chinese Communists claim a force of 1,000,000.

Britain rates third with 1,500,000 troops and the United States follows with 1,300,000. Although a small nation, Yugoslavia has 800,000 in uniform, including 80,000 women.

FEED:
Good Supply

Farmers can count on ample supplies of feed grains for livestock through the current feeding year, the Feed Industry council concluded after a comprehensive study.

Total requirements of 109,465,000 tons of grains and mill feeds should leave a carryover of 16,620,000 tons at the end of the crop year, the council said. A breakdown showed estimated needs of 53,280,000 tons for swine; 24,502,000 tons for poultry; 22,323,000 tons for dairy cattle; 14,833,000 tons for beef cattle; 967,000 tons for sheep and lambs, and 5,250 tons for horses and mules.

In contrast to the adequate supplies of feed grains, the council estimated a deficit in stocks of high protein feeds. However, the experts averred that the price situation would tend to balance the supply and cause a more careful use of high quality protein by feeders.

CALIFORNIA:

More than 10,000 new stores or "trade outlets" were licensed in California last fall, and for the first time quarterly taxable retail sales in the state exceeded 2 billion dollars, a state-sponsored survey made to aid business planning disclosed.

Of the 10,176 new trade outlets licensed between July and October, 9,687 were "independents" and 489 were "chains." The total California trade outlets on October 1 was boosted by the new increment to an all time high of 241,801.

Dual-Stringed Violin

During the 17th and 18th centuries, a number of musical instruments belonging to the violin family had sympathetic strings of fine wire stretched directly under and parallel to the gut wire with which they vibrated sympathetically, producing a silvery echo, says Collier's.

Most popular was the viola d'amore for which many composers, including Bach, wrote special music and which was used occasionally by the Metropolitan Opera orchestra in New York as late as 1914.

Succeeds in Working Himself Into Jailhouse

VINCENNES, IND.—It was a tough job but Charles Graham, 60, a farm worker, finally managed to work himself into the jailhouse here.

He was polite about it at first, merely asking police:

"Please put me in jail. I'm sick and there isn't anyone to care for me."

When Police Capt. Harry Parmenter turned him down because there were no charges against him, he left and returned a half-hour later with a 16-ounce bottle of perfume. He explained:

"I just stole it. Now I can go to jail."

Among Graham's possessions which were deposited with the turnkey was a bank slip showing he had deposits of $1,005.

Woman Finally Gives Up Sewing at 107

VASSALBORO, MAINE.—Failing eyesight has forced 107-year-old Mrs. Mae Z. Glidden to abandon sewing, but she recalls making 7,000 pairs of men's trousers during the days before clothing was factory-made.

Mrs. Glidden worked as a spinner and weaver while a girl and a young woman.

Fugitive Tells Prison Horrors

Prisoner Escaped From Rock Pile Gang.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—An escaped prisoner from a Virginia rock pile gang told from a cell in the Jackson county, Kansas City, jail a bitter story of spread-eagle treatment, of shackles and vowed to fight extradition because, "I know I'll never come out alive after making this public."

A local attorney, Lyman Fields, learning of the story told by the prisoner, Lawrence William Starling, 23, said he would represent him without charge in his fight to prevent extradition to Virginia prison camp No. 24 at South Hill, Va.

It was a story of chain gangs, of 12-hour days on the rock piles, with 15 minutes out for the daily three-sandwich lunch, of medieval punishments. Starling exhibited scars and calluses on his ankles to support his contention of the shackles.

"I'd rather spend the rest of my life in prison here than go back to Virginia for 18 months," he said. "It'd be going back to hell. It'd be going back to die after I tell you this."

He said he escaped from the camp Christmas Eve, with six other convicts after they had sawed through the shackle on one ankle. He was arrested by sheriff's deputies in a southside shopping district on information supplied by a woman.

He said he was sent to the camp after he escaped from prison and surrendered four months later through his father to complete a four-year term for embezzlement. He charged the authorities violated their agreement in sending him to the camp and in adding a year to his sentence.

"Besides that, I got 27 lashes," he added.

One June 26, 1945, he escaped again but said he was caught four days later by guards using bloodhounds. Another two years were added to his term and he said he drew 31 lashes and was chained by his hands, spread-eagle fashion while on his toes, for 31 days, with only four hours a day to sleep.

Bomb Smashed Hitler's Nerves, Says Adjutant

HERFORD, GERMANY. — Adolf Hitler suffered bomb shock in an attempt on his life that later led to a deterioration of his mind and nerves, a statement by his air force adjutant, Col. Nicolaus von Below, said. The bomb explosion occurred on July 20, 1944.

Von Below, 38, arrested after disguising himself as a university student, also said that Hitler and Eva Braun were married in the Berlin reichschancellery last April 28, not April 29 as indicated by other evidence.

Von Below told British questioners that the 1944 bomb explosion knocked him unconscious, and that afterward he saw Hitler come out a doorway of the shattered conference room with his uniform badly torn, but unhurt except for a leg bruise. Later, however, Hitler showed signs of the effect of the shock, Von Below said, adding that this led to deterioration of the fuehrer's mind and nerves.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

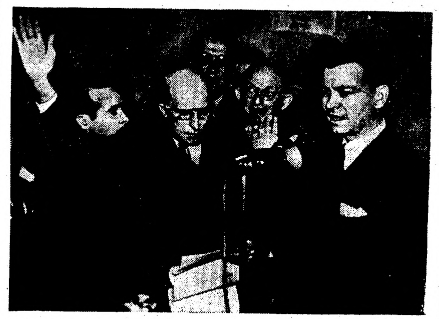
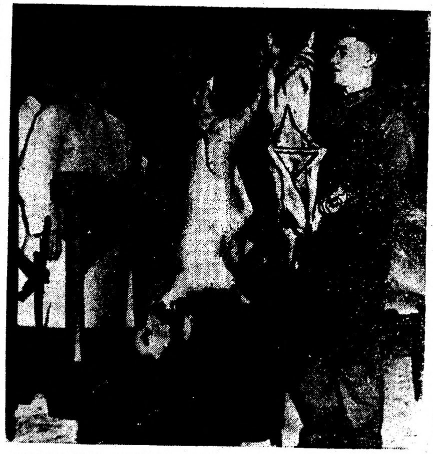
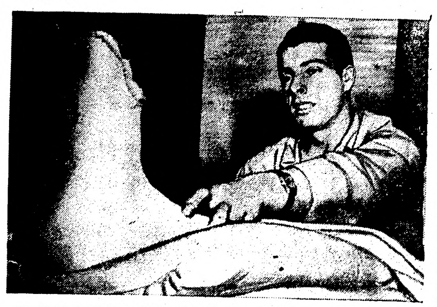
The contest won by the Sellmans aroused interest in every section of Iowa, with thousands of couples entered by their neighbors and friends.



YOUNG TALMADGE SWORN IN AS GOVERNOR . . . After being named as Georgia's governor for the next four years by the legislature, Herman Talmadge, right, son of the late Gov.-Elect Eugene Talmadge, received the oath of office as Georgia's chief executive from Georgia Superior Court Justice A. W. Worrill. Gov. Ellis Arnall refused to recognize Talmadge as Georgia's new chief executive and accused Talmadge of being a "pretender." Courts may be used to decide the issue.



BRITISH TROOPS DELIVER FOOD . . . Soldiers in fatigue uniforms handle carcasses of meat at London's famed Smithfield market after the government sent troops to take over deliveries of meat to insure essential supplies of food for the public. The transport strike tied up all deliveries of food. Following the employment of troops matters became worse, for a rash of sympathy strikes broke out all over England.



DI MAG FEELING FINE AFTER SURGERY . . . Joe Di Maggio, New York Yankee infielder, is shown in New York hospital, looking at his cast-bound foot following the removal of a calcium growth. A bursa condition found in Joe's heel was also cleared up. His doctor reports that Joe should be able to play as well as he ever did. Di Maggio says that he thinks he can break the record set during the last baseball season and will be in better shape after operation.

Plumes of Ostriches Are Super-Sensitive in Growth

Plumes of the domesticated ostrich, now popular after being out of fashion for 27 years, are probably more sensitive during their growth than the feathers of any other bird, says Collier's. Any variation in the special diet and living conditions of the ostrich may impair the shapeliness and density of the plumes.

Even the normal day and night variations in the bird's blood pressure usually cause perceptible differences in density when the plumes reach their maximum rate of growth of a quarter of an inch every 24 hours.

Hazardous Snow

Although snow, unlike ice, does not accumulate on the wings of a plane, it presents a hazard that may be equally dangerous. When the flakes strike the forward surfaces of a plane flying at more than 200 miles per hour, they break into fine particles or ice dust which produces so much static electricity that it drowns out all radio communication.

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Wonderful

No Cooking. So Easy. Saves Dollars.

To get the most surprising relief from coughs due to colds, you can easily prepare a medicine, right in your own kitchen. It's very easy—a child could do it—needs no cooking, and tastes so good that children take it willingly. But you'll say it's hard to beat for quick results.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a pint bottle. Fill up with your syrup. This gives you a full pint of really splendid cough syrup—about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and lasts a long time.

And it gives quick relief. It acts in three ways—loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Uncle Sam Says

NATIONAL DAILY
PAYROLL SAVINGS PLAN INSURES YOUR FUTURE

One of my nephews, Assistant Secretary of the United States Treasury Edward H. Foley, made a few remarks the other day which are worth the attention and action of all my other nieces and nephews. In talking about buying Savings Bonds through the payroll savings plan, he said: "Workers are doing themselves a favor when they increase their take-home savings. The man who has saved up a reserve has a sense of security which the man who lives from hand to mouth can never know. He gets more out of life. He can take today as it comes, rather than spend it worrying about tomorrow." The same reasoning applies not only to Americans on somebody's payroll but to the millions of men and women who earn their living as doctors, lawyers and independent business men who can arrange for regular purchases of Savings Bonds at their banks.

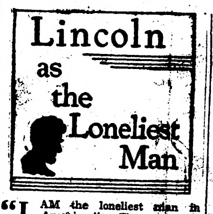
Across the years, Lincoln's great soul Marches on to inspire Americans



Lincoln as the Loneliest Man

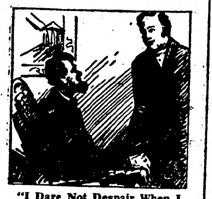
"I AM the loneliest man in America." These words dropped from the lips of Abraham Lincoln one evening in 1863, that period which was so dark and unpromising for the cause of the Union.

In March, 1863, writes W. H. Smith in the Washington Post, "I heard the incident related to a small group of distinguished men by Bishop Ames of the Methodist church. I do not know if it has ever appeared in print, but if it has, it is worth retelling. The narration took place in the National Hotel, in Washington, in a suite of rooms then occupied by John Evans, territorial governor of Colorado, and father of Evanston, Chicago's beautiful suburb. My presence is accounted for by the fact that Governor Evans was a relative and I had called to pay my respects.

In the group were two or three Methodist bishops, a member of the senate and two of the house. I am sure no one who heard it related ever forgot it, or the impressive manner of the bishop. President Lincoln and the bishop were warm personal friends, and the President had employed the bishop on some delicate mission connected with the war. The bishop said that one evening in June, 1863, he went to the White House to call on the President. The President was in a very despondent mood. Hooker had just suffered his defeat at Chancellorsville. The conversation lasted until a late hour of the night.

The President reviewed the situation at length. The war had been going on for two years, and the North had made little material progress. The bishop asked if he despaired of a final victory. His response was made with great earnestness:

"No. I dare not despair when I know there is a God who controls the affairs of nations as He does those of individuals, but the thought of the thousands who must yet be slain is appalling."

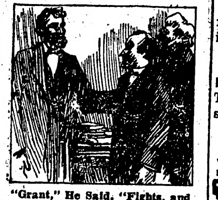


"I Dare Not Despair When I Know There Is a God."

It was then he uttered the words with which this article begins. He said: "I am the loneliest man in America. There is no one to whom I can go and unload my troubles, assured of sympathy and help."

He spoke of the quibbling, complaining and fault finding in congress, and the harsh and unjust criticisms heaped upon him. He spoke with extreme heat of what he termed "that meddlesome body," the committee on the conduct of war.

The President rapidly reviewed Grant's record since he joined the army. He was at Cairo with a small force. He urgently asked permission to move, saying he would win a victory. The consent was long delayed, but it came at last. Within two or three hours his men were on the steamers, and the brilliant victory of Belmont followed.



"Grant," He Said, "Fights, and That Is What I Want."

It was not a great victory, for the forces engaged were not large, but it was a beginning and showed the mettle of Grant.

Back to Cairo, with a larger force he again and again urged for permission to move, and when the permission came he rushed his men to the steamers, and three days later he captured Fort Henry. Not delaying an hour he pushed his small force across the country to Fort Donelson. He was not dismayed by the fact that the force in the fort was larger than his own, but immediately locked the doors on that force. When the rest of his men reached him, by a series of brilliant assaults, he captured, not alone the fort, but an army almost equal in number to his own.

At Shiloh, unlike any other general, he remained to fight after his disaster on the first day, he made no effort to get the remains of his army across the river, but at daylight the next morning became the attacking party, winning a victory. He was now at Vicksburg, and complaints of his delay were many. Only that day two senators had urged Lincoln to displace Grant, but he would not do it. "Grant," he said, "fights, and that is what I want." He said Grant had promised him he would capture Vicksburg by the fourth of July, and he intended to give him the opportunity.

The President, with deep earnestness, then declared: "When he captures Vicksburg, I will find some way to boost him over the heads of all others, and give him command of all the [illegible] with Grant in command, [illegible]" this faith. He explained [illegible] move and move to [illegible] He fights."

LINCOLN

Wise with the wisdom of ages,
Shrewd as the man of trade,
Grim as the prophets and sages,
Keen as a damask blade;

Firm as a granite-ribbed mountain,
Tender as woman's song,
Gay as a scintillant fountain—
Yet was he oaken-strong.

Here, the wonder of eons:
Born into pain and strife;
Dead, with a thousand peons
Deathless, he enters life.

Tax Refunds to Cover Portal Awards; Study Enemy's Food Needs; Congress to Press Probes

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

PORTAL:
Tax Relief

The burden of portal to portal back pay will largely be shouldered by Uncle Sam when, and if, union members are awarded their substantial claims against industry as a result of Secretary of the Treasury Snyder's announcement that such outlays are deductible against taxes levied in the years affected.

Because portal payments to workers will be liable to taxation, however, the U. S. stands to recover some of the refunds in personal income taxes. In many instances, the portal claims run into hundreds of dollars per worker, leaving them open to a heavy bite under the high wartime rates.

Under Snyder's ruling that industry could claim credits on taxes paid in the years for which portal demands were granted, companies would be able to take advantage of high rates and excess profits levies of the war years. At the same time, they would be entitled to a 6 per cent interest on the money collected from them to cover their tax liabilities.

FOOD:
Enemy's Need

Declaring that the U. S. could not afford to permit the American flag to fly over a gigantic Buchenwald, former President Herbert Hoover undertook another survey of food needs in the U. S. and British occupation zones in Germany.

In addition to providing for essential German relief, Hoover's junket was aimed at making the reich as self-supporting in food needs as possible. Improvement in the food situation would lead to a reduction in present U. S. relief costs of 300 million dollars annually. The former president had the assistance of two food experts on his tour, being accompanied by Dr. Dennis Fitzgerald, chairman of the international emergency food council, and former Ambassador Hugh Gibson, who aided him in World War I relief work.

At the same time that Hoover headed westward, Hallam Tuck, his associate on the famine study tour of last spring, headed eastward to survey food conditions in Japan, Korea and the Ryukyus. Tuck also will be concerned with the long—as well as short—range requirements of those Asiatic countries in an effort to boost their food output.

GANGSTER:

Although he has been living in seclusion in his $100,000 villa on Palm Island in Biscayne Bay, Fla., for the last seven years following his release from federal prison, Scarface Al Capone still proved to be Page 1 news.

The former overlord of Chicago vice, whose name became a symbol of the gangsterism of the rip-roaring 20s, made the headlines the country over when he suffered a stroke of apoplexy and lay near death. His wife, faithful as ever, prayed at his bedside, and the rest of the Capone clan hurried in from Mercer, Wis., and Chicago.

SCARFACE AL
Still Newsy.

Secrecy continued to shroud the Capone villa. While sleek autos, filled with mysterious characters, whizzed in and out of the private grounds, reporters and photogs waited outside to get their information second-hand. Capone had not appeared in public since 1941 and rumors persisted that paresis had left him with the mind of a 12-year-old. On the other hand, it was said that his supposed debility was a blind, that he was as hale as ever and running the gang's gambling and vice business at a distance, getting his cut out of the lucrative profits.

PICKLES:
Enough for Everybody

Each American will have about 37 pickles coming to him this year, according to National Pickle Packers association.

The 1946 crop of 10,046,000 bushels of cucumbers for pickles was expected to be great enough to meet the new, growing demand for pickles, according to the packers.

An estimated 5,231,970,000 pickles of all varieties will be produced. Laid end to end the pickles would reach from the earth to the moon.

Flame Restores Sight

Already blind in his left eye, Richard Hebert, 22-year-old Purple Heart bearer of Chicago, had been told by army doctors that he might lose the sight of his right eye as well within 10 years.

At the front, Hebert's luck had been all bad. He had been hit in the leg by shrapnel in Germany and hospitalized before being blinded by a shell explosion upon his return to action as an infantryman.

Back home, Hebert kept a stiff upper lip and looked ahead cheerfully. He made himself useful around his father's business establishment and married a former schoolmate. Then one day, he went down to the basement to fix the fire.

Coal he shoveled into the boiler apparently caused gas to accumulate. When he stirred the fire, a ball of flame shot out of the boiler door, singeing his arm and the lid of his blind eye. When he came back upstairs he sensed a change. Putting his hand over his right eye, he peered out of the left: Hebert had two good eyes again.

CONGRESS:
Busy Bodies

GOP congressional investigators prepared to dig deep into war expenditures and un-American activities with the full support of the first Republican majority in 16 years.

Senate Republicans beat down an effort of the Democrats to transfer duties of the war investigating committee to the inactive committee on expenditures in the executive department by a 47 to 45 vote.

The watch-dog over efficiency of the war effort under President Truman while he was still senator from Missouri, the war investigating committee widened its scope under Senator Mead (Dem., N. Y.) to probe irregularities in munitions contracts. In the wake of disclosures of the close relations existing between congressmen and army officers with war contractors, the GOP voiced its determination to dig deeper into wartime dealings.

Not always in favor during the liberal New Deal administration, the house un-American activities committee promises to enjoy smoother sledding under the Republicans. Now headed by Representative Thomas (Rep., N. J.) the committee laid plans for an early probe of Communism in government departments, labor unions, Hollywood, and colleges and schools.

COMMODITIES:
U. S. Eyes Trade

In an effort to prevent serious breaks in commodities, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson announced that the department's commodity exchange authority would be freed of other duties to permit full time policing of the markets.

Anderson disclosed the move in the face of growing speculation. Remembering the big break in cotton last October and the alleged manipulation of butter prices in New York, department authorities acted to check future slumps affecting prices. Studies are being completed on the factors in the cotton break, with Anderson ready to ask for additional regulatory authority if warranted by the investigation.

Meanwhile grain prices remained strong as the government announced it would increase its wheat export program by 50 million bushels in the current crop year to a total of 350 million.

Americans Spend Hundred Millions on Lotteries, Etc.

Between 1935 and 1940, Americans spent on foreign lotteries and sweepstakes approximately $1,000,000,000 annually, about two-thirds of which went to racketeers, says Collier's. Besides the millions of tickets sold on fake drawings more than 40 per cent of those sold on real lotteries were counterfeits.

Approximately 25 per cent of the genuine tickets sold on such operations as the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes were worthless, as the agents here destroyed the stubs and pocketed the money.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DELICIOUS! BRAN MUFFINS
Flavored With Fresh Orange!
So quick and easy to make, too!
Kellogg's toasted All-Bran and fresh orange juice! Yummy! What flavor!
¼ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup Kellogg's All-Bran
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1¾ cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup orange juice
¼ cup milk
Blend shortening and sugar. Add egg; beat well. Stir in Kellogg's All-Bran and orange rind. Add sifted dry ingredients to first mixture alternately with orange juice and milk. Stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full. Bake in moderate oven (400° F.) about 30 minutes. Makes 10 orange-y muffins.
Good Nutrition, Too! All-Bran is made from the VITAL OUTER LAYERS of finest wheat — serve daily as a cereal.

MARSHALL TAKES OVER . . . After conferring for an hour with President Truman, Secretary of State George C. Marshall, above, prepared to seat himself in the office at desk vacated by his predecessor, James F. Byrnes. Marshall has stated definitely that he is not interested in politics—and meant that he would not run for president, "and if elected would not serve." Both parties, as well as the world, were assured that his office would not be a political football.

HIGHEST PAID PRIVATE . . . Frank E. James, Lincoln, Neb., became one of the highest paid privates in the army when accepted for enlistment recently. Here he is shown with his wife and 11 children. He will receive $383 monthly in army pay and allowances for his dependents due to present army scale. The James children range in age from 5 months to 13 years. James, after investigating many offers, became convinced that the army held the biggest attractions for him.

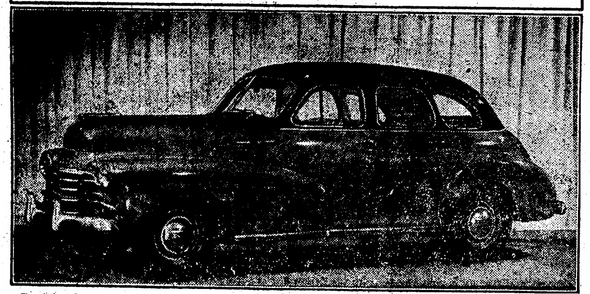
Smart Lines Characterize New Chevrolet



Re-styled for the new year, with emphasis on a more massive front end and a smoother sweep to body contours, the new Chevrolet will soon make its debut. New front-end grille and complementing bright work, as well as elimination of the body belt molding, have done much to give the new model an air of greater luxuriousness.

LAND O'LAKES MINNESOTA BROAD BREAST

are bred up from such famous blood lines as Hamilton, Lyons, Kupetz, Mitchell and Wagon Wheel strains. They are hardy northern grown birds that have inherited the rugged native vigor to live and thrive on northwest farms.

YOUR CHOICE OF Large, Medium, or Small Broad Breasted Bronze, or White Hollands.

All poults from U. S. Approved and Pullorum Tested flocks under the National Turkey Improvement Plan. They are farm proved for fast, economical gains. The parent stock is individually selected for top market qualities at six to eight months by state licensed selecting agents.

All breeders are tube tested for the prevention of pullorum disease. All eggs are disinfected before setting for prevention of navel infection. All poults hatched separately from chicks. Only hatchery employees are allowed in the incubator rooms. No poults will be kept in the hatchery for more than 12 hours after hatching. The entire hatchery will be kept under strict sanitary conditions at all times through fumigation, disinfection and isolation.

Invisible Soap Tray
An inexpensive little gadget which saves both soap and work is called the "Invisible Soap Tray." Actually it is just a little disc of aluminum the size of a half dollar with three raised bumps on one side. Moisten a bar of soap, scrape a little into the concave side of the disc and press disc and bar firmly together. Presto—the soap bar has tiny feet to rest on, thus preventing a messy soap dish or smeared porcelain, and saving soap at the same time since it does not rest in a puddle of water to melt away.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Lem's Dogs vs Thad's Chickens

Running a newspaper, you get to know a lot about human nature.

Thad Phipps was in the other day, all burned up. Wanted me to run an item on how Lem Martin's dog had raided his chickens again, and ought to be put away by law.

I told him: "Lem was in on Saturday. Said you shouldn't be allowed to keep those chickens so close to his house—and in a residential zone, at that."

Thad shuts up right pronto then. And that very evening I see [illegible] at Andy Botkin's Garden Tavern—over a friendly glass of beer.

From where I sit, anyone can find something in his neighbor to complain about. (Some folks may even disagree with Thad's right to enjoy that glass of beer with Lem!) But where would we be if everybody tried to have a law passed against everything they disagreed with? We wouldn't have many neighbors left!

Annual Shipping Ass'n Meeting February 21

The annual meeting of the Holt Co-Operative Livestock Shipping Association will be held Friday, February 21 at 2 p. m. in the Holt Sportsmen Club Rooms, it was announced last week by M. J. Augustine, se'ey of the association. This association is one of the oldest livestock marketing organizations in the State of Minnesota and a good turn out of farmers in this community is expected to the meeting.

Regular business to come before the meeting inclues the review of the past year's actities, the secretary - treasurer's report and the report of the manager, H. D. Inman. One director will be elected to fill the expired term of Julian Rodahl.

An important item of business will be the consideration of an appointment of a shipping manager for 1947. Because of the pressing of farm activities, it is questionable as to whether H. D. Inman, present manager, can continue in that capacity, the board reported.

Speakers from the Central Co-Operative Association are expected to attend the meeting and a free lunch will be served all those in attendance.

Officers and directors of the association include: L. Lobitz, president; M. J. Augustine, secretary; H. D. Inman, treasurer-manager; J. J. Benitt, Elling Wangadahl and Julian Rodahl, directors.

Junior Class Presents Play

A three-act comedy is to be presented by the Junior class of Newfolden High School on Thursday evening, February 20 at 8 P. M. in the school auditorium.

The play tells the story of a typical American family, the Reardons, Laura, the mother, has high social ambitions and has succeeded in getting her daughter engaged to Sherwin Parker, a wealthy New Yorker. Penelope, an eleven-year old with a weakness for slingshots, and Nana, the grandmother with a weakness for Bing Crosby records, do their best to break things up. They are helped in their attempts by the appearance of a - — well it could be almost anything, so come and find out.

Plastics Brighten Home

Plastics are making their home entrance in everything from window screens to furniture upholstery, Tharen Petersen points out in nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer.

These adaptable synthetics will be seen in many forms. Some will be pressed into fine films, some made into thread to be woven into fabric and some molded into thicker sheets, giving a leather-like appearance, she writes in the magazine read by 1,300,000 farm families. Molded plastics are being made into dishes, accessories, furniture and other parts for home equipment.

In spite of the blizzard the Sportsmens club meeting was well attended on Thursday evening. The members of this club are working together for more improvements on the club rooms and all who come appreciate the fine place to meet socially.

Mrs. Orris Harstad of Newfolden visited relatives here Wednesday.

Mrs. L. C. Lindberg of Cavalier returned home Sunday after spending a week at the Hanson home.

Rev. Urness Family Leave

Rev. and Mrs. E. O. Urness and family left last week for Milnor, N. D. to serve the Lutheran churches of that parish. They have faithfully served here the past two years and Pastor Urness will be rembered here for his outstanding ability as a speaker and his concern for the spiritual welfare of individuals.

Mrs. Mabel Hanson and daughter Mrs. Lindberg visited at the Aspelin home Saturday evening.

Mrs. Geo. Fricker and Caroline Aspeline visited Mrs. Sanoden last Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Torrance Lillevold and Mrs. Hanson entertained on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Lillevold of Grygla, and Mrs. A. Morken of Thief River Falls.

Extra Closets
If your home doesn't have enough closet space, start now to include the addition of closets in your home improvement plans. They will be such an added convenience that you'll wonder how you ever got along without them.

Modern-Mode Styling for Chevrolet

The auto industry's stylists and designers have played the major role in the presentation of new models, since change-over this year has been generally confined to restyling in the modern mode. Here is the new Chevrolet, now in production, distinguished by advanced front-end treatment that incorporates a new and more massive radiator grille, larger parking lamps, and smartly-redesigned decorative features.

Many January Accidents

Mild weather and open roads which brought out traffic in January estimated at nearly 25 per cent greater than in the same month last year, also brought an increase in traffic accidents. Forty persons met death on Minnesota roads and streets in January, according to State Highway Department reports. This is four more than in January, 1946, and equals the high January record set in 1942.

Eighteen of the victums, or nearly one-half were pedestrians. Included were four under the age of 10, five from 30 to 49, and nine from 50 to 90 years old. Victums included two boys coasting, two boys running in the roadway, three persons walking or standing near stalled cars, [illegible] car. Others were [illegible] streets when hit. Some had been drinking.

Eleven were killed in motor vehicle collisions, three of them in one crash. Seven were killed in cars that ran off the road and overturned or hit fixed objects, three of them in one car that hit a bridge abutment and landed in a creek. Four were killed in collisions with trains at grade crossings. Failure to slow down for icy stretches was blamed for several crashes. Failure to keep windshields clean and failure to slow down when visibility was poor, were other factors. Other causes of fatal accidents reported included driving on wrong side rounding a curve, failure to stop for arterial STOP signs, ignoring stop—go signs, failure to signal for left turns, and driving while under influence of intoxicants.

Card Of Thanks

I wish to take this means and thank all those who sent me letters, cards and gifts while I was in the hospital and since I came home. Also all those who have visited me.

It was greatly appreciated.

Russian military leaders grow up into army life under the Soviet training system. Picture shows new group of youngsters admitted to Surorov military school. Bemedalled youth at right was said to have fought in Berlin and Manchuria.

CHINA:
U. S. Out

Diplomatic eyes turned anxiously to the Orient following the U. S. decision to abandon its peace-making in China and withdraw most of the 12,000 marines on duty there.

Concern was expressed lest U. S. withdrawal would invite Russian intervention in China on behalf of the Chinese Communists. While Secretary of State Marshall had diligently sought to bring the Nationalists and Reds together during his special peace mission, the U. S. had proceeded on the assumption that the Nationalists constituted the legal government. In supporting the Nationalists, the U. S. has advanced an estimated 1½ to 3 billion dollars of lend-lease, and also provided technicians for training their military forces.

Since the U. S. pulled out of China without making any strategic arrangements, the Russians maintain a distinct advantage in view of their half-interest in the Manchurian railroad and their joint control of Port Arthur and Dairen. Russia's strategic position thus leaves Moscow in a key position if it wishes to supply Chinese Communists entrenched in the north or actually intervene on the pretext of stabilizing conditions in the Orient.

LABOR:
Pay Equality

Announcement by the department of labor that a special commission had simplified job classifications and ironed out rate inequities in the Big Five packing plants pointed up the growing acceptance of the principle of equal pay for equal work in U. S. industry.

Consisting of representatives of the public, government, industry and labor, the commission cleaned up differences between Swift, Wilson, Cudahy, Armour and Morrell and the AFL, CIO and independent unions over rate inequalities. The companies and unions had agreed on conditions for 90,000 jobs in collective bargaining procedure, and the commission acted on the remaining 10,000 jobs.

The number of labor grades carrying varying pay rates was cut from 250 to 25 under the negotiations and wage boosts averaging 1.8 cents an hour were awarded to approximately 75,000 workers to iron out inequalities. In general, packing house employees doing the work in the same geographical area now draw equal pay.

Previously, the CIO-United Steel Workers and U. S. Steel corporation had ironed out wage inequalities for 175,000 employees. Retroactive to January 4, 1944, the cost of readjustment was estimated at 30 million dollars, with many workers receiving the equivalent of a 1½ cent an hour wage increase.

FREIGHT:
Want More Cars

For the fifth time in three years, Senator Reed (Rep., Kas.) acted to alleviate the shortage of box cars in the West caused by the retention of rolling stock in the East by seaboard railroads.

As elevators and millers clamored for cars to move grain stacked in the West, Reed threatened to draw up permanent legislation to relieve what has developed into a perennial problem in recent years. On previous occasions, the railroads shifted cars west upon Reed's demands.

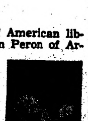
The shortage of rolling stock resulting from inadequate additions during the war years has figured in the scramble for cars between East and West. Once cars roll in from the West with agricultural products, eastern railroads have sought to hold onto them as long as possible for shipment of industrial goods to seaboard points. Because the railroads also are loath to send the cars back empty, valuable time is lost by shunting them westward with short loads.

SOUTH:
Develop Industry

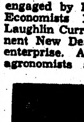
New manufacturing opportunities are being promoted by several states below the Mason-Dixon line to further industrialization of the South.

In Virginia, the governor has appointed a commission to study the problem of developing small, locally-owned industries to process agricultural produce grown in the immediate vicinity.

ARGENTINA:
Peron Scores



Nathan



Currie

Long the target of American liberals, President Juan Peron of Argentina shook some of the ground from under them by employing a firm dominated by former New Dealers to help plot the industrial and agricultural development of the country.

As directors of the Worldwide Development corporation of New York engaged by Peron, Economists Robert Nathan and Laughlin Currie are the two prominent New Dealers involved in the enterprise. Along with engineers, agronomists and geologists, they will help Peron lay out an ambitious program of rural electrification, housing and harbor improvements, road construction and hydro-electric plants.

In undertaking the development, Rear Adm. Howard A. Flanigan, USN retired, who is president and board chairman of Worldwide, was quoted as saying that the firm was interested in the deal because expansion of the Argentine economy would provide lucrative trade possibilities for the U. S. Like other Latin-American nations, Argentine has millions of dollars available for purchases of foreign goods.

The wily Peron also has taken other steps to woo the U. S. Taking cognizance of state department insistence that he rid Argentina of axis firms and agents, he promulgated a decree for expropriation of fascist enterprises.

CONGRESS:
Retain Luxury Levies

Bent on trimming income taxes, the Republican congress moved to preserve other sources of revenue to carry the huge 1947-48 budget and reduce debt by extending wartime rates on luxury items.

As a result, taxes on liquor were scheduled to remain at $9 a proof gallon; 20 per cent on furs, luggage, jewelry and toilet preparations; 1 cent for each 5 cents charged on theater admissions; $8 a barrel on beer; 25 per cent on long distance telephone calls and 15 per cent on local service; 15 per cent on transportation, and 20 per cent on light bulbs and tubes.

Meanwhile, Republican ranks were split on the proposal of Chairman Knutson (Rep., Minn.) of the house ways and means committee to reduce income taxes 20 per cent on earnings up to $300,000. Increasing favor was shown for the suggestion of Representative Engel (Rep., Mich.) that exemptions be increased to cut the taxes of low income groups rather than offering broad relief which might chiefly benefit the upper brackets.

Declaring there are nearly 86 million people dependent on individual or family income of $2,500 or less a year, Engel said that Knutson's bill would result in a tax cut of only 72 cents a week for a man earning that much or less. On the other hand, a person drawing $300,000 a year would gain $942 a week. "If the Knutson bill is passed," Engel said, "it will place into the hands of the Democratic party the most effective campaign argument any party can have; an argument which will appeal to 86 million people in the low income group . . ."

BUSINESS:
Big as Ever

Nineteen forty-six was banner year for American farm machinery manufacturers and all reported prospects for 1947 are even better.

International Harvester enjoyed total sales of $482,328,000 in its fiscal year ending October 31, 1946, and showed profits of $22,326,000. Sales of trucks, parts and service accounted for 35.9 per cent of volume while production of farm implements and parts made up 17.3 per cent of the total.

Deere & Co. sales jumped to $143,900,496 in 1946, with profits of $9,565,579. With a cessation in war work, production of farm implements increased about 23 per cent, it was said.

Oliver corporation sales amounted to $50,840,914 in 1946 with net earnings of $2,003,999. Unit sales of farm items reached an all-time peak despite material shortages and labor difficulties. In anticipation of continued good business, Oliver plans improvements in production and distribution facilities in excess of $7,000,000.

PALESTINE:
Trouble Brews

Having heretofore let the British handle the troublesome situation in Palestine occasioned by Jewish demands for a national haven in the Holy Land, the Arabs prepared to play a more active role in opposition to London's decision to create a Zionist state in the embattled country.

As the majority in Palestine, the Arabs have fought increased Jewish immigration or partition for economic as well as political reasons. Because the Arabs charge that the country is not productive enough to stand a large-scale increase in population, the U. S. and Britain sought to answer this objection in earlier discussions with promises of a substantial loan to develop the nation's industrial and agricultural resources.

While the Jews forced the British into consideration of a Zionist state by keeping the Holy Land in turmoil with a terrorist campaign, the Arabs also could turn on the heat. In addition, they command the full support of the Near Eastern Arab league, embracing 33 million Arabs whose dominance extends to oil rich countries in which the U. S. and Britain have heavy interests.

GERMANY:
Friendly Warning

Head of the Social Democratic party in Germany, lean, hard Kurt Schumacher warned the Allied peacemakers preparing to draw up a treaty for the reich that only a fair agreement accepted by a freely elected regime would assure political stability.

Boldest of the postwar German political leaders to speak out, Schumacher declared that no democratic government could risk signing a severe peace for fear of repudiation by the people. Since he is the only German political leader who has been openly courted by the western allies, his declaration that he himself would not sign a harsh treaty took on special significance.

The specter of Hitlerism and Versailles hung in the background as Schumacher warned that:

> The major nations which played politics with Hitler for their own ends must share the guilt of many Germans for the rise of Nazilsm.
> Annexation of the Saar was the worst form of reparations.
> It would be senseless for Germany to accept a provisional eastern boundary determined beforehand by two major powers.

BRITAIN:
Exports Lag

Thanks to the U. S. loan, Britain managed to balance exports with imports last year, but a considerable increase in overseas trade must be achieved in future months if the British are to stay heavily out of foreign debt and maintain their living standards.

Because of its own limited resources, Britain must import materials for home consumption and fabrication for resale overseas. With Britain owing many countries for war goods, government sources estimated that exports would have to be boosted by 75 per cent to help pay off these debts and still receive imports for domestic use.

While exports rose 17 per cent in July, they dropped off to only 3 per cent above the prewar level in December. The slump was attributed to a scarcity of essential materials and manpower.

Meanwhile, the British are seeking to balance their exports with imports from countries with "soft" currency not easily convertible in world markets.

VETS:
Resume Insurance

Veterans of World War II are putting back in force an increasing volume of the wartime national service life insurance which they permitted to lapse.

Up to January 1 of this year, more than 115 billion dollars of the service insurance had been dropped by the veterans, but in the past few months they have put back into force more than 220,000 of these policies and the rate of reinstatement is reported to be increasing.

80 Pallbearers, 6 Bands in Colossal Chinese Funeral

The greatest funeral held in 20th century China was that of the war lord, Marshal Wu Pei-fu, in Peking on January 24, 1940, says Collier's. Behind his catafalque, which was carried by 80 pallbearers and accompanied by six bands, the mourners carried life-sized paper reproductions of his earthly possessions to be burned and thus, in effect, sent to heaven with him.

Among them was his automobile, the stage of his private theater with its actors, and his large bodyguard of soldiers on horseback, the construction of which, along with scores of other paper articles, required the labor of 200 people for seven weeks.

To keep files sharp see that their surfaces are protected when not in use.

If your vacuum cleaner belt breaks when you are in the midst of cleaning, put a rubber jar ring in its place temporarily.

Wet walls inside a home should cause the householder to check the flashings. Also examine the exterior walls for holes or breaks.

Ash trays carelessly dumped are often the cause of fires in waste baskets.

To make gloss paint flow more readily, place the container in a pan of warm water for ten minutes.

Build your rural mail box just high enough so the carrier can reach it conveniently without getting out of his car. Underneath the box construct a small platform for the reception of packages. An ideal platform size is 14x18 inches.

To prevent lime from forming in the tea kettle, place a piece of muslin in the bottom of the kettle. The lime will stick to the muslin instead of to the kettle.

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Hard To Beat

So Easy. No Cooking. Saves Dollars.

No matter what you've been using for coughs due to colds, you'll be the first to admit that this surprising relief, mixed in your own kitchen, is hard to beat, for real results.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This gives you a full pint of really splendid cough relief—about four times as much for your money. Tastes fine—children love it. It never spoils.

You can feel this home mixture taking right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases soreness and difficult breathing, and lets you sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial irritations. Just try it, and if not satisfied, your money will be refunded.

Weeds Cut Profits
An annual loss of over three billion dollars — chiefly agricultural losses — resulting from weed growth cuts deeply into crop profits. This is the greatest single loss suffered by agriculture exclusive of soil erosion.

Melvin Leiran left Tuesday evening to visit in Beltrami.

A. P. Thompson, who is employed on the Yonke farm at St. Hilaire, spent a few days at his home here.

Mrs. Bertha Hagglund is spending this week with Mrs. B. Borg.

Siama Neimela was rushed to a hospital at Thief River Falls last week to receive treatment.

Mrs. Willard Yonke was rushed to a hospital at Thief River Falls on Saturday after becoming quite ill.

ATTENTION
All Owners Of Electric Motors

Motors are difficult and expensive to replace, so -- take good care of your present equipment. Here are a few friendly tips:

1. Keep the motor bearing prorperly lubricated.
2. Protect motors against dampness.
3. Avoid dust which will damage the bearings.
4. Keep clean of oil -- mixture of dust and oil will clog the ventilating ducts.
5. Never overload a motor beyond its normal rating.

Treat your motors right and they will serve you well.

That Ring Around the Bathtub

Jeb Crowell blew his top the other day. Seems that for weeks he's been trying to get his youngsters to scrub out the bathtub after using it. And this night he sees two rings around it—one where young Sonny left off, and another about Pinky's level.

He raves and rants—and takes it out on the missus for her lack of discipline. And later that evening he sees her quietly polishing the hardwood table that's right by his chair. She's removing the rings he's left there with his evening glass of beer!

From now on, Jeb's careful to put his glass down on the table cover—like the missus does. And I hear he's a little more forgiving about rings around the bathtub. Just keeps on patiently reminding.

From where I sit, there are little annoyances in every family—conflicting habits and opinions in every community. A little patience—a little more "forgive and let live" is the only antidote.

Annual Shipping Ass'n Meeting February 21

The annual meeting of the Holt Co-Operative Livestock Shipping Association will be held Friday, February 21 at 2 p. m. in the Holt Sportsmen Club Rooms, it was announced last week by M. J. Augustine, se'cy of the association. This association is one of the oldest livestock marketing organizations in the State of Minnesota and a good turn out of farmers in this community is expected to the meeting.

Regular business to come before the meeting inclues the review of the past year's actitiės, the secretary - treasurer's report and the report of the manager, H. D. Inman. One director will be elected to fill the expired term of Julian Rodahl.

An important item of business will be the consideration of an appointment of a shipping manager for 1947. Because of the pressing of farm activities, it is questionable as to whether H. D. Inman, present manager, can continue in that capacity, the board reported.

Speakers from the Central Co-Operative Association are expected to attend the meeting and a free lunch will be served all those in attendance.

Officers and directors of the association include: L. Lubitz, president; M. J. Augustine, secretary; H. D. Inman, treasurer-manager; J. J. Benitt, Elling Waagadahl and Julian Rodahl, directors.

Relatives gathered at the home of Mrs. O. B. Johnson on Sunday to honor Miss Avis Johnson.

Miss Avis Johnson left Wednesday for Pontiac, Mich. where she will visit before going to New York. She has spent the past year in Hollywood, Calif.

Myrtle Nohre of Crookston spent last week at the Lloyd Larson home.

Jesse Sorum of Grand Forks was a Holt visitor Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wilson and Mrs. Guy Anderson visited at the Hj. Johnson home Monday

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Peterson left Saturday to visit at the Robert Starr home at Delhi a few days.

Paynes from Leonard Move Here

Mr. and Mrs. John Payne arrived here recently from Leonard, Minn., moving into the Lutheran parsonage, which they have rented. Mr. Payne has been secured to take over the management of the Farmers' Co'op Creamery and comes here well recommended and qualified to fill that position.

Dorothy Larson, Doris Voth, Ardelle Larson, Virgil Erickson Shirley Larson spent Wednesday evening in Newfolden in preparation of the Junior class play.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gessner of Thief River Falls visited at the John Reed home Sunday.

Farm Youngsters Taught Value of Good Grooming

FARM mothers teach their daughters from childhood that "pretty is as pretty does," points out the Rural Home editor of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer.

"Getting an early start is as important in learning beauty and grooming lessons as in most other things," she writes. "The little girl who always brushes her teeth after every meal and loves her splash in the tub before bedtime is the one who grows up to have a pretty smile.

"She'll be known for her dainty freshness. And her own children will love her because, she always looks so good and smells so sweet!"

Tooth brushing is a habit with 5-year-old Alice Jane, daughter of Mrs. Doyt Galloway of Van Wert county, Ohio. Mother and daughter enjoy spending a few minutes together each day keeping up their good looks.

Alice Jane knows the right method for brushing to give clean, white teeth and healthy gums. Her own little footstool by the lavatory makes it easy for her to climb up and look in the mirror to watch the brushing.

Sportsmens Club News

Filling the club house to capacity, the members of the Sportsmen Club gathered for their annual meeting on Friday evening. The following officers were re-elected: L. Lubitz, President; S. Lorentson, Vice President; A. W. Carlson, Secretary and Geo. Fricker, Treasurer. Board of Directors elected were: Harold Nohre, Adolph Stienhauer, Chas. Skoglund, O. T. Ness, and Oscar Guttrud.

A very interesting program was given after the business meeting. Bill Carlson of Middle River spoke of the purpose of the organization. There were several other good numbers.

Miss Dolores Larson was hostess at a valentine party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Larson on Thursday evening. The guests included were: Mr. and Mrs. Art Lunke, Mr. and Mrs. Marlan Augustine, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Larsen, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Larson, Melvin and Lois Larson, Milton Conklin, Ruben, Orvis, ElRoy, and Joann Bennitt, Clifford Steinhauer and Donald Larson.

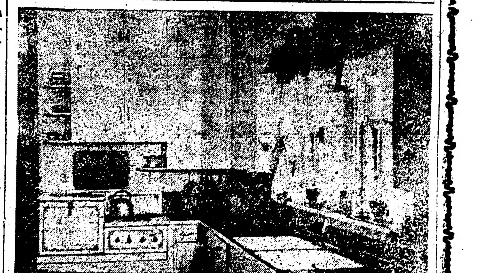
The following girls were entertained by Ardelle Larson at her home on Thursday evening. Miss Shirley Larson, Delores Sandberg and Dorothy Larson. The occassion being a Valentine slumber party. A delicious lunch was served near the close of the evening.

Hjalmer Johnson was pleasantly surprised on Monday evening Feb. 17 on his birthday. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Johnson and Roy, Oscar, Carl, and Forest Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Wilson and Boyd, Mrs. Guy Anderson, Howard Horien and Wendell Inman.

Walter Sandberg became seriously ill on Sunday and had to be rushed to a hospital at Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Hank Sandland of Kalispel, Mont., who are visiting relatives in Grygla, visited at the Hanson home Thursday.

Rural Homemakers Speed Kitchen Remodeling



Above: kitchen storage space was furnished by built-in cabinets in Mrs. J. Ross Fleetwood's kitchen in Boone county, Missouri. Shelves in cupboards are spaced to fit utensils.

CREATING a bright, efficient kitchen from a dingy, inconvenient one is the first postwar improvement many farm women want in their homes, according to the Rural Home editor of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer.

"Among handy devices that can do lots toward kitchen convenience is a pulled out board that makes it possible to sit comfortably to do many tasks," she writes in the magazine read by 1,300,000 farm families. "Lap-board can slide into a slot in a built-in cabinet at a convenient height for the person who uses it.

"A double-basin sink with swinging faucet, single drainboard and high splash back eliminates need for dishpans. It also gives plenty of space for vegetable preparation, pan rinsing and numerous mealtime jobs. With a drainboard it's easy to let dishes dry by themselves. If sink has no porcelain back, a linoleum splash back 10 to 12 inches high is ideal.

"Space underneath sink should have shelves for cleansing materials and room for trash containers. A door with ventilation holes will allow under-sink moisture to escape. Also needed are toe-space for standing at the sink and knee-space for sitting down."

A hardwood counter top beside the refrigerator is useful as a cutting-chopping block and as a pastry board, she adds. It's always cut and ready. Might be made of heavy, hard maple.

Letter From Rev. Urness

Milnor, No. Dak.
Feb. 10, 1947.

To readers of Holt News:

We are now comfortably settled in our Lutheran parsonage here at Milnor. Some fine improvements have been made on the house. Our household goods were unloaded by the time we arrived here and all went well. We stopped to visit Mrs. Urness' sister in Moorhead and took Grace with us, as she had just registered for 2nd semester and wanted to be here for the basket ball game between Oak Grove and Milnor scheduled for Friday night, and also for the installation services. We were very fortunate in coming Wednesday instead of later as we have had a hard storm which covered a large area and found it necessary to postpone services untill Sunday the 16th.

We will always cherish our pleasant stay in Holt. Thanks for everything. We trust that people of Holt will endeavor to work for a good clean community interested in the best for its citizens.

Sincerely,
Pastor E. O. Urness and family.

Household Hints

Save the heavy folding bags in which gelatin is sold. These are ideal for transporting pickles or olives in a lunchbox.

Some of those pictures hanging on the wall are a sight when you take them down. Heavy wrapping paper glued tightly to the back of the frames will keep out dust and protect pictures.

Wax the cupboard shelves or cover them with oilcloth. Then dirt and spots wipe off easily.

To clean pancake griddles, waffle irons, and popover irons, wipe them after each use with a cloth squeezed out in clear, warm water.

Teas may be deliciously flavored by adding sprigs of curly mint, apple mint, orange mint, spearmint, or lemon balm.

When your little one catches cold—

Tonight . . . do what most mothers do to relieve miseries of children's colds: Simply rub warming, soothing Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest and back at bedtime. Results are so good because VapoRub's special relief-bringing action starts instantly . . . and keeps on working for hours during the night while the child sleeps. Often by morning most misery of the cold is gone. Remember, Mother . . . be sure you get the one and only Vicks VapoRub.

DOES WONDERS FOR CONSTIPATED MAN

Famous cereal keeps him "regular" without drugs

Discouraged about your constipation? Then read this sincere, unsolicited letter:

"I tried so many kinds of laxatives for constipation, but after a while they all failed to do their work. I started to eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN some time ago and was surprised to find this wonderful product helped me as many laxatives had failed to do. I eat it every day now and am happy to say I feel like a new man!" Mr. R. Lee Ward, 115 Park Avenue, Edgewood 5, R. I.

Yes, eating ALL-BRAN regularly often brings lasting relief from constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet. For best results, eat it for breakfast every day—and drink plenty of water. Try it for ten days! If by that time you are not completely satisfied with KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, send the empty carton to the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Michigan, and get double your money back.

ALL-BRAN is not a purgative but a wholesome food made from the vital outer layers of whole wheat. Eat daily either as a cereal, or in muffins. Ask your grocer for KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN.

—WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS—

Accidents Kill 100,000 in 1946; State Department Maps Program; Seek Presidential Term Curb

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

U.N.:

How to Disarm?

Sick of war, the U. S. and Russia remained sold on world disarmament, but as the two great powers in conflicting camps, they locked horns on procedure.

The atomic bomb remained the nub of the problem. The U. S. insisted that no adequate system of collective security could be devised until establishment of effective control over A-bombs, long-range rockets and other mass destruction weapons. The Russians, on the other hand, wanted the U. S. to surrender the A-bomb and disarm at the same time.

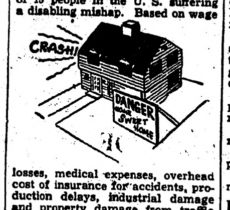
U. S. military experts reason that should the U. S. give up the atomic bomb without securing effective control and scrap ships, airplanes and tanks simultaneously, Russia would have a distinct advantage in case of future hostilities since she could quickly remobilize her ground forces. Thus, stripped of effective communication and power, the U. S. would stand empty-handed at the other end of the world.

No responsible official could stomach that prospect.

Mishaps Take Big Toll

Home, sweet home continued to be the most dangerous place in 1946, National Safety council reported in its roundup of accidents for the year. No less than 34,000 persons were killed in their homes and over 5,000,000 incurred disabling injuries.

In all, 100,000 persons were killed and 10,400,000 injured in accidents for 1946, with an average of 1 out of 13 people in the U. S. suffering a disabling mishap. Based on wage losses, medical expenses, overhead cost of insurance for accidents, production delays, industrial damage and property damage from traffic mishaps and fires, the economic loss was estimated at over 5½ billion dollars.



Automobile accidents claimed 33,465 lives; falls, 27,800; burns, 10,200; drownings, 7,300; railroads, 3,928; firearms, 31,100, and scheduled domestic air travel, 107. Only 1.2 passenger deaths were recorded for every 100 million passenger miles covered by commercial air lines.

WORLD TRADE:

Hit British Pact

Britain renounced any intentions of negotiating restrictive trade clauses with other countries following Secretary of the Treasury Snyder's protest to London over terms of an agreement with Argentina.

Under the disputed pact, Argentina would be able to draw on funds owed her by Britain in years when the latter sold more than she bought from the South American nation, but the money would have to be spent within the British empire. In this manner, Britain would prevent Argentina from draining valuable foreign currency, like U. S. dollars.

Snyder contended that the agreement violated the 3¾ billion dollar loan recently granted Britain in that it would prevent the free flow of trade promised in the deal. Should Britain extend the same provisions to India, Egypt and other countries, it would tend to choke free trade. In answering Snyder, the British government declared it had no intention to apply the terms to future trade pacts.

Marriage Aid

Alarmed by the rising divorce rate, the British Labor government proposed a new welfare service devoted toward stabilizing marriage. Bannered by the London press, the proposal attracted the keen interest of parliament.

Declaring that the service should not be a state institution, the government suggested that it be developed through existing facilities of religious and charitable organizations receiving state aid. In many instances, wise counsel may solve difficulties arising from temperamental differences or the ordinary problems of the day and prevent marital splits, it was said.

At the same time, the government said, there is need of education for marriage, parenthood and family life through enlightened co-operation of parents, teachers and pastors. Engaged couples should receive specific instruction and guidance before taking their vows, it added.

STATE DEPARTMENT:

Legislative Aims

While Secretary of State Marshall called for early congressional action on his request for full aid to the hungry in war-stricken areas overseas, the senate foreign relations committee indicated it would hold off consideration until receiving ex-President Hoover's report on food requirements for Germany.

Marshall made his request in a statement to the committee listing the department's legislative program. Other action sought included:

—Senate approval of the Balkan peace treaties signed in Paris February 10.

—Authorization for the St. Lawrence seaway.

—Legislation for entry of displaced persons into this country.

—Tax exemptions for persons making gifts to the U.N.

PRESIDENCY:

Rush Curb

Mustering its full strength, the Republican majority in congress pushed for passage of a bill by Representative Michener (Rep., Mich.) for limiting a president to two terms. Denying Democratic charges that the measure was "anti-Roosevelt," the GOP contended it was designed to curb the growth of autocratic power and put a historic U. S. tradition into law.

Michener urged speedy action on the measure to allow state legislatures now in session to ratify it as a constitutional amendment. In addition to congressional approval, three-fourths of the 48 states must ratify before it becomes effective. Should congress delay, Michener said, many legislatures may adjourn to 1949 before being able to act upon the proposal.

Meanwhile, President Truman injected himself into discussion of the presidency by proposing that congress change the rules of succession to permit the speaker of the house to take over when the chief executive gives up office and no vice president exists. Under present law, the secretary of state succeeds in such a situation. Elevation of the speaker would permit the advancement of an elective officer, Mr. Truman said.

ANTARCTICA:

New Discoveries

The vast frigid Antarctic lying at the bottom of the world began to take clearer shape as a result of the Byrd expedition. No less than 125,000 square miles of hitherto uncharted wasteland were mapped by naval explorers in the first five weeks of polar operations.

Fliers photographed and charted 4 great bays, eight major mountain ranges, more than 20 islands, 3 important peninsulas and 2,000 miles of coastland. Most important single discovery was a vast bay cutting deeply into the continent from Franklin Roosevelt sea. It measured 180 miles in length and 120 miles in width.

Now on his fourth antarctic expedition, Byrd remained sold on the white-capped continent. He asserted that it contains a treasure-house of raw materials which could supplement U. S. resources depleted during the war.

PARIS:

Fashion Parade

Hens, roosters, eggs and rabbits were among the fashion themes of famed Parisian designers at the recent style showing in the French capital.

Schiaparelli set the farmland motif in hats and on prints, using cotton instead of silk, wool and synthetic materials. Mindful of the shortage of maids the world over, what with high wages prevailing in other work, Schiaparelli thoughtfully added de luxe aprons to dinner dresses for home service.

Simplicity was the theme in all designs, even in daring evening apparel, where it was effectively used to bring out the most of milady. Smartly tailored dresses, tailleurs and peplums were given a big play, although fancy prices, as high as $600, put the originals out of the working girl's reach.

Le Long produced a knockout in a classic pink formal slashed to the waist in the front, back and sides.

FINANCE:

A Comer

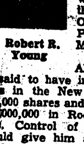
Young, a former New York stockbroker who catapulted into the national limelight by joining in purchase of control of the vast Van Sweringen railroad empire for only $510,000, heads the Alleghany corporation, which dominates the Chesapeake and Ohio, the Nickle Plate and Pere Marquette.



Robert R. Young

Operating through Alleghany, Young is said to have increased his holdings in the New York Central to 309,000 shares and bought up almost $18,000,000 in Rock Island securities. Control of these two lines would give him a run from New York to Chicago to New Mexico, from whence he could bargain for track rights to the Pacific coast, completing his dream of a transcontinental line.

An aggressive champion of railroad modernization to keep up with other competitive modes of transportation, Young repeatedly has assailed carrier interests for failure to improve their properties. He is a strong believer in advertising.

BUILDING:

Labor Pact

AFL building trades unions and Associated General Contractors of America set a pattern for postwar labor and management relations designed to minimize working disputes and speed completion of postwar construction.

Officials of the union and contractors disclosed their plan for industrial peace in a letter to President Truman. Under the agreement, parties to a dispute would submit their case to a joint national conference committee composed of representatives of labor and management for arbitration. The committee would have no jurisdiction over organization strikes.

The Associated Contractors represent all branches of the construction industry but principally builders of commercial structures, highways, roads, bridges, dams and other heavy projects. Unions involved include carpenters, teamsters, plumbers, roofers, sheet metal workers, painters and paperhangers, plasterers and cement finishers, stone cutters, marble polishers, lathers, bricklayers, hod carriers, common laborers, iron workers, granite cutters, electricians, boilermakers and engineers.

Other groups engaged on construction projects also can avail themselves of the services of the conference committee for settlement of disputes, it was explained.

GERMANY:

Plan for Ruhr

Thrice the victim of German aggression within the last 75 years, France will strive for the permanent emasculation of the reich at the forthcoming foreign ministers' conference in Moscow.

Added to the plan for hobbling Germany politically by breaking the reich up into loosely federated states, the French also propose detachment of the Ruhr from the rest of the country.

Appliances Find Common Place in U. S. Homes

Luxuries of years ago are commonplaces in the American home today, the National Family Opinion organization reported after a nation-wide survey for marketing interests.

More than 93 per cent of American homes have electric irons; 90 per cent have radios, while 15.9 per cent have combination radio-phonographs. Almost 36 per cent of the homes have electric mixers and 11.5 per cent have electric roasters.

Among the heavier electrical appliances, vacuum cleaners are most popular, with 61.8 per cent of the homes possessing them. Washing machines are close behind, being found in 59.7 per cent of the homes. Fully automatic washers are owned by 5.4 per cent of the families. Electric sewing machines are distributed through 39.1 per cent of the homes.

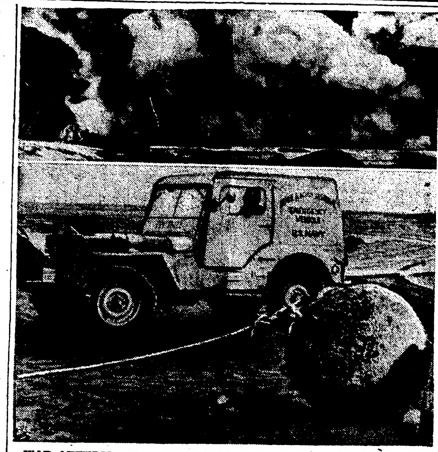
U. S. SAVINGS BONDS Are Always A Good Buy



WAR AFTERMATH . . . Washed ashore one mile from Pacific Beach, Wash., was the mine pictured at bottom where it is being compared with the size of a jeep. Winslow, who during the past year has disposed of 11 mines which were washed ashore on the Pacific coast.

SORRY NO MILK

NO BOTTLES—NO MILK . . . So acute has the shortage of milk bottles become that the U. S. department of agriculture and state agencies are lending their influence in an appeal to consumers to return the 25 million empties which have accumulated in basements and storerooms of the country. According to the dairy folk, it takes eight milk bottles to keep one bottle full in the icebox and those 25 million bottles are desperately needed to prevent a milk shortage.

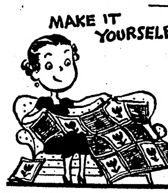
Easy and Inexpensive to Make Hooked, Woven, Braided or Crocheted Rugs



HOOKED rugs are among the simplest to make yourself. Inexpensive, too! The foundation may be burlap or discarded linen; material for hooking can be salvaged from old clothes and blankets.

A gorgeous color combination would be black for the border, pinkish beige for the background; two shades of blue for the "ribbon;" for the flowers—rose, gold, orchid, green.

The add-a-block rug shown is made by binding together a number of hooked squares in any size and shape desired. Easy and fun to make!

Smile Awhile

Land Sick

Two friends were crossing the ocean, and one never found his sea-legs throughout the voyage. His friend burst into his cabin, where he lay one day, and exclaimed:

"Come on deck, Jack, I want to show you something."

"What is it?" asked the sick man.

"A ship," said his friend enthusiastically.

"I don't want to see a ship," groaned Jack; "call me when you see a tree."

Dangerous Ground

Quitting Time

"Why isn't Bill Jones at work this morning?" asked the foreman one Monday.

"He met with an accident at his wedding on Saturday," said one of his mates.

"Accident?"

"Yes. As he and his missus left the church, some of the lads made an archway of picks for them to pass under. Somebody blew a whistle and the whole lot downed tools."

Out of Reach

A business man from Aberdeen was lunching with an English visitor when the Scot, in turning out his pockets, produced a dental plate.

"Bless my soul!" said the Englishman, "why do you carry that about with you? And in any case, it looks too small to be yours."

"It belongs to the wife," explained the Aberdonian. "Ye see, she's contracted the habit o' eating between meals."

Use Rockets to Brake Speed of Trains, Planes

The jet power of rockets, which has so far been employed almost wholly as a propulsive force, is expected to be used soon in the opposite way—to brake the speed of planes and trains in cases of emergency, says Collier's.

Experts estimate that a train which travels 1,500 feet after the air brakes are applied could be brought to a stop in 375 feet, or one fourth the distance, by the additional braking force of forward-firing rockets installed on the locomotive.

Fairness Begets Fairness

Recently I found in my mail an unusual letter. It was an impressive letter, for it came from a well-known manufacturer on the subject of labor unions and their leaders. Omitting the personalities involved, I should like to offer you the letter in full. It is so sane and offers such rich practical suggestions for settlement of some of our huge industrial problems that I want to pass it on to readers of this column.

"Dear Sir: Your description of the labor situation in Sweden almost depicts the labor situation of the (XYZ) industry in our country. Mr. X, the founder of the Union, plus the cooperation of the manufacturers, brought it about. And I dare say this labor leader instilled the spirit of cooperation into the manufacturers by fair play and honest tactics.

Men of Calibre

"Since the formation of the Union in 1919, no strikes have occurred. The instruments installed by him for orderly settlements of disputes are no doubt well known to you.

"All of this leads to one conclusion. If the leaders of labor are men of right calibre, strikes are almost impossible because employers are invariably reluctant to have their business disrupted and are willing to meet fairness with fairness; hence, my advice is: Urge labor unions to choose wise and business-like leaders; men of high ideals, thoroughly honest.

"All of this may sound silly, but to prove my point: There existed a (XYZ) union before Mr. X's entry which had no influence and accomplished nothing, and if allowed to continue would have perhaps brought disaster to the industry like in so many others.

"If labor were headed by men who are qualified for leadership, labor troubles would eventually be of minor importance."

Horse-Sense

So ends this very pointed letter from my manufacturer friend, who obviously is no enemy of labor. Actually, the reasons so apparent why management should be the friend of labor are almost the same set of reasons why labor should stand solidly for cooperation with management. After all, the two are the main components of industry: labor and management. Their objectives are the same. Neither can exist without the other. This bespeaks, with all the logic of plain horse-sense underscored by the compulsion of self-interest: cooperation.

Strikes are Outmoded

Orderly settlement of industrial disputes would mean much to the welfare of our nation at this time of crisis when we are reconverting our industry to the ways of peace. Strikes are now too costly, to labor and to management, and to the public, to have any prominent place in the settlement of industrial disputes.

In this enlightened time, when word is almost as swift as thought and the facts are so easy of access, surely these two components of industry with so much in common can make use of the council table instead of the strike. With wisdom and fairness and honesty prevailing this can be done. We have had full demonstration that frequent large strikes are the route to disaster.

Wages and Prices

About 15 months ago Mr. Henry Wallace, then Secretary of Commerce under President Truman, asserted that wages in the automobile industry could go up 30 per cent without prices of cars going up at all. It wasn't true, as all informed people knew at the time. But the statement tended to gain public support.

At least the statement helped gain public toleration for a long strike, which ended with about a 20 per cent raise in wages. But even then the OPA was immediately convinced that increases in prices were made necessary. Little by little OPA raised the prices on cars until it had granted an average increase of 22 per cent. In short, for a 20 per cent increase in wages for auto workers the public was required, by OPA, to pay 22 per cent more for cars.

Same Play Again

Now the auto workers are asking for another raise of about 25 per cent in wages. Mr. C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors, asserts that such a raise will also put prices of cars up by 25 per cent. Mr. Alfred P. Sloan, chairman of the board of General Motors, also declares that wages cannot be raised without raising prices.

Some labor leaders are maintaining that wages in general can go up about 25 per cent without increasing prices. From last year's experience the public will quite readily understand that if wages go up again, prices must also go up. This leaves just one real issue. Is it to the interest of workers and the rest of the public for prices to keep going up and up?

Tit for Tat

Some unions are now declaring that the raises they got last year are already neutralized by increased prices of the things they must buy. This is evidently true. Now if another raise in wages is granted, only to be followed by a still greater boost in prices, workers will be no better off. In fact they, and all the rest of us, will be worse off. Higher prices will finally cause buying to drop off. Then jobs will begin to drop off, leading to unemployment and finally to depression.

There is a way for everybody to gain — both workers and the general public. That way is for management and workers to cooperate to increase production so effectively that goods will become plentiful and prices will go down.

The Sound Way

Then the workers will have the equivalent of a real raise in wages because their present wages will buy more food and clothing. All of the public will benefit in the same way. This is sound economics. But for wages to keep going up and up, only to be followed by prices going up and up, is unfortunate for workers and everybody else.

If we want to destroy the American economic order and force our country into state socialism, that is the way to do it. Fifteen months ago many wondered seriously if Henry Wallace believed that wages could go up 30 per cent in any industry without prices going up. Many now wonder if any informed people really think wages can go up 25 per cent without raising prices. If we try it we will again learn the hard way.

Cleaning the Oven

Grease "baked on" in range ovens is hard to remove, the Rural Home editor of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer points out. Scouring, unless done with care, may damage the enamel finish. So home economists with the U. S. Department of Agriculture suggest placing a shallow bowl of household ammonia — or a wadded cloth dampened in ammonia — in the oven for several hours or overnight. Fumes help loosen greasy film; a badly soiled oven may need several treatments.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Where Cissy Spent Her Honeymoon

Most of the young newlyweds in our town spend their honeymoon at Roundstone Lake or Jackson Falls; why the Martins even went as far as New York City.

But when Cissy Cupper married the young Carter boy, they allowed as how they were going to spend their honeymoon right here.

"There's no place better than our town," Cissy says. "And I'd like to start married life at home, with things Bud and I are used to."

Makes sense, come to think of it. Folks naturally left them alone: and except for occasional visits to the Garden Tavern for a glass of beer, they stayed at home, getting used to married bliss.

My missus prefers traveling—and that's her right. But from where I sit, there's no place better for a honeymoon—or second honeymoon—than right at home—with your own possessions, good home cooking, and a friendly glass of beer or two—with the best companion in the world.

Handy Energy Savers

A long-handled dustpan saves homemakers lots of back-tiring stooping. If none is available in the stores, have your husband fashion one from an old mop handle, and your regular dustpan, suggests the Home Editor of Capper's Farmer, whose advice on household matters is read by 1,250,000 farm families. Cleaning bedsprings is a tedious job normally, she adds, but when you use a long-handled dish mop which has been treated with furniture oil, the dust disappears like magic. Moreover, you save time, disposition and many a backache.

Action Provides Housing

Many communities have moved on their own initiative to solve acute housing shortages.

Illustrative of direct community action is an organization set up by the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce, known as the Des Moines Housing Corporation. This organization has provided homes for several hundred veterans' families through the use of Fort Des Moines.

In another Iowa community, the Spencer Chamber of Commerce financed a $100,000 housing program to provide veterans with houses for around $4,000 each.

Bert Solves the Labor Problem

You hear a lot about capital and labor nowadays, as if the two could never get together. But look at Bert Childers—who has 320 acres of producing land, a fair-sized herd of cattle, and two farm hands working for him.

If you called Bert a "capitalist" he wouldn't know what you meant, and neither would Spike and Lundy, the hired men. Bert works side by side with both of them and in the evenings they sit around the fire together—sharing [illegible] of beer or two.

If anybody has a beef—whether it's about wages or hours or equipment—they talk it over at those friendly evening sessions.

I don't say all labor problems are as simple as Bert's. But from where I sit, the basic principle applies to any farm or factory or business: A principle of confidence and mutual respect, of daily talks together in a friendly and congenial atmosphere.

Shipping Ass'n Held Meeting

The Annual Meeting of the Holt Co-Operative Livestock Shipping Association was held here last Friday. It was a very good turn out of farmers as well as the others interested in the association.

Regular business to come before the meeting included the reveiwing of last years activties, the secretary- treasurer's report and the report of the manager. Adolph Steinhauer was elected director to fill the expired term of Julian Rodahl.

Mr. Carl Spong of Bemidji and Mr. Tom Seaton of Fargo were the speakers of the day.

Dips and Peaks

Practical economists view the business outlook in terms of peaks and valleys. They have come to accept the ups and downs of the charts as interpretation of the myriad factors indicative of trends that may take place in our changing, dynamic economy. But the query is put: How can we avoid depressions? Must we take these periodic back-sets for granted? Is there not danger for America in depressions?

These questions are sometimes honestly asked by critics of what they call "boom and bust" capitalism. Yes, there is danger in depressions. They're full of dynamite. We might wish to avoid the effects of every kind of business recession, but to say that we desire to give up freedom of individual opportunity for a regimentation so thorough that we can avoid depression would be to swap temporary set-back for permanent disaster.

Level Road?

America's economy is a changing economy. It is dynamic. And its direction, always, has been upwards toward the mountain peaks of a higher and higher standard of living for all her citizens. It is just possible that we could stay in the valley, finding a level road that would be smooth and easy. Some folks mistakenly call this "security." But if we would have the mountain peaks of higher and higher standards of living, then we must be prepared for the brief plateaus, or even the dips, of readjustment for the climb ahead.

This need be no bitter revelation. The price of no depression would mean accepting a static economy. We can have "no progress" along with "no depression." A static America, however, would not be a progressive, inventive, virile America. There are freedoms which thrive in the dynamic economy, and not the least of them is freedom of opportunity.

Price Too High

State socialism desires to become your protector. You may have full and continuous protection—if you care to turn over to the state the job of deciding how many jobs there will be, what will be produced, who'll take the jobs, and at what wages. But we know the price of this protectorate is too high.

Almost within our own generation the working man has had his hours cut nearly one-third. Real wages of the "undiscovered" common-man have tripled in many industries. Secondary school enrollments have increased ten times, and college education is available to everyone. The physical comforts and the luxury goods consumed by America's common-man are the envy of the whole world. All this has taken place, despite depressions.

Upward Still

This is not to say that America should accept serious business recessions without making any effort to cushion their effect. A wealth of experience from the uncertain Thirties should enable Congress to meet future emergencies with more success. We shall be able to avoid the mistake of blaming overproduction, for we now know that to admit overproduction is to admit that we can offer a higher standard of living than our people can accept.

America can keep going ahead on the climb upward toward heights now undreamed of, if we rededicate ourselves to honest effort in understanding and using the system that has brought us so much. Recognizing the laurels that belong already to the American way, we may scale heights that yet have never been surveyed. Let us not just take depressions for granted; let's take them in stride.

Declare 1947 Potato Goals

Marshall county farmers were warned today that requests for 1947 potato goals must be received at the county AAA office by April 1, 1947.

The warning was issued by Mr. Chas. N. Kranz, chairman of the Marshall county A A A committee, who stated that all farmers who intend to grow three or more acres of potatoes must have farm goal to receive benefit of the potatoe price support program.

Potato goals have already been established for most farms in the county, Mr. Kranz said, but pointed out it is possible that some growers were missed when goals were established.

The AAA chairman asks that any farmer who intends to grow three or more acres of potatoes next year, and has not filled out a goal card, to contact the county AAA office in Warren.

Potato growers have come to realize the importance of a potat support program, and it would be sad if a farmer was unable to get the benefit of price support programs because a goal was not established for the farm, Mr. Kranz said.

"We want to see that every farmer in the county who intend to plant 3 or more acres of potatoes gets a farm goal, but we will be unable to set any goals after April 1, 1947" he added.

Goals are based on 1944-1946 potato acreage and 1947 planting intentions received from farmers Producers who exceed their goal forfeit their right of participation in the Federal potato price support program.

Mrs. Orris Harstad and baby Karen Dawn, came here Saturday from a hospital in Thief River Falls to stay a few days at the O. T. Ness home before going to their home at Newfolden.

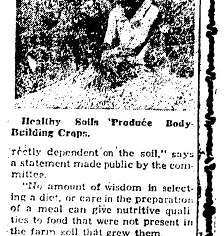
SOIL IMPROVEMENT IS KEY TO BETTER HEALTH FOR PEOPLE

CHICAGO—Pointing out that "our bodies are really built from the ground up," the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee declared that treatment of our farm soils will determine the kind of physical development future generations of Americans will have.

"Nutritionists, agronomists and farmers themselves are increasingly recognizing that human health is directly dependent on the soil," says a statement made public by the committee.



Healthy Soils Produce Body-Building Crops.

"No amount of wisdom in selecting a diet, or care in the preparation of a meal can give nutritive qualities to food that were not present in the farm soil that grew them.

"The capacity of the soil to provide abundant nutritive elements to the crops it produces is the key to the solution of many problems in plant, animal and human nutrition. That capacity can be increased by intelligent soil management methods including the regular application of mixed fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash, as needed.

Flaxseed $6.00 Per Bushel

Methods for supporting 1947 flaxseed at $6.00 per bushel at Minneapolis have been announced, and according to Chas. N. Kranz chairman of the Marshall County AAA committee, three support measures have been instituted.

Mr. Kranz stated that the $6. flax suport price will be implemented by loans to producers, contracts with processors who agree to pay the support price, and purchases of flaxseed by the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Flaxseed grown in 1947 which grades U. S. No. 1 will be supported at $6.00 per bushel at Mankato, Minneapolis, and Red Wing, Minnesota until June 1, 1948. Support prices for No. 2 flaxseed will be 5 cents per bushel less than the price specified for No. 1 flaxseed. No support price has been specified for flaxseed which does not grade U S. No. 1 or U. S. No. 2, the chairman said. A bushel of flaxseed is 56 pounds after deduction for dockage.

Mr. Kranz pointed out that in determining support prices for farmers, the actual cost of freight, transportation tax, and handling charges will be deducted from the base price. Handling charges under the loan and purchase program will not exceed 8 cents per bushel unless otherwise approved dy the Department of Agriculture.

We would appreciate having that has flaxseed in excess of his own needs, report the amount of flax seed you have to sell to the AAA office.

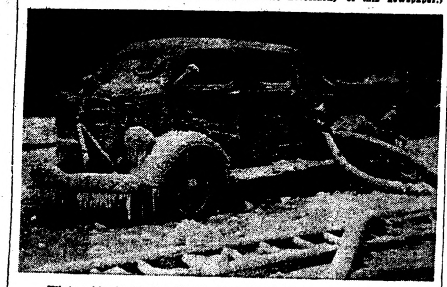
U.S., Canada Cooperate Against Arctic War Threat; Labor Reform Balked by Industry Disagreement

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



Wintry blasts in the Windy City of Chicago converted this fire engine fighting fire into a pillar of ice as sub-zero temperature froze spray from hoses. After a week of shivering, Chicagoans welcomed break in weather, thermometer hitting the 30s.

CANADA:
Defense Agreement

Partners in war, U. S. and Canada will remain partners in peace to strengthen the defense of the northern portion of the western hemisphere.

Agreement to extend wartime military cooperation into the postwar world was announced simultaneously by Washington and Ottawa. Because the agreement was of a friendly, informal character and involved no treaty or obligations, congressional approval will not be necessary, the state department said.

With development of high-speed bombers, supersonic rockets, guided missiles and radio-controlled pilotless aircraft, Canada's arctic circle comprising the shortest distance between Asia and Europe and the western hemisphere is considered as this country's chief natural defense frontier. Cooperation with Canada thus would afford the U. S. a strategic advantage in coping with an arctic aerial attack.

The new agreement calls for familiarization of U. S. and Canadian officers with one another's military establishment; gradual standardization of weapons, and mutual and reciprocal use of military and naval facilities.

Divorce Rate Climbs

The number of divorces in the U. S. nearly doubled during war years and, if the current rate of increase continues, annual divorce totals will match marriage totals within the next decade, statistics from the bureau of the census and the public health service indicate. There were 502,000 divorces in the country in 1945, according to census bureau estimates, while during the same period there were 1,618,331 marriages. In 1940, before the war put unprecedented stress on the bonds of matrimony, there were an estimated 264,000 divorces and 1,595,879 marriages. Thus while divorces during the final year of World War II were more than 90 per cent higher than in 1940, the nationwide marriage rate was up less than a net 1.4 per cent.

GERMANY:
Allies Conflict

Implementation of differing Allied economic policies in Germany promises to produce a conflicting hodge-podge that will complicate any future unification of the reich as an independent state or ward of U. S., Britain and Russia.

The confused situation was pointed up by the U. S. promulgation of anti-trust law in the American occupation zone. Designed to promote independent enterprise, the law will require reorganization of some 30 large German corporations with assets of 300 million dollars. Firms employing over 10,000 people will be the first targets.

While the British issued a similar law in their occupation zone, they provided safeguards for socialization of certain industries.

Over in their eastern occupation zone, the Russians already have incorporated more than 200 concerns into state monopolies along communist lines.

BRITAIN:
Fuel Crisis

Britain returned to an emergency footing in the Labor government's desperate efforts to resolve the serious coal shortage.

In striving to move precious fuel from snow-bound regions and at the same time conserve dwindling stocks, the government acted under military defense regulations, decreeing:

Railroad passenger service would be curtailed to clear rights of way for coal trains and divert locomotives to such haulage; servicemen would be employed at digging surface coal; additional trucks would be provided to transport fuel from docks and railroad depots; all but essential street lighting would be banned, and violators of electricity conservation orders would be punished.

Airplanes were used to drop food and other essentials to snow-bound villages cut off from railroad and highway communication by the heavy drifts.

Sick Industry

Behind Britain's acute coal crisis which left millions jobless and shivering as industrial and domestic power services were sharply curtailed lay the story of an antiquated coal mining industry enfeebled by low wages, undesirable working conditions and outmoded machinery.

Nationalization of the mines by the Labor government, with the promise of an improvement in the industry, has been too recent to afford substantial relief from the aggravated conditions of two and a half decades.

In 1913, Britain produced 287,000,000 tons of coal with 1,107,000 miners, but by 1920 output dropped to 230,000,000 tons. Despite a larger working force, the decline was attributed to the advancing age of the miners and lack of adequate equipment.

Year by year production continued to slip until it sagged to an all-time low of 182,000,000 tons in 1945. But whereas U. S. output continued to climb to over 600,000,000 tons and wages advanced to high levels, both British industry and mine help resisted introduction of new machinery which would have increased volume and allowed more pay.

Because of the unattractive prospects in the mines, the industry has had difficulty recruiting younger men. As a result, it has been forced to stumble along in the face of rising demands, with production just about meeting immediate needs and allowing no stockpiling.

FIRE:

During 1946 national fire waste totaled $561,487,000, the highest losses in 20 years, and the second highest ever recorded. This destruction came within half a million dollars of exceeding the record year of 1926.

Last year, the waste by fire was greater than in any of the years of vast citywide conflagrations, such as 1871, when Chicago burned, or 1906, when fire destroyed virtually all of San Francisco.

CONGRESS:
Slow on Labor

With industrial spokesmen divided among themselves upon corrective labor legislation, house and senate labor committees found their tasks complicated with little chance for early action.

With action already delayed by Republican reorganization of the new congress and streamlining of procedure provided for in the La Follette bill last year, it appears that the lawmakers will not be able to agree upon any substantial corrective legislation before expiration of John L. Lewis' truce with the government March 31.

Indicative of the differences between industrial interests, Forney Johnston, special counsel for National Coal association, blasted industry-wide bargaining with unions, while Almon E. Roth, president of National Federation of American Shipping, approved of it. While industry-wide bargaining, which covers many plants, is considered less troublesome and costly, individual employers sacrifice some of their independence in consummating such agreements.

Profits Near Normal

Profits in 1946 were normal in relation to the national income and in line with long-term ratios for active years, say Jules Backman and Martin R. Gainsbrugh in a survey of profits released by National Industrial Conference board.

During previous years of high level employment and production, the two economists declare, profits have averaged between 7½ per cent and 8½ per cent of the national income.

PALESTINE:
Problem for U.N.

Strong Arab and Jewish opposition to the British plan for dividing Palestine to provide a homeland for Jewish refugees promised to result in submission of the problem to the United Nations to check the outbreak of a bloody civil war in the Holy Land.

Britain had appeared too near the end of her rope in trying to work out agreement between the Arabs and Jews. While Jewish terrorists had goaded the British into developing a compromise plan, they were reluctant to enforce it against the unwilling Arabs, the mightiest force in the strategic and oil-rich Near East.

Not only could the Arabs create trouble in Palestine itself but they also could kick up in oil-rich Saudi Arabia and Iraq and exert pressure in Egypt along the vital imperial lifeline from the Far East.

Submission of the case to the U.N. would relieve Britain of the onus of imposing peace on a hostile country.

POLAND:
Offer Amnesty

Desirous of repatriating thousands of Polish exiles spread throughout Europe, the Mediterranean region and Canada, the Russian sponsored Polish government offered political amnesty to refugees who have opposed the present regime or committed crimes against it.

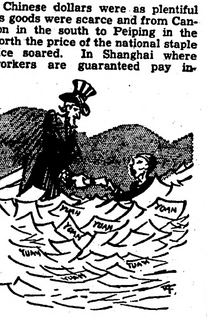
Equally desirous of uniting Poland itself and checking continuing bloody civil warfare, the government announced the application of the amnesty order to 100,000 political prisoners within the country and members of the rightist underground hiding out in forest lands.

On the very day that the Warsaw regime appealed to exiled Poles to return to their homeland, the British parliament approved a resettlement bill for 127,000 Polish troops in Britain.

Inflation Hits China

Many a Chinese wondered if it was the beginning of the end.

Chinese dollars were as plentiful as goods were scarce and from Canton in the south to Peiping in the north the price of the national staple rice soared. In Shanghai where workers are guaranteed pay increases commensurate to the rise in living costs, many business men considered closing shop since mounting costs threatened to ruin them.



Indicative of the inflationary spiral, one American dollar bought 19,000 Chinese dollars.

With the creeping paralysis in the Chinese economy intensified by the civil strife raging between the Nationalists and Communists, the U. S. decision to abandon its peace-making and pull out of the country was said to have contributed to the financial breakdown.

UAW:
Empty Purse

In battling for maintenance of high take-home pay during the reconversion period, strikes cost the powerful CIO - United Automobile Workers more than $2,000,000, George F. Addes, secretary treasurer of the union, disclosed.

As of last November, Addes revealed, the UAW net worth stood at $134,869 compared with $2,689,000 at the time of V-J Day. Toward the close of 1946, he said, the union had cashed in all of its government bonds save for $10,000 and was compelled to borrow $250,000 from other CIO unions.

From December, 1945, to November, 1946, the UAW had expended $1,826,186 on strikes, Addes said. Because the walkouts at Allis-Chalmers in West Allis, Wis., and the J. I. Case company in Racine, Wis., have been costing $150,000 monthly for the last few months, the UAW strike fund now is in the red.

To build up UAW finances, the union top command has slapped a special $1 per month capita assessment on the 800,000 members. Dues were increased from $1 to $1.50 monthly last April.

SLUMS:

Substantial financial aid from the federal government will be necessary if there is to be any considerable amount of slum clearance and sound urban redevelopment in this country, Louis Justement of the urban planning committee of American Institute of Architects, asserted.

This conclusion is shared by the recently formed interprofessional urban planning committee which agreed that it is desirable that urban communities should be self-reliant."

Should Help Some

The foreman believed in getting the workers to cooperate with him. In an effort to inspire them to an even greater output, he called them together for a consultation.

"Whenever I enter the workshop," he said pleasantly, "I want to see every man cheerfully performing his task with as much speed as possible. I don't want to catch anyone loafing on the job. Now I am going to place this box by the door, and I want you to place in it any ideas you may have as to how we can bring this about."

A few days later he opened the box, to find one solitary piece of paper. On it was written: "Take the rubber heels off your shoes."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When ironing over zippers use a thick towel under the pressing cloth. This avoids a shiny ridge.

For a "slide-along" clothespin bag get heavy material and sew it on to a coat hanger. Hang it on the clothesline. This eliminates stooping for clothespins.

To keep casters which are used under furniture from coming loose, dip them in melted paraffin before placing them under the legs of chairs or tables.

When embroidering, color the transfer pattern with crayons. Use the various colors the embroidered work should be. Then you will know at a glance what color thread is needed.

It is better to use a dull or satin finish paint in the kitchen rather than a glossy paint which reflects light and is hard on the eyes.

The Ampersand

The oldest symbol representing a word is "&," known as the ampersand. Originally, it was one of the 5,000 signs in the world's first shorthand system which was invented by Marcus Tiro in Rome in 63 B. C. and used for 1,000 years. Not only is "&" the only one of these signs to have survived, but it is used today as the symbol for the word "and" in several hundred languages.

Don't form the habit of depending on harsh, griping laxatives until you've tried this easy, healthful way millions now use to keep regular.
It's fresh lemon juice and water taken first thing in the morning—just as soon as you get up, the juice of one Sunkist Lemon in a glass of water. Taken thus, on an empty stomach, it stimulates normal bowel action, day after day, for most people.
And lemons are actively good for you. They're among the richest sources of vitamin C, which combats fatigue, helps resist colds and infections. They supply vitamins B_1 and P, aid digestion and help alkalinize the system.
Try this grand wake-up drink 10 mornings. See if it doesn't help you! Use California Sunkist Lemons.

How To Relieve Bronchitis
Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action
Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

FRIGID TRAINING FLIGHT . . . As part of the army air forces training program, Boeing B-29 superfortresses of the 28th bombardment group are pictured in a practice formation flight over the rugged Alaskan terrain background. Training flights have taken off with the mercury from 25 to 50 below zero as men and machines are put to the toughest tests ever encountered.

DOG RECEIVES TRANSFUSION . . . Chicago's dog blood bank chalked up another donor when Tess, a large dog with plenty of life-giving fluid to spare, willingly gave up a quart of blood to save the life of a small unnamed cocker spaniel. Canine blood is not typed, enabling any dog to donate blood to another.

SHE KNOWS HER POTATOES . . . Miss Yvette Cagne, 18, Van Buren, Me., has challenged Idaho and other potato producing states to exhibit better Irish spuds than she is shown with at Pittsburgh. Perched atop a pile of potatoes at the Pittsburgh auction, Maine's potato blossom queen acted as auctioneer. Proceeds were given to the Red Cross. Maine potato producers claim that they not only have the nation's best potatoes but the prettiest potato queen.

SALLY COMES HOME . . . Although Sally, 3-year-old doe, was given her freedom by Mrs. William H. Russell when she was two months old, the grateful deer returns regularly and makes herself at home. Sally was found on the army's reservation at Picatinny arsenal, Lake Denmark, N. J., when she was two days old. Mrs. Russell, former instructor for the seeing eye and director of the arsenal's K-9 patrol, raised the deer. Since then Sally has mothered two fawns and expects another. She never brings her fawns into the house, leaving them in the yard.

HOW TO FEED FOUR AT A TIME . . . Mrs. Charles Henn, mother of Baltimore's lusty young quadruplets, shown above taking her first lesson at the hospital nursery. Mrs. Henn said "it's fun," but she found she needed help to keep all four going successfully without any wailing. The babies are growing splendidly, hospital officials said, [illegible] just about ready to go home.

FRANCE'S YOUNGEST HERO . . . Classmates gather around Jean Thomas, 16, France's youngest underground resistance worker, after he had been awarded the War Cross. In 1943, Jean, only 13, escaped from the Germans after being tortured.

Rabbit Used as Lure Given Break in Greyhound Races

Greyhound races in which live rabbits are used—a practice permitted in several states—are held twice a year in Abilene, Kans. At these national meets, about 500 dogs are entered and 250 jack rabbits serve as lures; and the races consist of two greyhounds chasing one rabbit over a straight course of 1,400 feet. For the protection of the rabbit, he is not only given a head start of 300 feet, but is trained for two weeks before the meet to lose no time in getting to and through one of the many escape slots at the end of the course.

The greyhound is one of the oldest known variety of dogs, having been pictured on the Egyptian monuments. In hunting the greyhound relies upon keen sight rather than smell.

Splendid Cough Relief, Mixed In Your Kitchen
Saves Big Dollars. No Cooking.
Yes, ma'am, right in your own kitchen, you can easily mix a cough medicine that is a wonder for quick results, and gives you about four times as much for your money. And it's no trouble—a child could do it.
You'll need a syrup. Make it by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.
Now get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. There you have a full pint of remarkable medicine for coughs due to colds. It lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.
You'll say it's hard to beat, for real relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.
Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Boys' Blouses

In sewing for small boys who wear their trousers buttoned to a blouse, make the blouses long enough to allow for moving buttons down. Turn up a wide hem on the bottom of the blouse, and use it as a stay for the buttons, or sew twilled tape on the underside of the waistline for the same purpose.

Take Care of Toaster

To insure long and faithful service from the toaster, never place it in water or shake it violently. Manufacturers suggest that the crumbs be cleaned out with a soft brush. Always disconnect the toaster, or any other appliance, from the circuit before cleaning or otherwise servicing it.

GREATEST SCHOOL FOR LEADERSHIP

The Army Ground Forces soldier is famed for his ability to carry out any assignment with resourcefulness and initiative—the qualities that make leaders in civilian life as well as the Army.

The Ground Forces not only teach you leadership—they equip you with fine job training to go with it. In peacetime, the Army is a gigantic school-going organization—with training available in many skills and trades. Courses offered range all the way from automotive mechanics to welding—designed to help you find the work you like and do best.

Increased Army pay scales are now in effect, and you receive 20% additional pay for overseas service.

Thousands of outstanding young men, able to meet the new higher standards required, are enlisting in the Regular Army. They are beginning interesting, useful careers by learning leadership along with special skills. Visit your nearest U. S. Army Recruiting Station for details.

HIGHLIGHTS OF REGULAR ARMY ENLISTMENT

1. Choice of any branch of service which still has quotas to be filled, and of certain overseas theaters which still have openings, on 3-year enlistments.
2. Enlistment age from 18 to 34 years inclusive (17 with parents' consent) except for men now in Army, who may reenlist at any age, and former service men depending on length of service.
3. Educational benefits under GI Bill of Rights for men who enlist before official termination of war and remain in service 90 days or more.
4. Family allowances for dependents of men enlisting or reenlisting continue until 6 months after official termination of war.
5. Enlistments for 1½, 2 or 3 years. (1-year enlistments permitted for men now in the Army with 6 or more months of service.)
6. Option to retire at half pay for the rest of your life after 20 years' service—increasing to three-quarters pay after 30 years of service. All previous honorable active federal military service counts toward retirement.

NEW, HIGHER PAY FOR ARMY MEN
In Addition to Food, Lodging, Clothes and Medical Care:

Uncle Sam Says

SAVINGS BOND APPLICATION

Have you stopped to consider that save-as-you-go is as important to you as the pay-as-you-go plan, which millions of my nieces and nephews are rediscovering this month as their best friend in meeting income obligations? When you are signed up on the payroll savings plan or have arranged with your bank for regular monthly purchases of U. S. Savings Bonds, you're on an automatic, easy save-as-you-go plan which will enable you to meet future personal and family obligations, or a business of your own, pay for a new home, travel or education for your children. As a good American, you are paying your income tax bill to your Uncle Sam to help pay for the war. As a good American, you also have the opportunity to turn the tables on your Uncle Sam. Investing in U. S. Savings Bonds regularly, your Uncle Sam will pay you $4 for every $3 in ten years.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

A Definition of Our Town

Somebody defined our town just the other day as "A place where the people talk about you behind your back, and come to wait on you when you're sick."

I've got to admit there's something to it. A lot of our folks are inclined to be pretty outspoken and quick to criticize . . . even about little things, like a woman's hat, or a man's preference for a glass of beer, or the color of Cy Hartman's new barn.

But when anyone's in trouble, those differences and points of criticism are forgotten . . . and folks become neighborly and helpful, like they really are.

From where I sit, criticism never did much harm to anybody, so long as folks don't let it guide their actions . . . so long as they respect our individual preferences, whether they apply to hats or beer. That's the way it is in our town, anyway, and I hope that it's the same in yours.

It's Tit for Tat

The definite, dynamic relationship which prices bear to wages and wages to prices has been dramatized effectively in recent weeks. To the average American housewife, however, who counts out carefully and apportions out even more carefully her husband's weekly pay, the relationship has been real enough all along.

To Mrs. Pennythrift, the housewife, taking her change out of the crockery pot in the cupboard to exchange it for basic family needs, the fact that prices "down" represents a real "raise" in wages is well understood. With her the basic problem is: How far will the money go? When she has to take out less change to buy a loaf of bread or bottle of milk, that's as good to her as a pay boost for her husband. And cause for jubilation.

The Mass Production Way

Henry Ford II, whose grandfather practiced so well the mechanics of good economy and who dealt fairly and well with the mass output system, recently started what may become a trend in the automobile industry. In making the first postwar price reduction on cars, Mr. Ford actually gave the equivalent of a wage boost to all Americans who buy Fords, and if other car manufacturers follow, it will mean a boost to all who buy automobiles. And as mass production of automobiles comes to peak, still lower prices will surely follow.

While labor leaders thought this a step in the right direction, some of them quickly stated that "price cutting" would have no effect upon their plans for wage drives. Neither industry nor labor look forward to extensive price cutting, particularly without greater production, nor should either expect to gain from continued wage drives—without better production. The key to the wage-price balance is more output.

Bigger Pie

One manufacturer has advertised this balance thus: "If we want a bigger cut out of the income pie either as management or labor, the best way for all concerned is to bake a bigger pie." He continued, "You can't cut bigger pieces out of a smaller pie. You can't continue to raise wages, anywhere, out of shrinking production." That is right.

In an industrial democracy like ours, we have a high standard of living largely because our production of goods has been brought into line with the lowest possible consumer prices. Volume production, every time, means greater value to the consumer at lower prices. It also means more to those who invested the capital that bought the tools. And it means more to labor that builds the product.

Keep a Balance

These thoughts may explain why not all of labor has been willing to get behind the banner that "industry can afford a 25% general wage increase without raising prices." The American Federation of Labor has reported its findings that in 1946 an 18½c wage increase brought increases in living costs of equal amount. The balance of wages and prices is just that close in our economic structure.

Now is the time for each American to understand, along with Mrs. Pennythrift the housewife, that all of us must cooperate in order to use these fundamental economic facts to the advantage of the whole nation. We cannot hope to maintain for long this free America which we love, unless we seek long range cooperation and understanding, rather than short-sighted group advantages which in the end are destructive to all.

In memoriam for John Moberg

Deep in our hearts is a picture
Of a loved one gone to rest.
In memory frame we shall keep it
Because he was one of the best

Our lips cannot speak how we loved him
Our hearts cannot tell what to say
God only knows how we miss him
As we journey along lives way.

Yet again we hope to meet him
When the day of life has fled
And in heaven with joy to meet him
Where no farewell tears are shed

Sadly missed by his family

Citrus Vitamin

Because pulp, as well as juice, contains vitamin C, there is vitamin thrift in serving fruit juice unstrained, and even higher vitamin economy in eating citrus fruit simply halved, sliced or sectioned.

Car. Monoxide Continues to Kill

Not long ago two young Minnesotans were found dead in a parked car, victums of carbon monoxide gas. The case was given wide publicity. Yet just a few days later another young couple repeated the error, again with tragic results.

Sitting in a parked or stalled car with the engine running is a certain invitation to death, says a Highway bulletin. There is also evidence that some accidents where cars ran off the road have been caused by monxide leaks which made drivers drowsy. Every motorist should heed these rules:

1. Never sit in a stalled or parked car with engine running.
2. See that there are no leaks in muffler, exhaust or manifold.
3. Never remain in a garage with engine running, even with doors open.
4. Have some ventilation when driving, regardless of weather

Flaxseed $6.00 Per Bushel

Methods for supporting 1947 flaxseed at $6.00 per bushel at Minneapolis have been announced, and according to Chas. N. Kranz chairman of the Marshall County AAA committee, three support measures have been instituted.

Mr. Kranz stated that the $6. flax suport price will be implemented by loans to producers, contracts with processors who agree to pay the support price, and purchases of flaxseed by the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Flaxseed grown in 1947 which grades U. S. No. 1 will be supported at $6.00 per bushel at Mankato, Minneapolis, and Red Wing, Minnesota until June 1, 1948. Support prices for No. 2 flaxseed will be 5 cents per bushel less than the price specified for No. 1 flaxseed. No support price has been specified for flaxseed which does not grade U S. No. 1 or U. S. No. 2, the chairman said. A bushel of flaxseed is 56 pounds after deduction for dockage.

Mr. Kranz pointed out that in determining support prices for farmers, the actual cost of freight, transportation tax, and handling charges will be deducted from the base price. Handling charges under the loan and purchase program will not exceed 8 cents per bushel unless otherwise approved dy the Department of Agriculture.

We would appreciate having that has flaxseed in excess of his own needs, report the amount of flax seed you have to sell to the AAA office.

Walter Sandberg, who has been very ill at a hospital at Thief River Falls, was transferred to the University hospital in Minneapolis on Sunday.

Mrs. Leo Horien and Robert spent a few days at the L. Hams home at International Falls last week.

Mrs. Signe Nohre is visiting at the O. H. Nohre home.

Mrs. V. E. Oakey is visiting relatives at Stewartville, Minn.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

CIO, AFL Discuss Labor Unity; U.S. Aids Starving Romanians; Truman Acts to End Emergency

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

CIO President Philip Murray (left) shakes hands with senate labor committee chairman Taft (Rep., O.), at hearings on corrective labor legislation. Rapping proposed changes, Murray attributed industrial unrest to workers' reduced real income and high corporation profits.

LABOR:

Discuss Unity

Divided in 1935 over the issue of vertical (mass) organization of workers, the "House of Labor" was another tortuous step closer to unity with CIO acceptance of an AFL invitation to merge the two great American labor movements with a total membership of over 12 million.

Significantly, John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, who left the AFL to head the new CIO and then returned to the AFL, was named on the AFL negotiating committee headed by Pres. William Green. Familiar with the mechanics and personalities of both unions, John L. is in a strategic position to pave the way for unification.

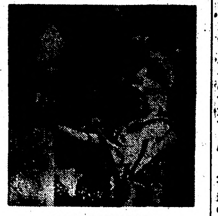
Representatives of two former AFL unions were named on the CIO committee led by Pres. Philip Murray. They included Emil Rieve of the Textile Workers and Jacob Patofsky of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers. As former units in the AFL, these two CIO unions also can bring their combined experience in both labor movements into the discussions to reach a common ground of agreement.

FAMINE:

Aid Romania

The American Red Cross drew upon Uncle Sam's bounty to relieve Romania's worst famine in 50 years. No less than 500,000 men, women and children were suffering starvation in the Moldavian region and lacking clothing and other supplies.

Red Cross purchases of 4,500 tons of 10-in-1 rations and 2,500 tons of beans from the war department assured the stricken Moldavians of 1,000 calories a day for 16 days.



THE INNOCENT
Starve in Romania

Clothing also was provided for ragged and hollow-eyed children.

Meanwhile, Romanian representatives in Washington completed negotiations for the purchase of large supplies of American grain upon condition that the U. S. would supervise distribution to guard against discrimination for political or other purposes.

The famine was brought about by a two year drouth, wartime slaughter of livestock, breakdown of transportation and heavy levies by the Russian army.

Hit Chinese Heads

Chinese leaders were under fire from within and without as inflation continued to grip the country in the face of insufficient domestic production and the wholesale supply of Chinese currency.

As the government dumped gold on the market in an effort to stabilize the Chinese dollar, officials and newspapers charged former Premier H. H. Kung with buying up the precious metal for the purpose of manipulating the currency and embarrassing the government of Premier T. V. Soong. Like Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, Kung is married to a sister of Soong, making the three brothers-in-law China's ruling family.

Chiang himself took a hand in China's deteriorating economic situation, issuing a broad decree for the repatriation of private fortunes abroad; fixing wage-price ceilings; prohibiting all dealings in gold and foreign exchange; banning strikes and lockouts; initiation of a half-billion dollar import program, and government withdrawal from industry.

WHITE HOUSE:

Emergency Ending

Continuing to keep abreast of the GOP, President Truman paved the way for an early end to the national emergency proclaimed in 1939 and extended in 1941.

With the Republican congress bent on restoring normalcy, Mr. Truman again anticipated GOP action by asking the legislators to repeal 24 temporary laws, temporarily extend 12 others, permit another 10 to run out their course, and cut back 12 appropriations.

Among the 24 laws the President tabbed for repeal were those authorizing the secretary of agriculture to buy and distribute food for U. S. territories and possessions; disposal of ships under lend-lease and accumulation of 90 days annual leave for government employees. Laws which he said should be allowed to run their course include restriction of active duty of reserves to emergencies; government construction and use of petroleum lines, and temporary maintenance of housing on public lands.

Trimming of emergency laws would reduce the President's wartime powers still in effect to those covering the official war period, which will end with ratification of peace treaties.

WORLD TRADE:

Must Import

There is a huge demand for American goods overseas but the U. S. will have to accept payment in large part in foreign goods, industry and government officials told the annual Chicago World Trade conference.

Declaring that American exports chiefly will be limited by the amount of foreign exchange held by other countries, John L. McCaffrey, president of International Harvester company, urged that the U. S. should finance shipments with imports of goods and services which we do not produce ourselves or can buy more cheaply abroad. As long as we maintain high tariffs, foreign loans for exports could not be repaid and would result in losses, he said.

Unless foreign markets are found for American agricultural products, farm output will have to be curtailed, with a consequent reduction in demand for industrial goods, Secretary of Commerce Harriman stated. The government hopes to establish trade stability through reciprocal agreements and creation of an international trade authority, he said.

Foresee Expansion

Gains in both exports and imports this year are forecast in a report on postwar trends in United States foreign trade issued by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Assuming a continued high rate of business activity, the report estimates merchandise exports may exceed $11,000,000,000 in 1947, compared with $9,700,000,000 in 1946. The report estimates imports in 1947 may reach $6,000,000,000, compared with $4,900,000,000 in 1946

WAR DEPARTMENT:

Ideas submitted by war department civilian employees have effected first-year savings of nearly 170 million dollars in dpartment operations since June, 1943, it was announced.

Under the war department civilian employees' suggestion program, employees have submitted 335,040 ideas, of which number 58,615 have been adopted and put in operation with beneficial results.

Household Hints

Save small glass jars with screw tops. Use them to keep food in the refrigerator. They require less room than dishes, and the tight covers keep odors from refrigerator.

Use a stick and not a brush for stirring paint. Forcing the brush into the corners will damage the bristles.

Few foods contain such a variety of vital nutrients as peanuts. Use them in cookies, cakes and frostings, also with meat and vegetable dishes.

Rinse milky glasses promptly in cold water to prevent stubborn rings.

BETTER THAN PILLS FOR CONSTIPATION
Finds Famous Breakfast Cereal Most Helpful of All
Have you given up hope of being "regular" again? Then read this sincere, unsolicited letter:
"I am a registered nurse and I know what a problem constipation is, especially with patients deprived of their usual physical activities. Where pills brought temporary relief, eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly actually prevented irregularity in more cases than I can mention. Your product is a great boon to our modern age." Miss Katherine E. Walsh, Town Hall, Newington, Conn.
Yes, eating ALL-BRAN regularly often brings lasting relief from constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet. For best results, eat it for breakfast every day—and drink plenty of water. Try KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN for 10 days! If by that time you are not completely satisfied, send the empty carton to the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Michigan, and get double your money back!
ALL-BRAN is not a purgative but a wholesome food made from the vital outer layers of whole wheat. Eat daily either as a cereal, or in muffins. Ask your grocer for KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!
DOAN'S PILLS

DUTCH COURAGE . . . This is a street in "Bunker Valley," near Breskens, where the Germans once boasted an "impregnable" line of fortifications. Dutch families now occupy the bunkers. One woman has her weekly wash hanging out to dry on the remains of a pillbox. The lady in foreground is standing near the doorway of her pillbox home. Shell cases are used to make a fence. Walcheron was the key to the great port of Antwerp, and the Germans held it.

STARVING CHILDREN OF ROMANIA . . . Starving, ill-clad Romanian children and their mother hesitantly approach the depot where American Red Cross clothing and medical supplies are being distributed. The Red Cross is financing and supervising distribution of $3,500,000 worth of food for relief of 500,000 starving people in Moldavia, Northern Romania.

SEEK LOST GOLD MINE . . . Mr. and Mrs. William J. Middaugh of Joplin, Mo., are shown with the pack burro they will use on their trek into the Superstition mountain area of Arizona in search of the famous Lost Dutchman gold mine. The 59-year-old pistol packin' grandmother blew into Phoenix with a yellowed map to the mine handed down by her great-great uncle.

GOING DOWN TO THE TEA IN SIPS . . . These solemn-faced gentlemen are the seven members of the U. S. board of tea experts as they are passing judgment on between 500 and 600 different samples of tea which has been submitted by the trade. Future tea grades will be made, the result of these tasting tests. This method of testing had not been conducted during the war years. Members of the testing board are all experts, and will not swallow any of the tea.

'Extension Minister' Works to Strengthen Country Churches

THE nation's first "Extension Minister"—Rev. Gene W. Wetherell—operating much like the average extension specialist from the state agricultural college, is now on the job in Missouri carrying on a "Down-to-earth" program, designed to strengthen the struggling churches of the country, according to Lloyd D. Miller, writing in nationally circulated Capper's Farmer.

Employed by the Bible College of Missouri, at Columbia, Mo., the Reverend Wetherell is working closely with extension people from the state college of agriculture, Mr. Miller points out. He goes into communities to help the people get a church program started. He carries his program out into the field and sets up demonstrations so that people can see how it actually works.

Reared on a farm, Reverend Wetherell studied for the ministry on funds he earned farming.

Wherever participating churches are located, Reverend Wetherell helps local leaders make a thorough survey of community needs. He next develops a loyalty program, seeking to get every member actively interested in church work. He institutes a visitation evangelism program in churches where denominations use this type of work.

A sound financial program is necessary for the successful operation of any church, so the "Extension Minister" asks his church to develop a unified budget system. He shows them how to use the Lord's Acre for supporting special projects of the church. He also suggests that churches provide their ministers with a rural parsonage and 20 acres or more where they may make part of their living.

Turn Back

Three easy steps will degrade a self-governing people to the level of dictatorship; (1) to planned economy (2) to government management (3) to government control. America has already taken the first step. War pushed central planning upon us, and people who like it are trying to make it permanent. If it can be made to stick, the nation will be ready for the second step—government management.

Disregarding all fancy and impractical theories, history proves that private enterprise made America the world's most powerful nation and gave us all the most comfortable lives that common people ever lived. Our only wise course is to turn back to free enterprise, but first we must get shed of planned economy. It is going to demand a series of strenuous treatments, for it is well advanced.

It Is No Dream

Disaster for the only remaining prosperous people on earth can not be avoided by any magic method like suddenly waking out of a bad dream. Things we have learned about what took personal liberty from the Germans, the Russians and the French, and more recently from the British, may seem like nightmares but they are very real and painful. Here in America we have a chance.

It is a hack illustration but very useful: When you want to get rid of darkness, you turn on light. When you want to get rid of ignorance, you admit truth. Incompetents scatter when they hear intelligent competition approaching. The first move against politics in business is to take the handcuffs off business itself. Set private enterprise free and it will protect itself.

Let Money Work

Laws made to take the profit out of war are now taking the pay out of work. Laws have rolled profits in some businesses so thin that there is nothing left to make but a loss. Ill-advised taxes on some commodities are so large that a fair price will not cover them. Industrial relations are so needled with politics that declining volume already is endangering jobs and wages.

People who are saving money are obliged often to let it lie idle in banks because there is no reasonably secure place to put it to work. Some invest in government bonds but the earnings of bonds come from taxes and serve not at all to put men to work and increase the national wealth. When private investors are afraid to trust enterprise, government management is at the door.

The Need of Today

Getting the United States out of its present entanglements with state socialism is one thing, keeping it out is another. For the long-range good of this nation, and of the world that looks to us for leadership, a ceaseless campaign of education is needed. The present need is to cut restraints on production and set American business on its feet again; by three measures:

(1) Change the tax structure to permit profits to operators and dividends to investors. (2) Balance the federal budget now, in prosperous times when, if ever, high taxes can be paid. (3) Improve industrial relations. In the long run, workers get paid in proportion to what they produce; and high wages, fairly earned, comprise the foundation of American prosperity.

It Makes us Think

Small good can come out of an auto accident. Violence and sudden death are the direct antithesis of anything good. Yet we have been reading our dailies with their ever increasing accounts of highway smashups with perhaps a shrug and a that-doesn't-concern-me air. Out of sight, out of mind, we think, and turn to the comic page

It is only when one occurs close to home that we stop to think about it. We perhaps think of driving on those very roads, over that very spot, where it occured. It is a sobering influence.

That is the good that comes out of an auto accident.

At the speeds traveled today, it doesn't take much of a slip to cause disaster. We all know that. But we scarcely think about it until something like Sunday's accident happens.

If we thought about it a little more, if we took time to know our car, know ourselves, know road conditions, and follow the rules, couldn't we 'put' that graph of death into a decline, instead of an upswing?

You bet we could. — Mora Times.

Cleanliness 'Must' in Making Baby's Formula

IMMACULATE cleanliness is necessary when preparing baby's formula, for such care is important in keeping baby healthy, writes Georgia Leffingwell in an article in nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer.

"For efficiency and cleanliness, the utensils used in preparing baby's bottle should be kept together," she advises mothers. "They should not be used for any other purpose."

Utensils needed are: 8 to 10 eight-ounce bottles with rounded edges; bottle covers that can be sterilized; a dozen nipples; a funnel and a strainer; a bottle brush; teaspoon or forceps for picking up utensils; a sterilizer or kettle large enough to boil bottles, nipples and utensils; a 32-ounce measuring container for measuring formula; 2 wide-mouthed glass jars, one that can be sterilized for storing boiled nipples and covers and one for used nipples.

"Wash hands thoroly before beginning formula preparation," the article cautions. "The whole 24 hours supply should be made up at one time, poured directly into the sterile bottles and tightly capped."

All bottles, nipples and utensils should be washed inside and out with a clean bottle brush, using hot, soapy water. Place equipment in a sterilizer or large kettle and allow to boil at least 5 minutes. Then let them drain and cool. Fill the bottles, being careful not to touch the top edge. Cover at once with sterilized rubber caps or bottle covers. Allow to cool a few minutes before placing in the refrigerator. When putting on nipple before a feeding, take care not to touch end that goes into baby's mouth.

Storing Cheese

To keep cheese from drying out and becoming moldy, wrap it in several thicknesses of cheesecloth, which has been dipped in weak vinegar and then cover tightly.

Mystery of the Rocking Chair

Ma Hoskins has a favorite rocking chair that's worn and shabby, with a noisy creak. Pa Hoskins has listened to that squeak for thirty years . . . and he decided to do something about it. So he bought a new rocker, and hid the other in the barn.

Ma allowed as how grateful she was . . . but when Pa missed her one afternoon, he heard a familiar sound that led him to the barn. There was Ma rocking happily in her old chair—squeak . . . squeak.

No need to tell you how Pa felt.

Quick as a wink he hid the new rocker and then brought Ma's old chair back to the house. Now when he hears that squeak, he looks at the mellow glass of beer he's drinking and says to himself: "She's just as entitled to her small pleasures as I am."

From where I sit, that's one of the reasons the Hoskinses are the happiest, oldest-married, peacefulest folks in our town.

Truman Modifies Tariff Cuts; Buffalo Teacher's Point Up Drive for Higher School Pay

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

As Buffalo school teachers strike for higher pay (top), students (bottom) show sympathy by bearing instructors' placards.

TRADE:
Modify Program

Seeking to soften Republican opposition to the administration's foreign trade program, President Truman issued an order sharply modifying reciprocal trade agreements.

Acting after consultations with Republican Senators Vandenberg (Mich.) and Millikin (Colo.), Mr. Truman directed that hereafter reciprocal agreements contain escape clauses permitting the President to modify or eliminate low tariff concessions that jeopardize an American industry.

Agreements also will embody a "most favored nation" clause, giving the U. S. the same trade advantages afforded other countries. At present, some states have agreements with others which tend to discriminate against American trade.

Reiterating U. S. hopes for building a foundation for peace through the free exchange of goods and elevation of living standards, Mr. Truman said that this country looked forward to the forthcoming world trade parley in Geneva, Switzerland. He stated that the U. S. would negotiate for tariff reductions, removal of trade barriers and elimination of discriminatory practices.

U.N.:
U. S.-Red Harmony

Suspension of Russian opposition to a U. S. trusteeship over former Japanese mandated islands in the Pacific virtually assured U. N. approval of the American proposal to hold on to the territories for security reasons.

Earlier the Russians had threatened to force this country into taking unilateral action on the islands by demanding that the trusteeship question be postponed until formulation of a Japanese peace treaty. While Britain and Australia had joined in the Soviet opposition, it was considered that it would be comparatively easy to adjust differences with them.

In making their about-face, the Russians proclaimed that the U. S. was entitled to the trusteeships because it had made incomparably greater sacrifices than the other Allied countries in wresting them from Japanese control. Under the U. S. proposal, the islands would be held open for U. N. inspection, except for strategic military installations that may be closed for security purposes.

TEACHERS:
Biggest Strike

Seventy-one thousand Buffalo elementary and high school students had no classes as 2,400 instructors staged the biggest teachers' strike in U. S. history over substantial pay demands.

The walkout pointed up the increasing pressure for higher teachers' salaries throughout the country not only to keep present instructors within the educational system but also to make the profession more alluring for recruits in a day of increased remuneration in other fields.

Members of the Independent Buffalo Teachers federation and AFL and CIO unions, the strikers demanded a minimum salary of $2,400 for beginners and increases of $1,025 yearly for elementary teachers now making $1,875-$2,575 and high school instructors earning $2,175-$2,975, plus a state authorized $300 raise.

Federation President Ast said the teachers walked out after he had failed to receive assurances from Governor Dewey that proposed legislation providing for permanent salary increases would embody the organization's demands. Although some 568 non-striking teachers stayed on the job, the schools were shut down completely because of jostling picket lines and union teamsters' refusal to make fuel and food deliveries.

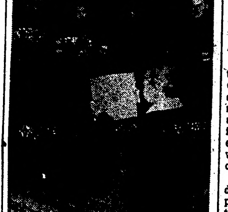
PALESTINE:
U. S.-British Rift

While diplomatic observers expected no major rift to develop between the U. S. and Britain over the heated exchange on the Palestine question, the outburst pointed up the apparent cross-purposes at which the two allies were working in the strategic Middle Eastern region with its oil-laden lands.

Foreign Minister Bevin's charge that President Truman had disrupted delicate British negotiations for settling the Palestine issue by demanding admission of 100,000 Jews into the Holy Land before the 1946 congressional elections to get votes was immediately denied by the White House. In a prompt reply, it was said that Mr. Truman's declaration merely reaffirmed the U. S. position on Palestine taken in the summer of 1945.

Republican senators were quick to rise to the President's defense. Brewster (Rep., Me.) said that Bevin was trying to make Mr. Truman the "sacrificial" goat for Britain's failure to work out an equitable agreement between Jews and Arabs, and Taft (Rep., O.) pointed out that Bevin had conveniently dropped his proposal for partition of the Holy Land in the face of stiff Arab opposition.

Thank Uncle Sam



Fanatical in war, Japanese are mannerly in peace. Typifying trait, tiny Japanese primary school pupil stiffly addresses thank-you piece to members of U. S. food mission for American provision of nutritious hot lunches to Nipponese students. While the U. S. has contributed $2,700,000,000 to UNRRA for relief of liberated countries, the army has spent millions of dollars for food and other essentials in occupation areas to relieve distress.

Tire Production Sets All-Time Peak

With the increasing supply of material and manpower, production and shipments of automotive casings and tubes for the full year 1946 broke all previous records according to Rubber Manufacturers association.

The 82,013,412 automotive casings produced and the 81,859,657 casings shipped during the year exceeds the previous all-time record year, 1928, when 77,943,814 casings were produced and 74,295,913 casings shipped. In 1941, the last previous peacetime year, production was 61,540,196 casings and 66,163,934 casings were shipped.

Passenger car casing production during the full year 1946 was 66,258,566 units, an increase of 135 per cent over 1945; shipments of 66,084,135 units exceeded the previous year by 146 per cent

GUARANTEED WAGE:
Gets Approval

The guaranteed annual wage, which promises to become one of the major objectives of the American labor movement, received the endorsement of President Truman's reconversion advisory board.

Embodying an employer's pledge to provide a definite amount of work a year, the guaranteed wage has been in effect in a number of plants, with advocates declaring that it tends to regularize production and remove employees' fear of layoffs. Opponents of the plan assert that it would compel employers to pay out wages during periods of slack demand for goods.

Because the guaranteed annual wage is no cure-all for economic fluctuations, the board said that it should be correlated with other stabilizing factors, including social security, minimum wages and tax policies. All guaranteed wage agreements should be worked out through collective bargaining rather than imposed through national legislation, it was said.

Board members include Presidents Edward A. O'Neal of the Farm Bureau; William Green, AFL; Phil Murray, CIO; and Eric Johnston, Motion Pictures Producers and Distributors.

AUSTRIA:
Allies Clash

Indicative of the problems facing the Big Four in Moscow when their conference gets underway shortly, their deputy foreign ministers laying the groundwork for discussion of German and Austrian treaties agreed only half-way on an Austrian pact. Out of 62 clauses, agreement was reached on 32.

Major differences included:

U. S. and Russian disagreement over what constitutes Nazi assets in Austria. The U. S. contends that the Russians have removed important Austrian property as reparations on the grounds that they were Nazi property, seriously impairing the country's economy.

Russian support of Yugoslav claims to the richest and most densely populated provinces of Carinthia and Styria. The U. S., Britain and France object, declaring Austria's prewar boundaries should remain intact.

French insistence upon rigid control of scientific research. The U. S. argues that such supervision would hamper the economic redevelopment of Austria, leading to employment and trade difficulties.

In Washington, Secretary of State Marshall disclosed that John Foster Dulles, Republican adviser on foreign affairs, would accompany him to the Moscow conference. In all, the U. S. delegation will include 84 members, half of whom will be clerks.

VOLCANO:
Rampant in Sicily

Quietly slumbering since 1928, when it wiped out the village of Mascati, Mount Etna on the east coast of Sicily kicked up again, with molten lava gushing from a new crater on its side threatening to bury several more small settlements.

Nine hundred feet wide, a stream of bubbling, molten lava edged into the plain of Damusi at a speed of about 210 feet an hour, then broke off into three forks, one pushing toward the villages of Passo Pisciaro and Cisterna.

As natives fled in panic, government authorities rushed motor vehicles to the area to evacuate the homeless. Directors of the Etna observatory asked Rome to consider the advisability of air bombardment of the countryside to divert the flow of lava from villages and rich agricultural areas.

LABOR:
Pin Down Green

Pinned down by the close questioning of Representative Hoffman (Rep., Mich.) Pres. William Green of the AFL told a congressional committee that the union would back the amendment of labor laws to permit free speech to employees by employers and require unions to register with the government and file financial statements.

At the same time the gaudily dressed AFL chieftain rapped proposals for a closed shop, declaring that workers benefiting from union gains should pay organization dues. He opposed passage of anti-racketeering laws on the grounds that it was unfair to punish the entire labor movement for the excesses of certain members.

Questioning Green on union pressure against unorganized workers, Hoffman asked: "Farmers are unorganized—when they bring ham and eggs to town, why don't you refuse to eat them?"

Green blandly replied: "We are reasonable men."

INSURANCE:
For Kiddies

Reflecting the desire of American families to start thrift programs for their children at an early age, life insurance on the lives of children was purchased in a new record volume last year, according to a survey made by the Institute of Life Insurance.

The survey covered the experience of companies writing one-half of the total new ordinary and one-third of total new industrial life insurance issued in the United States.

Household Hints

If the collar of a man's shirt is badly worn, cut it off with a razor blade and use it for a pattern in cutting a new collar from the tail of the shirt.

After washing your powder puff, pin it to the sunny side of your window curtain and let the air speed its drying. When it is completely dry, raise the nap with a stiff brush.

Wash nylons after every wearing, since perspiration is detrimental to the delicate fibers. It's a good idea to wash new nylons before you wear them.

For removing rust from steel or iron, a combination of steel wool and kerosene is good, although considerable elbow grease certainly will be necessary.

If a shingle stain has been exposed to the weather for three or four years it can be safely painted. Earlier than that, there is a chance it will become discolored.

Have you ever thought of making cupboards or sliding racks under the stairs? It's a handy place to keep bridge tables, folding chairs, games and other bulky equipment.

Touch of Home

A sergeant, stationed in Germany, was given a pass to visit Paris. He was very excited about visiting the famous City of Light, but he was most anxious to see the Mona Lisa in the Louvre.

When he returned to Germany one of his friends asked him if he had seen the famous painting.

"Yes," he said, with little enthusiasm.

"You don't sound very enthusiastic about it," replied his friend.

"Well," said the sergeant, listlessly, "I've heard hundreds of stories about her 'enigmatic smile,' so you can imagine how disappointed I was to find that she reminds me of Aunt Bessie asking me to please pass the salt."

WAR II VETS PICKET IN OHIO . . . Approximately 1,000 veterans of World War II marched on the Ohio capital, Columbus, to apply maximum pressure on authorities for a speedy solution of veteran problems. Arriving by bus, train and "thumb," they attended meetings of the legislature. A committee called on Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, veteran of World War I. The group marched with placards displaying their problems and wants, as shown above.

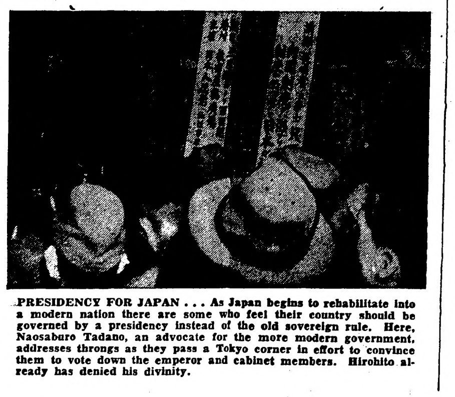
COWBOY MEETS INDIAN CHIEF . . . Rogers Hornsby and young Mike Hegan get acquainted with Chief Deerfoot and his pony at Tucson, Ariz., Fiesta de Los Vaqueros. Young Mike is showing great promise both as a western cowboy and a future big league ball player. Hornsby is on temporary assignment conducting the Cleveland Indian batting school at Tucson, and young Mike is only one of the millions of youngsters who would like to follow in the footsteps of the famous ball player.



PRESIDENCY FOR JAPAN . . . As Japan begins to rehabilitate into a modern nation there are some who feel their country should be governed by a presidency instead of the old sovereign rule. Here, Naosaburo Tadano, an advocate for the more modern government, addresses throngs as they pass a Tokyo corner in effort to convince them to vote down the emperor and cabinet members. Hirohito already has denied his divinity.

Horse Value Drops

The total value of work-horses on American farms has dropped about 100 million dollars in the past year.

Pasture Improvement Yields More, Better Feed for Livestock

CHICAGO — Emphasizing that "grass is the cheapest feed for dairy cows or beef animals," the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee recommended a 6-point pasture improvement program for providing plenty of hay and pasture for livestock.

Liming heads the list of the committee's suggestions.

"Apply what lime your soil needs," says a statement issued by the committee. "The local county agent or agronomists at state agricultural colleges can provide you with necessary information. Don't waste seed and fertilizer on highly acid soils. Liming before seeding and fertilizing is the best policy."

Item Number 2 on the program is adequate fertilization.

"An investment in mixed fertilizer both at seeding time and afterwards will pay dividends," the statement continues. "The use of nitrogen is important in keeping grasses productive. Lime, phosphorus and potash are vital in obtaining good stands and high yields of legumes."

Good Soil Management Vital in Getting Good Legume Stands.

As a third step, the committee suggests that clover and alfalfa and other legumes be included in all hay and pasture mixtures.

If in providing this all-season program it is also planned to give not less than one acre of improved pasture for each cow or steer, you have accomplished the fourth step, while early application of nitrogen topdressings on grass pastures makes a fifth step. Then the development of aftermath grazing in summer following the first hay cutting is listed as the sixth step.

Stringy Ties

Ties that the men in the family have an aversion to, or that are too stringy for renovation, sometimes make attractive trimmings for other garments. They may be used to liven up a dressmaker suit with tie-covered buttons, or by adding some stiffening they may make a colorful belt. Often the small designs of some tie fabrics are ideally suited for collars or cuffs, a pocket or piping on children's clothes. A large tie will even make a dickey if it is carefully ripped and pressed.

Walter Sandberg Passed Away

The people of this community were saddened on Friday to hear of the death of Walter Sandberg 43 years old, who died at the University hospital at Minneapolis after a severe illness of two weeks. Do Men Like Women?

Maybe you read that recent article in a national magazine, claiming that American men don't really like the company of women. They just put them up on a pedestal and leave them there.

But I wouldn't say that that was so in our town. Look at any married couple—like the Cuppers. Jane wouldn't nag if Dee spent his evenings "with the boys"—but actually Dee likes nothing better than to stay home by the fire, sharing a glass of beer with Jane, playing cribbage, or just talking.

And when he does go out, for an afternoon of fishing down at Seward's Creek, or for an evening glass of beer at Andy Botkin's Garden Tavern, Jane is almost always with him (except when she's got a spot of baking in the oven).

From where I sit, respect doesn't rule out everyday companionship . . . and never should. They go together—essential parts of a successful marriage.

—WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS—

Set Defensive Pattern Against Future Reich; Lewis Ruling Upholds Power of Judiciary

Released by Western Newspaper Union

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

EUROPE:

Hem in Reich

Even before determination of the future design of Germany, the major powers are proceeding to build a ring of steel around the reich to guard against a revived German state waging a third war of aggression.

The British and French forged the first link with a 50-year alliance, pledging the two countries to go to each other's assistance in the event of an attack by Germany or any other country. At the same time, the two allies agreed to integrate their economies to build an industrial base for war and promote the exchange of goods.

France's declaration that she would offer the same terms to other major powers led to speculation whether the treaty would implement the U. S. proposal for a defensive alliance of the Big Four against the threat of future German resurgence. Thus far, Russia has shied away from the U. S. proposition, but has been dickering with Britain for a mutual aid pact.

Holland and Belgium were expected to act favorably upon the French invitation to consummate a similar defensive and economic pact. On the other hand, Poland and Czechoslovakia were expected to look to Moscow for instructions on negotiating such a treaty.

PALESTINE:

Use Psychology

Britain resorted to psychology instead of arms in an effort to check the rampant Jewish underground in Palestine.

By imposing martial law in Tel Aviv, the British sealed this Jewish industrial, financial and commercial hub from the rest of the country, seriously disrupting its business. Thus, the Jewish leaders were faced with continuing heavy losses or cooperating in suppressing the terrorists.

British soldier searches aged bomb suspect outside detention camp in Palestine.

Martial law also was imposed in the Jewish quarter of Jerusalem. British authorities arranged for movement of bread and vegetables to 25,000 isolated Jews and the Jewish welfare committee was permitted to set up free milk and food kitchens for the needy.

The British cracked down after the Irgun Zvai Leumi underground organization had blown up a British officers' club in Jerusalem with a loss of 14 lives and attacked other British personnel and installations in its fight for a Zionist state in the Holy land.

CONGRESS:

Doom OPA

Long the whipping boy for public and politican alike, OPA was headed for the discard by June 30 because of congressional limitation of its funds. The office of temporary controls, established last December as the supervisory agency over remaining wartime regulatory bureaus, also was scheduled to go.

With abolition of OPA, it was reported that rent control would be transferred to the department of commerce and sugar control to the department of agriculture. Because of the scarcity of housing and sugar in the face of tremendous demand, legislators continued to favor their regulation to prevent hardship and skyrocketing prices.

While the Republican minority continued to ride herd in the house and threatened to put OPA out of business before June 30 by refusing a deficiency appropriation and chopping nine million dollars from previous appropriations, the senate provided funds for closing out the agency within the next three months. As a result of these differences, the bill was sent to a senate-house conference for settlement of terms.

DIET:

Recent limited experiments conducted under direction of the quartermaster corps have indicated that unless a man consumes a minimum of 1,800 calories a day, it is impossible for him to retain the proteins essential for nourishment of his body tissues. The army ration provides a minimum of 3,600 calories.

These studies and associated research have further indicated that diets deficient in calories cause a pronounced fall in the basal metabolic rate.

JUDICIARY:

Curb Lewis

Chief Justice Vinson

The Supreme court decision against John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers has been regarded as one of the momentous verdicts in American history, definitely establishing the power and dignity of the courts in civil affairs.

By a 7 to 2 ruling, the court cracked down on Lewis' and the UMW's open flaunting of Circuit Judge Goldsborough's order calling for a suspension of the recent soft coal strike to provide additional time for working on an agreement. In his majority opinion, Chief Justice Vinson wrote:

> "The interests of orderly government demand respect and compliance be given to orders issued by courts. . . . In our complex society there is a great variety of limited loyalties, but the overriding loyalty of all is to our country and to the institutions under which a particular interest may be pursued. . . ."

To emphasize the gravity of the offense, the court sustained Lewis' fine of $10,000 and placed the UMW fine at $700,000.

The accompanying issue of whether the Norris-La Guardia act prohibiting the issuance of injunctions against strikes in labor disputes could be applied in the UMW walkout against the government found the court more narrowly divided. By a 5 to 4 decision, the majority decreed that the act does not apply to government employees and since the U. S. has been operating the mines UMW members fell in that classification.

SMALL BUSINESS:

More Openings

Fully expectant of cashing in on the huge postwar need for all kinds of goods, 509,000 new small businesses were opened up in 1946, the department of commerce estimated. This brought the total number of business enterprises up to 3,733,000.

During the first six months of the year, 365,000 new businesses were begun, the department disclosed. While the rate declined somewhat in the latter part of the year, it was estimated 322,000 new establishments opened their doors, bringing the grand total to 687,000. Against this, 187,000 businesses failed.

Shortages of some goods, high prices and stiff taxes failed to check the small business boom. Other lines were adopted to supplement income, an increase in installment buying helped to ease high prices and operators still made money despite federal taxes.

MEAT:

Consumer Pressure

During the extensive debates over decontrolling meat, arguments flew thick and fast whether strict government control or the law of supply and demand constituted the best method of keeping retail prices within bounds.

Little was heard of consumer sense, but consumer sense it is that has been keeping meat prices within reasonable levels in recent weeks, packers report. Much as people like pork, they have been passing it up for cheaper cuts of beef, and many butchers have been following the line of least resistance in serving customers.

Having processed pork from the recent record price hogs for fresh sale, packers have been compelled to cut wholesale charges as much as eight cents a pound under costs to move their supplies. Even with the cut, they have encountered difficulty selling their meat. With the pork trade determined by demand, packers have scaled down their offerings for live hogs, with the result that the record prices gradually have receded.

Lobbyists Crowd Capital

As if their own business were not enough, harassed congressmen find themselves beset with no less than 544 lobbyists swinging the anvil for some special interests.

Of the total, 239 speak for industry, 121 for labor organizations, 20 for agriculture, 20 for vets, 11 for religious interests and 8 for education. Fifty-five represent liberal groups and seven fall into miscellaneous classifications

The Plowing Schogers Choose the NEW
Firestone CHAMPION GROUND GRIP
CHAMPION FARMERS, and farmers generally, are changing to Firestone Champion Ground Grip tires . . . insisting upon them when they buy new tires . . . specifying them when they order new tractors.
That's because the new Champion cleans up to 100% more effectively; pulls up to 62% more; lasts up to 91% longer. And it rolls more smoothly over highways.
There are sound reasons for this superiority. The curved connected traction bars flare outward from the center, and mud falls freely from the wider shoulder openings. The extra high, curved, pyramid-like bars cut into the soil with a cleaving action, and because they are connected, the bars take a powerful "center bite" in the heart of the traction zone. Extra height, Triple-Bracing, and buttressing at the base give the traction bars greater strength . . . lengthen tire life. The curved connected bars are in continuous contact with the highway, insuring a smooth ride.
Insist upon Firestone Champion Ground Grips when you buy new tires, or order a new tractor. They cost no more than ordinary tractor tires.
Listen to the Voice of Firestone every Monday evening over NBC
They're called "The Plowing Schogers"—and with plenty of reason. Starting in 1930, Carl Schoger won six consecutive years in the National Plowing Match at Wheatland, Illinois. In 1930 and 1931 he won all three National Matches at Wheatland, Lily Lake, and Troy, Illinois. When he retired from competition in 1942, sons Clarence and Harry were ready to defend the family laurels. Last fall, Clarence won the National Matches at Troy and Wheatland. Harry, the younger son, won first in his class at Troy and tied for first at Wheatland.
The Schogers have always used Firestone Tires. You'll find new Champion Ground Grips on their tractors today.

Remove Blackheads

For the removal of blackheads, try this nightly treatment—dip your washcloth in hot water and press against your face until the skin is pink and glowing. Work in a generous lather of soap, and with a complexion brush or washcloth scrub with upward, outward motions, giving particular attention to the nose and chin.

Synthetic Upholstery

White upholstery material has often been classified as impractical for interior decoration in the natural fibers. When white or light tints are made up in synthetics, the material on the furniture can be scrubbed clean with soap and water. Because of their smoothness, synthetic upholstery materials are more dirt resistant.

Preserve Saplings

Fresh-cut saplings to be used for farm posts or poles will drink enough chemical solution to prolong their length of service. The solution can be made from two pounds of zinc chloride, chromated zinc chloride, or copper sulphate to each gallon of water. A half gallon of the solution will treat a four-inch pole which is 30 feet long. The bottoms of posts or poles are placed in a tank or tub of the solution, which is poisonous to livestock or human beings.

WANTED 20,466 BOXCARS

When a serious boxcar shortage last Fall blocked the full movement of new grain and other commodities to markets, Great Northern then gave shippers in its territory indisputable facts behind that deplorable situation.

Today — seven months later — Great Northern is obligated to advise shippers that there has been no improvement in the boxcar supply on its lines. Factually, the car situation now is worse than in August, and the railway proposes to again tell why.

Great Northern is not receiving its deserved, proportionate share of boxcars because other lines, principally those in the East, are using them.

This railway owns 23,789 boxcars, a very large number of them top-grade, built especially for hauling grain, forest products and other commodities requiring protection from weather.

On March 10, 1947, Great Northern had on its line only 13,737 boxcars, which represented 57.7 per cent of the railway's total ownership. The important fact in those figures is that only 3,323 of the 13,737 cars were Great Northern-owned. The other 10,414 boxcars on the railway on that date belonged to other railways, and far too many of them were unfit for transporting grain, flour and dressed lumber.

Where are 20,466 Great Northern boxcars, which are so desperately needed by shippers along the railway?

Boxcars do a lot of traveling. They roll from coast to coast and over both borders. Yet, Great Northern has strong convictions, based on observations and Association of American Railroads' statistics, that most of our truant cars are working for lines East of the Mississippi River.

The association reported on February 1 (the most recent figures available) that boxcar possession on all railroads in the Eastern and Allegheny territories, then was 110.1 and 103.1 per cent, respectively, of ownership.

The same association, of which Great Northern is a member, consistently has promised relief for shippers on the railway—and with equal consistence has failed to effect any appreciable improvement in getting our own cars back home.

Lack of materials for new car construction has, of course, contributed to the boxcar headache. Great Northern has been unable to obtain materials for building 500 new boxcars, authorized almost a year ago.

The railway industry has been told that an increasing amount of steel and lumber will be available for new car construction. It will be a year or more before enough boxcars can be built to bring the supply back to normal.

Meanwhile, Great Northern intends to continue its daily fight for an equitable supply of boxcars—its own, preferably—for shippers on the railway.

Narcissus, Daffodils Same

All daffodils are narcissus and all narcissus are daffodils. Daffodil is the English word, and the narcissus, the Latin word, for the same flower. The term jonquil, when properly applied, refers to one specific group of narcissus which are miniature daffodils with dainty fragrant yellow flowers, borne two or more on a stem, perfectly hardy, with onionlike instead of flat leaves. "Jonquil" should be used only for this one class of narcissus.

SAVINGS BONDS

This is getting-ready time for my farmer nieces and nephews. Today's plowing and investment in money and labor may or may not pay off in rich crops. There's a big IF in every farm family's life. If the sun shines, if it doesn't rain too much, if we have a drought—if, if, if. However, there's one crop which has no "if" side. It's a crop of Savings Bonds, which grows steadily, rain or shine, wind or calm, year after year until it produces $4 for every $3. My city nieces and nephews can plant this crop, too, by joining and staying on the payroll savings plan or by arrangement with their bank. U. S. Treasury Department

Farm Program Meetings

The food production goals for Marshall County have been announced by the Production and Marketing Administration. Rail Quiz

What is meant by seniority in railway service?

Seniority refers to the greater length of service of one employe compared with that of another in the same occupational group on the same railroad. Brown became a locomotive engineer in 1908; Green in 1910. Both have worked for the railroad continuously since. Hence, Brown has two years of seniority over Green.

Rail Quiz

Great Northern Railway is an extensive buyer of supplies and materials in the states in which it operates. How much does this amount to?

The railway in 1945 made such purchases totaling $22,577,000 in the ten states and two Canadian provinces in which it operates.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Apple Tree Versus Wheat Field

If you ever visit Jeb Crowell's farm, he'll take you right out on that back porch of his and show you his apple tree.

"There," says Jeb, "is nature's noblest creation—fifty years, and bearin' still the finest cider apples in the county!"

But last fall, when a group of us was there, Lud Denny points across the river to his grain fields and says: "There's an even finer sight! Acres and acres of golden grain you can make dozens of appetizing things with—including wholesome, sparkling beer."

Both of them got so eloquent on the subject, that the rest of us worked up quite a thirst; so Jeb goes to the icebox for beer and cider. And when the refreshments come, Lud chooses cider, and Jeb takes the beer!

From where I sit, that's the answer to most disputes. You can talk all you want, but when it comes to tastes and preferences, there's just no argument.

Korea a House Divided Between U. S. and Russia

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON. — A couple of months ago I wrote a piece about Korea for this column.

It was largely a factual report and when I wrote it I realized how little I, and perhaps some of you, know about Korea. I have been realizing that for many years but not too many. I think that the first time Korea meant anything more to me than a smear on the map was when I was quartered with a young fellow in a barrack in France in world War I. He talked in his sleep. That was bad enough, but I couldn't understand what he said. So I asked him. He said:

Baukhage

"My father was a missionary in Korea. I was born there. When I have a nightmare I talk Korean."

Korea est omnis divisa in partes duo, unam incolunt the Red army et unam (south of a dividing line drawn by Stalin and Roosevelt) by the American army.

The agreement was that the two nations would set up a unified provisional government and lure the Koreans back into democratic life.

Then things began to eventuate. Roosevelt died and he couldn't tell Stalin that "democracy" meant one thing to Americans and something quite different to Marxian schooled Russians. Oh, quite different.

But regardless of academic definitions, this has happened, according to General Hodge's own statements: The Russians have drafted Koreans in their zone into an army. They have set up a Communist regime in their sector.

We haven't done so well with our brand of democracy in our sector. Not because of lack of good intentions nor of the efforts of General Hodge (so his enemies admit) but due to a lot of things including the spectre of the past which has harassed the Koreans. They like America. But all they have got from us in the past is vague promises. Other nations beginning with Japan took them and tore them. They have faced a historical array of broken promises from the great nations. Koreans thought they were promised independence "in a few days" after American occupation. That misunderstanding was due to the fact that the Moscow agreement was translated by a Korean who was possessed of more native optimism than knowledge of the English language. From then on, the Americans attempting to abide by their understanding of the Moscow decisions have tried in vain to get an agreement out of the Russians which would be the basis of a unified Korea behind a unified provisional Korean government.

Today Korea has become one of those explosive areas where two ideologies meet; where the two great empires left in the world (the U. S. and the U.S.S.R.) face each other for better or for worse. Neither thinks it should retire and allow Korea to erect a government which would take its pattern from the other.

What's going to happen now? We are going to get a little tougher with the Russians, and if we can be released from that ambiguous agreement will let the Koreans in our zone set up their own provisional government. They already have a parliament of their own, but General Hodge has a veto and he will keep it until we see some kind of a coalition, free from Communist pressure—or any other kind of pressure, of which there are a lot.

It will cost money.

Blast Teacher Pay Proposal

My folks came originally from New England. We followed the various migrations west in jerks. But my New England ancestry is the only reason I've always been proud of American schools. As school boy I had a tough time because I wasn't tough enough. There were a lot of fights that had to be negotiated. But I came out with the idea that I'd take the public schools of America because they taught democracy whatever else they didn't teach. Later, I studied abroad and didn't change my mind.

Then I joined the army and discovered from my buddies (I got five francs for writing letters for them), that parts of America I hadn't grown up in were as illiterate as parts of Europe which I'd held my nose going through, and that some of Europe was more literate than the United States, although at our worst we had a better school for the poor man, proportionately, than Great Britain.

Years passed and finally I began hearing complaints about our schools—including the high-literacy areas. I realized what teachers were being paid compared to dog catchers and garbage collectors and bartenders (not as much). I mentioned it on the radio. Most people complimented my stand for higher remuneration for education. (Of course we couldn't expect to pay as much as we pay for liquor to redden our noses or the women pay for cosmetics to redden their lips).

But what shocked my New England soul was some of the letters on the "other side":

From a teacher of "long and varied experience":

"The most important teachers in the world are the mothers and fathers, who are now earning wages less than the teachers in a great many cases. Lack of adequate pay for them is the greatest cause of education failure—and failure it is—because it does not aid properly those who need it worst."

From a California teacher who is "almost in despair over the situation":

"The school cannot substitute for the home; it can only supplement it. You can't teach children who have had no home training; you can't even teach those who have if your whole time and strength are consumed by those who haven't. Most parents will pay whatever they have to pay for a parking station for their children and will ask no further questions. More and more of the parking attendants are unwilling to deal with such children at any price."

From a Pennsylvania mother:

"If monetary remuneration were the only consideration for our services in this life—would there be nurses, doctors, welfare workers and ministers? Yet they abound in love and kindness and tolerance."

From a Virginia man:

"There is an adage to the effect, 'you get just about what you pay for.' The point is, when the school teacher does his job as well as the street cleaner or garbage collector, he will be paid accordingly; but as long as the educators are content to have the street cleaners do their job better, the educators should not complain that the street cleaner is better paid."

Gets Wasps Straight

Sixteen-year-old David Shappirio of Washington, D. C., one of 40 finalists in the sixth annual Westinghouse science talent search, cleared up an entomological "triangle" by mating "Mrs." Wasp with her proper spouse. The books had been wronging this couple for years.

DAD IS AN ARMY MAN . . . The story of the extensive traveling done by an army man and his wife is graphically told in the varied birthplaces of the four children of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robbin B. Durbin, pictured strolling on the deck of an army transport. Donald, 3, was born in Lindsborg, Kan.; Thomas, 4, at West Point, N. Y.; Edward, 6, in Honolulu, and William, 8, in San Antonio, Tex.

NEWS REVIEW

Greek, Turk Aid Proposal Keynotes Shift in Policy

D (DIPLOMACY) DAY:
Back Truman

Despite its radical departure from traditional American foreign policy and inherent threat of conflict with Russia, President Truman's program for aiding Greek and Turkish resistance to Soviet pressure in the strategic Middle East gained strong support in congress.

Many Republican senators and representatives crossed party lines to back Mr. Truman's proposal to lend Greece and Turkey 400 million dollars within the next year to bolster their economies and buy arms and provide military experts to train key personnel. Senator Bridges (Rep., N. H.) summed up congressional sentiment: "If we are ever going to try to stop the spread of Communism, now is the time."

Critics of the program did not so much oppose the forthright action proposed to check the Red tidal wave in eastern Europe as they inveighed against past state department practices in aiding the Soviets and their puppet states in strengthening their hold on oppressed people. With the entire nation sensitive to growing Russian dominance, critics were expected to lend their support for maximum safeguards against precipitating hostile action.

Mr. Truman made no bones about administration intentions of resisting Russian expansionism, declaring that U. S. foreign policy remained dedicated to the principle of freedom for all people. After lambasting Communist interference in Greece and imposition of totalitarian regimes in Poland, Romania and Bulgaria, he asserted that all nations faced the choice of dictatorship or democracy.

Significantly, the Middle Eastern trouble spot lies at the crossroads of the East and West. Whoever controls this strategic area controls the gateway to two worlds plus the huge oil deposits of Iran, Iraq and Arabia, in which the U. S. and Britain have heavy interests.

Strengthening of the U. S. attitude toward Russia came as the Reds crimped opening of the Big Four conference in Moscow on the German and Austrian treaties. Defeated on a proposal to discuss the Chinese situation at the outset, Russian Foreign Minister Molotov came right back with the charge that the U. S. and Britain have retarded demilitarization of western Germany.

ASKS BAN ON REDS

Questioned about a bill outlawing Communists from official positions in labor unions, Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach rasped: "It does not go far enough. Why should we recognize the Communist party in the U. S.? Why should they be eligible to run for office when their purpose is to destroy the government? Why should they be theoretically able to get elected to congress? I just can't see any reason why we should have that."

LABOR:
End Long Strike

Beaten in their attempts to obtain "union security," Local 180 of the CIO-United Automobile Workers ended its 14½-months-old strike at the J. I. Case tractor and harvesting equipment plants in Racine, Wis. Previously, union members had returned to work in Case's Rock Island, Ill., Burlington, Ia., and Rockford, Ill., factories after prolonged walkouts.

Asst. Sec. of Labor John W. Gibson was successful in bringing the company and the Racine local together. Abandoning efforts to obtain a union shop, maintenance of membership and a compulsory dues checkoff, the local settled for an average 25 cents an hour wage raise, new grievance machinery and improved vacation provisions.

Settlement of the strike posed a labor problem for Racine since many of the 3,500 strikers had taken other jobs during the course of the walkout. Their action eased the strain on the union treasury although other workers received strike benefits. The plants were completely shut down during the dispute, with the union maintaining effective picket lines.

RAIL MURDER:
FBI Enters Case

Congressional concern over the shotgun slaying of Pres. George P. McNear of the embattled Toledo, Peoria and Western railroad brought the FBI into the case in an effort to track down the killers of the millionaire rail executive.

The justice department authorized the FBI investigation on the grounds that the federal government was interested in what otherwise might have been a local incident because of McNear's recent testimony before the house labor committee.

Committee Chairman Hartley (Rep., N. J.) revealed that McNear had charged the Railroad Brotherhoods with inciting violence on the T. P. & W. to prompt government seizure of the line during the war. Brotherhood officials replied by accusing McNear of a lack of knowledge of railroading, Hartley said.

BIG BUSINESS:
Growing Bigger

Pointing out that 1,800 companies have been absorbed by purchase or merger since 1940, the Federal Trade commission urged adoption of a bill sponsored by Representative Kefauver (Dem., Tenn.) that would prevent such practices where they tended to create a monopoly.

Under present provisions of the Clayton anti-trust act, only stock purchases forming a monopoly are prohibited. Operators have been able to get around this provision, however, by outright purchase of a company's assets or exchanging stocks through a merger. Kefauver's bill would plug the present loop-hole and empower the FTC to rule on mergers.

COMPETITION COMING

Lower Costs and Prices Advised

WASHINGTON. — Warning that business faces a period of intense competition for consumer dollars, the department of commerce advised business men to begin now to cut costs and lower prices.

"Business is on the verge of a period of intense competition; there are more retailers than before the war and the implication is that competition for the consumers' dollar will be greater than ever," the department declared in a study of pricing problems by Frederick M. Bernfield of the marketing division.

The department forecast that "unless business men start reviewing their pricing policies now with a view towards meeting this competition, they may find themselves faced with making drastic price changes."

The old wartime formula of price of goods plus operating costs plus desired profit is no longer sufficient, the department said. In general, markup policies must be directed toward a reasonable net profit. Business men in considering revisions must be sure to include in their costs such items as markdowns, damage and theft.

If a business man cannot meet competition, maintain quality of his merchandise, pay all costs and make a reasonable profit, "then he must either lower his costs, or stock or manufacture something else."

A generally lower price level may be beneficial to all, if demand is sufficient, but it could result in a series of price cuts harmful to all, the survey noted.

In considering price policy the department said retailers might do well to classify wares as luxury goods, competitive goods and convenience goods. In luxury lines, markup may be larger than the store average. At the other extreme, convenience goods sell rapidly and a low markup might be the most satisfactory policy.

If you will place citrus fruits to be used in salad in hot water for a few minutes before peeling, the under skin will come off easily.

Pull your card tables, folding chairs and games out of cupboards or sliding racks built into waste space under the stairs.

Glue pieces of felt on the bottom of your vases and they will not mar the surfaces of the tables on which they are placed.

Keep an old tooth brush in your sewing box. The next time you have to rip out seams with a razor blade, use the tooth brush to brush off little threads along seams.

Slip a convenient-sized oiled silk bag into your purse just before you go out to buy fish. Have the fish dealer slip the fish into this before wrapping it. On the way home no fish odors will escape the package, and there'll be less chance of liquid leaking on your clothes.

A little wax applied to furniture caster sockets keeps them turning easily in damp weather.

Coat the inside of lids on mustard or horseradish jars with a thin layer of paraffin and they'll not turn green.

Good knives are a housewife's helpers, so you'll want to take good care of yours. Keep them away from the stove, because heat destroys the temper of steel. If this happens the blade cannot be kept sharp.

Walks of Holy City of Iran Paved With Tombstones

Meshed is the holy city of Iran where all objects with any sacred significance are revered by the inhabitants and the 100,000 Moslem pilgrims who visit it annually. Yet for a generation, its sidewalks have been paved with old tombstones—from a reconverted cemetery—placed with their inscriptions upward.

Prosperity Pattern

Switzerland is a small country without seacoast, without natural resources, without enough fields to produce her necessary food. The non-homogeneous people—one part speaking German, another French, and a third, Italian—add to her domestic difficulties.

Under these conditions, Switzerland should naturally be expected to be one of the very poorest nations in Europe. On the contrary, however, Switzerland had before the war, and has yet, the highest per capita wealth in Europe. This little country pays the best wages known in Europe and maintains the best living conditions for her workers. Why? How?

A Way and A Will

Why should a people with the least possibilities come out with the highest average wealth, highest wages, and best living conditions? Simply because Switzerland has the right formula for prosperity, plus the will to make the formula work. Switzerland is proof to the world that any nation can have prosperity. There are just three requirements.

1. Switzerland has a real republic, through which the citizens reserve to themselves real individual freedom. Nearly all laws touching the lives of the people are made locally in districts called "cantons," corresponding roughly to our states. Even the amount of income tax to be paid by the people of each canton is decided locally. Political responsibility is a reality. And real freedom of individual opportunity exists.

Ownership Pays Out

2. Switzerland has the right type of economy. All industry is privately owned and operated. Individual ownership of property is encouraged and protected. A high percentage of people own their own homes and their farms. Thrift is encouraged by both the local and national governments.

3. Switzerland has equal responsibility placed by law upon both labor and capital. Industrial peace is encouraged, both by local and national government. Industrial cooperation prevails throughout the nation.

Switzerland is living proof that these three conditions will bring prosperity to any country, regardless of the quantity of its natural resources. The Swiss do not put the eye of aggression on their neighbors, in a search for "living room." Content with their own mountains, they have found that the resources of individual freedom, sane economy, and hard work can give them all they want. These moral resources the Swiss can call their own.

Retain the Formula

France, adjoining, with plenty of natural resources and abundant fertile fields, should now be the most prosperous country in Europe. Instead she is one of the poorest. Her socialistic form of government, her nationalization of industry, and her industrial chaos have made prosperity impossible, despite natural resources. France hasn't the right formula.

America, for 150 years, has had the right formula. In our own land we have achieved the highest wages, and the best general living standards ever known. We have had the natural resources. But more important, we have treasured these same moral resources that have made the Swiss great. We have had freedom of opportunity. We have made the formula work. Shall we keep the formula and keep prsoperity, or desert the formula and revert to mediocrity for everybody?

Submit Farm Plan by April 15

Marshall County farmers have less than two weeks to prepare their 1947 Farm Plans and get them into the county Agricultural Conservation committee (AAA) office. Chas. N. Kranz county committee chairman said today.

The farm plan must be approved by the county Agricultural Committee before April 15, if the farmer concerned is to receive a payment for the time, money and effort he expends this year in conserving the soil on his farm, Mr. Kranz explained.

Only exception to this, he said, will be landlords or tenants who acquired interest in a farm after March 15, in which case they would have 30 days from the time they acquired the interest in the farm to prepare the Farm Plan.

In Marshall County this year, farmers will be repaid for:

1. Fertilizer 100 lbs. of 0-20-0 at .80. All commercial fertilizer containing phosphate, potash and nitrogen.

5. Green manure crops

a. 1946 fall seedings of winter rye.

b. Buckwheat.

c. Sweet Clover

d. Alsike or red clover seeded in 1946 or 1947.

6. Protecting Summer Fallow

7. Weed Eradication of Control on Cropland.

c. For continuons clean tillage throunh entire growing season except quack grass, $10.00 per acre.

d. For continous clean tillage of quack grass in townships west of East Park and New Solum line - $2.50 per acre.

12. Field Stripcropping not on contour to control wind erosion.

15. Construction or enlargement of open farm ditches - $.08 per cubic yard.

19. Renovating and reseeding pastures.

21. Tree planting.

a. For forest purposes, - $1.00 per 100 trees, but not in excess of $7.50 per acre.

b. For gully control - $1.00 per 100 trees, but not in the excess of $7. 50 per acre.

c. For windbreak, - $2.00 per 100 trees.

22. Maintaining a stand of trees in a windbreak.

Marshall County farmers are receiving checks in the amount of approximately $300,000 for the practices carried out on Marshall County farms in 1946.

Clear Water Absorbed

Clear water seeps into the ground 10 times faster than muddy water. Keeping the ground covered with crop residue or cover crops helps clear water soak into soil instead of muddy water running off land.

Sow Flax Early Experts Say

"Sow flax early". This is the advice of crops experts throughout the Northwest Flax Belt.

In recommending that flax be sown as early as wheat, the extension service of the University of Minnesota points out that even the most tender seedlings will endure a moderate frost if conditions are favorable. "Plants two or three inches high and hardened by exposure will endure a short temperature drop to 22 or even 20 degrees without material injury.

"Cool weather at blossoming time and ample moisture until ripening begins are most favorable conditions."

While agronomists from North Dakota Agricultural College point out that weedy conditions in the spring sometimes cause farmers to delay seeding in order to give the field extra cultivation other factors such as summer drought and disease may often reduce the yields of later sown flax as much or more than the weeds.

Experimental results in Minnesota over a five-year period showed an average decrease in yield of 22 per cent when seeding was delayed just 10 days beyond the earliest date that a good seedbed could be prepared.

Similar tests in Iowa show an average loss of nearly four bushels per acre for each ten day delay in seeding.

Uncle Sam Says

WEATHER CHART MARCH 1947

March comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb. At least that's the old saying. Your weatherman and your own experience may give you cause either to believe or disbelieve its truth. When it comes to United States Savings Bonds, there is no dispute as to their lion-strength quality from start to finish. In fact, savings bonds grow stronger with the passage of time. For every $18.75 you invest in a savings bond you get back $25.—a neat profit at the rate of $4 for every $3. You invest $75 and in ten years you get back $100. Own more U. S. Savings Bonds because U. S. Savings Bonds are SAFE, SURE, PROFITABLE.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Apple Tree Versus Wheat Field

If you ever visit Jeb Crowell's farm, he'll take you right out on that back porch of his and show you his apple tree.

"There," says Jeb, "is nature's noblest creation—fifty years, and bearin' still the finest cider apples in the county!"

But last fall, when a group of us was there, Lud Denny points across the river to his grain fields and says: "There's an even finer sight! Acres and acres of golden grain you can make dozens of appetizing things with—including wholesome, sparkling beer."

Both of them got so eloquent on the subject, that the rest of us worked up quite a thirst; so Jeb goes to the icebox for beer and cider. And when the refreshments come, Lud chooses cider, and Jeb takes the beer!

From where I sit, that's the answer to most disputes. You can talk all you want, but when it comes to tastes and preferences, there's just no argument.

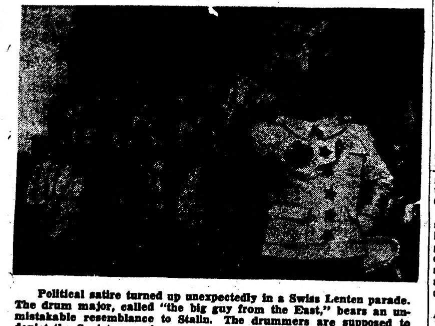
—WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS—

Georgia Gets New Governor; Swollen British Rivers Bring Misery, Destruction

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

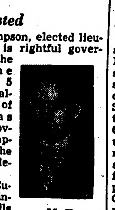
(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



Political satire turned up unexpectedly in a Swiss Lenten parade. The drum major, called "the big guy from the East," bears an unmistakable resemblance to Stalin. The drummers are supposed to depict the Soviet commissars and generals marching roughshod over small states. Switzerland is probably the only southern European country free enough for a public lampooning of Russian leaders. The parade attracted much attention as it wound through the ancient streets of Basle.

GEORGIA:

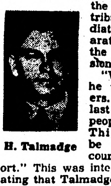
Talmadge Ousted



M. E. Thompson

Melvin E. Thompson, elected lieutenant governor, is rightful governor of Georgia, the state supreme court has ruled, 5 to 2. Herman Talmadge, son of Gene, who has been acting as governor since his appointment by the legislature, was declared a usurper.

Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook has invalidated all bills signed by Talmadge during his brief and troubled term. The most important of this legislation is the white primary bill, but 150 other measures also were declared void by Cook.



H. Talmadge

The 33-year-old son of the famous "Old Gene" accepted the verdict of the state's highest tribunal and immediately made preparations to leave the executive mansion.

"We'll be back," he told well wishers. "The court of last resort is the people of Georgia. This case will be taken to the court of last resort." This was interpreted as indicating that Talmadge intends to run again in 1948, when a special election will be held. Under the law a lieutenant governor can serve only two years as governor.

The supreme court's majority decision took the view that the legislature erred when it appointed Herman Talmadge governor on January 14. The legislature, after a canvass of votes cast, acted on the theory that since Eugene Talmadge had died before inauguration, that there was no one elected to the office. Herman Talmadge was chosen on the basis of a few write-in votes. Thompson, duly elected lieutenant governor, was ignored.

FARM MACHINERY:

Prices Trimmed

Although demand is expected to exceed supply "for months to come," International Harvester company has reduced prices on 163 items of farm equipment. More than half the company's customers will benefit, a spokesman said. Reductions range from 1 to 23.8 per cent, or in dollars from $2.50 to $300. Lower prices have been announced for 123 farm machines, 16 models of industrial tractors, 12 models of motor trucks and 12 other miscellaneous articles. The program will cost the company about 20 million dollars this year, it was stated. New prices became effective March 10.

Typical of reductions are new prices of the Farmall-H tractor, down $125, or 10.6 per cent; the automatic pickup hay baler, down $75, or 4.1 per cent, and the self-propelled combine, now $122.50, or 3.4 per cent lower.

Trucks were trimmed $50 to $300 in price, depending on size. Estimated overall reduction on industrial products amounted to about 3.5 per cent, officials stated.

"Miss Paris of 1947" is Mle. Francoise Foucault, 19.

BRITAIN:

Floods New Peril

Melting of the thick blanket of snow that brought great hardship to Britain has swollen streams to flood stage. Many thousands of people in southern England are being forced out of their homes by rising waters. Some rivers already have passed the record high marks of 1894. Community kitchens are being set up to feed refugees. Troops, German war prisoners and volunteers are struggling to save water purifying stations, gas and electric plants, and other essential services. Others are sandbagging dikes and river walls.

"It is our worst disaster in 300 years," declares Miss Phoebe Custen, mayor of the Thames river town of Caversham.

Snow still is hampering transportation in five counties of northern England. These regions will have to cope with floods later.

Agricultural losses are already immense, and prospects are for even more staggering damage. Tens of thousands of sheep and cattle are drowning in the Midlands regions. It is estimated that three million farm animals died over the winter, killed by snow and cold. Most of the spring wheat crop is ruined. The potato crop in the fenlands is considered destroyed. Planting of early crops is far behind schedule. In a country that has been on short rations for seven years, this further blow is extremely serious.

Well, $25,000 Ain't Hay

For many years Miss Mary B. Powers of New York City has been refusing dividends earned by her stock in the Glen Alden Coal Co. She has been living in a New York hotel as a recluse for the last 15 years. Something has changed her mind recently, however, and she has decided to accept her dividends after all. She has $25,000 coming.

DRAFT EVADERS:

FBI Hunts 9,178

Ending of selective service has forced a change in the department of justice's handling of draft evaders. Heretofore the department's policy was to turn such men over to the army for induction. Since the armed forces no longer want them, they will have to face conviction and sentence in federal courts, says J. Edgar Hoover, director of the department's Federal Bureau of Investigation.

FBI agents everywhere have been furnished with descriptions of 9,178 men who are wanted for draft evasion. Many of these failed to register, or employed one of the many dodges with which the FBI is familiar.

ELECTRIFICATION:

Loans Reach Billion

With the granting of $145,000 to Illinois, Rural Electrification administration loans have reached the billion dollar mark. Every state excepting Connecticut and Massachusetts now have cooperatives financed by REA funds. On January 1, REA loans totaled $958,009,090. More than 1,000 borrowers have repaid $126,098,000 in principal and interest.

Railroads Rent Autos

Railroads will resume their auto-renting service by June 1 in 300 cities, announces H. W. Siddall, chairman of the Railroad Passenger Interterritorial committee. In this arrangement a railroad passenger can obtain the use of a car through the railroad's agents. The acute shortage of new cars has delayed resumption of this service, Siddall said. Autos can be obtained in 1,000 cities by the end of next year.

PARAGUAY:

Civil War

So serious is the rebellion in Paraguay that President Morinigo has issued a war decree to mobilize the full powers of the government. Rebels now are holding large sections of the little South American country. Government officials state that the revolt is Communist-inspired. They further charge that Communists in neighboring Uruguay and Bolivia are giving every assistance to the rebels.

The war act gives the government power to draft men, property and money, and to suspend any laws. The preamble declares that it was issued in accordance with "international agreement signed by this country for defense of the continent against subversive movements of a totalitarian character."

According to news from Brazil, the insurgents have won control of all the Paraguayan side of the Paraguayan-Brazil border by capturing the towns of Bela Vista, Pedro Juan Caballero and Captan Bado.

Paraguayan government reports say that some of the rebel forces have deserted and surrendered to government troops. There were other stories, denied by the government, that some infantry, artillery and naval units had refused orders to fight the rebels.

ATOMIC ORE:

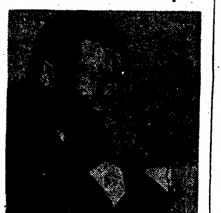
Rigid Regulations

In a move to safeguard the nation's supply of uranium and thorium ores, the raw materials for atom bombs, the Atomic Energy commission has issued a new and very strict code. Death is the penalty for major violations of the rigid regulations, which affect everyone handling the radio-active ores.

The code sets up a licensing system specifying that no one, unless licensed by the commission, can "transfer or export from the United States" any material that contains as much as 1-20th of one per cent of uranium or thorium.

After April 1, anyone not licensed who obtains 10 pounds or more of raw uranium or thorium must report it to the commission within 30 days. Use of uranium in ceramics, photographic supplies and other industrial products is practically forbidden, since no further supply of the metal will be allowed after April 1.

Overcomes Handicap



Sgt. Harold Russell, who lost both hands in service, is on tour in connection with his first movie venture, "The Best Years of Our Lives." He received an Academy award for his part in the picture, in which he played a disabled veteran. The film is being shown at army hospitals as part of the rehabilitation program for handicapped men. Russell does not intend to act again; his ambition is to be a specialist in movie advertising. He is shown here demonstrating how well he can perform such delicate tasks as operating a camera with his hooks.

U. S. FARM REPORT:

Five-Year Rise

Value of farms in the United States increased by one-third, on the average, and value of produce doubled between 1940 and 1945, the census bureau reports. Number of farms declined, and size of farms increased during the five-year period, as was generally known.

Total worth of the nation's farms rose steadily to $46,388,925,560 in the five years covered. Present values are considerably higher. The average farm in 1945 was 194.8 acres, compared with 174 acres five years earlier.

Market value of produce increased from $7,813,644,000 to $18,108,132,000. Number of people on farms decreased sharply but the bureau says it has no figure for 1940 exactly comparable to the 1945 total, when there were 23,588,488 listed as farm dwellers. Tenant farmers dropped from 2,361,271 to 1,858,421 in the five year term.

Other changes, as summarized in the report, were these:

"Farmers are using more machinery. More farms are operated by farmers and fewer by tenants. Fewer farmers engage in off-farm work."

CANCER:

Italian Treatment

A new drug that is effective in the treatment of cancer has been reported by an Italian researcher. The chemical has been named FA2 by its discoverer, Dr. Francisco Guarnieri of Rome. He is cautious about claiming that he has found a true cure for the dread malady but stated that "only patient and arduous experiments in the coming months will be able to prove its value."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Choose colored thread slightly darker than the fabric on which it will be used. Then, when stitched in place, it will appear to match the fabric.

The next time you want your small son or daughter to remember something, paint a dot of red nail polish on a thumbnail. This is better than the time-tested method of "tying a string."

Wallpaper, to take a water base paint, must be completely dry, so it is best not to tackle the job in damp weather. Wait for a warm day. Apply with wide brush or roller for the very best results.

At 12 months, the average child may be expected to have a vocabulary of three words. At 18 months, the child should know 22 words and at 24 months will have a vocabulary of about 270 words. But don't try to push him. This may give rise to serious disorders later.

For a rainy day. Clean out bureau drawers occasionally and throw away worn-out and unnecessary items.

A rip-saw should be held at an angle of 60 degrees for best results.

Fresh Apple in Bran Muffins! Wonderful!

Crunchy, toasted Kellogg's All-Bran and fresh apple taste just dreamy!
2 tablespoons shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
¾ cup grated raw apple
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
½ cup milk
1 cup sifted flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
Blend shortening and sugar. Add egg; beat well. Stir in apple, Kellogg's All-Bran, and milk. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Add sifted dry ingredients to first mixture. Stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pan two-thirds full. Bake in moderate oven (400° F.) about 30 minutes. Makes 12 muffins. You'll want to make them often.

NOT ONLY ENGLAND . . . Europe is not the only place buffeted by heavy seas. At Redondo Beach, Calif., the angry surf returned to the onslaught again, crashing over the cement walk and cascading into living rooms of waterfront homes. Photo was taken after the wild waves had calmed down to a great extent. Women at extreme right is shown shoveling debris away from her front door.

THIS LITTLE PIG WENT TO— . . . a restaurant not to market. But he had nothing on the little piggy who went to market. "Oscar" wandered into a restaurant in downtown Los Angeles. No one knew where he came from, but chef Frank Tornabene, holding a meat cleaver behind his back, seems to know where he is going. And just when pork prices are going up, too.

EMINENT HOMEMAKERS . . . Mrs. Fred Dittman, Highmore, left, and Mrs. Louisa F. Rehfeld, Warner, who have been selected by South Dakota State college for the award of "Eminent Homemaker—1947." Mrs. Dittman is the mother of 12 children, all of whom are making high places for themselves. Emil, the oldest, is a chemist on the atomic bomb project. Since her husband's death, Mrs. Dittman moved from the farm, but manages to operate one of the largest home gardens in the state, in addition to active work in church, garden and community organizations. Mrs. Rehfeld's husband died in 1936. Although the farm was under heavy mortgage, she managed to pay off all debts, educate and raise six children.

MARGARET'S DEBUT . . . Margaret Truman singing in her radio debut with the Detroit Symphony orchestra. Critics, generally, said that the President's daughter showed promise of developing into an opera singer after further experience.

'OLE CACTUS' CONTENTED . . . After 54 years in politics, John Nance Garner, one-time vice president of the United States, now in his 79th year, puffs away on a favorite cigar, the picture of contentment, at his oak-studded Uvalde, Tex., ranch. With politics a closed chapter, the Texan may be seen every afternoon feeding his large flock of chickens and turkeys, at peace with the world and glad that he does not have to help solve the world problems.

MILITARY GOVERNOR . . . Gen. Lucius D. Clay, who has just been appointed military governor of the U. S. zone in Germany, relieving Gen. Joseph T. McNarney. General Clay will command USE.

Free Elections

Ever pay any attention to your newspaper reports of trouble encountered in the smaller European nations concerning free elections? The former satellites of Nazi Germany, and the present satellites of Soviet Russia, are finding the ideal of elections incompatible with those political doctrines that have been foisted upon them. Such insane foolishness as having the masses go to the polls for honest and secret voting, they say, is reserved for the decadent democracies.

These classless and enlightened denizens under benevolent socialist governments (that's the picture drawn up for consumption of peoples still ruled by despotic capitalists) do not of course value the power of the vote. They do not know what a workable factor of democracy the vote is. Not having permitted the will of the people to develop through free speech, a free press, and free elections, the fetters of ruling classes are likely to remain.

Example, Britain

No nation can have free elections, while at the same time it tries to artificially discipline its labor force and foster government management of industry. Recent events in Britain give point to this statement. It was evident to me while in England last August that the nation was in for trouble. Absenteeism of workers in coal mines had risen to about 25%, and this was reduced to 18% only in January, when the coal famine was already a reality. Productivity remained inexplainably low.

Because there was a lack of national discipline, that is, the normal self-discipline common in America's industrial workers, coal was not coming from the mines. Parliament was afraid to discipline the miners to get coal. Parliament feared results at the next election. This explains why the labor government calmly watched the coal crisis develop, step by step, fully aware that it was coming.

No Ruling Classes

No country can promote government management of industry, as England is trying to do, and maintain discipline of labor along with free elections. Stalin has the first two, in good measure, but he is not troubled with elections. Free elections under present conditions in Russia would have little meaning. They are a risk that the Soviet ruling class could never assume.

We in America have found that the best type of discipline comes from incentives found in the ambition to get ahead. When a man knows he can better his lot and is not afraid to try, the best kind of self-discipline is the result. The lowliest immigrant can become a great inventor. An assembly line worker can plan to own the factory, and can do it honestly. Things like these have happened too often to go unnoticed.

• If we want to keep high efficiency, with the highest possible wages and an increasing standard of living, we must keep private ownership and private management of the tools of production. Holding to these things in a free market and cherishing the freedoms of speech, assembly, and press, we shall have little fear of dictatorship. Free elections would not permit it.

Trouble in Britain

England has gone down for a small count. That of course is no reason why anybody should be ready with the old "I-told-you-so." However, some observations are in order. Outstanding Englishmen have been outspoken during the fuel crisis current in their country. An examination of the underlying causes of the crisis in England ought to make a good treatise favoring the American economic system.

In England or anywhere else in the world, it is my feeling that little or nothing along the socialist order is to be found there that we would wish to adopt in America. Even before the coal and power crisis reached the terrible proportions of mid-February, the British were being urged by critics within their own realm to abandon plans for further nationalization.

National Suicide?

Mr. Shinwell, minister of fuel and power, along with Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the Board of Trade, asked that the country forego any further reorganization of the electric power industry. The idea behind their plea was that British industry could not afford to be exposed to the uncertainties and hazards that would accompany more experimentation. It was time for danger signals to go up.

The government, it was stressed, would have to concentrate on the task of preserving the economic life of England. Another warning came from a prominent religious leader. The English people were confronted, he said, by immense danger in the planned society becoming so common. If more and more orders had to be issued "about which the people would have to put up with and obey," it would be the beginning of national suicide.

Result of Planning

The British do not lack coal because they have no plan. Socialism is full of plans. The coal mines are there, too. What socialism forgets, however, is that private and personal initiative, meaning hard work and high production, make up the factors that insure economic stability. English miners can never dig coal with paper plans. Men dig and distribute coal to consumers of fuel largely because of various incentives.

Not the least of these incentives is that men make money in the process of getting the coal out of the ground. But a nation does not get rid of monopoly by making the monopoly one of government. The prime products of socialism and communism, with their monopolies of government, have been low standards of living and meager production.

Best Statesmanship

Thing to remember is that no anti-trust laws can reach this kind of monopoly. It takes either revolution or world conflict to sweep out failures of monopolistic government, once they become entrenched by long habit.

Responsibility falls with increasing weight upon America. These duties lie most fully now in the part we must play of making our free and dynamic economy, without taint of socialistic experimentation, the example for the whole world. In that way can the American people perform their best statesmanship.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

And That Ain't Hay —Or Is It?

I guess all of us secretly hanker, from time to time, for the good old days and the good old-fashioned pleasures. Leastways, Buddy Richards done a thriving business reviving the old-time hayride.

With a team of horses, and a stout straw-bedded rack, Buddy can take as many as thirty adults—at fifty cents a head!

Two or three times a week they start from Town Hall, and go out along the river; stop for a friendly glass of beer at Shoreside Tavern; and come home by way of Pound Ridge . . . nine miles in all.

Not very exciting, you might say. But from where I sit it's not excitement that we need these days—but those simple country pleasures that are part and parcel of America—the old-fashioned hayride, with its song and jollity; the horseshoe games; the friendly glass of beer; and the good companionship that they engender.

Knowledge of Plant Foods Is Aid in Rebuilding Soil

CHEMICAL terms such as nitrogen, phosphorus and potash seem a bit difficult to understand, don't they?

But as a matter of fact, they are no harder to grasp than many other new terms which we of this generation who live on or near farms have had to learn. And once we learn what job each of the three major plant foods performs, then we shall be able to more successfully treat growing crops for plant food hunger signs and rebuild soil fertility.

What are these jobs?

Nitrogen encourages growth, builds protein and develops the fleshy portion of roots and fruits. Phosphorus hastens the ripening of seed and favors early maturity. Potash is the balance wheel, enabling the crop to make better use of the other plant foods. It likewise develops resistance to disease and improves quality.

Uncle Sam Says

Whenever I hear one of my nephews say he has bought United States Savings Bonds, I feel like nudging him and saying: "Nephew, you haven't really bought anything. That may sound strange at first, but the proof is simple. Ordinarily when you buy something you have to spend your money. What you have actually done in acquiring savings bonds is to exchange non-interest bearing notes for interest bearing ones. You have merely converted your money into a different form, a form in which it will start growing in amount. In savings bonds form your money earns $4 for every $3 invested in ten years.

U. S. Treasury Department

Future Cropland

Most recent department of agriculture suggestions developed in cooperation with the states, are for 418 million acres of cropland by about 1950, or 8½ million below the 1935-39 average, assuming prosperity conditions and desirable changes in practices. Improved agricultural methods, including conservation practices, account for the allowable decrease. If full advantage were taken of all technological improvements, actual cropland in 1950 possibly could drop to 330 million acres.

Preserve Saplings

Fresh-cut saplings to be used for farm posts or poles will drink enough chemical solution to prolong their length of service. The solution can be made from two pounds of zinc chloride, chromated zinc chloride, or copper sulphate to each gallon of water. A half gallon of the solution will treat a four-inch pole which is 30 feet long. The bottoms of posts or poles are placed in a tank or tub of the solution, which is poisonous to livestock or human beings.

—WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS—

FBI Chief Warns of Communist Burrowing Against Government; Congress Acts to Aid Refugees

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Her husband among more than 100 miners lost in an underground explosion at Wamac, Ill., Mrs. Stanley Teckus is consoled by solicitous friends after long vigil at mine shaft. Miners' wives kept chins up during long hours of waiting for word from rescue crews.

DISASTER:
Pass Buck

Charges and counter-charges flew thick and fast in the wake of the disastrous mine explosion at Wamac, Ill., which claimed the lives of over 100 coal miners.

As repeated warnings of state and federal inspectors about hazardous conditions in the mine were bared, Gov. Dwight H. Green's state administration was accused of laxity in enforcing safety regulations and the federal mines administration, as technical operator, was rapped for failing to correct safety violations.

Administrative inefficiencies promised to provide John L. Lewis with additional ammunition for his demands for federal supervision of safety regulations in the mines when he resumes bargaining with operators for a new contract.

Meanwhile, federal, state and local officials mapped three investigations in the wake of the disaster to take off some of the heat. The federal inquiry was scheduled to follow senate passage of a resolution introduced by Senator Brooks (Rep., Ill.).

REDS:
Threat to America

More so perhaps than before, eternal vigilance is the price of freedom, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover warned the nation in describing the Communist threat to the American form of government.

Addressing the house un-Ameeican activities committee, Hoover declared that the Reds in this country constitute a small but closely knit group seeking to overthrow our democracy and substitute an iron-clad dictatorship denying the principles of religious worship, political freedom and economic opportunity. He pointed out that only 25,000 Reds worked the Russian revolution in 1917 and there is a larger proportion of Communists at present in the U. S.

Hoover called for relentless prosecution of the Reds found violating the laws of this country. Putting Americans on their guard, he said the Reds were unceasing in their efforts to subvert labor unions; spread Communist doctrines in the schools, and prey upon foreign language groups.

J. EDGAR HOOVER
Reds Await the Revolution

Besides infiltrating established radio channels, they also are trying to set up outlets of their own. Under direction of party leaders, they are prolific letter writers and expert at organizing pressure campaigns for some cause favorable to leftism.

Since 1935, they have been especially active in the movie industry, Hoover said. In addition to trying to take over Hollywood unions, they have sought to get a foothold in the writing and productive ends of the business with a view toward influencing the thoughts of millions of theater-goers.

BUILDING:

Builders completed 59,300 new permanent dwellings in January, 1947 — more than three times as many as were completed in January of last year, according to estimates of the department of labor.

These figures do not include such structures as converted dwellings, trailers and temporary re-use accommodations, regularly included by the national housing agency in its reports on the progress of the veterans' emergency housing program.

U.N.:
Celebrate With Veto

Andrei A. Gromyko, Russian delegate to the United Nations security council, celebrated the first anniversary of the U. N. with a veto—the 10th the Reds have employed since the international organization came into being to block action against themselves or Soviet-sponsored puppets.

With the Polish delegate siding with him, per custom, Gromyko wielded the veto on a resolution that would have charged Albania, a Soviet satellite, with part guilt for the sinking of a British vessel by a mine in Corfu channel last fall. Effect of the charge would have increased Albania's liability for damages being sought by the British for the mishap.

As it was, the U. S., France, China, Australia, Brazil, Colombia and Belgium, which voted for the resolution, watered down the original British charge that Albania was guilty of either laying the mine or conniving in planting it. Instead, they accused Albania of possessing knowledge of the presence of the mine and failure to clear the channel.

REFUGEES:
U. S. Aid

Having already generously provided relief and financial assistance to war-stricken areas abroad, congress moved to help the 1,037,000 displaced persons and refugees in Europe by joining the United Nations International Refugee organization.

Under the proposal first approved by the senate and then sent to the house, the U. S. would furnish 75 million dollars the first year, representing 45 per cent of the total operational costs.

Before agreeing to passage of the measure, the senate insisted on insertion of an amendment which would protect U. S. control of its immigration policies. Senator Revercomb (Rep., W. Va.) asserted that the Roosevelt and Truman administrations have permitted the entrance of 750,000 aliens on temporary visas, and Senator Hawkes (Rep., N. J.) charged 2,000,000 aliens have entered the country illegally within the last few years.

SHIPPING:
U. S. Future

The U. S. should develop a clear-cut maritime policy now to assure continued mastery of the American merchant marine, Pres. Harry Lundeberg of the AFL Seafarers International union, declared at its third biennial convention in Chicago.

Declaring that the U. S. merchant marine has dwindled to 30 million tons from its wartime peak of 50 million, Lundeberg attributed the decline to transfers of American ships to Panamanian registry, sales to foreign governments and removal of vessels from service. If necessary, the union is prepared to boycott ships transferred to Panamanian registry for operation under lower wage and working standards, he said.

Lundeberg also assailed continued British and Russian use of American ships obtained under lend-lease. Built with U. S. money and employing cheap foreign labor, these ships are directly competing with American vessels, he declared.

Behind the Iron Curtain

In an effort to boost lagging farm production throughout the Russian zone of Germany, Marshal Sokolovsky has ordered drastic changes. First of these will be a general pardon for farmers sentenced to prison for failure to fulfill their abnormally high production quotas. Direct assistance will be given in the form of supplies. One hundred and twenty thousand tons of nitrate fertilizer, three times the amount used last year, will be distributed, as will 50,000 tons of phosphate.

ATOM CONTROL:
New Plan

As congressional conservatives continued their fight against appointment of David E. Lilienthal as chairman of the national atomic energy commission, bills were introduced for the creation of a new board to be headed by Secretary of State Marshall.

Under the plan introduced in the senate by Senator Malone (Rep., Nev.) and five colleagues and in the house by Representative Jenkins (Rep., O.), other members of the new board would include the secretaries of war and navy and two persons named by President Truman.

Conservatives seized upon the critical international situation to attempt to sidetrack Lilienthal, former TVA chairman who has been accused of countenancing the presence of Communists in the power agency. In proposing establishment of the new board to govern all phases of domestic atomic production, Republicans, joined by southern Democrats, declared that the Greek-Turkish crisis indicated the need for close political and military control over nuclear energy for national security.

GOP:
New Tax Plan

Heeding the demands of some Republican congressmen for more substantial tax cuts for the lower income groups, the house passed a modified version of the Knutson proposal for a straight 20 per cent reduction.

Under the new bill, present rates would be cut 30 per cent on taxable income up to $1,000; from 30 to 20 per cent on income between $1,001 and $1,395; 20 per cent on income up to $302,396, and 10 per cent on all earnings above the latter figure. Over 24 million persons in the lower brackets would benefit from the increased reduction.

Speaker Martin threw his full support behind the new modified measure. Said he: "These tax cuts are entirely practicable while at the same time payments are made on the national debt. . . . People in the lower income brackets must have relief from crushing taxation and unbearably high prices. . . . Venture capital must have a chance for a reasonable return as an incentive to invest in order to make more jobs at good wages, increase production, improve quality and bring down prices for all. . . ."

Business on Big Scale

The year 1946 proved a banner one for big business, with heavy demand, increasing supplies of materials and settled periods of production after earlier labor disputes resulting in peak operations.

SEARS ROEBUCK: Continuing its progressive advance under Chairman Robert E. Wood, the big mail order and retail organization enjoyed sales of $1,612,596,050 and profits of $100,098,516. Sales were almost 60 per cent greater than in 1945. More than $225,000,000 was returned to catalogue customers, but with the increasing supply of goods most orders should be filled this year.

U. S. STEEL: The giant of the industry, U. S. Steel corporation showed sales topping $1,400,000,000 and profits $88,622,475. Because of rising costs of labor, material and equipment, profit was reduced to 6 per cent of the sales dollar, leaving a smaller percentage than ordinary for reinvestment, corporation officials declared.

CONSOLIDATION COAL: Reporting sales of $145,438,656, Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal company showed profits of $5,694,692. As a result of the use of new and better tools and the increasing skill of the workers, miners produced more coal per day in 1946 than in the preceding year.

MOSCOW:
Future Reich

At odds on most phases of postwar politics, the U. S. and Russia came to grips again in Moscow on the future pattern of the German government.

Boiled down, the differences amounted to U. S. proposals for a system of strong state governments working through an adequate central authority and Russian recommendations for a strong central government with the states subordinate.

The U. S. proposals advanced by Secretary of State Marshall are designed to give the German people a closer check on their government through the state level and diminish the possibility of a strong central authority like the Nazi regime assuming full, controlling power. In this respect, the U. S. plans embodied American principles of states rights and state representation in congress through the senate.

MINERALS:

The enormous drain on United States ore sources during the war period has left the country short of 22 of the 33 essential materials for waging war, experts warn. Seven of the 22 scarce minerals can be supplied in part by Canada and Mexico.

Among seven minerals that must be imported, if we are to have adequate stock-piles, are copper, mercury, cadmium, bauxite, quartz crystals, flourspar and flake graphite.

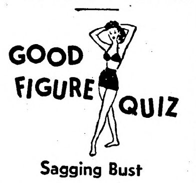
Beauty and Health By Simple Exercise



Sagging Bust

WHAT type of exercise is helpful in slimming the waist and midriff? The main thing is to get those lazy muscles working again, so concentrate on brisk stretching or twisting exercises.

Try this one: Stand with arms out to the sides, and kick your right leg across your body, trying to touch the left hand. Feel that stretch? Return leg to position, and kick the left leg. Do 12 times, alternating legs.

Whatever your figure problem, our Reader Service Booklet No. 90 can help you. Exercises for slimming hips, waist, bust, legs, neck, back. Send 25 cents (coin) for "Beauty and Health Through Simple Exercises" to Weekly Newspaper Service, 243 W. 17th St., New York 11, N. . Print name, address, booklet title and No. 90.

Future Planning

An elderly couple had been sitting in front of the evening fire a long time without speaking. At last the husband inquired, "What are you thinking about?"

To which the wife replied: "I was just thinking how long we have lived together and that it couldn't go on forever like this and that the time will soon come when one of us will have to go."

"Yes," assented the old man, "but it is no use to worry about that now, Mother."

"No," was the calm reply, "but I was just thinking that when it does happen, I would like to go to California to live."

Corn Crop Is Big 'Eater' of Nitrogen, Ohio Study Reveals

CORN'S need for liberal quantities of nitrogen in order to produce high yields was indicated by recent research work by Drs. J. D. Sayre and R. E. Yoder, agronomists at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, which showed that under average conditions, corn plants must take up nearly 1½ pounds of nitrogen from the soil for each bushel of grain produced.

While most Corn Belt farmers rely on good legume sods, manure and decomposing soil organic matter for a large part of the nitrogen required for the corn crop, they are to an increasing extent using extra quantities of nitrogen fertilizers to supplement regular row fertilization of corn on fields where the nitrogen supply is inadequate for high yields.

In the research work conducted by Drs. Sayre and Yoder, plant samples taken at weekly intervals throughout a favorable growing season were subjected to chemical analysis to study the time and rate of nitrogen uptake and its translocation within the corn plant. The crop under study yielded slightly over 100 bushels of shelled corn per acre, and required a total of 142 pounds of nitrogen per acre.

Less than 5 per cent of the total nitrogen was taken up by the corn plants during their first month of growth. During each of the next two months, July and August, 68 pounds of nitrogen per month was required to make the high yielding crop. The daily rate of nitrogen uptake was nearly 2½ pounds per acre per day during the fast midsummer growth period.

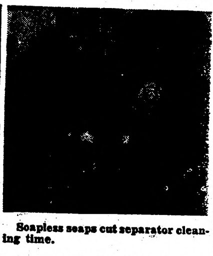
Soapless Soaps Ease Household Chores

AN INCREASING number of farm women are using soapless soaps or wetting agents to help them in a variety of household tasks, an article in nationally circulated Capper's Farmer points out.

These wetting agents usually come in very granular form and are proving superior to ordinary soaps because they actually do double duty—soften water and cleanse—the magazine declares. Formulation of scum by soap in hard water is a characteristic common to all soaps, but not to wetting agents. The substance in these synthetic detergents combines minerals in hard water to make salts dissolve, instead of making the curd-like substance or scum which is an insoluble salt, the article explains.

Giving better contact between the washing solution and surface to be cleaned, these wetting agents get a material or surface wetten and do it quickly. Near neutral in reaction, instead of alkaline, the wetting agents are most effective for cleansing milk utensils and separators.

Added window brightness obtained with wetting agents.



Soapless soaps cut separator cleaning time.

Among numerous uses in which these wetting agents are being employed, says the magazine read by 1,300,000 farm families, are: dishwashing, fabric-washing, including woolens, blankets and sweaters, window-washing, family car washing, washing fabrics on furniture, washing milk buckets and separators.

Home Water Treatment

A phosphate compound, Micromet, and a feeder to add the compound in right amounts to water will prevent scale and control corrosion in a household water system, writes the Rural Home editor of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer. It also helps prevent "rusty water" caused by iron. The feeder device is installed in a vertical position on cold water intake line of water heater. After the initial charge of one pound of Micromet, only one fourth pound needs to be poured into feeder each month, says the magazine read by 1,300,000 farm families.

BETTER SOIL CARE 'INSURANCE' FOR FUTURE PROSPERITY

CHICAGO.—An "insurance policy" in the form of soil rehabilitation was recommended by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee as the best program for helping farmers meet the impact of future world competition once the present gigantic demand for foodstuffs slackens.

"The surest 'hedge' against possible lower farm prices later on is to conserve the soil and maintain its fertility," a statement by the committee points out.

Well Fed Soil Pays Dividends in Sturdy Pig Crop.

"Forward looking farmers have already started on their soil conservation plans. One of the key elements in such a program is the steady use of plant foods containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash, as needed. The fertilizer industry is operating fully with farmers in meeting their essential needs. In spite of shortages of raw materials, manufacturers have been able to keep the plant food output at the record levels reached during the war."

U. S. Industry Sets New Output Records

Given the chance, American industry can deliver the goods in record-smashing volume.

The tremendous productive capacity of American enterprise, demonstrated in World War II, is exhibited again in the production of civilian goods to meet unprecedented peace-time demand.

Since the ending of disruptive strikes in steel, coal, copper and rail industries last winter and spring, many industries have achieved new peace-time peaks in output in civilian goods.

Radios, washing machines and many types of electrical household goods are among items from re-converted industries being produced in larger volume than before the war. Steel, electric power and other basic industries likewise are producing in record peace-time volume.

Uninterrupted production at these peace-time peaks is the best assurance of supply to meet pent-up demand and to ease the pressure for higher prices.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College Searcy, Arkansas

On Being Vigilant

That the price we pay for liberty is eternal vigilance may seem like old stuff to some of us. We are prone to relax after being vigilant for five years during a hard war. Like the next man, we pay more attention to signs of optimism than to those danger signals that are likely to call us to vigilance.

As modern-day Americans, we indicate by our actions and our interests that we are concerned about a lot of things—but perhaps least concerned about playing Paul Revere roles. Let Samuel Adams and John Hancock and Thomas Jefferson and Patrick Henry and A. Lincoln and all the others stay in their history books. We won our freedom in 1776, and we've kept it since. So why take the trouble to worry about being vigilant in 1947?

Take the Trouble

During the war we were told what to be vigilant against, and much of what we were fighting for. Even particular freedoms were enumerated. We knew too, which particular dictators were giving us trouble. But today Hitler is gone. Mussolini's ambitions are dust. It was a lot of trouble, but we paused to finish the job. We were strong enough to do it, and we are still strong.

It is always a lot of trouble to have a mind toward our freedoms. With three-fourths of the world embracing doctrines which oppose our cherished freedoms, and with many of the nations of the world scorning our kind of Republic, we shall have to keep on taking trouble to defend our way of life. This is true, even when we know that our Republic is the best and most prosperous anywhere in the history of civilization.

Defense of the Mind

We have called America the melting pot, the place where the cradle of liberty was first rocked, the refuge of all the persecuted of hundreds of brands of minorities. We have been a thrifty people, an active people, a people building a continent—all the while warding off tyrants from abroad and having a care at home for your freedoms and mine.

How is it, then, that we have been caught napping? Have we not, in times of confusion at home and abroad, allowed doctrines to creep in which would chain our minds and shackle our bodies as well? Distorting, misleading, boring from within, state socialism at home and abroad presents to us the kind of curse that tyranny has always been to free man. Inroads have been made on some sectors of the American mind.

Sagstuen Brothers Buy Store

Transactions were completed last week whereby Raymond and Louis Sagstuen became owners of Carlson's store here. The new owners are well known here, Raymond having owned and operated Cities' Service Oil Station here since returning from the army. He was, before that, employed at Carlson's. Louis has at various times been manager of Carlson's and is well qualified for such a position. The brothers are energetic young citizens of Holt, both owning homes here and the kind of people keeping up our community. There is no doubt of the success in their business venture. Watch for announcements of their formal opening day.

30 Years of Progress

Carlsons's store passing out of the hands of the Carlson family marks an epoch in the history of Holt as it has been owned by the Carlson family almost since the beginning of Holt. The community has been served faithfully these many years and Carlsons could be depended upon for quality and good service. Founders of the store were Arvid Carlson, who now lives in Middle River and A. L. Carlson at Argyle. These men had the fortitude to stick through thick and thin and carry on when early pioneer days were not pleasant for neither business man nor customer. Much could be said for the part any business establishment has in building a community.

Rail Quiz

What was the origin of the railway spike now in common use?

Spikes of various designs were used from the earliest period of railway development, but the hooked-head spike, used today throughout the world to fasten steel rails to crossties was designed in 1831 by Robert L. Stevens, the first president of the Camden and Amboy (now a part of the Pennsylvania) Railroad in New Jersey.

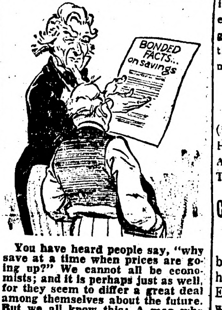
Uncle Sam Says



You have heard people say, "why save at a time when prices are going up?" We cannot all be economists; and it is perhaps just as well, for they seem to differ a great deal among themselves about the future. But we all know this: A man who saved a dollar 10 years ago is better off today than the man who didn't; and other things being equal, the man who saves a dollar today will be better off in 1957 than the man who doesn't.

United States Savings Bonds offer you the opportunity to save at a profit. Thus every $3 you lay away now will come back to you in 1957 with an extra dollar in interest. You don't have to be an economist to know a good thing when you see it.

Truman's Press Confabs Lack Color of FDR's

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

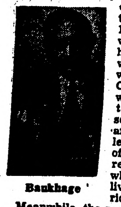
WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON. — President Truman held his 100th White House press and radio conference recently. He said he had enjoyed them all. The reporters, he said, had been fair; had reported the facts.

Thank you, Mr. President.

"How have I been?" he might have asked us, but didn't.

On the way back from the White House that windy 100th day, some of us discussed the question. That 100th conference was the first since his Florida trip which began when the Sacred Cow winged its way from the national airport, some 30 minutes after Mr. Truman left the chamber of the house of representatives where he had delivered his historic message.



Baukhage

Meanwhile, the new declaration of American policy had wakened thousands and thousands of words, spoken and printed in every nation and in almost every newspaper in the world. Diplomats, generals, statesmen, people big and little, had quaked or exulted. So we naturally looked for something very hot to write about as a result of our first White House conference thereafter. We didn't get it.

We did hear former Ambassador to Poland Arthur Bliss Lane's blast against Communism; we found out that the President was a left-handed bowler (he had just been presented with a bowling alley); we were assured that he was concerned about rising prices; we listened to him express the hope that industry would see "the handwriting on the wall" and stop an upward spiral which would bring forth renewed wage demands; we asked for but got "no comment" on a number of bills "in the works" because the President won't talk about "pending legislation"—and he applied the same rule to the Greek-Turkish affair.

We also were handed a good laugh out of comment on the famous faux pas made by Gael Sullivan, deputy chairman of the national Democratic committee while the President was away. Sullivan almost disrupted "bi-partisan foreign policy" by writing to the Republican national committee chairman and asking for a joint statement supporting the Truman plan on Greek aid.

When somebody asked if Sullivan was thinking of resigning there was considerable gaiety.

There were a number of other questions which elicited some minor stories but no screaming headlines of type that almost always appeared after a Roosevelt news conference.

We wondered why. Looking back over the hundred conferences with Mr. Truman, we agreed they had been pretty good. But of late, we agreed, it required a bit of digging to get the news. Roosevelt usually gave us something which, even if it wasn't news, had a strong human interest appeal. Even if it were only a striking simile like the one Roosevelt used in connection with lend-lease.

(You may remember, he said that if a neighbor's house was on fire, you naturally would lend him your hose if his weren't long enough, not only to help him save his home but also to keep your own from catching fire. And you wouldn't demand payment for its use. After the fire was out the neighbor would give back the hose or pay for it with whatever he had to offer in return.)

Even the anti-Roosevelt papers would have to report stories like that, whether they agreed with the idea behind them or not.

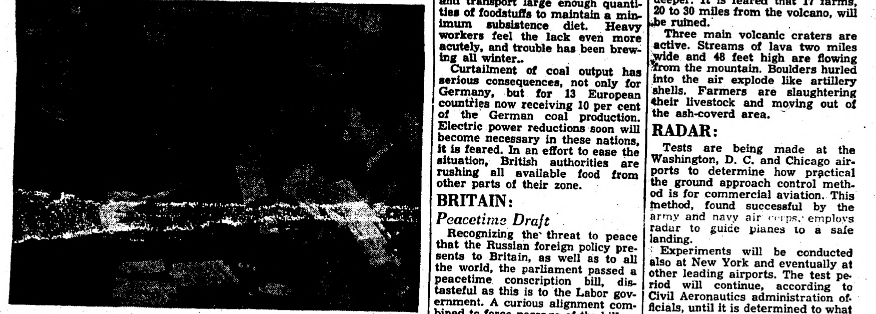
And if Roosevelt hadn't any specific comment on the important news of the day, he frequently would make use of a parable or give us a homily, which showed us how he was thinking on the subject, something that managed to get his ideas over and furnish us with the background we needed to interpret the daily happenings.

We talked the 100th press conference over, lamenting that nothing had come out of it which would clarify the Greek-Turkish aid program. We regretted that President Truman hadn't injected a little more of himself into the meeting. It would have been to the advantage of the news folk, the program itself, the people who were trying to get support for it.

Of course, there was reason for Mr. Truman's reticence. He had been criticized early in his administration for answering some questions too glibly. He had suffered from spontaneous replies. As a result he is now perhaps leaning a little too far backwards.

The White House press and radio conference is a great institution. It provides a medium for bringing the people and their government nearer together than any other medium which exists, except perhaps the rarer "fireside chat." Nothing like it exists anywhere else in the world. But it is not an easy thing to handle. The correspondents are there to get every scintilla of news which they think will interest their readers and listeners. The President is there to reveal only what he thinks is his duty to release in the public good. And he is also there to present his side of all questions so that his administration appears in the best light.

President Roosevelt was a past master at the art. He seldom refused to answer a question, for that just meant "no news." He preferred to feint and dodge in a manner that produced some kind of an answer which would suit his ends. President Truman has chosen to go into a clinch rather than feint or risk a wild haymaker.



Newspaper men and radio casters crowd eagerly about President Truman in one of his 100 press conferences.

Here's Point for Better Roads

Last year, some 34,677,000 tons of milk were hauled over rural roads on the journey to milk plants and dealers, according to a report from the Public Roads administration cited by Charles M. Upham of the American Road Builders' association.

Figures show the nation is using 13 billion pounds more of milk and various dairy products at present than in prewar years. During the prewar years, 1936 to 1940, the average yearly tonnage of milk going over rural roads was 21,287,000. In 1945, 101.5 billion pounds of milk were sold from farms, returning $3,070,380,000 to our farmers, a good percentage of their annual cash income.

The highway plays the major role in the transportation of milk from the farm to the plant or dealer—and to the customer, Upham points out. Forty-nine of our large cities receive every drop of milk by highway, as do 54,000 communities that depend upon the highway for their entire food supply.

NEWS REVIEW

German Miners Strike; British Draft Extended

GERMANY:

Strikes for Food

Coal miners in Germany's Ruhr area are striking for larger food rations for themselves and their families. This region is in the British zone. More than 300,000 miners have been off the job at various times in demonstrations against what they consider inadequate food allowances. Most of the Ruhr's 170 mines have been idle at some time or other during the past two weeks. The Ruhr is the heart of industrial Germany, containing coal and iron mines, steel mills and other heavy industries.

British authorities have been appealing, for the most part futilely, to the miners to remain on the job. The situation has been getting worse for some time, largely as a result of British inability to obtain and transport large enough quantities of foodstuffs to maintain a minimum subsistence diet. Heavy workers feel the lack even more acutely, and trouble has been brewing all winter.

Curtailment of coal output has serious consequences, not only for Germany, but for 13 European countries now receiving 10 per cent of the German coal production. Electric power reductions soon will become necessary in these nations, it is feared. In an effort to ease the situation, British authorities are rushing all available food from other parts of their zone.

BRITAIN:

Peacetime Draft

Recognizing the threat to peace that the Russian foreign policy presents to Britain, as well as to all the world, the parliament passed a peacetime conscription bill, distasteful as this is to the Labor government. A curious alignment combined to force passage of the bill as Conservatives joined with Laborites to vote the act through. There was embarrassment on both sides, for many of the Labor party members had voted against conscription at the beginning of the war. The Conservatives, led by Winston Churchill, reluctantly favored a bill sponsored by the party they ardently dislike. Liberals and certain pacifist Laborites voted "no" on bill. The national service bill extends the present conscription laws for five years beyond January 1, 1949. It provides for 18 months of active service for all men 18 to 26, and five and a half years of part-time service.

COAL MINES:

Closed as Dangerous

Five hundred and eighteen government-operated soft coal mines have been closed down as unsafe by Secretary of the Interior Krug. They will remain closed for an indefinite period, until inspections indicate that they are "reasonably safe." Representatives of miners' unions also will pass on the safety element in each mine.

About 40,000 miners are employed in the 518 dangerous mines. The greatest risk, Secretary Krug said, is from explosive gas and dust. The other 2,013 mines under federal control have reopened. It is estimated that coal output has been reduced about one-sixth by the closing order.

John L. Lewis, who was testifying before a house labor subcommittee when Secretary Krug issued the order, commented,

"I point out that Secretary Krug is doing now what he should have done ever since the safety code became effective. He's started to enforce his own code after 111 deaths."

ICELAND:

Ash Ruins Farms

Ashes from the furiously erupting Mount Hekla are ruining pastures in a large area around the cone, which is situated in southern Iceland. The volcanic dust is three inches thick, and constantly getting deeper. It is feared that 17 farms, 20 to 30 miles from the volcano, will be ruined.

Three main volcanic craters are active. Streams of lava two miles wide and 48 feet high are flowing from the mountain. Boulders hurled into the air explode like artillery shells. Farmers are slaughtering their livestock and moving out of the ash-coverd area.

RADAR:

Tests are being made at the Washington, D. C. and Chicago airports to determine how practical the ground approach control method is for commercial aviation. This method, found successful by the army and navy air corps, employs radar to guide planes to a safe landing.

Experiments will be conducted also at New York and eventually at other leading airports. The test period will continue, according to Civil Aeronautics administration officials, until it is determined to what extent radar could be used to supplement or substitute for instrument landings.

American Money Flows Abroad

WASHINGTON.—As evidence of the huge amounts of American money being poured into foreign countries, the commerce department estimates that residents of the United States sent $296,900,000 to friends and relatives in other countries during 1946. In addition, gift parcels valued at $125,500,000 were sent abroad last year.

The actual money sent was $10,500,000 more than in 1945 and $100,000,000 more than in 1944, the department said.

Nearly half of the 1946 money, or $143,800,000, went to Europe, while $86,500,000 went to people in Canada, Mexico and Latin America; $1,900,000 to Africa; $60,000,000 to Asia, and $4,700,000 to Australia and other Pacific ocean islands.

Among individual countries, Mexico got the largest sum, $44,000,000. Much of this represented money earned in this country by Mexican workers—largely engaged in farm work—and sent home to their families.

Other large sums went out as follows:

Italy, $26,000,000; China, $20,000,000; Hongkong, $24,600,000; Great Britain and Northern Ireland, $17,400,000; Bermuda and other British dependencies in the Caribbean, $12,200,000; Canada, $11,700,000.

Persons in Greece, for which congress now is considering loan aid, got $11,000,000 from people in this country. The sum of $10,300,000 went to Switzerland, $10,700,000 to Sweden, $10,300,000 to Spain and $4,300,000 to Palestine.

United States residents sent $600,000 to Russia and the same amount to Egypt, the smallest sums recorded for any place listed in the report.

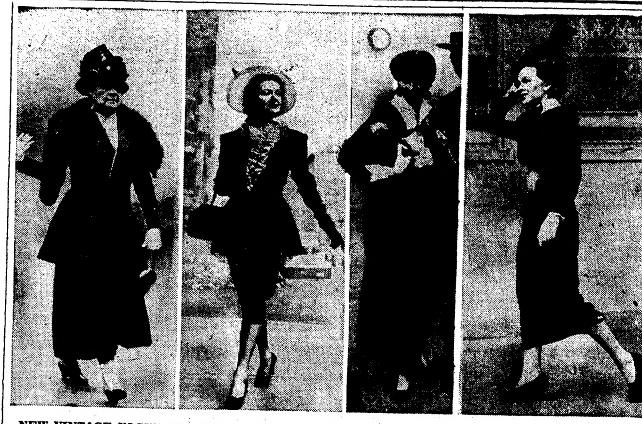
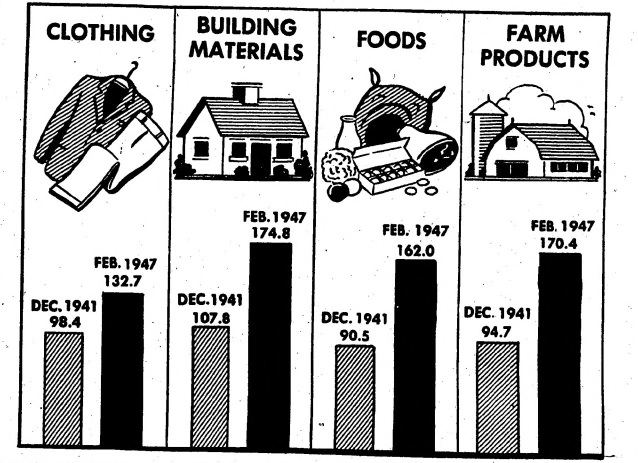
DOAN'S PILLS

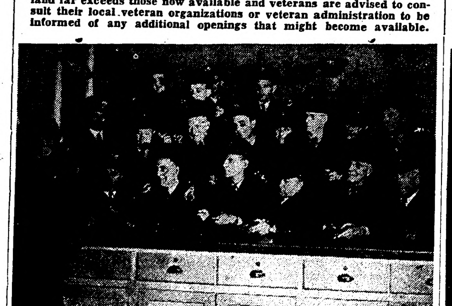


NEW VINTAGE VOGUE IN OLD BOTTLES . . . A thing is new to you merely because you haven't seen or heard it before. That is why the "unseen audience" laughs at the jokes of radio comedians, women's hats or dresses. Were milady old enough to have watched the parades of yesteryears, in the "gay nineties" she would be astounded at the resemblance that her "dernierl cri" of a ducky costume bears to the creations worn in her grandmother's day. Can you pick out the new designs?

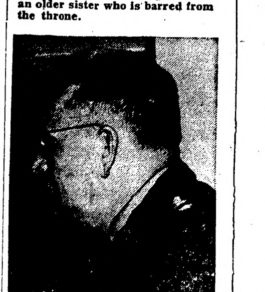


MORE HOMESTEADS FOR VETERANS . . . Opening of 43 irrigated farm units in the Minidoka area of southeastern Idaho for homesteading by World War II veterans has been announced by the bureau of reclamation. Photo shows two veterans who already have proved that such land can break all records for high-yielding crops. Veterans will receive two buildings without charge from the War Relocation authority evacuation camp in the area. This is not the first time that homestead land in the Pacific Northwest has been opened to veterans. Other land will be opened in the future. The demand for homestead land far exceeds those now available and veterans are advised to consult their local veteran organizations or veteran administration to be informed of any additional openings that might become available.

CROWN PRINCE AND MOTHER . . . Prince Constantine of Greece, who became the crown prince at the age of five. He is shown with his mother as they review a military parade. The crown prince has an older sister who is barred from the throne.



FIRE WATERFRONT GUARDS . . . The ranks of San Francisco's waterfront customs guards were slashed from a total of 76 men to a scant 11 as a result of recent cuts by congress of funds allocated to the treasury department. Photo shows a group turning in badges and pistols. Gov. Earl Warren, California, sent a message to California senators protesting the action, terming it "false economy."



AS DRAFT ENDS . . . Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service head, is shown checking office records. Records will be filed in state capitals. General Hershey must end work in one year.

A defective drainboard at the sink can be repaired by sawing a narrow channel in the front face of the board and inserting a thin strip of sheet copper or lead in the groove. Then bend it over the sink. Use brass screws. They do not rust.

He Worked His Way

Young men wondering how to get a start in life can find a tip in the life story of William K. Jackson, new president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

He worked his way through the University of Florida. Then, at 17, he became recording clerk of the Florida House of Representatives, studied stenography on the side and found a job in a Jacksonville law firm at $45 a month. From this salary he saved enough to go to the Virginia Law School and, with more work on the side to earn money, was graduated.

Law practice eventually carried him to the post of general counsel and vice-president of the United Fruit Company.

To All Our Customers:

We deeply regret the inconvenience caused you by the interruption of service as a result of the severe storm which struck on April 5tn, and we want you to know that we greatly appreciate your patience and consideration.

This devastatng storm was one of the worst of its kind in our history. Mile after mile of transmission line was flattened under the crushing force of the sleet, snow and wind. (Over 500 poles were broken in the storm.

Every man, every device, every piece of equipment that could be secured and utilized was thrown into the effort of restoring service — even planes were used in locating line breaks and relaying messages.

The already soft roads became virtually impassable, and heavy trucks had to be pulled by caterpillar tractors in order to reach the stricken areas. The men themselves had to work in knee-deep slush and snow, and with rain falling a good part of the time, it further hampered their efforts. This, together with lack of telephone communication made the restoration work a herculean task, and too much credit cannot be given the men for their heroic efforts under most trying conditions.

Thank you again for your patience and understanding.

COVER CROPS HELP MIDWEST WIN WAR ON SOIL EROSION

CHICAGO.—Cover crops as a weapon for winning the battle of soil erosion are being used at a rate that has increased the area planted to legumes by 9,700,000 acres in seven midwestern states in the past 20 years, according to a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"Farmers know that in legumes they have crops that will deposit nitrogen in the soil and add to its supply of organic matter. They are coming to realize, however, that legumes must be reinforced by intelligent soil management such as the use of fertilizers high in phosphorus and potash.

"Legumes require a good diet of phosphorus and potash. If this diet is not provided by fertilization, the legume crops may use up the soil's supply of these two plant foods."

A Great Bunch —Those Ex-G.I.'s

Willie Wells and a bunch of the boys from our town went to Pound Ridge Saturday to a reunion of their old regiment.

There were about two hundred and fifty boys who came from miles around to a good old feast in Farmer Collins' barn. I expect they seemed a lot different to each other out of uniform. But they had a great time, spinning yarns, drinking beer, and talking over the old times in South Africa and Italy and the Aleutians.

I went over to cover the meeting for the Clarion, and one thing that sure impressed me was the good behavior of those boys—their preference for a moderate beverage like beer—their friendly spirit.

From where I sit, our ex-G.I.'s are making as good a showing in peacetime as they made during the war. And they're setting a mighty good example to the rest of us—in tolerance, and moderation, and good fellowship.

The Exploiters?

There is a widely accepted belief that American workers have been exploited by employers. This popular conception holds that the increases in labor's wages and welfare are only the direct result of exerting pressure on these employers. Meaning, pressure in the form of banding together into unions and armed with strikes and walkouts. To a degree, these means have bettered the lot of American workers. Circumstances have forced paths of action.

In some cases, inconsiderate employers have worked hardships upon employees. In all fields of endeavor there are persons and groups oblivious of anything save their own interests. Often these few must be budged from their positions. It would be folly to say that workers' rights never need protection. But likewise foolish to draw a hard and fast dividing line representing employers as exploiters and unions as benefactors.

Wage Paradox

One fact whieh forms the keystone of the "exploitation" thought trend is the huge increases in wages of labor during the past 25 years. Union groups point to this as the hard-won booty of a continuous war with a greedy employer army. True, wages during this period have skyrocketed to levels unthought of in 1919. But, surprisingly enough, there has been no increase in labor's share from the income of industry during this period.

Actually, the share of labor out of the income of industry has not risen or fallen measurably during that time. It has been steady regardless of the ups and downs of unions. In 1909 among manufacturing industries 9% of the employees were unionized. In 1945 the total was 45%. However, during this period the wage earners' portion of the gross value of manufactured products remained almost stationary — about 16%.

Production Regulates

Production makes the difference. Workers were wretchedly paid a century ago. They were paid, however, in the same proportion to what they produced as our workers today. Production per man hour increased greatly in the last century. The workman's pay jumped. This increase came about through investment by American people in those factors which would raise production. Superior plants and better tools were set up for a larger production and higher income. Some of the most important factors that bettered labor's position were contributed by the employers and investors—the so-called "exploiters."

In a free competitive market, business survival depends upon efficient production by using more and better tools. It is not hard to recognize the high wages of America's workmen today as the logical offspring of a society which encourages competition and individual initiative.

By continuing to give business initiative the go-ahead signal, we're setting the stage for greater gains and benefits to labor. By permitting too much power to fall into the hands of irresponsible union groups and government bureaus, we are defeating our own purposes. Brains, perspiration, and initiative given free rein in a democratic society represent the only real approach to a workable Utopia.

Forest Air Cleaner

Forest air is much more free from bacteria of all kinds than is the air just outside the forest. According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, there are generally 23 to 28 per cent fewer bacteria in the forest air, since the foliage acts as a kind of filter, retaining dust and other particles in the air. The bacteria on the leaves are then readily killed by exposure to the sun.

Spring Burning Harmful

Even though burning that dry grass and brush may be very tempting, don't set a match to your pasture, farm yard, or woodlot this spring. That's the warning County Agent Forbes sounded to Marshall Conty farmers and townspeople today.

Spring burning will do more harm than good and will endanger life as well as property, Forbes says.

Instead of killing weeds, burning helps them germinate more readily, according to Raymond J. Wood, extension forester at the University Farm. The extra heat provided by the fire is often enough to germinate many hard coated weed seeds.

Even more serious, burning robs the soil of humus, nitrogen, and many minerals so essential to plant growth and soil improvement.

According to stndies made by soil conservationist, burning blue grass pasture often reduces yield 50 to 70 per cent and increases water runoff and erosion over 500 per cent.

From the forester's point of view there is little to be said for burning grass or brush, Wood declares. Forests may be destroyed, buildings burned and protective covering for game removed. Every grass fire upsets, damages or destroys some part of our natural resources.

Business Sees Need Of Income Tax Cut

Economy moves in Congress have raised business hopes for income tax cuts to spur capital investment in new enterprise.

Debate in and out of Congress on Federal spending has brought strong outcry against continuation of high war-time income tax rates. Business spokesmen contend these high rates defeat the purpose of raising revenue by stifling incentive for enterprise.

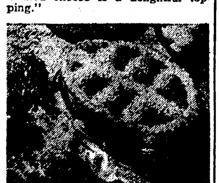
The Committee on Federal Finance of the United States Chamber of Commerce holds the present income tax structure bars "progress, thrift and prosperity" and restricts revenue yield.

The Chamber has urged application of part of the budget economies voted in Congress toward reduction in income tax rates, as a stimulus to business initiative.

Salmon-Tomato Pie Has Taste Appeal

There's true flavor teamwork when salmon and tomatoes are combined in a pie shell, writes Marjorie Griffin, Rural Home editor of nationally - circulated Capper's Farmer.

"If you are short on time, dispense with the crust," she advises homemakers in the magazine read by 1,300,000 farm families. "Just have a fish and vegetable casserole. Grated cheese is a delightful topping."



TOMATO-SALMON PIE

3 tbsp. chopped onion
¼ c. chopped green pepper
¼ c. margarine
2½ c. canned tomatoes
3 tbsp. flour
¾ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
2 tsp. sugar
1 1-lb. can salmon
grated cheese
1 unbaked pie crust

Saute onion and green pepper in margarine. Add the tomatoes, flour, seasonings and sugar. Cook about 15 minutes. Fit pie crust into baking dish; spread salmon over top of it. Cover with the tomato sauce. Bake at 400° F. for 20 to 25 minutes.

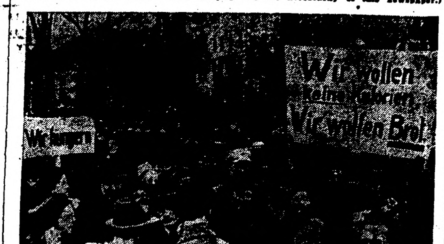
—WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS—

Tornado Kills 120, Hurts 1,000; Lilienthal Confirmed, 50-31; House Gets 'Tough' Labor Bill

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



German workers in the British zone have been growing increasingly restive because of small food rations. Numerous strikes, particularly in the coal mines and steel plants, have resulted from what the Germans call starvation allowances. This picture shows part of huge crowd that gathered in the main street of Dusseldorf in a protest meeting. Signs read, "We Hunger" and "We Don't Want Calories, We Want Bread."

LABOR BILL:

Plenty of 'Teeth'

A strike control bill that would rigorously restrict labor unions in many ways has been approved by the house Republican steering committee. Its most drastic provision, perhaps, is a clause authorizing the federal government to obtain injunctions for a 75-day period in industries which affect public health or safety. This apparently would cover the telephone and other communication industries, coal mining, electric light and power companies, railroads and possibly several other fields.

The bill was prepared under direction of Chairman Hartley (Rep., N. J.) of the house labor committee. He told newsmen he hoped that the bill would pass the house within a week. It probably faces a struggle in the senate, observers believe.

The injunction feature is designed to give the government a stronger weapon against strikes imperiling public safety and welfare. The attorney-general would be empowered to seek a restraining order in federal courts which would require a 75-day "cooling off" period. During this "no-strike" time, government conciliators would attempt to settle the dispute.

Other provisions would outlaw industry-wide bargaining and ban the closed shop. Unions would be required to keep dues low and to elect officials regularly by secret ballot. Communist-dominated unions would lose the recognition of the National Labor Relations board. Unfair labor practices would be investigated and prosecuted by a new agency—the Office of Administration of the National Labor Relations Act.

LILIENTHAL:

Confirmed at Last

After 11 weeks of argument and vituperation, the senate has confirmed David Lilienthal as chairman of the Atomic Energy commission. The vote was 50 to 31. Lilienthal was appointed to the powerful position by the President last October.

David E. Lilienthal

Lilienthal, in a terse victory statement, said, "The important thing now is to get on with this job."

"This job" means supervision of all atomic energy plants and materials in the country, all of which are now government-owned. It also means almost complete authority over all research and development work in the field. The President's budget provided half a billion dollars for the commission's work.

Third of Workers Are Women

The 16 million working women in the country today represent 28 per cent of all employed persons, the women's bureau of the department of labor says, and adds that "historically determined social and economic factors" have led to women getting increasingly important positions.

During the war the number of women employed represented a third of the total labor force in the country, while before the war it numbered a fourth.

TORNADO:

Sweeps Panhandle

At least 120 persons were killed and 1,000 injured by a tornado that ripped across five counties of the Texas-Oklahoma Panhandle country. A third of the buildings in Woodward, Okla., were flattened. Only one structure remained in Glazier, Tex. Higgins, another Texas town, was leveled except for three brick business buildings.

Furious wind and "hailstones like golfballs" accompanied the twister. It first was sighted at White Deer, Tex., where it blew a house from its foundations and injured three persons. Then it moved northeastward, parrallel to the Sante Fe tracks, on which it derailed a freight train. Last town struck was Gage, in Oklahoma.

The Red Cross rushed doctors and nurses, equipped with bedding, food and blood plasma into the area. The department of public safety of Texas used its two-way radio to replace disrupted communications. All seriously injured patients were sent to Oklahoma City.

RAIL ACCIDENTS:

Daily Occurrence

Derailment of the Santa Fe's Super Chief in northern New Mexico, with injuries to 25 passengers but no fatalities, rounded out a week of railroad accidents reminiscent of the early days of railroading.

The Super Chief, one of the nation's most famous streamlined luxury trains, left the track near Raton, N. M., while traveling at high speed. The three-unit diesel locomotive broke loose and came to rest with its nose on the trestle of a dry river bed. The train was eastbound from Los Angeles.

Other accidents within a week:

April 3, Burlington's Twin City Zephyr derailed in Downers Grove, Ill.; three killed, 35 injured.

April 4, engine of Rock Island Rocket derailed near Linwood, Kas.; engineer injured.

April 5, Milwaukee road switch engine fell off bridge near Ottumwa, Iowa; crew narrowly escaped drowning in swollen Des Moines river.

April 6, Union Pacific's City of Portland collided with a freight near Granger, Wyo.; 11 injured.

April 7, Pennsylvania's Gotham Limited jumped track outside Columbia City, Ind.; 40 injured.

April 8, Pennsylvania's Manhattan Limited derailed; passengers shaken up.

FRANCE:

Trouble in Colonies

Rioting and revolts in various parts of the French empire have prompted the French cabinet to strengthen the army. To this end President Auriol has called up conscripts of the 1947 class on May 15, several months early.

An uprising in Algeria has brought promises of reforms. Interior Minister Depreux has gone to the North Africa country to make swift changes to pacify the rebellious Kabyle tribes and to quiet general unrest.

War Minister Paul Coste-Floret has demanded additional troop reinforcements to cope with trouble spots in Indo-China, Madagascar, Algeria, Morocco and several African protectorates.

See Recession Coming

A recession is almost certain to come during the summer, most economists agree. This downturn in business activity can be mild or severe, but few expect it to be a long or serious setback. Many look upon it as a healthy corrective reaction. Prices would fall somewhat, there would be some losses and unemployment, but there need be no grave misfortune.

ATOM BOMB SECRET:

Safe for 8 Years?

Semi-official war department view is that the United States will possess the secret of mass production of atom bombs for at least eight years. There is no short cut method of manufacturing fissionable material, according to these officers. Best estimates are that it will take foreign nations several years to make one successful bomb.

"For a number of years, perhaps as many as 8 to 15, only the United States will possess atomic bombs in significant quantities. After this period, other nations will possess atomic bombs in significant quantities," reads a joint statement. All this presupposes that no international control agreement is in effect, it is pointed out.

The navy, in a summation called "authentic but not official," states;

1—Rockets with atomic war heads capable of thousands of miles of range are not to be expected for another 25 years.

2—The present strength and type of navy is needed for the next 10 years.

3—Dockyards and repair bases are most vulnerable and should be spread out more.

4—Ship structures should be strengthened to withstand the force of atomic explosions.

5—Advance bases should be built far from our shores to detect and intercept a surprise bomb attack.

6—Ships should be able to stay at sea from four to six months at a time.

Sees for First Time

Miracle of surgery has given sight to 3-year-old Elizabeth Mae Klein, born blind. She now can see partially and is eagerly catching up on her reading of colored picture books at her home in San Francisco. Joe Wilson, a veteran who befriended the family, helped her to obtain medical aid.

JEWISH FARMERS:

Succeed in U. S.

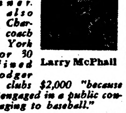
Refugee Jews who have settled on farms in the United States have become satisfactory farmers in most cases, according to a report by the Jewish Agriculture society. Of 502 families placed on farms in recent years, 429 are still there. They have repaid $485,000 of the $686,000 they borrowed from the society.

Most of these refugees settled in the East, but others have become farm owners in Illinois, Michigan and California. Two hundred Jewish families are living in Petaluma, Calif., engaged in poultry-raising. Another group operate an 800-acre peach and plum orchard.

The society was founded by Baron Maurice de Hirsch.

Chandler Gets Tough; Suspends Durocher

In one of the most severe crackdowns in baseball history, Commissioner A. B. Chandler suspended Leo (Lippy) Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, for the 1947 season. That means that Durocher cannot engage in organized baseball in any manner. Chandler also suspended Charlie Dressen, coach of the New York Yankees, for 30 days, and fined both the Dodger and Yankee clubs $2,000 "because their officials engaged in a public controversy damaging to baseball."



Larry McPhail

The case grew out of a charge by Larry McPhail, general manager of the Yankees, that Durocher and Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers, had defamed his character.

Chandler in his statement declared that the suspension was ordered "as a result of the accumulated unpleasant incidents in which he (Durocher) has been involved."

SMALLPOX:

New York City Hit

Four positive cases of smallpox have been diagnosed in New York City and others are suspected, causing a flurry among health authorities. This is the first outbreak of the dread disease in the metropolis since 1939. Many New Yorkers are being vaccinated as a precautionary measure.

An out-of-town business man who died in a New York hospital March 10 is blamed for bringing the disease into the city.

Crying Inside

The French artist Degas struggled along for many years, receiving only a pittance for his paintings. At one time, when in desperate straits, he sold several of his canvases to an art dealer for a few francs apiece. Two weeks later, the dealer met him.

"I have the most wonderful news for you," he exclaimed, "I sold your painting for 20,000 francs each!"

Degas accepted the information without enthusiasm.

"What's the matter?" asked the dealer. "Doesn't this make you feel happy?"

"I feel," replied Degas, "like a racehorse who has won a race for the bookmakers."

Kidneys Must Work Well—
For You To Feel Well
24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.
Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

'Don't Shoot'

Although it is generally believed that the expression, "Don't shoot until you see the whites of their eyes," or "don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes," was original with Putnam or Prescott at Bunker Hill, as a matter of fact it dates back many centuries in military history and is known to have been in use in military terminology as early as the reign of Henry IV of France who died in 1610.

Ohio Water Cover

Rain and snow provide Ohio with an annual average of 38 inches of water over each foot of surface. Since weather records have been kept, the most water precipitated in Ohio in one year was 50.4 inches in 1890; and the least amount was 26.6 inches in 1934, when the deficiency compelled farmers in many areas to haul water for livestock, and to see their crops wither.

Multiplied on Fingers

People of the middle ages avoided learning the entire multiplication table by developing a simple method of multiplying on their fingers, which is still used in some parts of the world.

"As Homelike As a Barn"

Cy Hartman finally got his new barn painted, but plenty of folks had a hand in it. Whenever someone got a free day, or a little extra time, they'd come over and help out with paint and brush.

And Cy, to show his appreciation, held a big "barn warming" Saturday—for all the folks who'd helped him (but not barring those who couldn't). Ma Hartman supplied sandwiches, and Cy rolled out a mellow keg of beer.

You'd never think of a barn as "homelike." But with those lanterns hanging from the rafters; makeshift tables spread heavy with food; and Ed Carey's fiddle playing while the folks enjoyed their beer—Cy's barn was sure a mighty, hospitable-looking place!

From where I sit, it's just about as appropriate to have a barn warming as a housewarming . . . if only because it's another chance to get neighbors together in a spirit of good fellowship.

Faster-Heating Pan

A pan with a flat bottom and a dull finish heats faster; dull finishes absorb heat, while shiny ones reflect it. A flat, reinforced edge around the rim strengthens it and makes for easier cleaning.

Magnetic Brake

A small electric motor traveling at 16,000 revolutions a minute, can be halted in six turns by magnetic brake. This is equivalent to stopping an auto, speeding 60 miles an hour, in less than three feet.

Laying Hens

The number of eggs laid by hens during their second year of production is about 80 per cent of the number laid during the pullet year.

Ream Grapefruit

You can squeeze large grapefruit on an ordinary orange juice reamer if you cut the fruit in half lengthwise (rather than cross wise), halve again, squeeze each quarter on reamer, pressing cut side against point of juicer. Smaller grapefruit can be cut in halves like oranges, juiced on regular reamer.

New Road Safety Rules

Several new traffic safety rules went into effect with the passage ann approval of the amended highway traffic act last week. Motorists, pedestrians, bicyclists and farm implement operators will enhance their own and others safety if they learn and observe the new rules.

Pedestrians are now forbidden to enter any roadway or street against the red or "Stop" signal, where such signals are used. The old law, which allowed some discretion, had been ineffective.

Signals to indicate stops or turns will conform to the rule in force in most other states. When hand signals are used, they must be given in this manner:

Left turn - - hand and arm extended horizontally.

Right turn - - hand and arm extended upward.

Stop or decrease speed - - hand and arm extended downward

All animal drawn vehicles, farm tractors and implements on public roads at night must have one or more white lights in front and a red lamp or lantern in rear. Approved reflectors, white in front and red in rear, may be used in lieu of lamps. Under the old law one white light visible front and rear was suffient.

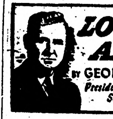
Bicycles using public roads or streets are granted all privileges and made subject to all duties applicable to vehicle drivers, except those which by their nature cannot apply. This means that they must keep to the right, observe stop signs and so on. Bicyclists are forbidded to carry extra passengers, to hitch to streer cars or other vehicles, to ride more than two abreast, to to ride on sidewalks in business districts, or to ride except astride a regular seat. Bicycles must have white front lights and red rear reflectors, bnt a red rear light may be added.

Dissolving Soap

Bar soap will dissolve more quickly if it is shaved, grated or pulverized before it's used.

Energy Source

Coal provides 70 per cent of all the energy produced in America. Natural oil and natural gas provide 25 per cent and water power accounts for only 5 per cent.



LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON

President—Harding College Searcy, Arkansas

Why Argue?

Ever since V-J Day, which most Americans look upon as the end of World War II, we have all recognized a high clamor of communistic propaganda. With sound reasoning, a great many well-meaning people have tried to oppose it on the street corners, to no avail. It is like arguing with a headline in yesterday's newspaper. To be really effective, our opposition must go deeper, much deeper.

There are not many things that I like less or fear more than concentration of political power, government by men rather than by law, and official favoritism for individuals and cliques; and I'm not alone. I am convinced that an overwhelming majority of Americans feel the same way. Consequently I hope these few remarks may improve the measure of protection for us all.

Time for Action

Wordy arguments never contribute much to the world's progress or to any people's store of knowledge. In fact, taking a stand in opposition to another man's harangue serves without fail to dignify the harangue and call attention to it. Debating a false philosophy always helps it and, unless opposition is well handled, there's a danger of giving more help than hindrance.

The propaganda machine we hear so plainly has been chattering away for two decades. Promotions, good and evil, ride on the wings of news, and news is necessary. Publishers, columnists and radio commentators chronicle real happenings, day by day. Don't blame them. They perform an essential public service.

Find the Source

Of course there must be a few publishers who are unpatriotic, and writers who would stir up a revolution if they could, but these are not the nation's chief danger. When news is really poisoned, the job is done by those who make news, not those who print and broadcast it. Let us know the truth because the truth will make us free; free from our political enemies as well as other kinds.

Journalists tell me that news articles have value (i.e. deserve prominence) in proportion to the number of people interested. Thus persons in positions of power make news because a lot of people are interested in what these men think and say and do. If the rulings they decree or the opinions they express seem socialistic, there's nothing honorable for news men to do but tell the people. It's their country.

Starve It Out

Radical propaganda undoubtedly does this nation damage. I believe a big majority of Americans are wholesome people, love their country and understand what makes it the world's best place to live and most influential power. Just the same, poisoned news gains converts. And so long as men in power wish to gain more power, the campaign for collectivism will be carried on.

At its source is the best place to quiet the voice of socialist promotion. Men who hanker to boss the schools, control hospitals, limit production and eternally fix prices ought to be put where their every word and deed does not make news—out of power. There is a sure way: Stop the flow of revenue out of the Treasury into the hands of such appointed "rulers." That will start immediately and effectively to solve the problem of collectivist propaganda.

Minnesota's 71st Arbor Day

Governor Luther W. Youngdahl's proclamation setting the week of May 5 to 11 as Conservation Week and May 9 as Arbor and Bird Day marks the seventy-first year Minnesota governors have asked Minnesota citizens to recognize the importance of the state's natural resources.

Arbor and Bird day was started in Nebraska in 1872 and this year's observance is the 75th anniversary of its start, with almost every state in the union joining. The date of Arbor and Bird day varies throughout the nation, southern and eastern states having days in April which coinicide with the earlier spring. Northern states, Minnesota included, have a day during the first two weeks in May, when spring ground conditions permit successful tree planting.

Minnesota was the fourth state to adopt the Arbor and Bird day with the first proclamation signed by Governor John S. Pillsbury in 1876. Conservation Week was started as Forestry and Fire Prevention week by several eastern states shortly after the turn of the century and adopted by Minnesota in the late twenties. Its name was changed to Conservation Week and has been observed each year since 1932. It is set to include Arbor and Bird day on Friday of the week.

Special programs for schools and adult organizations and tree planting ceremonies are traditional methods of observing Arbor and Bird day and Conservation week.

Holt Merc Had Big Opening Day

One of the biggest crowds Holt has seen for a long time turned out Mouday to visit the formal opening of the Holt Mercantile Company. Although Monday was the biggest day, there has been a steady flow of customers every day this week taking advantage of the bargains offered there. The specials are still on and new supplies of groceries have been coming in so you can still get in on some of it if you hurry.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Explosion Kills Hundreds; New Trouble in Palestine; Moscow Meeting a Failure

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Thick black smoke gushed from burning chemicals in the Monsanto Chemical company plant in Texas City, Texas, one of the first factories to be demolished by explosion and fire in the devastated city.

TEXAS CITY BLAST:

Chaos Prevails

The explosion of the French freighter Grandcamp in a slip in Galveston bay, Texas City, Tex., was followed in rather fast order by explosion of the freighter High Flyer, as well as other explosions. Both ships were laden with tons of ammonium nitrate.

It may be weeks before any reliable facts can be secured—even as to the origin of the first blast. Hundreds lost their lives, the injured may reach thousands and property damage of millions is certain. The loss to the Monsanto Chemical plant, in immediate vicinity of the initial explosion of the French vessel, will reach 20 million dollars.

Prompt assistance by state officials, federal authorities and Red Cross units as well as Houston, Galveston and other Texas firefighters and police, the cooperation of air lines, railroads and doctors, nurses and ambulance workers, prevented the loss in life from reaching several hundred more.

A few hours after the first blast Texas City was the scene of chaos. Ten fires sprang up within a few hours. The concussion wrecked buildings in the center of town, and fires completed the destruction of many sections of the industrial city. The residential section was about the only section not leveled. Homes and buildings in Houston, Galveston and other cities were thrown open to the evacuees, who wandered around in a daze. The shock was felt 10 miles away and the fires could be seen for 100 miles. Even airplanes exploded in the air. One report was that a bus-load of children had disappeared, in explosion or lost in mad scramble to evacuate the city. Gas masks were rushed to the workers who remained in the city to recover the wounded and dead. The danger from escaping gas was extremely serious.

PALESTINE:

Reprisals Expected

Underground organizations have threatened reprisals for the hanging of four of their number as terrorists. Some four hundred thousand Jews are under house arrest in Tel Aviv, Jerusalem and Haifa. They are forced to remain indoors during the curfew period unless they have special permits. The Irgun Zvai Leumi organization has promised to hang 10 British for every Jew executed.

British military authorities are bracing themselves for trouble that is bound to come when the curfew is lifted. Jewish moderates are caught between the British mandated government, which they consider illegal, and the underground terrorist "government," also illegal.

The executions, performed secretly and ahead of schedule, fanned smouldering bitterness, following incidents on a refugee ship at Haifa, into flames. Only prompt imposition of the curfew and other stringent repressive measures have prevented riotous outbreaks, British authorities said.

Fly-Killing Wallpaper

Flies, mosquitos and other insects die soon after they come in contact with a new DDT-impregnated wallpaper. The insecticide is mixed into the ink in which the design is printed. Effectiveness lasts for two years.

Research chemists spent 27 months developing the insect-killing wallpaper, and another 17 in exhaustive tests.

Atomic Control Possible Now

Article 51 of the United Nations charter provides a basis for possible compromise on an atomic energy control plan which bypasses the veto problem.

"If it could be agreed that illicit production or storing of fissionable materials constitutes evidence of intent to commit armed attack, then nations could automatically, once a violation had been certified, proceed to take enforcement action without waiting for explicit Security Council approval," points out Dr. Fox.

MOSCOW:

No Agreement

The conference between U. S. Secretary of State Marshall and Premier Stalin has achieved little or nothing, in the opinion of American diplomats in Moscow. The deadlock between Russian and United States delegations in the Council of Foreign Ministers seems no nearer to solution. Basic disagreements on the German peace treaty are too great, it is thought, for any easy or rapid agreement.

This pessimistic view does not exclude the possibility that some minor concessions may be made by the Russians for propaganda purposes. It is not believed likely, however, that anything important will be achieved at this session. Hope that the Austrian treaty would be completed has pretty well faded.

Main stumbling block in all the treaty negotiations is the Russian demand for huge reparations. If the Russians would retreat somewhat from their position, some arrangement might be worked out, it is admitted.

While there is considerable justification for calling this conference a failure, American diplomats point out that certain fundamental issues have been aired, and that Secretary Marshall has had an opportunity to present American policy to Russia and the world.

JAPAN:

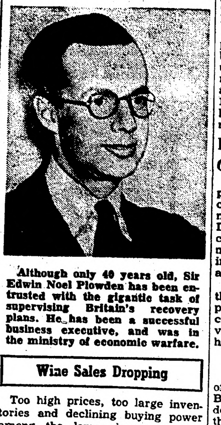
War Dead, 2 Million

Official reports on Japanese military losses place the dead at more than two million. This is exclusive of 675,000 civilians killed on the home islands. Release of the figures comes as a shock to the Japs, who had no idea casualties would run so high.

A standard reference work gives 468,855 as the number killed in battle, scarcely a fourth of what now is considered the true toll. Jap army statistics admitted that 752,129 were killed. To this must be added an estimated 608,700 long missing, who are presumably dead, making the army's true loss 1,360,829 men. This later figure is more than 30 per cent of the 4,418,971 men sent abroad. Nearly 300,000 more died in eight years of sporadic fighting in China.

Naval casualties account for the remainder of the two million dead. The total is set at 413,750, all but 5,000 of whom were killed by American forces.

Youthful Leader



Although only 40 years old, Sir Edwin Noel Plowden has been entrusted with the gigantic task of supervising Britain's recovery plans. He has been a successful business executive, and was in the ministry of economic warfare.

Wine Sales Dropping

Too high prices, too large inventories and declining buying power among the lower income groups have combined to cause a decided slump in retail wine sales, dealers say. From 15 to 75 per cent less wine is being bought in 12 representative cities. The price is the main objection, dealers admit. Those who used to pay $1.50 a quart now refuse to pay more than 80 cents.

HIGHER PRICES:

Sloan Says So

Still higher prices are coming soon, according to one of the top-flight business executives of the country—Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of General Motors corporation. In a speech before the Economic club of New York, Sloan blamed demands of union laborers for wage increases.

"It is clear a new national wage pattern is being formed, he said, and that business cannot meet higher wages and make price reductions at the same time. He admitted that lowering of prices is a "badly needed" change. Any enterprise that can absorb wage boosts without raising prices should do so, he advocated, but he added that few could do so. Burdensome taxes also prevent substantial price reductions, he said.

It is the price level of farm produce, not of manufactured goods, that is most out of line, Sloan declared. In all likelihood, he predicted, consumer resistance to high price in the perishable goods lines, particularly foods, will bring "a more or less serious decline in general business volume before final adjustment is made."

CHINA:

New Premier

T. V. Soong's successor as premier of China is Gen. Chang Chun. On taking office he promised to continue his strong anti-Communist line, and to work toward development of the country by peaceful industrialization.

He has been active on two committees seeking to end the civil war. Besides his military duties, he was governor of Szechwan province. Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, virtual dictator of China, has been grooming General Chang for at least a year for the high post he now holds.

The change of premiers has been expected for some time. Some factions have been demanding Soong's removal since the government-Communist truce. They claim Soong was partially responsible for failure of the treaty.

Made in U. S. A.

Germans who were prisoners of war in the United States bought all the American goods they could with their earnings, and had them shipped home when they returned to Germany last November. Pictured is Fritz Grom with a package he has just received. Purchases included bicycles, automobile tires and musical instruments, all real treasures in goods-hungry Germany.

ONIONS:

Sets Rot in Fields

Too high prices for onion sets are threatening the crop throughout the nation, according to members of the Tri-state Onion Set exchange. This cooperative sales organization handles business for nearly 90 per cent of the country's onion set raisers. Its members live in Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana.

The cooperative fixes the market price, which at present is $1.90 per bushel, up 40 cents from the January 15 figure. This price, say set raisers, is out of line with demand, and the business is all going to the 10 per cent of raisers who do not belong to the cooperative, and can make their own deals.

DEWEY IN '48:

GOPs Favor Him

A poll among members of the Republican national committee, state committee chairmen and vice chairmen reveals that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York is most popular choice as presidential candidate next year. Sen. Robert Taft came in second, Harold Stassen, third, and Senator Vandenberg, fourth.

The poll, which was conducted by the Chicago Daily News, was compared with votes at the Republican convention in 1944. Dewey is favored now in the same sections that he was then.

Baruch Urges 44-Hour Week

A five and a half day work week of 44 hours is advocated by Bernard Baruch, famous advisor to Presidents. He said in a recent speech that the world can "only get going if men work. If we expect to accept the challenge to preserve civilization, it means greater effort than we exerted during the war."

Besides the longer work week, Baruch urged that there be no strikes nor layoffs before January 1, 1949, in order to increase production.

The Grand bazaar in Istanbul, Turkey, is believed to house the largest assemblage of independent merchants in existence. Surrounded by a high wall and covered by a roof, this enclosure contains some 3,000 different shops which line both sides of its five miles of narrow streets.

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

THERE'S MUSIC IN THE AIR . . . Typical of the many musical events which will be staged throughout the country during National Music Week was this outdoor concert presented under auspices of the Choral and Instrument Music association of Chicago.

HIGH NOTE

Annual Observance Stimulates Interest in Musical Activities

WNU Features.

From unrehearsed hymn sings in small rural communities to elaborate musical festivals in larger cities, music will fill the air during the week of May 4 to 11 as more than 2,500 communities throughout the country join in observance of National Music Week.

Intended to stimulate greater year-round interest in music and music education, National Music Week has been observed since 1924. In previous years, various communities had sponsored their own programs at unspecified times.

Although the keynote for Music Week is set by a central Music Week committee, with headquarters in New York, actual programs are entirely in the hands of local committees and individual workers. The central committee, however, is available for guidance and information.

Stimulate Interest.

The only idea actively promoted by the central committee is that the week be utilized for activity calculated to benefit year-round growth in musical interest. They believe that a period in which people are made more conscious of the value of music to the individual and to the community should serve as a time of enjoyment through making and hearing music, and as a stimulus to musical projects for young and old.

Many projects designed to aid veterans will be promoted as features of the 1947 observance. In some cities these will take the form of scholarships and educational opportunities generally; in others musical equipment for servicemen's centers and hospitals; in still others concert appearances for the especially talented. Local Music Week committees also will provide musical programs for patients in veterans' hospitals.

Another interest which will gain through the Music Week observance is "living war memorials" (notably buildings with acoustics for musical performances). In the larger cities such memorials are more likely to take the form of concert halls and auditoriums, and in the smaller places band shells and bandstands for outdoor use.

Churches Cooperate.

For many years churches have marked the opening Sunday of Music Week with sermons on music and religion, and with special programs by organists and choirs. Increasingly there is a trend toward inter-church and inter-denominational services. The closing Sunday, which coincides with Mothers Day, is frequently the occasion of musical events in honor of mothers.

To indicate the wide extent and variety of local observances, the Music Week committee cites a few examples culled from the 1946 records.

In one of the most elaborate observances, Los Angeles, Calif., staged a week-long series of programs under municipal auspices. Leading event was a music festival at Hollywood Bowl featuring a youth chorus of 700 voices. A school music festival entitled "America Sings," the premiere concert by a civic orchestra, concerts by the police, county and selected high school bands, and a program by a combined women's chorus were other highlights.

Baltimore, Md., also gave a prominent part to youth in its observance. A "Children's Prayer for Peace" program was marked by participation of youngsters from the Chinese, Jewish, Negro, French, Norwegian, Russian and other colonies.

Stage 274 Programs.

Under cooperative auspices of the local Business and Professional Women's clubs and the playground and recreation commission, Alton, Ill., observed Music Week with a total of 274 programs.

A campaign for promotion of greater interest in and attendance at its local symphony orchestra concerts was conducted in Springfield, Ohio, during the week.

Despite the achievements in the larger centers, however, it is in the smaller communities that the main strength of the Music Week movement lies. There are between 2,000 and 3,000 communities of less than 5,000 population that almost yearly mark the occasion in some worthwhile way.

Because of its median size and long history as a participant, Paris, Tex., is cited as an example of the smaller towns which stage unusual and effective programs.

The 1946 observance there began with an inter-denominational hymn festival led by joint choirs of several churches. Excerpts from an operetta by a school choral club provided the entertainment for the Parent-Teachers association meeting. The high school band gave a demonstration for Rotary club, and the public library included in its special display of books on music a scrapbook history of the local Music Study club. Posters submitted in a contest for upper grade children were hung in store windows and awards to the members were memberships in the Civic Music association.

Texas Paradise Stays Crimeless For Four Years

SARITA, TEX.—Surrounded by a sparsely-populated area, Sarita is gaining recognition as the crimeless section of Texas.

That distinction results from the fact that not a single crime has been recorded in the last four years. District court sessions consist merely of selection of jurors, who never are used.

"Nothing much has happened in the 33 years I've been here," insists District Clerk Nettie P. Woods. "We didn't have a divorce last year and I don't think we'll have one this year," she adds. No case of juvenile delinquency ever has been recorded in the county.

"I guess snakes give us more trouble than anything," the clerk says.

Births, deaths and marriages are the only newsworthy events in the county, in her opinion. There is no state old age assistance, no formal charity and during the depression of the 30s there was no WPA.

No 'Close Shaves'

TULSA, OKLA. — Customers cannot get a shave in the "Big 9" barber shop. The shop, despite its name, is so narrow that its chairs cannot be laid back for customers to recline, so its barber concentrates on cutting hair.

Horse on You

COVINGTON, KY. — Cow punching has been added to duties of Campbell county police. In a single week police were called upon to corral 20 stray steers which wandered from their pasture, to capture a rampaging bull and to take charge of two wandering cows.

Vigilantes Now Seek Dummy Nags

WASECA, MINN. — Times have changed since the Waseca County Horse Thief Detectives association was organized to rid the county of horse thieves in the late 1880s.

Now the society, preparing for its annual meeting, had to seek a dummy horse, the kind that harness makers use. The horse was required to instruct new members in how to put on a saddle and other such techniques. Old-timers feel every member should know at least that much.

A group of "deputies" was formed as a posse to capture prospective talent for entertainment.

The organization, which ranks as one of the oldest in the state, has not been active in apprehending horse thieves for decades, but it remains active by meeting annually to allow members to recall thrilling escapades of the past.

Forest Air Cleaner

Forest air is much more free from bacteria of all kinds than is the air just outside the forest. According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, there are generally 23 to 28 per cent fewer bacteria in the forest air, since the foliage acts as a kind of filter, retaining dust and other particles in the air. The bacteria on the leaves are then readily killed by exposure to the sun.

Soil Fertility Called 'Fourth Dimension' Which Enables Farm Land to Feed People

Soils Well Stocked With Fertility Can Best Perform Crop Producing Job.

COLUMBIA, MO.—Soil fertility was described as farm land's "fourth dimension" by Dr. William A. Albrecht, chairman of the soils department of the University of Missouri.

"This is the 'dimension' that enables the soil to feed us," Dr. Albrecht pointed out.

"Of old we measured farm acres by two dimensions — length and breadth," he declared. "Now we include a third dimension—depth—for we have seen the loss of the body of the soil through erosion by running water. And this loss is greatest in the surface soil, which stores the complex residues of past crops which help us build new plants.

"But these three dimensions are not the whole story. We need to see in our soils a fourth dimension—fertility. This fertility includes the chemical elements that crops and livestock make into food for us. It is by this dimension, and not by length and breadth and depth alone, that the soil can feed us. This fourth dimension is not as easily measured as the other three, but it is vital to a well fed, healthy people.

"Farmers who produce crops that satisfy human hunger are actually directing a great chemical industry of food synthesis that is driven by sunshine power," Dr. Albrecht said. "Soils rich in this fourth dimension can perform their life-giving function well. Necessary to well-stocked soils are manure, plowed-under legumes which add organic matter and build up the nitrogen supply, other crop residues, lime, and fertilizers. No one of the factors can be judged more important than the rest, for only by the use of all of these together is the highest fertility level reached."

Budget Balance Seen As Key To Stability

For the fiscal year ending next June, the Federal government expects to spend $41,500,000,000—more than four times total expenditures in the pre-war year 1938-39.

Treasury receipts for the current fiscal year are estimated at nearly $2,000,000,000 less than expenditures.

Thus in the first full peace-time fiscal year, with national income holding close to the war-time peaks, the government is still operating in the red.

As a result, business' men and economists are urging more strongly than ever the achievement of a balanced budget to aid the return of the nation to economic stability.

The unbalanced budget is regarded by economists as one of the main sources of the inflationary rise in prices.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, representing business views in the nation's capital, calls the 1946-47 budget "disappointingly high" and urges cuts in Federal spending as the key to financial stability.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

We Got to the Fish Fry After All

That community fish fry was sure a great success. There were plenty of appetizing extras, and Will Dudley did a right wonderful job of frying the fish—soft and flaky inside—brown and crisp around the edges.

But we didn't get to go. The missus was tired after working in the yard, and we just didn't want to leave her.

Then how did we know the fish was so good? Because the folks didn't forget us. They sent Skippy Henderson over with two steaming covered plates of fish, and a pitcher of cool, sparkling beer. And we finished them off in front of our own fire.

From where I sit, that's one of the things that makes our town so nice a place to live in: a spirit of share and share alike. That plate of fish and glass of beer weren't just great eating, they were symbols of the thoughtfulness that makes for better living!

Locker Plant Open Now

The Marshall County Coopera- Locker Association are this week announcing the opening of the Holt plant and those who had meat stored at the main plant at Newfolden are now having it moved to the Holt plant.

The locker plant in this area is a step ahead in the methods of preserving and keeping of food. The local building was constructed last summer and opening it has been held up due to a certain type of machinery that was hard to obtain.

The Holt customers are fortunate in that Louis Sagstuen has been secured as custodian of the plant, as he is available at all times.

Information on obtaining the use of these lockers can be had at the Farmers' Co'op Creamery or Marshall County State Bank.

Legumes Need Plant Food to Do Job of Rebuilding Soils

CHICAGO—Legumes as a recipe for enriching the soil and adding to its resources of organic matter were recommended by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"But," says a statement issued here by the committee, "legumes cannot do the job of fertility replenishment by themselves. They must have reinforcements in the form of plant foods containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash.

"Some farmers think that because they raise alfalfa or clover they are sure to keep up the fertility of their land. As a matter of fact, alfalfa is a heavy feeder on plant foods.

"Tests have proved that the continued removal of alfalfa hay actually leaves the soil with less fertility, regardless of the fact that alfalfa is a nitrogen-fixing legume.

"Alfalfa's soil-enriching function must be aided by good management measures that include the regular application of commercial fertilizer to replenish essential elements removed by the crop."

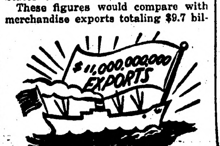
Big Farm Exports Lift U. S. Trade

United States trade with other nations is climbing toward record peace-time levels.

Exports this year may exceed $11 billion and imports may reach $6 billion to set new peace-time records, according to forecasts of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

These figures would compare with merchandise exports totaling $9.7 billion in 1946 and imports of $4.9 billion.



Heavy farm exports account partly for peacetime expansion in trade through commercial channels.

Projected gains for 1947 are based in part on expectation of continued increase in United States output of many types of capital and durable consumer goods in the reconversion of plants from war to peacetime activity.

Heat Values

The actual heat units in the different fuels are approximately as follows: anthracite, 12,500 per pound; oil, 140,000 per gallon; natural gas, 1,000 to 1,100 per cubic foot; manufactured gas, 550 per cubic foot; mixed gas, 700 to 800 per cubic foot. In each case the heat values given must be multiplied by the actual operating efficiency of the heat generator (boiler or furnace) to obtain the actual number of heat units.

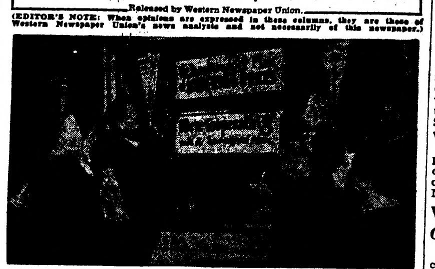
WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Merchants Pledge to Cut Prices; Moscow Parley Ends in Failure; Auto Workers Accept 15c Raise

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



Retail stores in Newburyport, Mass., experienced brisk business after putting into effect a 10 per cent flat reduction in all prices. The plan is a concerted effort to stem inflation. More than 90 per cent of the dealers in the New England city marked down their goods for a 10-day trial period. Shown above is John Swanson, local hardware merchant, as he posted signs telling the good news.

PRICE CUTS:

Newburyport Plan Gains

Apparently in response to growing consumer resistance and the urgings of President Truman, retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers are reducing prices on many articles. Wholesale prices on oils, soap, butter, pork and beef are lower, and the benefits are slowly being passed on to consumers. Retail prices of manufactured articles are coming down in some instances.

Following the lead of merchants in Newburyport, Mass., who have pledged themselves to a flat 10 per cent reduction, businessmen are announcing various plans to lower their prices. One large department store chain, Lincoln Stores, operating in New England, New York and Pennsylvania, has adopted the 10 per cent cut on all goods. A New England grocery chain, Clover Farms, is lowering prices by 30 per cent on 150 items.

In Virginia, Minn., 100 businessmen intend to drop prices at least 10 per cent on everything they sell. In the wholesale and manufacturing field, reductions on various articles and materials have been announced by General Cable company, Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing company and Continental Record company among others.

In what contractors call a "general buyers' strike against high prices" thousands of new small homes are remaining unsold in the New York area. Similar reports have been coming in from other areas.

AUTO WORKERS:

Settle for 15 Cents

In an unexpected move, United Auto Workers accepted the offer of General Motors corporation of a wage increase amounting to 15 cents per hour. The agreement covers 220,000 production employees of the huge automobile concern. It is believed that the new wage formula will set a pattern for settlements in other automobile companies, whose employees frequently follow the lead of General Motors.

The new contract, to run to April 28, 1948, provides for an immediate raise of 11½ cents per hour, and 3½ cents additional for six holidays, thus working out to a flat increase of 15 cents per hour. A liberalized vacation plan is another feature of the pact. Louis Seaton, director of labor relations for General Motors, and Walter Reuther, president of U.A.W. and head of General Motors locals, announced the settlement jointly.

A union spokesman predicted that Chrysler corporation workers would sign up on practically the same terms. He added that negotiations between the union and the company were going well.

FRANCE:

Shortage of Flour

French people, especially the Parisians, have been trying to buy up all the bread and flour they can lately. Bakeries have been virtually stormed in the capital. The daily bread ration of 13 1-3 ounces was reduced by one third, to nine ounces, on May 1. Bread is a large item in the French diet, probably the largest in many cases.

Before the war French farmers produced all the wheat necessary for the country, but because of price controls, they have been turning to other and more profitable crops. Wheat acreage has declined from the prewar figure of around 11 million acres to six million.

Driving More Expensive

It costs 53 per cent more to operate a passenger car now than it did in 1939. In the country, the expense increase averages 43 per cent. Higher prices of gasoline, tires, oil and repairs account for the rise, as well as the greater original cost of automobiles and the consequently larger depreciation allowance. Insurance also is higher, and in many cases license fees have increased.

These figures are based on a report of a study by two University of Ohio professors.

MOSCOW CONFERENCE:

Little Accomplished

After seven weeks of wrangling, the foreign ministers' conference at Moscow ended in a state banquet.

Results of the parley were extremely disappointing, even to those whose expectations had been small. It had been hoped that a treaty for Austria would be worked out, but even preliminary agreements could not be reached. The more important matter of the German treaty suffered the same fate, as expected.

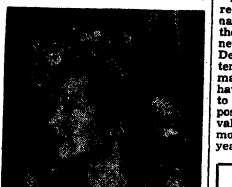
Secretary of State Marshall bluntly blamed the Russians for obstructing the negotiations. He charged that the Soviet delegation had "widened rather than narrowed our differences."

Principal points of controversy were the definition of German and Austrian assets which the Russians want as reparations and the disarmament and demilitarization plan, known as the "four nation treaty."

Almost the only proposition accepted was one, introduced by Russian Foreign Minister Molotov, that all German prisoners of war in Allied hands be returned to Germany by December 31, 1948.

Failure to complete the Austrian treaty means that occupation troops of the four powers will remain in Austria for several more months.

Obtains Divorce



Lovely Mrs. Maria Feliza Vanderbilt, 29, has divorced her socialite husband, Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., in Los Angeles. She is the daughter of the Mexican cattle baron, Rodolfo Pablos, and wealthy in her own right.

NO RENT BOOST:

House Kills 10% Plan

The house banking committee, reversing its previous stand, voted down a proposal for a 10 per cent blanket increase in rents. It approved and sent on for action a bill continuing controls until December 31. The senate banking committee already has voted unanimously against any raise, and the senate's bill would continue control until March 1, 1948.

The vote in the house committee was 14 to 10. As outlined by Representative Wolcott, chairman, the house bill provides:

Continuance of rent control just about as it is now until December 31, with the President having authority by proclamation to keep ceilings in effect until next March 1 if he deems it necessary.

A new provision whereby tenants and landlords may voluntarily enter lease contracts for up to 15 per cent increases in rent, provided these leases do not expire before December 31, 1948.

Unless extended by legislation, all rent controls would expire on June 30.

Fifty Stars in Flag?

A new design for a United States flag has 50 instead of 48 stars.

The two added stars will represent Alaska and Hawaii which congressional leaders say will be admitted to the Union before the summer recess of congress.

Under the law a star is to be added for each new state. Heraldic experts say it is not so simple as merely arranging five rows of 10 stars in place of the six rows of eight.

ENGLAND:

50 Die in Shipwrecks

A furious storm that lashed the southern coast of England swept three ships onto the rocky shores, bringing death to at least 50 seamen. The 7,000-ton British tanker Samtampa smashed into rocks off Porthcawl, Wales, and the entire crew of 42 perished. Eight coastguardsmen were drowned in a rescue attempt.

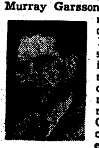
The British warship, Warspite, 31,000-ton veteran of two wars, was reported breaking up on the Cornish coast. Her crew of eight salvage workmen was saved. A 275-ton trawler went aground off northwest Scotland, but all 14 crew members were reported to be safe.

Wind velocity reached 100 miles per hour, and huge waves roared over the beaches of coastal towns on the English channel and the North sea.

WAR GRAFT:

Garsson Case Again

H. Garsson



M. Garsson

A new move in the drawn-out war contracts graft case of Representative May and the Garsson brothers will be May's testimony in his own defense. His lawyer, Sawyer Smith, told the court that it is untrue that the 71-year-old Kentucky politician profited from deals between the Garsson munitions plants and Cumberland Lumber company. "Andrew J. May will take the stand and explain to you how every dollar of that money was spent, and how not one cent went to Andrew J. May," the lawyer asserted.

On trial with May are Henry and Murray Garsson, head of the war materials syndicate, and Joseph Freeman, the Garsson agent in Washington. The government prosecutor contends that May received $5,000 outright from the Garssons and two checks for $1,000 each for "intervening with war department officials" in behalf of the companies. New evidence turned up by the FBI, according to the prosecutor, is the typewriter used in preparing the false invoices of the lumber company, through which it is alleged May received the bribes.

GERMANY:

New Mark Decreed

A four power agreement has been reached on Germany's muddled financial situation. First move under the new setup will be issuance of a new monetary unit, known as the Deutsche Mark. It will be worth one tenth of the value of the old Reichsmark. Holders of Reichsmarks will have to give up 10 of the old units to get one Deutsche Mark. The purpose of this downward revision in value is to sop up the inflated paper money that has been floating for years.

WED IN DEATH

Two young people who died in an auto accident a few days before their engagement was to have been announced were "married" in their caskets. As mourners stood around the flower-banked mortuary in Albany, N. Y., Rabbi Reuben Slonimi placed a gold ring on the right index finger of Miss Johanna Wohl, 20. She had been a college student. In the casket beside Miss Wohl lay Norman Salzberg, 25, a law student.

"The marriage ceremony requested by their parents is an old sentimental custom," Rabbi Slonim explained, "and is not a religious part of the burial ceremony. The 'black wedding' is a romantic custom of eastern Europe. In reading the writ of marriage, I omitted the references to joy."

The couple was buried side by side, with the Kesuba, or writ of marriage, in the bride's casket.

EUROPE'S YOUTH:

Opportunity for Gospel

The Christian churches are not reaching for European youth with the eagerness that Communism is, asserted Dr. Hutchinson Cockburn, director of reconstruction of the World Council of Churches before a meeting of the provisional committee at Buck Falls, Pa.

"If Christ is to be enthroned over the lives of men in Europe, it will be only by the reviving of the Church by grace of God and the work of the Holy Spirit. It is Christian civilization that is at stake, not merely in Europe, but also in Britain and in the United States."

The opportunity for preaching the Gospel has never been so great, he concluded.

DDT Conquers Head Lice

The insecticide DDT proved 100 per cent effective in the treatment of head lice on Texas school children, the Journal of the American Medical association reports.

Of 173 children treated by the Texas State Department of Health, 172 were completely free of lice after two applications of a dust composed of 10 per cent DDT and 90 per cent pyrophyllite.

The 173d child, the report said, washed his hair the day after treatment in violation of instructions.

50 Showboats on Rivers At One Time; Now but One

Between 1817 when the first showboat was built in the United States and 1940 when all but one had disappeared, about 50 of these floating theaters gave performances in river towns, chiefly along the Ohio and the Mississippi.

The only one still operating is the Goldenrod which, since 1938, has been docked at St. Louis where she has entertained more than 1,000,000 patrons.

Traveled Around World On High-Wheeled Bicycle

In April, 1884, Thomas Stevens left San Francisco to ride around the world on a high-wheeled bicycle, a feat considered impossible at the time as few persons had yet learned to handle this tricky contrivance, even on a paved street, says Collier's.

While Stevens traveled by boat across the Atlantic, Pacific, etc., he pedaled his way over 13,500 land miles, through the United States and 11 other countries from England to Japan, and arrived back in San Francisco in December, 1886.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

YOUR MANNERS?

Introductions

DO YOU get tongue-tied and flustered when you have to make introductions? It's easy to avoid embarrassment when you know the rules.

In introducing a man and a woman, speak the woman's name first unless the man is very old or very distinguished. If the people are both the same sex, present the younger to the older. As "Mother, this is Janet Smith" and "Mrs. Lane, do you know Miss Young?"

Worried about your table manners? Note-writing got you down? Our Reader Service booklet No. 45 covers these and many other phases of everyday etiquette. Send 25 cents (coin) for "New Book of Everyday Etiquette" to Weekly Newspaper Service, 243 W. 17th St., New York 11, N. Y. Print name, address, booklet title and No. 45.

PRINCESS WITHOUT SHOES . . . Perhaps never again in history of the British royal family will a photographer have a chance to snap Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth standing in her stockinged feet. The Queen, left, damaged her own shoes. Princess Elizabeth loaned her shoes to her mother, then so that it wouldn't spoil her fun, promptly forgot the incident while enjoying the sights of South Africa with her mother and guest, unidentified.

Came Out in Wash

While out walking in San Francisco one day; William J. Burns, the noted detective, encountered a drunken man.

"Ain't you Mr. Burns?" the drunk asked.

"Yes, I am," answered Burns.

"That's what I thought. Know who I am?"

"No, I do not."

"I'm the husband of your washerwoman."

"Well, what of it?" inquired Burns. His apparent scorn brought a sneer to the man's lips, and he said:

"Thought you detectives knew everythin'. Tell you somethin' else you don't know. I'm wearin' one of your white shirts!"

The traditional roundhouse wasn't built for the modern Iron Horse—the diesel locomotive. One of the nation's most dieselized railways, the Great Northern has invested thousands of dollars in special diesel service and repair shops—a large investment in the production of efficient, up-to-date transportation.

HOW MUCH SHOULD A RAILWAY EARN?

Nearly 35,700 stockholders own Great Northern Railway. The investment in the railway's properties used in transportation services is 703 million dollars.

The company's management has advised the railway's owners and the Interstate Commerce Commission that earnings in 1946 were slightly more than 25 million dollars before deductions for interest on borrowed money and stockholders' dividends. That is equivalent to a 3½ per cent return on property investment.

Those are a lot of dollars—or are they, in proportion to investment and services performed?

For comparison, let's say that a farmer or rancher invests $7,000 in land adjoining his home place and hires a man to operate it. A farm implement dealer invests $70,000 in a similar business in a nearby town and employs a manager and clerks to conduct the enterprise.

What farmer, rancher or businessman would be happy to learn, at the end of a year's operation, that the return on his investment, before allowing for interest on borrowed money, was 3½ per cent—$245 on $7,000; $2,450 on $70,000?

A fair profit for the railway industry—a return consistently large enough to encourage investors, improve equipment, facilities and services—was the subject of a recent public opinion survey.

*What the public believes the railways make 15%

*What the public says the railways should make 10%

The actual return on Great Northern's property investment in 1946 3½

The poll shows that the public thinks railways make 15 per cent; the public believes that a 10 per cent return on investment would be fair.

The facts, contrary to general belief that railways are wallowing in profits, are that they earned an average of only 2¾ per cent on investment in 1946—even with a slight increase in freight rates in the last part of the year.

Providing railway services now is exceedingly costly when compared with what is received for those services. Railway wages have increased more than 52 per cent since 1939, while prices of materials and supplies went up 61½ per cent in that period.

True, the railways were granted an increase in freight rates averaging about 17½ per cent, effective in January this year. But, it is estimated that even with the rate increase, the railway industry's return on investment in 1947 will average slightly more than 3 per cent.

Railways need and consistently must have at least a 6 per cent return on investment to continue production, maintenance and improvement of their services, and to further encourage those whose investments have provided the world's best, most efficient transport system—the American railways.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Where's the Argument?

You should have heard Ed Carey and Spike Miller debating the merits of Guernseys versus Holsteins. Ed's our firechief, and Spike handles hardware—but to hear them argue you'd have thought that they'd been dairying for life.

Finally they put it up to Sam Carter, who breeds dairy cows! Sam hems and haws . . . and concludes there's a lot to be said for Holsteins, and about as much for Guernseys . . . take your pick!

Actually, Ed and Spike were like people arguing about—say, beer versus buttermilk. Folks who've never tasted beer will sometimes get mighty vehement about their choice of beverages. And folks who've never tasted buttermilk will be equally pig-headed.

From where I sit, it's in things we know nothing about that we get bigoted and stubborn. But when it comes to things we know a lot about, we're able to see both sides . . . be tolerant and reasonable . . . and above all, understanding.

The number of crossties in the average mile of railway track is 3,005. The average spacing therefore is 21.1 inches, center to center.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College Searcy, Arkansas

Compete and Live

America's workers take pride in their ability to do hard jobs well. They are willing to let merit be the judge of their handiwork. Such traits as speed, accuracy, stamina, dependability, and initiative are what get a fellow ahead.

America has seen this kind of competition make real men. In turn these free men have made America. Every worker, no matter whether he makes use of strong hand or agile mind, puts his faith in the trading of the valuable commodities he possesses to his employer. Competition is good policy for craftsmen, athletes, scholars, fishermen, shopkeepers, and American business in general. The American people have reasoned wisely that competition in industry must be maintained so that the whole nation may benefit.

Enforced Agreements

Does competition on the level of labor have any value for the welfare of the nation? It is obvious that our industry, of which labor is a part, exists for the sake of those who consume goods. Policies that add unreasonably to the costs of goods, or any other non-competitive practices, endanger the free economy that made us great.

Closed-shop agreements, usually signed by management under duress, present this kind of danger. The non-competitive monopolistic nature of such enforced closed-shop agreements is apparent. Labor groups themselves need the stimulus of fair competition, for the sake of improved service. Unions need not find their only competition with employers. Rather, management and labor have need of cooperation, for they complement each other.

Too Dangerous

Mr. Gunnar Anderson, executive vice-president of the Federation of Swedish Labor Unions, told me that 80% of Swedish labor belongs to unions. Yet, he informed me, the Federation of Labor Unions is unalterably opposed to the closed shop. They feel that the closed shop is antagonistic to the very principle of freedom which labor unions enjoy and which they must help defend in their own interest.

A universal closed shop in America would amount to one tremendous monopoly of non-competitive labor, with the premium placed on mediocrity. This would also make labor more powerful than any plain American would wish. Any segment as powerful as that, either would be actual head of a totalitarian government, or would be so powerful that only a totalitarian state could deal with such a power. A national closed shop is too dangerous for America, and would mean the end of free labor unions.

Labor wants no such regime, whether you call it fascist, communist, or by some other fancy name that may yet appear. Under any other system you can think of, as compared with a free America, labor would be the loser. In Nazi Germany, Hitler found it necessary to protect his totalitarian state by abolishing labor unions. In Russia, Stalin simply runs them. There's every reason why we must avoid monopolies of either labor or industry, and instead must foster competition in every way.

Mrs. H. Moberg, Mrs. Ray Gusa, Mrs. A. Movick and Mrs. John Ness attended the Womens Missionary Fed. meeting at Ross Tuesday. They report the election of the following officers of the organization: President, Mrs Albert Kveen of Pinecreek; First Vice president, Mrs. N. O. Folland of Karlstad: Second vice-president, Mrs. J. A. Berg of Roseau; Secretary; Miss Bergit Lee of Ross and Treasurer, Mrs. Harry Winters of St. Hilaire. The meeting in October will be held at St. Pauli church at St. Hilaire.

The telephone lines in the village have been repaired the past week with new poles and wires being put np in many places. Harley Engen Marvin Larson and Hartley Peterson, manager, have been doing the work.

Marble Pie Easy To Stir Together

There's no difficulty whatever in keeping a supply of baked goods on hand these sugar-short days, once you start using prepared pudding mixes as sugar-stretchers in the baking job, writes the Country Cooking Editor of nationally circulated Capper's Farmer.

Marble pie is just one instance of how easily an ovenful of delicious desserts requiring no sugar can be stirred together when these mixes are used, she tells farm homemakers.

Marble Pie.

1 pkg. chocolate pudding mix
1 pkg. vanilla pudding mix
3½ c. milk
1 baked 9-inch pie shell

Using only 1¾ c. of the milk to a package of pudding, prepare each one individually according to directions on the box. Cool to lukewarm. Put into pie shell in large spoonfuls, alternating light and dark puddings. Then with a knife cut thru filling with a wide zigzag motion; repeat in opposite direction. Chill.

Farmers In Squeeze Between Upped Costs, Lower Incomes

The drive on the part of the Administration to reduce the cost of living is putting a "bearish" shadow on prices of farm commodities and has resulted in sharp declines in butter, cheese and dry milk, without any corresponding decrease in the cost of living nor in the demands of labor for increased pay.

John Brandt president of Land O'Lakes Creameries, commented today that the bearish effect also has shown on other farm commodities such as meats and grains, even though these declines do not seem warranted by supply and demand factors.

"Despite the downward trend in farm prices," he said, "labor, machinery and transportation costs are going up for the farmer.

"The general consuming public does not realize that reduction in farm prices does not cause a corresponding drop in the cost of living. Distribution costs on the farmers' products have risen. There have been wage increases with no corresponding increase in the productivity of individuals getting such increases.

"Milk prices to the farmer have declined from around $4.75 a hundredweight to the neighborhood of $2.65' yet a bottle of milk at retail costs almost exactly the same as before. When wheat went to extreme highs, the price of a loaf of bread went up. But prices did not come down with wheat prices. There are many similar illustrations.

"Drastic reductions in dairy business because of the progressive decrease in the number of cows on the farm, which easily could result in extreme shortage of dairy products, and a repetition of what happened to hogs and eggs.

"A year ago, prices on hogs and eggs were depressed, discouraging farmers from production. Runaway prices followed when the farmer had least to sell."

These are some of the farm problems which John Brandt, aspresident of the National Cooperative Milk Producers Federation, will present shortly before congressional agricultural hearings conducted by Congressman Clifford Hope in Washington, in looking to a solution of drastic ups and downs in farm prices.

Narcissus, Daffodils Same
All daffodils are narcissus and all narcissus are daffodils. Daffodil is the English word, and the narcissus, the Latin word, for the same flower. The term jonquil, when properly applied, refers to one specific group of narcissus which are miniature daffodils with dainty fragrant yellow flowers, borne two or more on a stem, perfectly hardy, with onionlike instead of flat leaves. "Jonquil" should be used only for this one class of narcissus.

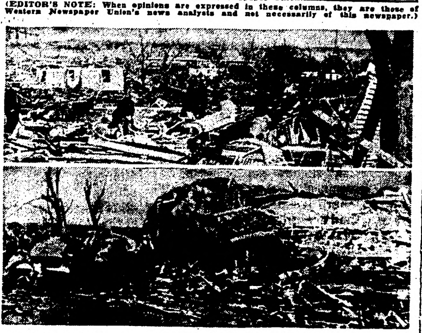
WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Twisters Wreak Destruction; Fourth Mine Blast Kills Eight; Palestine Issue Reaches U.N.

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



Tornadoes left this path of destruction at Worth, Mo. Top panel shows survivors digging through the wreckage of homes. Lower panel shows how the twister scrambled a store, brick bank building and garage into a heap of wreckage.

TORNADOES:

Path of Destruction

Devastating tornadoes cut a wide swath through midwestern and eastern states, leaving a wide path of destruction in their wake.

Striking in a thickly populated rural area south of Fairmont, N. C., a high-riding twister killed at least one person, left an estimated 300 homeless and caused severe damage to tobacco crops.

The death toll from a tornado which leveled the communities of Bright Water and Garfield in northwest Arkansas was placed at nine. The business section of Bright Water, population 100, was virtually destroyed.

Most destructive of the twisters was one which tore through small towns in Missouri and Iowa, causing 13 casualties in the small town of Worth, Mo. More than 50 others were injured and property damage was estimated in the thousands of dollars. The same tornado lashed on across into Iowa, striking at Clio, where extensive property damage resulted but no loss of life was reported.

Narrowly averting the heavily populated city of Dallas, Tex., a tornado smashed briefly to earth on the city's eastern outskirts, then bounced skyward and disappeared. In its wake, two persons were dead and four were injured. Two other Texas twisters caused less damage.

MINES:

Another Tragedy

Disaster struck again in the ever-dangerous coal mines, an underground explosion in the Small Spring Hill mine near Terre Haute, Ind., snuffing out the lives of eight miners. Three others survived the blast.

The 11 miners were repairing and improving the ventilating system of the mine to prepare it for federal inspection. Closed since the general safety shutdown of April 1, the mine had failed to pass the first federal inspection.

The disaster was the fourth serious mine accident of the year. Major catastrophe was the Centralia, Ill., explosion of March 25, which took a toll of 111 lives. Ten miners were killed April 10 in a gas explosion at Exeter, Pa., and 15 lost their lives January 15 at Plymouth, Pa.

Names in the News

MRS. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT was granted a reinstatement of her driver's license by the New York bureau of motor vehicles after a 3½ month suspension. The suspension resulted from her part in an automobile accident in which five persons were injured.

COL. JACK W. DURANT, 37-year-old army officer found guilty on eight counts in connection with the fantastic $1,500,000 theft of Hesse crown jewels after a five-month trial on both sides of the Atlantic, was sentenced to 15 years at hard labor and cashiered from the service.

VITTORIO MUSSOLINI, son of the late Benito Mussolini and a wartime flier in his father's air force, entered Argentina from Italy secretly and is attempting to establish permanent residence. He has been allowed to go through the first legal stages of registration.

MRS. LILLIE B. WINTER, 77-year-old great-grandmother acquitted last October of a charge of murdering her 3-year-old great-grandson with poison, was back in the county jail at Fairfield, Ill., charged with the attempted poison murder of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Burton, 44, and the latter's daughter, Marjory, 16.

DR. HUGO ECKENER, 74, noted Zeppelin designer, was flown here from Frankfurt, Germany, to become a technical adviser for Goodyear Rubber company in Ohio. Official secrecy surrounded his visit.

PALESTINE:

Explosive Issue

The explosive Palestine question was marked by the usual wrangling and confusion in action before the steering committee of the United Nations general assembly.

The 14-nation steering committee rejected requests from the Arab countries for the assembly to debate at this session the question of canceling the British mandate over Palestine and freedom for the Holy Land.

Dr. Oswaldo Aranha of Brazil, assembly president, failed to effect a compromise before the crucial committee meeting.

Dr. Aranha

The Arabs denied that their proposal called for immediate independence for Palestine. They insisted they merely wanted a full discussion of the problem and recognition by the assembly of the principle of ultimate independence.

Just Like the Movies

Just like in the movies, Film Actor Errol Flynn was the hero of a real-life rescue of Tom D'Andrea, another actor, who was thrown from his horse. The actors were galloping in the Battle of Gettysburg with the Union payroll when D'Andrea's horse stumbled in a gopher hole and threw him. Flynn grabbed him from under the flying hooves. To provide a typical movie ending, neither was injured.

Screen husbands and wives must sleep in twin beds one foot apart in films shown for the British public, British censors ruled. That, they explain, "discourages cuddling." Because censors spotted a scene in "My Awful Wife" in which Franchot Tone and Lucille Ball snooze in twin beds pushed together, the scene must be re-shot. Cost, $30,000.

LEND-LEASE:

Russia Negotiates

Long delayed, the task of trying to draw up a settlement of Russia's $11,296,000,000 lend-lease account with the United States finally was commenced when American and Soviet officials got down to actual dickering.

Russia will be called upon in the negotiations to reveal for the first time the "secret" inventory of American lend-lease supplies still in use by the Soviet.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai V. Novikov and Assistant Secretary of State Willard Thorpe head the negotiators.

STOPPAGES:

Hit Low Level

Although strikes still clouded the industrial horizon, a report of the bureau of labor statistics revealed that time lost in work stoppages during the first three months of this year was at the lowest level since end of the war.

Figures showed about 290,000 workers were involved in strikes or lockouts during that period, compared with 1,650,000 in the first quarter of 1946. Big strikes shut down steel, electrical, meat packing and automotive plants during the comparable period last year.

India Ends Untouchability

The Indian constituent assembly has voted to abolish "untouchability," that strange status that doomed 50 million people to be outcasts and beggars. These people, who have been denied most human rights for centuries under the fantastic religious and social code of the Hindus, will be granted full legal rights with other Indians when the new constitution is written.

The decision climaxes many years of campaigning by Mohandas K. Gandhi on behalf of the unfortunates.

WRECKS:

Third for Pennsy

In the eerie pre-dawn hours, the third wreck on the Pennsylvania railroad's middle Pennsylvania division in three months killed four persons and injured 34, eight seriously.

The American, New York to St. Louis flyer, jolted into rods of sheet steel protruding from the sides of two gondola cars of a moving freight train, the impact ripping a tremendous hole in the side of the fourth car of the American and damaging the engine, mail car and another coach. No cars were derailed.

A moment later another freight train ripped into the sheet steel protruding from the other side of the freight, derailing its engine and tender.

The collision occurred at Boyer Ridge, near Huntingdon, not far from sites of the previous Red Arrow and Sunshine Special train wrecks, both of which also were in the pre-dawn hours.

ALEMAN:

Cordial Welcome

First Mexican chief executive ever to make a state visit to Washington, Pres. Miguel Aleman was given a cordial reception on his trip to the nation's capital.

As the personal guest of President Truman, the visiting dignitary participated in a full schedule of events arranged in his honor by the state, war and navy departments and Mexican embassy officials.

In speeches before the Pan-American union and congress, President Aleman urged Western Hemisphere republics to assure "the independence of each nation through the solidarity of all."

The Mexican chief executive utilized the visit to begin preliminary discussions on a sizable American loan to aid in Mexico's industrialization, revision of trade treaties between the two countries and other problems.

CANADA:

Trims Income Taxes

Personal income taxes of Canadians will be reduced about 29 per cent for the 1947-48 tax year. The lower levy has been made possible by paring the federal budget to two billion dollars. Many Canadians were disappointed, however, to hear that no change in luxury and sales taxes was contemplated.

The new tax schedule ranges from 10 per cent in the lowest brackets, to 80 per cent for persons earning above $250,000 a year.

'UNKNOWN CHILD':

Honor War Role

Commemorating the thousands of children who died in concentration camps and in the fighting of World War II, the world's first monument to an "unknown child" was dedicated in Prague, Czechoslovakia.

The little statue, which stands in front of the Cathedral of the Victorious Virgin, also honors the lost children of Lidice, whose parents were killed when the Nazis destroyed the city as a reprisal measure.

Back From Europe

Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota and candidate for Republican nomination for president, returns from a European tour which covered six countries and was highlighted by conference with Premier Stalin in Moscow.

TRUMAN:

Gets First Pledges

Georgia's delegates to the Democratic national convention were instructed to stand behind the nomination of President Truman for another term in 1948.

Cheering delegates to the state Democratic convention in Macon shouted their approval of the resolution, as introduced by Gov. M. E. Thompson.

BEER:

Long a tradition among brewery workers, "beer time" received contractual recognition for the first time in a new contract between 16 major brewing companies and members of the United Brewery and Soft Drink Workers union (CIO).

The so-called "guzzle clause" calls for a 15-minute period each morning and afternoon when the men can knock off and quaff a few draughts of beer.

Sad Plight

Plain, matter-of-fact, John disliked the female sex with a vengeance, preferring a man's world altogether.

Upon his return from his first day at school his mother politely inquired: "John, are there any girls in your room at school?"

Instantly he answered with utter disgust: "Pooh—the room's full of 'em. Why, I'm just SURRENDERED with 'em."

By Proxy

"Why did they hang that picture?"

"Because they couldn't find the artist."

A MIGHTY ARM OF THE FLEET . . . The U.S.S. Wisconsin, one of the navy's mighty battleships, played a prominent role in World War II. The 45,000-ton battlewagon mounting 16-inch guns also has been assigned a peacetime task—that of carrying naval reserves on training cruises. To focus attention on the current drive to enroll recruits in the naval reserve, "Operation Naval Reserve" will be conducted the week of May 18-25. Culminating the campaign, Naval Reserve Day will be observed May 25. Special activities are planned in communities throughout the nation to aid the enrollment drive. The naval reserve, the civilian branch of the navy, is composed of both veterans and non-veterans. Its prime purpose it to develop and maintain a source of trained personnel from which the navy may draw if necessary in a national emergency.

LOS ANGELES RAISES PRIZE CATTLE . . . Future Farmers of America, including Dowlin Young, 16, of Fullerton, Calif., entered their steers and cows in show held at Los Angeles, the first competition of its kind held in California since Pearl Harbor and the first ever held in Los Angeles. Twenty-three southland high schools were represented in the event. Dowlin is shown with his Jersey cow and calf. He had competition from 70 other members of the Future Farmers of America. Many leading agricultural leaders received their start in this organization, the Future Farmers of America. Dowlin did not win by accident—he has studied cattle breeds, feeding and management and reports that the University of California at Davis has helped him day by day.

Edison Took Out First Radio Patent in America

Thomas Alva Edison took out the first American patent on radio. He was granted a patent on December 29, 1871, on a "means for transmitting signals electrically between distant points by induction without the use of wires."

Edison also invented the carbon microphone and the aerial. Moreover, Edison discovered the radio detector tube—though when he found it, he didn't know what to do with it. For years it was called the "Edison Effect Tube" and was exhibited as a sort of electrical novelty.

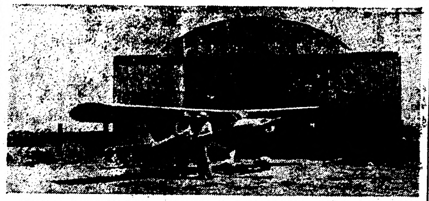
"Flying Farm Machines" Prove Valuable



A plane requires shelter but it need not be exclusive as one Oklahoman demonstrated by combining hangar and machinery storage.

AIR-MINDED farmers already are putting planes to work and consider them part of their farm equipment, an article in nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer points out.

"Light aircraft are no longer considered as exclusive playthings of rich pilots," the magazine declares. "Farmers from the wide open spaces build T-hangars or park the planes in the barns and use level pasture, alfalfa or wheat fields for landing strips.

"These farmers hop nonchalantly into their planes and put them to dozens of uses, including seeding crops, spreading insecticides, counting cattle, checking fence, carrying farm produce, getting implement repairs in a hurry and doing many other jobs. The cost of operation varies between 2 and 6 dollars an hour."

Active in helping air-minded farmers organize into state associations, the magazine read by 1,250,000 farm families points out that the flying farmers of Oklahoma already have formed the National Flying Farmers Association to promote the greater use of aircraft in agricultural production. Capper's Farmer is urging farmers using airplanes in other states to organize and affiliate with the national organization, whose headquarters are at Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, Stillwater, Oklahoma.

Proof of growing interest in flying among farmers is indicated by the fact that while only 12 planes were flown to the first Flying Farmers Meet at Stillwater, Oklahoma, in 1944, a total of 130 farm-owned aircraft were there for the 1945 gathing. Some 222 farm men and women pilots attended.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Industry Looks at Our Town

Maybe you read how a group of industrial experts have decided that the small town is the place for industry—not big cities. Reasons they give are better housing, pleasanter living, and more opportunity for wholesome recreation.

Well, looking around our town I'd say that was about right. Most of us own our homes, and keep them looking nice; we enjoy each other's company; and our recreations are mostly simple outdoor sports, and in the evening a mellow glass of beer with pleasant company.

As Doc Walters says, that sort of life just naturally sets you up for work the next day . . . whether it's in office, mill, or field. And Doc should know. He works fourteen hours, but never misses his morning "constitutional" or his evening glass of beer with friends.

From where I sit, any industry could profit from being in a town where wholesome living, temperance, and friendship are the rule.

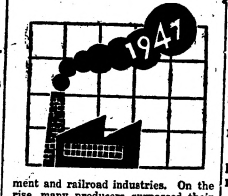
Industry May Make New Record In 1947

American industry will set new peace-time production records in 1947 unless more strikes disrupt operations.

That is the concensus of business forecasters who have projected into the new year the rising trend of industrial output in the final half of 1946.

The 1946 production trend swung sharply upward in the summer and autumn, after the ending of the great winter and spring strikes in steel, mining, automobile, electrical equipment and railroad industries. On the rise, many producers surpassed their best pre-war output of radios, vacuum cleaners, washing machines and other items which were unavailable while industry was concentrated on war work



With uninterrupted production, many still scarce manufactured goods are expected to be back on dealers' shelves in relative abundance in the second half of 1947.

Peanut Pie Has High Taste Appeal

For a sweet, crunchy dessert that is delightfully different, try Peanut Pie, advises Marjorie Griffin, Rural Home editor of Capper's Farmer. The nutty flavor from chopped peanuts has high taste appeal, she writes in the nationally circulated farm magazine.

Just before serving the pie, top it lavishly with whipped cream. Arrange it around the edge of the dark filling in a ring of snowy peaks.

PEANUT PIE

2 tbsp. flour	3 eggs
¼ C. sugar	2 tbsp. shortening
½ tsp. salt	1 C. peanuts
¼ C. cold water	1 unbaked pie shell
1 C. dark corn sirup

Combine flour, sugar and salt; add water and corn sirup and blend well. Boil gently for 3 to 5 minutes. Then slowly pour mixture into slightly beaten eggs, stirring continuously. Add shortening. Spread chopped peanuts over bottom of 9-inch pie shell. Pour filling into crust. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) for 10 minutes; reduce heat to 350° F. and continue baking 35 minutes. When silver knife inserted in center of filling comes out clean, pie is done. Before serving, top with whipped cream. Serves 6.

—WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS—

Brazil Court Bans Communists; Telephone Strikes Come to End; Oklahoma State Senator Shot

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

BRAZIL:

Outlaws Communists

The Communist party in Brazil—one of the largest in the western hemisphere—has been outlawed by the supreme electoral tribunal by a three to two decision. Immediately after the ruling police rushed forth to close the party's 445 clubs.

By its decision, the high court approved a government petition which asked that the Communist party be declared illegal and closed. Some Communists predicted that the national congress soon would pass a law expelling "extremists" from the armed forces and all government agencies. These same sources said that the same act probably would close all Communist newspapers and publishing houses.

The party showed remarkable strength in the last elections, polling 800,000 votes, and electing a governor and two senators in the important state of Sao Paulo. They have 17 deputies and one senator in the national congress. In the capital city, Rio de Janeiro, the largest party group in the city council is the Communist. Officially, the party claims 180,000 members.

There are three possibilities now for Brazilian Communists, according to expert observers:

They could turn their well-organized party over to some other group.

They could organize a new party under a different name and seek apparently different objectives.

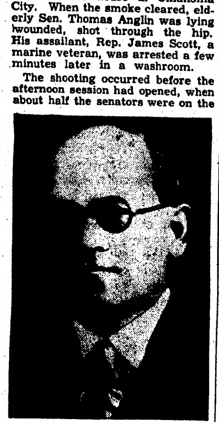
Or they could go underground as they did between 1922 and 1945.

OKLAHOMA:

Shooting in Senate

A hometown feud exploded into gunplay on the floor of the Oklahoma senate house in Oklahoma City. When the smoke cleared, elderly Sen. Thomas Anglin was lying wounded, shot through the hip. His assailant, Rep. James Scott, a marine veteran, was arrested a few minutes later in a washroom.

The shooting occurred before the afternoon session had opened, when about half the senators were on the floor. Scott apparently fired twice, with one shot going wild. Some senators were under the impression that Anglin returned the fire, but this has been denied. Police said that Anglin's curious nine-shot, 25-caliber automatic had not been in action.



State Sen. Anglin

Both legislators come from Holdensville, Okla. Anglin is 64, the oldest senator in the chamber in point of service. Representative Scott, 34, is heir to an oil fortune. Only motive that has been discovered for his action is that Anglin's law firm represented Scott's former wife in her divorce suit and property settlement.

FOOD PRICES:

Drop Held Unlikely

At least throughout May average prices of foods will remain at about the same figure, according to a special report on farm income by the department of agriculture. Farm income for the month is expected to reach two billion dollars. If so, this will bring cash receipts for the first five months of the year to $9,600,000,000, or about 25 per cent above last year.

Prices farmers have been receiving have averaged about 30 per cent higher than for the comparable period of 1946, but total returns have not been up that much because some government payments have been discontinued.

Boy! Corn on the Cob!

One of the first carloads of sweet corn to arrive in Chicago from Texas is gleefully sampled by Joe Speciale, whose father is a wholesale produce merchant. This succulent delicacy is moving in volume to all northern markets.

PHONE STRIKE ENDS:

Workers Accept $4.40

Long distance telephone operators agreed to accept a compromise pay increase of $4.40 a week, thereby ending the month-old strike that has been tying up the nation's communications. Quick settlements of 28 other disputes followed the acquiescence of the long lines workers to the new terms. The increase means about 11 cents per hour pay boost, vacation benefits and certain other concessions, such as seniority rights. About 22,000 workers in 42 states are affected.

The agreement was announced by Asst. Secy. of Labor John Gibson and Conciliation Director Edgar Warren, after a 7½ hour night session with representatives of the unions and the American Telegraph and Telephone company. Strikes against local companies of the Bell system were settled on substantially the same terms.

Besides the wage hikes and other benefits the contract with the long distance workers was practically a renewal of old terms, which were extended for one year. A clause permits either the union or the company to begin negotiations, after September 1, for reclassification of towns to readjust wage schedules.

Officials of the long lines workers' union indicated the members would not cross picket lines of striking local telephone workers.

Family Income $2,378 in '45

Average family income during 1945 was $2,378, or $169 more than in 1944, according to figures just released by the census bureau. About one-third of American families had incomes between $2,500 and $5,000. One in ten got between $5,000 and $10,000 per year, and 13 out of every thousand had an income in excess of $10,000.

BOX CARS:

Shortage Easing

Slowly but steadily the boxcar situation is improving, declares John Hayden, Chicago district manager of the American Association of American Railroads. Midwest freight conditions, he said, are the best they have been for a long time. Grain cars are moving in adequate numbers to the Southwestern wheat belt, where cutting of the new crop has begun.

"We hope to have several thousand empties stored there ready to handle the wheat when it comes from the combines," said Eugene Coughlin, assistant to the chairman of A.A.R. "The carriers are in considerably better condition to handle grain traffic than they were last year."

NORWAY:

King Given Raise

Probably to meet the rising cost of living, King Haakon of Norway has been granted an increase in allowance of 300,000 kroner by the Storting, or national assembly. Including this raise, the monarch now receives a million kroner a year, or about $220,000 in U. S. money.

The total allowances for the Norwegian royal family now amounts to 2,417,900 kroner, or $550,000, of which 340,000 kroner has been earmarked for repairs on Oslo castle. Crown Prince Olaf has a personal grant of 300,000 kroner annually.

MAIL SERVICE:

Politics Charged

The post office is reducing its mail service in a "brazen" attempt to discredit the congressional economy drive, Senator Bridges charged in a recent interview. Actually, declared the chairman of the senate appropriation committee, the post office department's funds have not been up for consideration yet.

The senator showed newspaper clippings quoting Patrick Connelly, postmaster of Boston, and Harry Kramer, postmaster of Holland, Mich. Both men said in print that mail deliveries and other services must be curtailed "all over the country as a result of a failure of congress to pass the customary deficiency bill to allow government agencies to finish the final months of the fiscal year ending June 30."

In reply, Jesse Donaldson, acting postmaster general, stated that no postmaster has been authorized to make any statement about congress. "Actually," said Donaldson, "congress is not to blame. The deficiency appropriation which we will have to ask for extra clerk hire and substitute carriers has not even been submitted to congress yet."

GERMANY:

U. S. to End Army Rule

Control of the U. S. zone of Germany soon will be transferred from the American military government to civil authority. Secretary of State Marshall is preparing to take this long-delayed step as soon as possible. The move will reverse the state department's 158-year-old tradition. Heretofore the department has vigorously resisted taking on any functions except formulation of policy.

Former Secretary Byrnes wanted administration of Germany left with the war department, but Marshall, himself a veteran of the war department, is willing to change that. He has not revealed any details of the civil government setup that he has in mind. Obviously a considerable military force will be needed in Germany for some time, in case of outbreaks.

Marshall denied that American and British officials had run into difficulties over basic policy in plans for merging the American and British zones, as reported from Berlin.

Foster Mother of '47

Chosen as "Foster Mother of 1947" by the Children's Aid foster homes department was Mrs. Harold Volbergh of New York City. She has opened her heart and home to half a dozen boys and girls since 1940.

Cure for Worry

Worry is a disease that can be treated and cured.

An article in Cosmopolitan magazine by Gretta Palmer cites the success of the Boston dispensary in conducting a "worry clinic" which has handled more than 3,000 patients.

The article states:

"Patients' problems are of many kinds, requiring vastly different solutions, but there is only one kind of worry, and that is always a disease.

"No matter what you worry about, you can stop worrying. You stop by recognizing the simple fact that the mind can contain only one idea at a time, and that it is always in your power to determine what that idea will be."

First, you look at your worry squarely, and realize that worry never solved any problem, the article points out.

More Toothaches in East

For some reason, not at present clear, people in the East suffer from tooth decay about twice as often as people in the West and Southwest. The Pennsylvania State Dental society was told by Cmdr. Carl Schlack of the naval medical research institue that chemical content of soils and differences in the amount of fluorine in water supplies apparently were to blame. Eating of sweets was an important factor, too, he said.

Loans Hit New Record

Loans made by the nation's banks in the second half of 1946 increased more than $4,000,000,000 to a total of $36,150,097,000, the largest since the end of 1930.

This is shown in the 2,741-page first 1947 edition of Rand McNally Bankers' directory just off the press.

The country's 14,845 banks had $1,996,063,000 more cash at the end of 1946 than six months previously, but less than at the close of 1945.

Water Test Reveals Facts About Fat People

Human "guinea pigs" are being dunked in a warm water well at the University of Minnesota to determine how fat persons' hearts and veins will stand the stress of modern life.

The experiments began as the result of findings by Prof. Ancel Keys during his observation of conscientious objectors who served as subjects of starvation diet studies during the war.

Dr. Keys said there appeared to be a relationship between the amount of fat in a person's body, the amount of tension in his personality, and the way his heart and blood vessels reacted.

Hence the underwater weighing which discloses, he reported, how much an average cubic inch on one person weighs, as well as the fat content.

The principle of specific gravity was discovered by Archimedes, the celebrated Greek philosopher.

HARSH LAXATIVES UNNECESSARY?

Millions Find Healthful Fresh Fruit Drink Gives Them All the Laxative Aid They Need

Don't form the habit of depending on harsh, griping laxatives until you've tried this easy, healthful way millions now use to keep regular.

It's fresh lemon juice and water taken first thing in the morning—just as soon as you get up, the juice of one Sunkist Lemon in a glass of water. Taken thus, on an empty stomach, it stimulates normal bowel action, day after day, for most people.

And lemons are actively good for you. They're among the richest sources of vitamin C, which combats fatigue, helps resist colds and infections. They supply vitamins B_1 and P, aid digestion and help alkalinize the system.

Try this grand wake-up drink 10 mornings. See if it doesn't help you! Use California Sunkist Lemons.

Let's go to town —at home!

NO TELLING what tomorrow's weather may be. It fools the best forecaster. But we do want chintz for the windows. We do need a carpet sweeper, a new percolator, and a new end-table in the living-room. And we don't want to slosh around rainy streets to hunt them. Problem: How to thwart the weather man. Simple enough! Let's sit down by the fireplace and read the advertisements. Here it's comfortable and snug. We'll take the newspaper page by page, compare prices, qualities, brand-names. Tomorrow, rain or shine, we'll head for the store that has what we want, and home again in a jiffy.

Kidneys Must Work Well—
For You To Feel Well
24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.
Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

That Proves It

"What makes you think you are qualified for a position in the diplomatic corps?"

"Well," answered the applicant modestly, "I've been married 20 years and my wife still thinks I have a sick friend."

Fair Warning

A mother took her seven-year-old son with her to the grocery store. The grocer noticed the boy eyeing a large barrel of apples, so he gave him one.

"Watch out for the worms, son," admonished his mother.

"Any worms in this here apple better watch out for me," the youngster retorted.

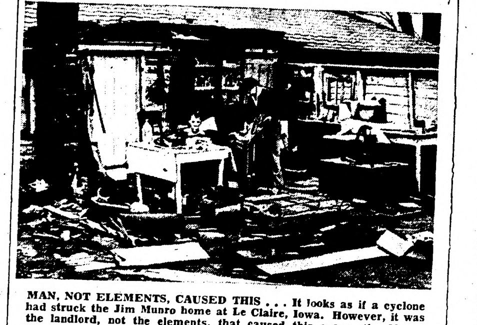
'BIG MUDDY' RUNS AMOK . . . Abnormal spring rains are causing floods in many parts of the country, inundating large tracts of land. Top panel shows the sandbagged levee of the Missouri river near Aldridge, Ill., before the rains came. Below, 36 hours later, the levee proves no barrier, the water breaking through to flood 2,000 acres of farm land.

VETS SEE FAMOUS HORSE . . . Richard Ryan, former cavalry officer, is shown astride the world's most famous white horse—Emperor Hirohito's "Hatsushimo," which the Japanese placed in his custody "for the American people." Ryan is taking the horse on a tour of veterans' hospitals. The dog is "Mike," a gift of Edward Arnold of the films.

CAUGHT IN THE FLOODS . . . Flood waters of the Mississippi river stalled this Frisco railroad work train. Photo was made from a coast guard plane making an aerial survey of the flooded area. Other locations reported train and railway tracks under water, bringing about renewed demands upon congress for flood control.



MAN, NOT ELEMENTS, CAUSED THIS . . . It looks as if a cyclone had struck the Jim Munro home at Le Claire, Iowa. However, it was the landlord, not the elements, that caused this scene, the Munro family claims. They charge the landlord, Harold Olsen of Montpelier, Iowa, wrecked the summer kitchen of their home when they ignored an eviction notice. Similar happenings have been reported in other parts of the country by landlords anxious to gain possession of homes.

Narcissus, Daffodils Same

All daffodils are narcissus and all narcissus are daffodils. Daffodil is the English word, and the narcissus, the Latin word, for the same flower. The term jonquil, when properly applied, refers to one specific group of narcissus which are miniature daffodils with dainty fragrant yellow flowers, borne two or more on a stem, perfectly hardy, with onionlike instead of flat leaves. "Jonquil" should be used only for this one class of narcissus.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

When Ed's Crops Failed

Three years ago Ed Smith's luck went bad. His crops failed, and it wasn't long before Ed's home and furnishings were up for auction.

Half the town turned out, and Ed must have thought his neighbors were a bunch of hungry vultures—buying up all his precious possessions for a song.

When it was over, and the auctioneer had left, Sam Abernathy turns to the crowd and says: "All right, folks, let's take time out for a glass of beer, and then put this stuff back where it belongs!"

Two hours later, Ed was in possession of his home and furnishings; and the folks who'd paid for them were sitting around Ed's fire enjoying a neighborly glass of beer—to show their friendship and their confidence in Ed.

Today, Ed's back on his feet—another constructive member of the community. And from where I sit, we've all been well repaid—a good investment in a good man.

Fishing Law Changes

Major changes in the 1947 fishing laws synopsis now available to fishermen are the reduction of possession limits on five species of fishes, legalizing spearing in open waters not closed to fishing and the licensing of fishermen 16 years or older.

The daily or posession limit changes are • walleyed pike 8; sand pike 8: pickerel or northern 6; bass 7; and trout, (except lake) 15. All other daily and possession limits are the same as last year.

Wedding Reception for P. Beito

A wedding reception was held Sunday afternoon at the Mission church parlors for Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Beito. A program, consisting of several vocal selections by Joyce Peterson and Dorothy Sagstuen, readings by Mrs. Louis Sagstuen and Vernice Smith with Mrs. Lars Ring reading the program. The table set for the bridal party was centered with a wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. The honored couple received many lovely gifts. Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. G. Boy Scouts Plant Trees

Over 500 spruce trees were planted on the Mud Lakes Refuge by members of the Holt Scout Troop No. 112.

This type of planting is accomplished for the purpose purpose of providing cover for deer and upland game birds. Plantings are made in relatively small groves, and are located so as to furnish protection in areas which already are growing sufficient food types, but which do not provide suffcient winter or "escape" cover.

Planting was done under supvervision of Murnet Johnson, Assistant Scout Master, and Mr. Ball, Jr. Refuge Manager.

The planting crew consisted of the following: George Fricker, Keith Movick, Vernon Engen, Willis Skjerping and Robert Johnson of Holt.

Mr. Hartley Peterson, of Holt, is the scoutmaster of Troop 112.

'Wish You Wouldn'ts' Apply to Parents, Too

SINCE turn about is fair play, any list of "Wish you Wouldn'ts" for teen agers should be accompanied by a few "Don'ts" for parents, too, Holly Miller points out in nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer.

Discussing the teen agers' viewpoint, she writes:

"Seems as if 'I wish you wouldn't —' is the preface to a good many statements by the older generation.

"The way you dress, eat, walk, talk — gadzooks — nothing seems to please them.

"But before you get too huffy and cast their admonitions to the breeze, go into a huddle with yourself. Down deep you may find the grace to admit that a lot of so-called characteristic adolescent behaviorisms are not calculated to make the populace love you. And that just because simply everybody acts a certain way is not sufficient reason for anybody as special as you to follow suit."

Among the "Don'ts" which Miss Miller says teen-agers might suggest to parents are:

"Don't laugh at us. We're self-conscious enough. Tho our plans may seem a little fantastic and some of our actions silly, it's probably part of being young. Don't you remember?

"Don't treat us like kids. You can help us grow up by treating us like grown-ups. Trust us a little more.

"Never, never say, 'I told you so.' It's too curdling. And we have to learn the hard way to make it stick."

1947 Laws Distributed

Laws of Minnesota passed at the Legislative session of 1947 are now available at the Holt Weekly News office. Come in and get a copy.

Under appropriation by the Legislature and through the office of the State Printer the 1947 Session Laws are now being distributed free to all interested residents of Minnesota by legal newspapers of the state.

Printed in newspaper form the 642 laws cover 60 pages, the 32 resolutions another two pages. These are the outcome of 3,005 measures introduced: 1,585 in the House, 1,420 in the Senate. Nine measures passed by the Legislature were vetoed by the governor. Longest law covers 23½ columns (on drainage systems), shortest is Chapter 55, nine lines repealing a butter statute.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilmer Moberg and Bertha, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lunke and family, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sagstuen and Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sagstuen, Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Peterson and family helped Mrs. Ludvig Sagstuen celebrate her birthday last Friday evening. She received many gifts and lunch was served by the self invited guests.

School in District 47, Mabel B. Hanson, teacher, closed for the year with a picnic held on Friday Graduating this year from eight grade is Gerald Beck, son ~~of Mr. and Mrs. John Beck~~. His plans are for entering the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston next fall to begin his high school course.

The Holt School closed yesterday with a picnic at the Tourist Park at Thief River Falls. Eight grades graduates are Arnold Folden, Elmer Gutterud, Lorraine Helquist, Emery Horien Ruth Larson, Dale Mortenson, Betty Ann Ness, Joan Oakey, Dale Olson, Beth Weaver.

U. S. Eats Fruit

The average American ate 225 pounds of fruit a year between 1937 and 1941. Consumption of canned fruits was almost five times greater than it was in 1930.

Memorial Day Today

We cannot but halt a moment, as we cross the threshold of the beautiful month of May, in silent honor of those who gave their all that we might prosper. "Their" day comes in May. A single day out of a year of length yet more hearts, and minds, and love will surrender on Decoration Day than on any other day of the year.

The torn hearts of the mothers who lost their boys on the battlefelds of the wars will rest easier as the Almighty casts his reflection over the world on Decoration Day. The graves of those "boys" will again feel the tears of the loved ones left behind.

No honor is to great for those who laid down their lives in the wars of our nation since its birth No flowers are beautiful enough to grace the graves of our "Soldiers".

It is our prayer, and the prayer of countless others in all parts of the world, that Decoration Day, this year, will serve to tender the resting places of our great, and ease many heavy hearts.

Milton Hanson, who has been at his home here since the death of his father in December, left Friday for the west to seek reemployment. He was accompanied by Juhl Wold and Glenn Olson of Grygla.

O. T. Ness, Ralph Ness and son Thomas spent Monday and Tuesday fishing at Waskish. Last week Olaf landed two big ones that weighed over 10 pounds each

Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Oakey and daughter Joan moved onto their farm south of Holt last week. They have made their home with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Forder since their return from Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Ranum and family of Newfolden moved into the apartments over Holt Mercantile store on Saturday.

Herman Lindberg of Karlstad visited at the Walter Peterson home Sunday evening.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Rush More Food to Germany; Truman Signs Portal Pay Bill; Churchill Seeks United Europe

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Reacting swiftly to a strongly Communist-flavored lecture being delivered to students at Western high school in Washington, D. C., these four young people walked out on the speaker and started a general exodus from the assembly room. Here, Speaker of the House Joseph W. Martin Jr., presents them with the American colors for their discrimination.

HUNGRY GERMANS:
Show Ugly Mood

Replying to complaints that Germany is being short-changed on its food rations, Secretary of War Robert Patterson disclosed that 400,000 tons of foodstuffs are slated to be sent there during May, a like amount in June and "even more" in July.

A picture of general unrest in Germany was drawn by official United States investigators who said that the Germans were displaying an "ugly mood of bitter resentment" toward this country because of food shortages.

Officials in the stricken country have been predicting that hunger-born strikes and demonstrations would break out among the Germans if they remained dissatisfied with their food rations.

Secretary of War Patterson, however, said that shipments of food to Germany are being made on schedule in line with recommendations outlined by Herbert Hoover following his survey of food conditions there last winter.

FLU STOPPER:
New Mold Tested

A possible cure for influenza may be forthcoming from a newly discovered green and black soil mold, according to an announcement by the Society of American Bacteriologists.

So far, although there are preventive vaccines for flu, no specific cure has been developed. Not yet tested on humans, the mold is said to have shown a curative effect on chicken embryos and mice with influenza.

There is one hitch, however. The mold-bearing earth, according to the two scientists who made the discovery, was one of numerous samples which came to them from all over the world. Just where that particular bit of dirt came from they do not know.

OIL JACKPOT:
Soviets Hit It

Huge oil deposits have been discovered under Russia's new industrial region in the Ural mountains nearly 1,000 miles east of Moscow, according to a Soviet announcement.

Moscow told of the finding of "colossal" oil reserves following completion of exhaustive tests in the area now under development as an industrial frontier.

The announcement indicated that the Soviets' long-range plan to shift virtually their entire production system to the east will be helped considerably by the newly discovered oil deposits. Geologists are said to have tapped coal and ore deposits in the Urals previously.

OUTMODED DEFENSE:
Rockets Far Ahead

Ever-improving rocket weapons already have rendered obsolete the best anti-aircraft guns of the army and navy, Paul W. Martin, an ordnance expert, has asserted.

The big strides made in development of rapid-firing automatic, radar-directed guns have been far outstripped by atomic energy and guided missiles, he said.

Three important features of a good defense were cited: A long-range detection system; a defensive rocket to intercept the enemy missile, and destruction of the enemy missile at a safe distance.

UNITED EUROPE:
Churchill's Idea

Winston Churchill, describing the continent as a "rubble heap and breeding ground of pestilence," has gone on record as favoring an organization of European nations—a United Europe, possibly without Russia.

He called for a wholehearted effort from Great Britain and France to found such a movement and asked that headquarters for the organization be set up immediately in England.

The movement is sure to draw the approval of the United States, Churchill told an audience of 10,000 at London's Albert hall. He emphasized that the European union would operate as one regional unit under world supremacy of the United Nations.

PORTALS CLOSED:
Back Claims Denied

Almost six billion dollars in back claims for portal-to-portal pay was erased from the books when President Truman put his signature on congressional legislation designed to relieve employers, as well as the government, from such claims—now and in the future.

Although he opposed the wishes of organized labor and overrode an appeal for a veto by Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, the President emphasized that he was certain that it was not the intent of congress to nullify past gains made by labor.

Explaining his reasons for signing the bill, he said, "Businessmen will be able to plan with assurance for full production and price reductions. This will be of real value to labor and management in a continued high level of employment."

At the same time he repeated his plea to business for lower prices and requested congress to take immediate steps to increase the statutory minimum wage from 40 to at least 65 cents an hour.

SUGAR STRATEGY:
Advance Rations

To enable supplies to moved while railroad transportation is available, housewives and industrial users of sugar will be permitted to buy their allotments in advance of the customary rationing date.

The Sugar Rationing Administration explained that, because of the transportation burden which will develop later in the year, a second 10-pound stamp for consumers (No. 12) will be validated June 1 instead of July 1, but must last until October 31.

No specially designated "home canning sugar stamps" will be issued this year, but the allowance of 35 pounds available for home use will include sugar for canning.

Dentists Are in Pain, Too

Pity the poor dentist when he sneaks in behind your teeth with that savage little drill and tries to unseat the top of your skull.

Chances are his feet hurt. And his back aches. And his legs are weary. That, at least, is the contention of Northwestern university school of dentistry, which is starting to teach its student dentists to work sitting down—on a specially constructed stool.

A standing dentist is of no more advantage to the patient than a sitting dentist, the school asserts. If dentists can be brought to a sitting position, the university believes, their professional lives will be extended by five years.

TOO MUCH SMOKE:
Can't See Stars

The nation's capital city is getting just too smoky, dusty and crowded for the U. S. naval observatory, which is getting ready to move to a more sylvan neighborhood.

Because big cities radiate heat, which is bad for delicate astronomical instruments, the new location for the world-famous observatory must be no nearer than 25 miles to any metropolitan area. Officials estimate that it will take about eight years to find a site, put up the necessary buildings and install equipment.

In addition to providing the nation with the world's most accurate time checks, the observatory warns the radio industry of sun spot activity, puts out almanacs, supplies data on tides, phases of the moon and sunsets and sunrises, and figures out calendars.

BUDGET SURPLUS:
Dwindling Fast

It begins to appear as though President Truman made a small miscalculation when he predicted that the treasury would wind up the fiscal year on June 30 with a budget surplus of $1,250,000,000, because the surplus already has dipped below that figure.

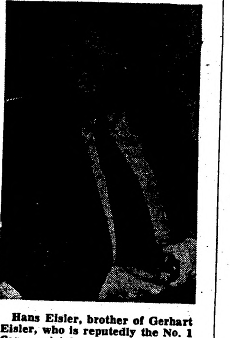
The surplus, meaning the excess of income over spending, has shrunk to $1,228,507,000 — the fall during April and early May being caused by spending in excess of income during that period. Administration analysts, however, hold that quarterly tax payments in June probably will restore President Truman's original figure.

FARM LAND:
Prices Go Up

Continuing the steady trend upward begun early in the war, farm real estate prices are nearing a level double the average for the 1935-39 period, a survey by the U. S. bureau of agricultural economics shows.

During the year ending March 1, farm real estate prices rose 12 per cent for the country as a whole. That figure is compared with a 13 per cent rise for the corresponding period in 1946, 11 per cent in 1945 and 15 per cent in 1944. Fifty-six per cent of the recorded sales in the past year were for all cash.

Called 'Red' Composer



Hans Eisler, brother of Gerhart Eisler, who is reputedly the No. 1 Communist in the United States, was called to testify before the house un-American committee. He is a music composer for the movies, and is said to have composed inspirational music for the Communist party.

Record Slaughter

A new record for slaughtering of cattle and calves was set during April in all federally-inspected plants in the country. Hog killings were lower, however, reports the department of agriculture.

Cattle killed reached the all-time high during April of 1,203,137 head, compared with 714,860 for the same month a year ago. Calves slaughtered numbered 678,440, compared with 445,049 in April, 1946.

Hogs killed dropped from 3,857,972 to 3,615,746, and sheep declined from 1,735,882 last April to 1,326,589 this year, lowest since 1939.

Million Dollar Memoirs

One million dollars, believed to be the largest amount ever paid in this country for the publication rights to foreign material, has been paid for Winston Churchill's memoirs, which will run to five volumes when completed. The New York Times and Life magazine have purchased the serial rights, while Houghton Mifflin company will begin publication of the work in book form next January.

NEW NARCOTIC:
Most Dangerous

A synthetic narcotic called demerol, called more dangerous than heroin by Federal Narcotic bureau, is flowing in illicit channels and endangering all drug addicts. Doctors have been warned by the U. S. Public Health service to use extreme care in prescribing this powerful drug, which has a "definite place in medicine, but is highly habit-forming." Heroin was hitherto regarded as the most dangerous of all drugs.

You Can't Keep a Good Volcanic Island Down

Anak Krakatoa, barren offspring of the lonely volcanic island near Java which erupted in 1883 with the mightiest explosion ever experienced by modern man, is showing angry indications of blowing its top again.

The Krakatoa blast 64 years ago, which caused the island to disintegrate and sink, killed approximately 30,000, caused great tidal waves to roll three times around the earth and hurled volcanic dust far into the United States, upsetting weather conditions for months.

Emerging from the sea in 1928, Anak Krakatoa, "the child of Krakatoa," disappeared again in 1929 and then showed up once more in 1930. A Dutch naval party, making the first postwar visit to Krakatoa, reported that the volcano's crater is 520 feet above sea level and that strong submarine explosions shake the lagoon from which steam billows constantly.

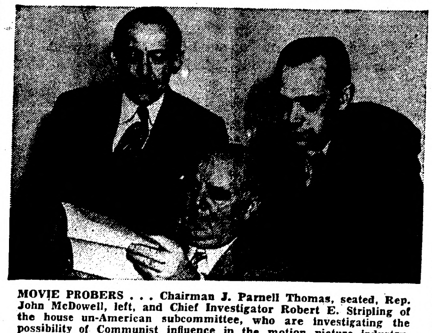
VEGETABLE GROWERS SERVE . . . Five hundred pounds of seeds donated by National Junior Vegetable Growers association are destined for the youth of Greece. James Spell, 17, Columbia, Miss., president of the junior growers organization, presents, in the name of his organization, the seeds to Jason Dracoulis, Greek vice consul in New York City. National Junior Vegetable Growers association played an active part in garden work during the war.

IN THE SPRING A YOUNG MAN'S FANCY . . . Young Bobby Horan, 7, yearned for a bike ride, but does not have a bike of his own, so he is seen trying to thumb a ride from Elsie Malcolm, 5. Elsie's sister Beverly, 8, looks on. The late spring arrived in New York City as this photo shows the kids eating ice cream.

IT IS JUNE DAIRY MONTH, SHE SAYS . . . Little Margaret Mary Blacksher, New York, turns to ice cream to do her share during June Dairy Month, and shares America's No. 1 food with her Great Dane. When the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce selects the dairy queen, they might check on Margaret, who would prove an ideal one.



MOVIE PROBERS . . . Chairman J. Parnell Thomas, seated, Rep. John McDowell, left, and Chief Investigator Robert E. Stripling of the house un-American subcommittee, who are investigating the possibility of Communist influence in the motion picture industry. Leading stars, directors, bit players, motion picture union officials, producers and others connected with the industry testified before the subcommittee.

But Who Cares?

Macpherson was strolling down the street when he noticed what he thought was the familiar figure of a friend. Quickening his steps, he came up to the man and slapped him hard on the back. To his confusion he then saw that he had greeted an utter stranger.

"Oh, I beg your pardon," he said apologetically, "I thought you were my old friend Mackintosh."

The stranger recovered his wind and replied, with considerable heat: "And supposing I were Mackintosh, do you have to hit me so hard?"

"What do you care," retorted Macpherson, "how hard I hit Mackintosh?"

AGRICULTURAL WEED-NO-MORE
THE ORIGINAL BUTYL ESTER OF 2,4-D

Weed-No-More controls mustards, sunflower, cocklebur, bindweed, Canada thistle, hoary cress, buckbrush, and other weeds. Weed-No-More increases your yield, and helps improve quality. Weed-No-More, by killing and controlling weeds, reduces loss of soil moisture and fertility.

This new farm weapon makes weed control easier, cheaper, and more effective than has heretofore been possible in growing grain crops and in many other farm areas where broad-leaf weeds are a problem.

The C. O. Larson family visited relatives at Grafton Sunday.

Mrs. L. C. Lindberg visited at the Orris Harstad homd at Newfolden Monday.

Mrs. K. Sollom visitet at the Hervey Sollom home Sunday.

Rick Lorentson made a business trip to Crookston Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lorentson were St. Hilaire visitors on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Peterson visited at the George Leslie home at Gatzke on Sunday.

Mrs. Orris Johnson and children of Thief River Falls stayed at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Olson last week

Christ Haraldson of Roseau, Amos Aase of Gatzke, O. R. Aase of Newfolden and Walter Wegge spent two days fishing at Waskish.

Mrs. M. Timm of Egeland, N. D. visited last week at the home of her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weege.

Mr. and Mrs. Orris Johnson and son and daughter of Thief River Falls visited at the Johnson home here Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Larson spent Saturday at Roseau where they attended the dedication of the Land O'Lakes milk drying plant.

Mrs. John Hagberg spent Sunday at the A. Hagen home at Alvarado.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Larson visited at the Henry Anderson home at Viking Thursday evening.

Marketing Association

About 7,500 farmer associations are engaged primarily in marketing farm products.

Mike Fricker of St. Hilaire and George Fricker and son spent Friday evening and Saturday fishing at Waskish.

Mrs. Robert Starr and daughter and Francis Nyberg of Delhi Minnesota came last Wednesday for a few days visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Nohre and other relatives.

Mrs. L. C. Lindberg of Cavalier, N. D. came Sunday evening for a few days stay at the Hanson home. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lindberg of Karlstad brought her here and also visited at the Hanson home.

Home Comfort

Dining-room chairs appear in slip covers at the kitchen breakfast bar Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ford designed for their farm home in Pottawattomie county, Iowa, Betty Lindsay points out in nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer. These red waterproof plastic-coated fabric ones match leather-seat upholstery.

Comfort and convenience-promoting ideas abound in the Ford home. In each of the 10 years Mr. and Mrs. Ford have been married, they have made some improvements which will make farm work easier and the home more comfortable.

A busy homemaker who tends a large garden, prepares an abundance of food for freezing and canning and raises a large flock of chickens, Mrs. Ford manages to be a 4-H club leader, hold an office in the women's home project board and in a church society. Extra moments must be allotted for her flower garden, home improvement and personal care.

Want to Run a "Collective" Farm?

Was reading the other day about the "collective" farms they have in certain countries. It seems the folks who run them have plenty of help . . . good hours . . . and the best equipment.

Sounds pretty nice — till you learn that the "farmer" don't own his land, or even farm it, in our sense. He takes orders from the state; produces whatever they want him to produce, at prices they set. [illegible]

No, that won't never go here.

We're willing to work hard, but we like to farm the land our own way, put our own value on the crops, and relax [illegible] we like [illegible] a temperate [illegible] of beer.

The Holt Boy Scouts will have a lunch stand at the Creamery picnic on Sunday. The troop committee will appreciate any help you can give at their stand.

Support The Boy Scouts.

Sydney Ranum is now employed at Ernest's Service Station. He will take care of repairing tractors and cars. Mr. Ranum is well qualified with several years experience.

A special program will be given at the meeting of the Farmers Union meeting at the Ringbo school on June 11th. This is the first anniversary of the local and besides special entertainment, cake, ice cream and coffee will be served. We extend a hearty welcome to all visitors.

Funeral services were held on Saturday, last week at Community Methodist church at Thief River Falls for Lewis Whitman Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Meyer. He passed away on May 19 at a Veterans hospital at Fargo.

Size of Cuba

With an area of 44,164 square miles, the island of Cuba is about the same size as the state of Pennsylvania.

Dairymen's Business Program

Dairymen of this area gave enthusiastic support to the "Sales not Surplus" dairy foods promotional program of the American Dairy Association (ADA) at the dairymen's rally held Tuesday evening, May 20, in the auditorium at Thief River Falls.

The local rally was sponsored by the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee, state branch of the ADA. Art Stenberg of Greenbush was in charge of the meeting.

In a technicolor presentation, R. I. Ricksham, director of merchandising for the national organization, showed the urgent need for expanded business action and outlined the ADA plan: 1, to recapture "lost" butter markets; 2, to create and capitalize markets for powdered milk; 3, to regain and build markets for cream; 4, to maintain and enlarge markets for milk, ice cream evaporated milk and cheese.

Butter production is up and consumption is down, it was pointed out. It took seven long years for butter to come back after the first world war. Dairymen are determined not to let this happen again.

Powdered milk, the "war baby" presents another marketing problem of importance to Minnesota dairymen, Ricksham said. The expanded business action ADA program is giving special attention to building and creating new markets for this product which does not have a domestic market large enough to consume present production.

Attendance: 65.

There were 22 creameries represented Holt included.

Resolution was unanimously passed favoring deduction from farmers checks of one cent per pound of butterfat marketed during 30 days in June.

—Warren Sheaf.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddy Henning last week closed a deal whereby Mr. and Mrs. Sig Nygaard became owners of the restaurant. Mrs. Henning is at present taking care of the work there, with Viola Johnson assisting. Mrs. Fred Peterson will take over the duties in two weeks.

Creameries Picnic June 8th

Sunday, June 8th, will be the big day for Marshall County residents when the creameries will hold their annual picnic at the Middle River State Park.

The program committee, of which Walter Larson is a member, has an outstanding attraction to present, having been fortunate in securing the Ninth District American Legion Band to play.

A good program of speeches, Songs and music has been arranged by the committee.

Come and enjoy a day of recreation with your friends.

Watch Beauty Care During Housecleaning

DON'T forget beauty care during housecleaning, Jean Gray advises homemakers in an article in nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer.

"Too often good natures as well as rooms are upset by taking out rugs and moving furniture," she writes. "The family will be happier in the cleaning confusion if you remain unruffled and well groomed. And feeling neat will keep your spirits high as you attack the grime!

"Even though it may be old, your cleaning dress can be clean, neat and mended. Wear an apron or smock that can be whisked off to reveal a clean dress.

"Protect your skin from dirt by applying a powder base before starting to work. After dusty duties, wash vigorously with a turkish washcloth or complexion brush—this in addition to usual morning and evening washing.

"Benefit from the exercise of cleaning. When dusting and making beds, stretch your middle, keep it tense. This keeps muscles firm. When sweeping or running the vacuum, keep shoulders back and don't bend in the middle. Carrying your body straight and tall is slenderizing since much waist thickness is slump. If you get tired, lie down for 15 minutes with your feet on a couple of pillows."

Crops Day July 9

Wednesday, July 9, has been selected for the annual field crops visitation day at the Northwest School and Experiment Station, Crookston. The program for the day will start at 11:00 A. M. with the business meeting of the Red River Valley Crops and Soils Association. The tour of plots is scheduled to get underway at 1:30 P. M. with an open forum, discussion on the campus scheduled at the close of the tour.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Telephone Strike Fully Settled; House Slashes Navy's Budget; World Relief Needs Surveyed

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Secretary of State George C. Marshall, holding one of his last press conferences in the old state department building, told reporters that he could see no further need for appropriations such as the 400 million dollar outlay authorized in connection with President Truman's Greek-Turkish aid program. Secretary Marshall has moved his office to a newly constructed state department building.

LABOR PEACE:

Strikes Vanish

Peace descended on the national labor scene, at least temporarily, when the six-week strike of telephone workers ground to a complete stop as Western Electric company employees in 42 states returned to their jobs.

End of the phone strike marked the beginning of a honeymoon between labor and management. For the time being, not a single major industrial strike was troubling the national economic waters. On the horizon, however, loomed the figure of John L. Lewis, pondering whether or not to call a strike of his United Mine Workers in June.

Tapering off gradually in recent weeks as various union groups reached agreements with their employers, the telephone strike was fully settled when 20,000 members of the Association of Communication Equipment Workers, the last holdouts, accepted an 11½ cent-an-hour average pay increase from Western Electric.

Telephone workers across the country walked away from their jobs at 6 a. m., April 7, demanding general pay boosts of $12 a week. Average increase, when agreements finally were reached, was about $3.50 or $4.

NAVY FUND:

Big Cut Made

An economy-minded house of representatives forcibly passed a $3,469,761,100 navy appropriations bill which represented an 11 per cent cut in President Truman's original request for navy department funds.

Shouting down cries that the reduced appropriation would shrink navy and marine corps manpower by 82,000, house Republicans, in a voice vote, approved the naval budget for the coming fiscal year at a figure about 377 million dollars below the administration's estimate of the amount necessary to maintain required strength.

Defending the budget cut, house members criticized the navy policy of maintaining a disproportionate number of high-ranking officers during peacetime.

"There are far too many men of high rank today," said Representative Ploeser (Rep., Mo.). "The navy can effect its own savings by a considerable reversion to prewar ranks among officers."

GRUMBLES OUT:

Germans Warned

Restless, protesting Germans have been warned by governors of both the American and British zones to stop striking and grumbling against the Allies and buckle down to face the present food crisis with "hard work and courage."

Sumner Sewall, American military government director in Wuerttemberg-Baden, said that protest strikes against the food shortage might cost the Germans relief supplies from the United States. He pointed out that the demonstrations are causing "increased resistance" among taxpayers in this country.

Sewall also demanded that Germans stamp out the black market which is dissipating a great amount of their food rations. He said that farmers who divert their produce into the black market are largely responsible for the crisis.

NET PROFITS:

Industries Gain

Top money maker in the United States in 1946 was the textile industry which, according to a Wall Street Journal survey, rode the seller's market harder than any other group to register a 219.9 per cent increase in net profits over 1945.

Fourteen textile corporations were reported to have net profits of $109,435,562 in 1946, compared with $34,206,787 the previous year.

WORLD AID:

Survey Needs

Postwar needs of the world will be studied thoroughly in a global survey before the administration decides on further foreign aid programs such as the 400 million dollar Greek-Turkish measure, Secretary of State George C. Marshall has revealed.

First of its kind, the survey is being conducted by a newly organized policy group. Marshall said that with the exception of 78 million dollars scheduled to go to Korea he foresaw no further appropriations for foreign aid at present.

He added, however, that he was not prepared to say what may be required to help other nations in the future. The state department, he reported, currently is seeking some way to help China which could be fully justified to the American people and to congress.

The 78 million dollar fund for Korea will be used to rebuild roads, rails and industries in the United States zone, Marshall said.

SUB PROGRAM:

Navy Is Worried

In an effort to resolve its biggest worry—that of underwater warfare—the navy has proposed a five-year, 210 million dollar construction and conversion program which ultimately would produce a fleet of 100 super-fast submarines.

Included in the plans is a new type of submarine-hunting "killer ship," a high-speed vessel which would be able to track down and destroy enemy subs in any kind of weather.

High-ranking naval officers are reported to be concerned over the swift submarines developed by the Germans toward the close of the war and the fact that the Soviet navy is believed to be rushing to completion a fleet of undersea boats copied after the best German designs.

If the navy's proposal is adopted, the fast new submarines should be ready by 1951, according to Vice Admiral Robert B. Carney, logistics chief.

PORK SUPPLY:

Seek More Pigs

Seeking to boost the nation's pork supply during the spring and summer of 1948, the department of agriculture has recommended a general 15 per cent increase in pig production this fall.

The increase, achievement of which would bring an additional five million pigs to market next spring and summer, is being sought because present prospects indicate that supplies of beef and veal will be shorter in 1948.

Fire Losses Zoom

Losses from fire in the United States followed the general trend of the times during the past year. They went 'way up.

Summing up for the past year, the national board of fire underwriters reported the greatest fire loss for any 12-month period in history of the nation.

Total amount was $616,408,000, making an increase of 22 per cent over the $497,153,000, in fire losses for the preceding year. Losses during the first four months of this year were greater than those recorded in either 1935, 1937 or 1938.

To Export More Grain

Allocations of grain and grain products for export to shortage areas during the month of July have been increased about 9 million bushels over the June amount by the department of agriculture.

An estimated 1,407,000 long tons, or about 54,500,000 bushels will be exported in July as compared with the June total of 1,179,000 long tons. The increase will be largely wheat, supplies of which will be augmented by the harvest of the new crop.

SEAWAY:

Soon a Reality?

Despite powerful opposition, the long-sought St. Lawrence-Great Lakes seaway which would make ocean ports of at least three large inland cities may become a reality in the near future.

The combined seaway and electric power project, designed to bring vessels from the Atlantic ocean along a 2,300-mile waterway to Chicago, Detroit, Duluth and other cities, has been advocated by every president since Taft.

Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (Rep., Mich.) has introduced a bill which would make the vast project self-liquidating within 10 years by means of exacting toll charges from vessels passing through the route. Previous proposals entailed the spending of hundreds of millions of dollars as a public works project.

If the bill is passed by both houses of congress and if American cooperation with Canada is authorized, real work on the seaway may be expected to begin within a year.

Total cost of the project to the United States and Canada is estimated at about 500 million dollars

BLACK DEATH:

Germ Warfare

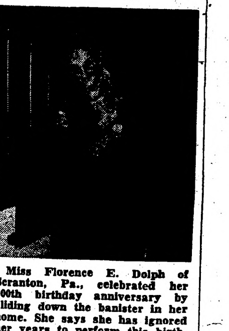
"Bacterial warfare is one of the most important hazards to humanity which could result from misuse of science."

That is the opinion of Dr. Maurice Visscher, president of American Association of Scientific Workers, who visualizes a future war with planes spreading countless billions of deadly bacteria.

Listed as possible weapons are 33 diseases, among them forms of the great plague, "black death," anthrax, yellow fever, undulant fever and parrot fever.

The United States would be particularly vulnerable to such an attack because of its geographical isolation, Dr. Visscher said.

At Her Age!



Miss Florence E. Dolph of Scranton, Pa., celebrated her 100th birthday anniversary by sliding down the banister in her home. She says she has ignored her years to perform this birthday stunt ever since 1866.

SURPLUS SUGAR:

Many Protests

Unless surplus sugar stocks are released to needy housewives, a congressional group will demand immediate repeal of sugar control, according to Senator McCarthy (Rep., Wis.) who is at the head of the movement.

Protests against the department of agriculture's sugar control program have been sent to congressmen from all parts of the country, McCarthy revealed.

"The department of agriculture is trying to make people believe there is a scarcity when there is a large surplus," he said, and added, "They are permitting industrial users to stock up, but are denying housewives the same privilege at the beginning of the canning season when it is needed most."

POSTAL RATES:

May Go Up

A measure embodying the first general revision of postal rates since 1879 which would add about 110 million dollars a year to post office revenues has been introduced in the house of representatives.

The bill provides for a 30 per cent increase in parcel post rates and would revise the air mail rate from five to six cents an ounce. In addition, the new plan would add about 30 per cent a year to present scales for second-class mailing of newspapers and periodicals sent outside the county in which they are published.

Another provision would maintain the current three-cent local and non-local rate for first class mail beyond the July 1 deadline when those rates were slated to revert to the former two-cent level.

The new rates would go into effect 60 days after the bill is passed and signed by the President.

AFL to Fight Laws

American Federation of Labor will wage a legal battle against what it terms anti-labor legislation adopted by 30 states, William Green, AFL president, has announced.

He stated emphatically that "the AFL will fight the constitutionality of such measures with all the power of our 7,500,000 members." It is the labor organization's contention that the legislation by various states violates the 13th amendment, which prohibits involuntary servitude

Goose Pimples

"Goose pimples" are caused by the contraction of tiny muscles attached to the hair follicles, making the hairs "stand on end" and dragging the follicles upwards.

Victorian Effect

A pair of ruffled curtains shirred into a second drape near the top will create a graceful effect for Victorian rooms. This makes a perfect background for a dressing table and stool draped with more of the same curtains.

Flouring Meat

A good suggestion for flouring pieces of meat or poultry is to use a paper bag. Mix the right amount of flour with salt and pepper, put it in the bag, drop in the pieces of meat and shake.

Bird of Freedom

The national bird of Guatamala is the quetzal. It was chosen because it is a bird of freedom—it will die in captivity, retaining the beautiful color of its plumage even after death.

Prodigious Waste

Reliable evidence shows that of all the food that goes into American kitchens, about one pound in every seven is thrown in the garbage can.

Need King's Consent

Until 25 years of age, the royal princesses of England cannot marry without the consent of the king. After this age, they marry without it, provided that parliament, within a year after notification, does not disapprove of the proposed consort.

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

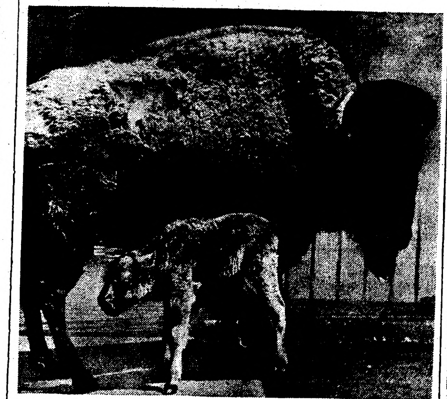
AMERICAN SEA-AIR POWER . . . United States aircraft carriers and other naval vessels have been making a good-will tour of the Mediterranean, touching at some of the world's troubled areas. Here, framed through the mast aerial of an accompanying ship, the aircraft carrier Leyte enters the harbor at the port of Istanbul, Turkey, for a friendly visit. The fact that ships of the United States navy chose this particular time to make the rounds of the Mediterranean and put in at a Turkish port is claimed by some to have a connection with President Truman's program for aiding Greece and Turkey. One opinion is that the navy is not out primarily for "good-will" but rather to put on a show of strength in the area.

EUROPE'S HUNGRY PEOPLE . . . Besieged by the specter of famine, the people of Europe are becoming more and more restless. Mass demonstrations, like this one which occurred in Vienna outside the chancellory, show dramatic proof that hunger is rampant all over Europe, with each country convinced that it is hungrier than its neighbor. The United States—the good provider—will increase food shipment rations to Germany, hardest hit of all the European nations.



FIFTY-POUND YOUNGSTER . . . A new addition to the world of buffaloes, this little tyke was hailed with considerable joy by Central Park zoo officials in New York. Its parents, a couple of buffaloes named Mary and Bill, were also pleased. Mama Mary, standing here beside her youngster, is reported to be doing well; and the baby, who tipped the beam at 50 pounds when he was born, is strong and healthy, caretakers say.

WRONG BABY . . . Mrs. Leonard Sosa, 28, claims the child she is holding here was substituted by a Bronx hospital for her own baby, a girl. The Sosas have filed a claim for $200,000 damages. Hospital admits a clerical error.

BEHIND THE SCENES . . . Seldom seen in the full glare of the international spotlight that plays upon their husbands are Mrs. Winston Churchill (left), wife of Britain's wartime prime minister, and Mme. Vincent Auriol, wife of the president of France. The two are shown as they conversed quietly at the Elysee palace in Paris during a reception which followed the presentation of France's military medal to Churchill.

BOY-SIZED FISH . . . Of just about equal size are Johnnie Smith and this whopper of a codfish he caught, with a little help from his dad, off Bayonne, N. J., his home. The fish weighed almost 50 pounds.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

In buying fish, select the ones with bright bulging eyes, if you want tasty ones.

Have several round pot holders on hand as well as square ones. These are very handy for removing pies and puddings from the oven as there are no corners to drop into the food and make the holder sticky.

Soak table linens to be laundered in clear cool water before placing them in hot suds. The cool water will help remove stains before hot water sets them.

It's all right to leave opened canned goods in the original tin cans in the refrigerator for a short period. But cover the can to prevent absorption of other flavors and odors.

Corned beef, tongue, and fish dishes are given an unusual zest with horseradish salad dressing. Combine one-half cup cooked salad dressing or mayonnaise with two tablespoons grated horseradish to achieve a new dressing.

Lunch-box vegetables (such as carrot strips and celery) stay fresh longer if they're sliced small enough to fit into a waxed paper cup. An ice cube in their midst will keep them ice-box fresh. This will make a hit with lunch-box diners.

How to Go to Sleep

We were sitting around Bill Webster's parlor Friday evening and the talk turned to the best way of overcoming sleeplessness ... like breathing real slow and deep, imagining that you weigh a ton, or simply throwing away the pillow.

The consensus favored counting sheep. But right away was the question: what kind of sheep? There were some votes for countin' Merinos, Shropshires, Oxfords and Dorsets. Ed Mapes said he had best luck counting crossbreeds.

Finally, Bert Childers spoke up with his formula: A light snack and a mellow glass of beer at bedtime. Sort of puts you in the mood for quiet thoughts and peace of mind. Lets you relax . . . and "ho hum," off to pleasant dreams!

From where I sit, there's nothing like a temperate glass of beer to smooth away the creases of the day, relax a body, and pave the way for a good night's sleep. Try it, and see if I'm not right.

Contraceptive Literature

The federal law of 1873 classified contraceptive literature and instruments with pornographic literature and obscene devices, and prohibited their importation and their transportation by mail or (in interstate commerce) by common carriers.

Nails for 'Firm' Ground

After an earthquake has occurred in the territory occupied by the primitive Baigas in India, the men of the tribe drive nails into the ground to make it firm again.

Rising Exports Aid Farmer And Business

United States exports have been climbing this year toward a record peace-time annual total of about $10,000,000,000.

This recovery in foreign trade, and prospects of further gains as the supply of goods increases, is one of the strongest props for a high level of production and employment. Exports of farm products, particularly, are holding at high figures.

Favoring a continued high level of exports is the $30,000,000,000 in foreign exchange already available or in sight for needy countries from such sources as the United States credit of $3,750,000,000 to England, loans from the Export-Import Bank of Washington and the funds turned over by the United States and other countries to the International Monetary Fund and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

During the four war years 1942-45 United States merchandise exports reached the unprecedented total of $45,000,000,000, reports the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. That total was equal to the combined value of exports in the previous 14 years.

Applications Due June 15

All growers of pure seed grain should make application for field inspection by June 15.

The following varieties are on the recommended list of the Crop Improvement Association: Newthatch, Mida, Pilot, Rival, Regent, Mindum, and Carelton wheat; Bonda, Mindo, and Clinton oats; Wisconsin 38, Kindred L Peatland, and Mars barley; Minerva, Redwing, Crystal, Koto and Dakota flax.

There are other varieties of these crops being grown in the county, but only the above listed varieties can be certified in 1947.

Applications blanks can be obtained at the County Agents Office at Warren.

Wage-Price Warning

Another round of wage increases inevitably would bring higher prices to absorb the higher production costs, the United States Chamber of Commerce has warned.

"A second round of wage increases will force closely corresponding price increases in the months ahead, unless such increases finally force both labor and goods out of the market," said Emerson P. Schmidt, director of the National Chamber's Economic Research Department.

"Such a collapse of production and employment is a strong possibility because of the disparity between the incomes of workers whose wages have been artificially forced upward while the incomes of others are lagging behind.

"Last winter the Chamber of Commerce of the United States warned that the first round of wage increases would be accompanied by closely corresponding price increases. That warning proved all too true."

Larson-Benitt Wedding

Miss Delores V. Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ole M. Larson became the bride of Rueben J. Benitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Benitt on Monday, before a lighted altar at the Trinity Lutheran church at Thief River Falls, Rev. G. S. Thompson reading the single ring ceremony at 10:30 a. m.

Their attendants were Miss JoAnn Benitt, sister of the groom and Donald Larson, a brother of the bride.

The bride chose an all white street length dress and wore a corsage of red roses and white carnations. The bridesmaid was attired in a white and aqua street length dress with a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, dinner was served by the bride's mother for the bridal party.

At 7:30 p. m. a reception and buffet luncheon was given at the home of the bride's parents to about 60 relatives. A three tiered wedding cake served as centerpiece of the table.

The bride is a graduate of the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston and for the past two years was employed as nurses aid at St. Lukes hospital at Thief River Falls. The groom received his discharge in December after serving two years in the army. He is engaged in farming and is one of the prominent young farmers of this community.

Those from a distance attending were Mr. Harry Holst of Red Wing, Arnold Holst of Goodhue and Mrs. Albert Fredrickson of Los Angeles, California.

Following the reception the couple left on a wedding trip through southern Minnesota and other parts of the state. They will make their home on the groom's farm.

John Hagberg arrived home last week from University hospital in Minneapolis where he has been a patient.

Ohio Water Cover

Rain and snow provide Ohio with an annual average of 38 inches of water over each foot of surface. Since weather records have been kept, the most water precipitated in Ohio in one year was 50.4 inches in 1890; and the least amount was 26.6 inches in 1934, when the deficiency compelled farmers in many areas to haul water for livestock, and to see their crops wither.

Obituary of Mrs. E. JOhnson

A native of Varmland, Sweden and a resident of the Holt community for 51 years, Mrs. Erick Johnson, 82, died June 1, at Turlock, California, where she had made her home, together with her husband since 1937. She was a member of Immanuel Lutheran church prior to moving to Turlock and there was a member of Nazareth Lutheran church.

Surviving is her husband with whom she would have celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary this month.

She also leaves 13 children, Mrs. Anna Wickstrom, Dehard and Joseph Johnson and Mrs. Jenny Hall all of Turlock, Mrs. Gaya Gasper, Vallejo, Calif., Mrs. Elsie Culhane, Minneapolis Mrs. Mabel Bitker, Manley, Iowa, Emil Johnson, Duluth, Mrs. Betty Tibke, Dupree, S. D., Mrs. Alida Stephens, Mobridge, S. D, Mrs. Pearl Brenna, Thief River Falls and Ingvald Johnson and Mrs. Tina Wagner, Holt.

She was the sister of Mrs Thea Brunsvold of Hanlantown, Iowa, and Mrs. Carrie Nyberg, Thief River Falls.

Funeral services were held at Turlock on June 3rd. and at the Immanuel church at Ringbo on June 9th with Rev. Nystuen officiating assisted by Rev. Jacobson of Thief River Falls. Vocal selections were sung by Mrs. Jacobson, Mrs Wallis Christenson and Mrs. Ose. Sons and daughters attending here from a distance were: Mrs. Wickstrom, Mr. and Mrs. Bitker, Mr. and Mrs. Culhane, Mr. and Mrs. Tibke and daughter, Mrs. Stephens, and Emil Johnson. Also Mrs Johnson's sisters and Mrs. Mabel Ebbeten, a neice of Minneapolis, Eli Sostad of Bemidji and Mrs. Andrew Sorum of Crookston.

Interment was made in the Ringbo cemetery.

Mrs. Alf Movick left last Thursday for Pontiac, Mich. to visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Ness and Gladys made a trip last week to St. Cloud to get Leonard who has been attending college there.

Attend Funeral at Mitchell S. D.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Curtiss Lindberg and Mrs. Mabel Hanson drove to Minneapolis Thursday on a business trip. While there they were called to Mitchell, S. D. due to the death of a sister of the late H. O. Hanson, Mrs. Ottina Wagner, 35, who passed away Friday at a hospital there. Ottina will be remembered by many in Holt, having attended grade school here and also the first year of her confirmation class at the Nazareth Lutheran church here. Complete obituary will be published later. Mr. and Mrs. Lindberg and Mrs. Hanson were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hanson at Bruce, So. Dak. during the time they spent in that state.

Mrs. Axel Ring and daughter Patsy and Mrs. Pauline Dreher of Bettendorf, Iowa, visited this week at the Lars Ring home.

Mrs. Albert Fredrickson and daughters Judy and Janice arrived here last Wednesday from Los Angeles to visit at the home of the formers parents Mr. and Mrs. A. Bennes.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson of Lake Park, came Sunday to visit at the Mathias and Ole Lunke homes. Other guests on Sunday at the Mathias Lunke home were the Wm. Stienhauer and Loyd Haagenson families, and Mrs. L. F. Larson and son Ludvig.

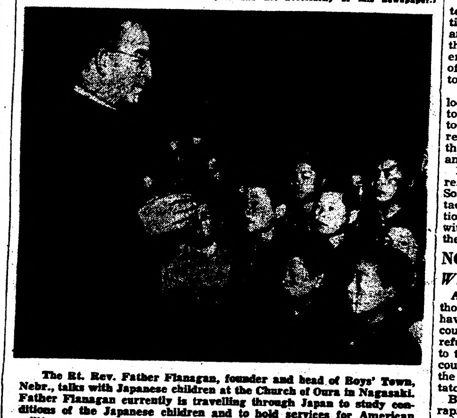
WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Agriculture Fund Slash Voted; Truman Signs Greek Aid Bill; ICC Grants Train Fare Boost

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



The Rt. Rev. Father Flanagan, founder and head of Boys' Town, Nebr., talks with Japanese children at the Church of Oura in Nagasaki. Father Flanagan currently is travelling through Japan to study conditions of the Japanese children and to hold services for American military personnel on the islands.

FARM FUROR:

Stormy Weather

Possibly the most violent storm of the year, according to the economic and political barometer, is the one which was raised when the house appropriations committee recommended a 32 per cent cut in department of agriculture funds for the coming year.

Slashing more than 383 million dollars from the amount asked by President Truman, the committee opened the floodgates for a deluge of protests from Clinton Anderson, secretary of agriculture, and Democratic congressmen, who claimed they would fight the action right up to next year's elections, if necessary.

Anderson

Declaring that the reduction "directs a sharp cut at the interests of the American farm family and the general welfare," Anderson said that the "greatest harm" would be to the soil conservation program, the farm price support program and programs designed to help veterans and low income families become better established.

The 32 per cent cut would eliminate the Agriculture Adjustment administration by July 1, 1948. Currently, the AAA is carrying on its basic program of promoting soil conservation on 3,500,000 cooperating farms by paying farmers for following practices intended to increase soil fertility and, hence, to increase production. The proposed fund slash would mean that farmers this year would be paid about 50 per cent of what they previously had been promised.

In answering the criticism, the house appropriations committee said that its recommended cuts are "selective" and reasonable—based on actual farm needs.

AID BILL:

To Stop Reds

The 400 million dollar Greek-Turkish aid bill, spearhead of the so-called "Truman doctrine," has been passed by congress and signed into law by the President.

What the Difference?

It's easy to confuse the Greek-Turkish aid bill and the general foreign relief bill, also passed by congress. Here are the differences:

1. The aid bill provides 400 million dollars to Greece and Turkey alone to strengthen those nations against the inroads of Communism.

2. The foreign relief bill earmarks 350 million dollars to stave off starvation and sickness in Austria, Greece, Italy, Hungary, Poland, China and Trieste.

Target of much criticism from certain elements in congress, the measure was opposed principally on the grounds that it represented a national course which eventually would render the United Nations meaningless.

Mr. Truman, however, defended the plan with the contention that the United States, in extending aid to Greece and Turkey, "is helping to further aims and purposes identical with those of the United Nations."

He added that "we intend to make sure that the aid we extend will benefit all the peoples of Greece and Turkey, not any particular group or faction." The bill empowers the President to provide the Turks and Greeks with financial aid and military equipment for the purpose of keeping the gates of the Near East closed to Communism.

TRAVEL PAY:

Train Fares Up

To offset increased operating costs, Interstate Commerce commission authorized an approximate 10 per cent increase in basic passenger fares for 60 railroads operating east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers.

The change will boost one-way passenger rates from 2.2 to 2.5 cents a mile in coaches and from 3.3 to 3.5 cents a miles in sleeping and parlor cars. There will be an increase of about 15 per cent in coach round-trip rates and about four per cent in Pullman round-trip fares.

In granting the increase, ICC noted that those railroads which requested the new rates incurred a deficit of 54 million dollars from passenger train operations last year.

HOUSING:

Unfounded Hope

Popular belief that any substantial reductions in the cost of new housing will occur in the near future is not founded on realities.

That assertion was made by James C. Downs Jr., president of the Real Estate Research corporation, who explained that besides being geared to a high national debt, housing costs, like prices of other hard goods, are directly affected by the large demand for American capital and production by other countries.

"The housing shortage today is worse than a year ago," he said, "and it will continue to grow progressively worse for some time."

He pointed out that increased earning power has put a greater number in the market for new homes, but at the same time builders are afraid to start new construction because of high costs. The theory that prices would drop kept many persons from buying or building homes last year, Downs said.

POLIO MENACE:

Not Too Bad

Although it is yet too early to know definitely what course the disease will take this year, the infantile paralysis situation in this country appears considerably better than in 1946, according to public health service officials.

Last year a total of approximately 25,000 polio cases marked that twelve month period as the second worst in history. The worst was 1916 when 27,363 cases were recorded.

IT'S WONDERFUL:

Long Time Peace

Announcing the immediate abolition of capital punishment in Russia, Soviet authorities explained the move on the grounds that it was made possible by Russia's growing strength, the people's patriotism and the certainty of peace "for a long time."

Said the Moscow radio: "The international situation during the time after Germany's capitulation and Japan's capitulation shows that the cause of peace can be considered secure for a long time in spite of attempts by aggressive elements to provoke war."

Meanwhile, Herbert Hoover looked on the other side of the mask to charge Russia with attempting to bleed the United States through relief channels and blaming her for the economic paralysis of Japan and Germany.

He declared that futher relief will remain necessary as long as the Soviets continue their obstructionist tactics and demands for reparations, thus blocking peace treaties with the two countries and keeping their economies paralyzed.

NO POTATOES:

Wheat Is Cheaper

A paradox in potatoes, whereby thousands of bushels of the tubers have had to be destroyed in this country because starving Europe refused to take them, was described to the international emergency food council by John W. Gannaway of the department of agriculture's potato branch.

Because spring potatoes rot so rapidly unless refrigerated, the only way they could be shipped to Europe would be to dehydrate them. The U. S. offered to give the potatoes to European countries for the cost of dehydration.

Gannaway said the offer was turned down because foreign governments can buy American wheat for six cents a pound. One pound of dehydrated potatoes, equal to about 10 pounds of raw product, would have cost 14 cents.

RETRIBUTION:

Black Curtains

Forty-nine guards and foremen of the Nazis' infamous Mauthausen prison, convicted by an American military court for the slaughter of more than 700,000 persons of all nationalities, died on the gallows in the Landsberg prison yard in the largest mass execution in the history of American war crimes prosecution.

Two days were required to complete the black-curtained proceedings. Twenty-two men were hanged on the first day, 27 on the second. The group was part of the 61 Mauthausen guards convicted at the Dachau trial a year ago. Twelve received life imprisonment penalties, 49 the death sentence.

French Honor

Vincent Auriol, president of France, decorates opera singer Lily Pons with the rosette of the Legion of Honor. The French-born artist has been making a concert tour of France.

NEWEST PLASTIC to hit the market is a revolutionary water-sealed fabric, translucent in appearance and silky to the touch but possessing remarkable strength. Because it is waterproof it may be used in kitchens and bathrooms for shower curtains, drapes, bathinette covers, table covers, bibs, aprons and for a multitude of other purposes. The new material is immune to most acid and alkali stains and may be laundered easily.

SCHIZOPHRENIA, the hitherto unmapped world of the unbalanced personality, may be opened to exploration by use of a new drug called mescaline. Experimenters report that they have been able to produce visual hallucinations, particularly in neurotic patients, by administering mescaline. They say the drug may be an important factor in arriving at an understanding of schizophrenia, the psychologists' term for a split personality.

A "SILENT" AIRPLANE, labeled one of the major aviation developments in recent years, has been produced by scientists. Its five-bladed propeller, revolving more slowly than the conventional type, reduces noise to a minimum. Demonstrated at Langley field, Va., the plane made scarcely any more commotion passing 300 feet overhead than a glider. The new aircraft is said to be the first one in which all noise eliminating methods have been applied.

Income Tax Slash Likely for 1948: Knutson

Rep. Harold Knutson (Rep., Minn.), original advocate of the "20 per cent across the board" income tax reduction plan, is holding to his contention that congress will vote an income tax cut this year.

Further, the chairman of the house ways and means committee "sees no reason" why another slash shouldn't be made in 1948. The Republican program calls for more tax cuts, Knutson declared and he intends to see that they are made.

He said that prospects of making payments on the national debt will be better if taxes are reduced now than if high tax rates and heavy tax burdens are maintained for the purpose of making a very large payment on the debt in one year.

Major task facing the country today, he emphasized, is the "maintenance of jobs, income and well being for the many by preserving and promoting the economic motives and incentives of the few."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When sending things to the cleaner, if possible tell him the history of spots on the garments to be cleaned.

In working with plywood it is well to remember that even the very best grades have defects on one side while the other side is nearly perfect.

Cook meat longer at a low, constant temperature if you want to avoid shrinkage. You'll get a golden brown surface on your roasts this way too.

Keep tablecloths from wrinkling by folding them once and winding them on a large roll of newspaper.

To clean black or dark blue felt, use a teaspoonful of ammonia mixed with half a cup of cold tea.

Pin hankies on the line along the top of the sheets. They will dry faster, and the extra pins will help keep the sheet from blowing away. This also saves line room for other pieces of clothing.

When ripping snap fasteners from discarded clothing, keep the pairs together by punching a small hole in a card and snapping the fasteners in this.

Circus Performer Loses Pants, So We Have Tights

Circus tights were invented in 1828 by Nelson Hower, a bareback rider. In those days, circus performers wore costumes consisting of a short jacket, knee breeches and stockings, but Nelson Hower's costume was accidentally mislaid. He realized he had nothing to wear just a few moments before it was time for his act. When his cue came Hower appeared in the arena wearing his long knit underwear—and circus tights were invented.
